CAVAN INSTITUTE TO PROVIDE FIELD FOR SPORTS EVENTS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, May 23.—Cavan Women's Institute met for their May meeting at Mrs. Sutton's home, Millbrook, with a good attendance of members. Mrs. A. B. Kennedy, ex-president, introduced the new officers: President, Mrs. Donald Tinney, and secretary, Mrs. Melville Carr, who made a few appropriate remarks before taking over their new offices.

There was discussion concerning the buying of a piece of ground which could be used as a ball park or recreation centre for the young people. Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Staples, Mr. and Mrs. O. Carley and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Snider were named as a committee to interview owners of property suitably located and report to the Institute.

The president announced that the District Annual would be held at Bailieboro, June 3rd. Mrs. Ray Syer and Miss Josie Sutton are the delegates from Cavan. It was decided to return the travelling library and apply for a new one in the fall.

Mrs. Melville Carr's group was in charge of an interesting program. Mrs. Gibson of Los Angeles, who is a guest in Millbrook, gave a fine talk on oranges, their culture, care and details of preparation for shipping. Mrs. Melville Carr gave a paper on pioneer days in Quebec. Mrs. Donald Tinney gave the current events. Mrs. Milton Carr contributed an article on music. Mrs. Oakley Carley gave a paper on Bliss Carmen.

The committee appointed to prepare programs for the year were: Mrs. A. B. Kennedy, Mrs. Staples and Mrs. Hunter. The group in charge served a delicious lunch and the usual visiting was enjoyed.

CAVAN

Mr. Gordon Staples, B.S.A., has returned to Guelph after spending a few days at his home in Cavan. He graduated on Tuesday after a five years' course, obtaining his B.S.A. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Staples, and brothers, Ralph and David, motored to Guelph for his graduation.

David Staples is at his home in Cavan, having completed his first year at Toronto University, taking a course in chemical engineering.

Mr. George Coulter, Millbrook, is visiting his sister, Mrs. E. Syer, and Mr. Syer.

Mr. and Mrs. D. White and son, Elias were recent visitors at Norwood.

IN SIGHT OF SNOWDON

PENBEDW NANNERCH, Wales.—(CP).—Miss V. D. Buddicom is entering into restrictive covenants with the National Trust to protect 1,000 acres of the Garth Estate in the Clwydian Range. The area commands a fine view of Snowdon and other mountains.

Balloon Barrage

Carrying aloft large steel cables these balloons will form part of the balloon barrage planned to defend London from air raids. About 500 of these balloons will be inflated and sent up at the first word that air raiders are on their way. The enemy airplanes, becoming entangled in the steel cables, will be destroyed.

Had Many Boils On His Neck and Body

While the skin seems to be the cause of the irritating and painful boils the real trouble is rooted in the blood, and when you think you are rid of one, another seems ready to take its place and prolong your agony.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do does not, as a rule, get rid of them. What is most essential is to give the blood a thorough cleansing.

When the blood is purified, cleansed and vitalized by Burdock Blood Bitters the boils disappear, your misery is at an end, your health and strength renewed, and the skin clean and smooth.

MR. ALFRED A. FERRIER, Falkenburg, Ont., writes:—"Several years ago I suffered greatly from numerous boils on my neck and body, and had three blind ones on my knee.

Our druggist advised me to take Burdock Blood Bitters, so I took two bottles, and in a short time I was completely rid of the boils."

Brazil Revolters May Face Firing Squad

THIRD SUCCEEDED

He could hear his two companions talking and shouted to them but received no answer. He stood on the shore waiting for them for some time, then struck out for help. Both of his companions were strong swimmers, Simmons said.

Thinking that an open field lay south of the river bank, he set out in that direction and was soon lost in a huge swamp that borders the river, half a mile wide. It took him three hours or more to fight his way through the water, stumps and alders. Several times he was wading up to his neck in mud and water, unable to see more than a few inches ahead of him, not knowing whether his next step would carry him above his head and result in the same kind of death he had so narrowly escaped.

Simmons reached Bensfort Bridge at about a quarter to two o'clock in the morning. He roused John Michels, the man from whom the party had rented the boat, and Michels notified Peterborough police. Provincial Constable David Silvester, notified by local police, in turn informed Provincial Constable Menie of Cobourg of the tragedy. On Sunday morning at 10 o'clock the search commenced. Half a dozen boats, two equipped with grappling irons, patrolled the river for half a mile in either direction from the overturned skiff, under the supervision of Constable Menie. In the afternoon more volunteer searchers arrived, and at four o'clock the body of Joyes was recovered from the water. It was found only a hundred feet out from the shore, and a hundred feet from the spot where the boat overturned. Search for the body of Murphy continued until dark, but to not avail. Joyes' body was recovered by a volunteer crew of Peterborough men: George O'Dette, Frank Hayes and Joseph Jones.

The shore line where the tragedy occurred is piled high with stumps and drift wood, and is almost impossible to penetrate. Simmons, by luck, found one of the few places on the entire south shore for a half a mile in either direction where he could have climbed from the water without a great deal of difficulty. On the other shore, almost directly opposite, was an easy landing place, at the farm of J. Collins.

mans increased their municipal council seats from 69 to 105; in the same cities, Communists dropped from 14 to five. The United German Democratic party, non-Nazi, dropped from 28 to 18.

In Czech National Socialist party, slightly to the left of centre and comparable to the French Radical Socialist party, made gains of 15 to 20 per cent.

In Praha, this party polled 142,000 votes as compared with 107,000 in 1931, and emerged the strongest party. Communists there were next with 89,000 votes.

Tension Eases.

Fully aware of the dangers of the situation, provoked by the fatal shooting of two Sudeten Germans along the border on Friday, Czechoslovak Government spokesmen felt that generally there was an easing of tension.

"This emergency will pass off peacefully," one official said.

The Cabinet's political committee met at length yesterday to discuss national defence, and Premier Milan Hodza met with three Sudeten German members of Parliament in an effort to create a more favorable atmosphere for forthcoming negotiations over the proposed Nationalists' statue, which the government hopes will satisfy minority demands.

Nevertheless, it was apparent Czechoslovakia was prepared to fight to keep intact her borders, if necessary.

WORRIED MEXICO WAITS FIREWORKS

MEXICO CITY, May 23—(AP).—Turbulent Mexico was uncertain today whether it was up against a major revolutionary movement or merely a series of local rebel activities.

While President Lazaro Cardenas concentrated his military forces in the restless state of San Luis Potosi to smother any uprising by the Agrarian leader, General Saturnino Cedillo, reports reached the capital told of at least two rebel bands being in the field.

General Cedillo has evacuated his one-time stronghold in central Mexico and his peasant army has scattered to the hills, leaving Cardenas in firm control at the state capital, San Luis. Cedillo's immediate whereabouts could not be learned.

Of the rebel bands reported on the move, the most important appeared to be that of Pedro Izaguirre, a former major who supported General Cedillo 10 years ago in his campaign to stamp out the "cristeros," a rebellious faction of weird religious tendencies which caused trouble in Jalisco.

Izaguirre, who was said to be influential with the Agrarians around Tomasopa and with sugar mill workers there, has done no raiding yet.

Telephone communications to General Cedillo's headquarters in San Luis Potosi were out. It was impossible to learn if the government has found where he went or what his intentions are.

QUEENSBORO STILL COSTS OWNER $100

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, May 23. — Charles Genereaux of Queensboro was fined $100.00, and costs, in the County Police Court held before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd at Tweed on Friday, after being convicted under the Excise Act. Genereaux was found in the possession of a still, suitable for the manufacture of illicit liquor, by the R.C.M.P. recently. The fine and costs were limited to the minimum under the Act. Genereaux was given one month in which to raise the assessed fine, however. The still confiscated by the R.C.M.P. was destroyed.

Drowned Youth's Body Is Found

GERALDTOWN, Ont., May 23. — (CP).—The body of Jack Mitchell, 29, native of Woodstock, Ont., and holstman at Hard Rock Gold Mines Ltd., drowned Tuesday when his boat capsized on Little Long Lac, was recovered yesterday.

A set of grappling irons towed from a rowboat located the body 50 feet from shore in less than 12 feet of water, indicating Mitchell had almost succeeded in his attempt to swim to shore from the overturned craft. Twenty feet closer to shore the water was shallow enough for him to have stood erect and waded the rest of the distance.

Empire Producers' Conference Knit Agricultural Interests Of British Empire Together

H. B. Cowan, One Of Canada's Delegates, Addresses Rotary Club

The Empire Producers' Conference which he recently attended in Australia has knit the agricultural interests of the British commonwealth more closely together than they have ever been H. B. Cowan, one of Canada's four delegates, declared today in his address to the Rotary Club, in which he summarized the results immediate and potential of the convention of seventy-three delegates.

Mr. Cowan was introduced by G. A. Gillespie and packed into half an hour's talk the high lights of the economic problem which he believes the Conference has effectually solved by its recommendation of the establishment of commodity boards within the Empire to regulate the marketing of agricultural products in the interests of producers by avoiding surpluses and shortages with consequent fluctuations of prices.

Quoting the admission by Lloyd George that at one time during the great war the United Kingdom was within two weeks of starvation, Mr. Cowan briefly outlined the later policy of the British government to encourage its domestic agriculture. Marketing legislation was passed six years ago giving the British agriculturist a favored position in his own markets by establishing quotas of imported food products and even proposing import levies on dairy products.

Be Serious Set Back

The New Zealand and Australian delegations contended that Great Britain had subsidized emigration to the Dominions with the implication that the British market was open to their products. If restrictions were now to be applied the agricultural industry in its various branches would be seriously set back both in New Zealand and Australia. Mr. Cowan stated that the New Zealanders had so systematized their methods of production that they regarded themselves as having attained a position in which they could compete with all other producers in the world on an open market.

British delegates firmly declared that they could not recede with the new policy in Great Britain based on the possibility of an emergency in the event of war which might make the country dependent on its own agricultural resources. They also said the Dominions had erected tariffs against British goods, that the agricultural industry in the Old Country was to be protected, and if regulative methods were not set up by the Conference, then the British government would undertake that responsibility itself.

In other words, Mr. Cowan said, the British delegation asserted that the Dominions had not position of parity with the farmers of the Old Country in the market of the United Kingdom, and if the Dominions were not prepared to "play ball" on the proposal of reasonable restrictions on the volume of trade in agricultural products the conference might as well be terminated.

Canadians Were Silent.

In this controversy which continued for nearly all the first week, the Canadian delegates purposely remained silent, and then after the protracted discussions they expressed their support of the principle set forth by the British delegates, advised unanimously agreement by the conference, and the ultimate result was that the delegates as a whole subscribed to the proposal contemplating the establishment of commodity control boards. This plan will have to be ratified separately by all parts of the Empire.

Watch Shipments.

Mr. Cowan said he felt confident that as a result of the conference and new ties it had formed between the agricultural interests within the Empire, that an improvement in prices would be felt even by the producers in Peterborough County. It was intended that shipments of farm goods should be closely watched and controlled, primarily to maintain prices at an even level by preventing gluts, and also to eliminate speculation in Great Britain. If at any time a surplus of products develops, an effort will be made by the proposed joint committee of Empire producers to seek an oulet for the excess supply by negotiations with Germany or any other country that may need those goods at the time.

The Rotary Club was given a foretaste of the entertainment at the Y.W.C.A. Pageant in the Brock Street Gardens Friday, May 27, in two numbers arranged by Miss Caroline Littlefield, a sailor's hornpipe by Jean McLeod, one of the girls from the number, "Davy Jones' Locker," and a dance by Jean Millard and Pat Nixon, two charming little girls from the big Sea Gull number of the Pageant. Mrs. Foster played the piano accompaniments.

The condolence of the Club will be expressed to the family of the late Allen Stevenson and to the Gananoque Rotary Club of which he was a member.

Garage Owner Suffers Burns

Harold Goss, well known Bewdley garage owner sustained painful burns to his right hand and arm on Sunday when priming the carburetor of a car in his garage. His right hand was wet with gasoline and a back-fire caused the moisture to ignite, his sleeve also catching fire. The garage is close to the lake and Goss took the quickest way to extinguish the flames by plunging into the water. In the meanwhile eye-witnesses of the affair put out the fire that started when the can of gasoline he had been carrying spilled over in the excitement.

DR. DAFOE'S SON HIGHWAY CHECKER

STRATFORD, May 23.—(Special.)—When Dr. Alan R. Dafoe, the famous country doctor of Callander, is playing host to thousands of visitors this year, his only son, 20-year-old Bill Dafoe, second-year University of Toronto student in engineering will be hard at work on a paving project between Stratford and Milverton. Bill, who attended the Grove School at Lakefield for many years, graduating to the University of Toronto, is checker for the Brennan Construction Company. He looked up from his job when the photographer visited him this week.

"Yes, and you can say that I got through the year," laughed the lad. The younger Dafoe admitted he never had any ambitions to become a doctor like his famous father, but hopes in a few years' time to be a full-fledged electrical engineer.

WILBERFORCE MAN IS GIVEN 7 DAYS FOR DRUNK DRIVING

William Hillis, 67, who lives near Wilberforce was convicted before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. in police court this morning of drunken driving and sentenced to seven days in the county jail. A second charge of reckless driving was withdrawn by the Crown.

Provincial Traffic Officer Gordon Broughton said he was called to an accident on the Lakefield road in the early morning of Thursday, May 19th and found a car in the ditch and Hillis and a man named Caukel there. Constable Broughton said Hillis was intoxicated, weaving about and so unsteady that he almost fell in front of a passing car. The officer told of the conversation he had with Hillis on the way in to the police station in which Hillis had said that they had mistaken Lakefield for Peterborough and had been an hour getting through the village. Witness said that before the accident Hillis had been driving on the wrong side of the road and when he applied his brakes the car had shot across the road and into the ditch.

Asked For Doctor

To Mr. Elliott witness said that Hillis was still drunk at the police station at 2 o'clock although not so noticeably so as earlier. He had asked for a doctor and a blood test and Dr. Magee was called.

Douglas Davis, garageman, Lakefield who had been called to the scene of the accident to tow the car out of the ditch said that Hillis and his companion were lying in the grass across the road from the car when he arrived. Hillis had staggered a little bit as he walked across the road as if he were under the influence of liquor.

"Was he quite normal in the way he spoke" asked Mr. Elliott in cross-examination.

"The man was a stranger to me, so I could not say" replied the witness.

Dr. R. K. Magee called as a defense witness testified that he had seen Hillis in the police station at 2.30 o'clock in the morning of the 19th and had asked him to perform certain tests, usually used in such cases and found that he was able to perform most of them successfully. Some of them were performed perhaps a little less dexterously than others.

Odor of Alcohol.

In cross-examination Dr. Magee said that there was an odor of alcohol about Hillis. He placed his condition at that time as between the first and second stages of intoxication, remarking that there were five stages in all.

"You would not want to say that the accused was not drunk an hour earlier than when you saw him?" asked the Crown Attorney.

"That would be impossible to say," replied the witness.

Asked by the magistrate as to the nature of the tests made by him, Dr. Magee said that he had asked Hillis to say "Sister Susie's sewing shirts for soldiers" and "around the rugged rocks the ragged rascal ran", to give some dates in history and read a passage from a newspaper.

"Did you ask him the date of the Battle of the Boyne", asked Magistrate Langley.

Dr. Magee replied that he had overlooked that event. In his argument Mr. Elliott maintained that the crown evidence was not satisfactory and that the prisoner was entitled to an acquittal.

Magistrate Langley said that he was satisfied on the basis of all the facts and upon the evidence that Hillis was intoxicated at the time of the accident.

"I would feel that I was not honest to my convictions if I made any other finding", he remarked.

Crown Attorney McElderry said he would be satisfied with the minimum penalty.

"I am sorry for you," Magistrate Langley remarked to the prisoner in imposing sentence of seven days, "but you are not the first man of good reputation that has got into trouble because of liquor."

TOO MUCH FOAM

CHICAGO, May 23 (A.P.). — The City Council is going to do something about the size of the foamy collar on a glass of beer. Alderman William A. Rowan, chairman of the Tavern Licensing Committee of the Council, says "too big a collar means too little beer in the glass, and drinkers are being cheated." So the committee has proposed an ordinance to regulate the amount of foam in each glass.

GRANTED REMAND

Fergus Mongraw who was committed for trial several weeks ago on a charge of stealing a car from Hugh Davis and has been out on bail was arraigned before Magistrate O. A. Langley K.C., in police court this morning on charge of theft of use of a car from Walter Belleghem and was, at his request, remanded until Wednesday. The alleged offence took place on Sunday afternoon and police hunted for Mongraw Sunday night and this morning. He was finally brought into the police station by some of his relatives and turned over to the authorities.

"SOUL AND BODY"

"Soul and Body" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for First Church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough on Sunday. The Golden Text was, "Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? hope thou in God: for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God." (Psalms 42:11). Selections from the Bible included the following from Psalms 17:15, "As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness." Correlatives citations from the Christian textbook, included the following "Soul, or Spirit, is God, unchangeable and eternal; and man coexists and reflects Soul, God, for man is God's image."

STORES CLOSE TONIGHT

The Examiner was informed today by J. J. Dorris of the Chamber of Commerce and President James Geraghty of the Retail Merchants Association that Peterborough stores will close at 6 o'clock this Monday night. It had been agreed at a meeting of the Association that this course should be followed.

MOTHER IN REALITY

NEW YORK, May 23.—(AP). — Eleanor King, the "Mother" in the widely discussed film, "The Birth of a Baby," became a mother in reality last night. An eight-pound son was born to her in Dctors Hospital.

In the motion picture, an unidentified mother "doubles" for Miss King in the scenes of the birth. In real life, Miss King is the wife of Lowell M. Birrell, an attorney.

DOOR WAS FORCED TO EVICT FAMILY

A family was evicted from a house on Victoria avenue last Friday, and the tenant whose door was forced with an axe and his goods carried out on to the street raises the question whether Deputy-Sheriff F. J. A. Hall has any right to "break and enter contrary to the criminal code."

The house was locked while the family was away during the afternoon, and it is asserted that the Deputy-Sheriff forced his way into the premises, "showing more regard for a dog and two hens which were left under the roof than he did for the family. If it is against the law for any person to break and enter a house in the same circumstances how can the act of the officer be justified?"

It is alleged that the owner of the property at 52 Victoria avenue brought an action before Judge Smoke who said he had no appointment for it. The court gave an order for the tenant to vacate the house within ten days. He had previously been notified by the owner that the rent was to be increased from $13 to $20 a month and he also declares that subsequently payment was not acceptable. At any rate the father and his four grown up sons are at present living in a boat house north of the C.P.R. bridge and the wife is staying temporarily at the home of friends.

OBITUARY

CHARLES JOYES.

The funeral of Charles Joyes will be held from St. Luke's Anglican church on Tuesday, May 24 at 4 p.m., Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson of All Saints Anglican church, officiating. Interment will be made at Little Lake Cemetery.

Charles Edward Joyes was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Joyes, 308 Mark street. He had lived here all his life, and was a member of St. Luke's Anglican church. He is survived by his parents and two sisters, Mrs. George Corbett of Port Hope and Marjorie Julia Joyes at home.

BARBARA YVONNE DORIS

The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the family residence, and interment will be made at St. Peter's Cemetery.

MRS. GEORGE N. WILSON

The funeral of the late Emma Letitia Marshall, beloved wife of George N. Wilson, took place on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the D. Belleghem and Sons Funeral home . Interment was made at Little Lake Cemetery.

Mrs. Wilson died at the residence of Leonard Moncrief in Emily township on Saturday at noon. She was 54 years old, a daughter of the late George and Jane Marshall and was born at Sidney, Ontario. She had been ill only a short time.

RICHARD S. PARKS.

Death came to Richard S. Parks, 122 Park Street North, at Nicholls Hospital on Saturday afternoon, after a long illness. He was in his 80th year.

Born in Haliburton, Ontario, he was a son of the late Nelson Parks and Mary Barnum. A cheesemaker by trade, he came to Peterborough 39 years ago after following his trade until that time. In this city he was a grocer for twenty years on Rubidge Street, retiring 19 years ago. He had been in poor health for many years. His wife predeceased him in October, 1936.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. R. Smith of Detroit, one son, Lewis R. Parks of Peterborough, with whom he made his home, and one sister, Mrs. E. Webb, Orillia, and one brother, Cyrenus Parks of Detroit.

The funeral was held on Monday afternoon from the Nisbett Funeral Home at 2.30 o'clock, Rev. G. A. Chambers of the Pentecostal Church officiating. Interment was made at Little Lake Cemetery.

LUCKY CLOVERS.

Thomas Garvey, 364 Rogers street, recently collected enough lucky clovers to give him good luck for the rest of his life. He brought into The Examiner office two five-leafed, one six-leafed, and one four-leaved clovers. He found them growing on his flower bed at his home, he said.

GRAND REHEARSAL HELD FOR PAGEANT

A number of the wee tots who assembled at the Y.W.C.A. were taken to the Gardens in cars of members of the Physical committee, Mrs. H. M. Yelland and Mrs. R. Cutting.

The big assembly was soon arranged in groups and as the orchestra started the wee feet began to try out the lovely big floor. One wee tot enviously said "I wish I could have all the floor to myself." Another little one told to imagine it was a sandy sea shore said, "Will there be real sand there that night." A few scientifically minded little boys soon discovered the music volume was increased through a microphone and they wandered off to try its effect which resulted in several loud "hallos" mingled with the music.

The lovely decorations, big floor space and the beautiful costumes make one anticipate a much bigger and more beautiful pageant than ever, and many of the leaders were heard to remark: "It will be just as good as the Toronto Ice Carnival."

CAMPBELLFORD
Officers Elected By Cheese Board

CAMPBELLFORD, May 23 — Harold R. Wood of Seymour township was unanimously elected president of the Campbellford Cheese Board by the members at their annual meeting held in the Board room of the St. Lawrence Hotel on Saturday evening. A letter read by the secretary, S. A. Maguire revealed that the past president, Thompson Bradon was unable to attend and on the election of Mr. Wood as president, A. J. Meyers moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Bradon for the very efficient manner he had conducted the Board during 1937.

Roy Walker, Rawdon was elected 1st Vice President and H. Cooper, Warsaw 2nd Vice-President. The executive committee remained unchanged with Alfred Merrills, George VanVolkenburg and George Elliott. S. A. Maguire was returned for another term as secretary and Messrs. John Murray and Marshall West were elected auditors.

LOUIS G. DOBBIN VETERAN PLUMBER DIES IN HOSPITAL

One of Peterborough's best known business men, Louis G. Dobbin, died at Nicholls Hospital on Saturday after a short illness. He was 63 years old.

He was a partner in the firm of Adamson and Dobbin until about 12 years ago when he took over the orgization following the death of Mr. Adamson. In all, he had been in the plumbing and tinsmithing business on Simcoe street, for more than a quarter of a century, and had established an enviable reputation for good citizenship in this community.

Mr. Dobbin was born in Ashburnham, son of the late Leonard Dobbin and Margaret Glover, and lived here all his life with the exception of short periods while he was serving his apprenticeship, when he lived at Cobourg and Perth. He first learned his trade from the late Adam Hall, after attending public school in Ashburnham.

A keen sports enthusiast in his youth, he played lacrosse for the Peterborough Athletic Club some thirty years ago. For many years he was an outstanding curler with the Peterborough Curling Club.

He was prominently connected with church life, and was at one time a warden of All Saints' church here. His marriage to Sarah H. Cochrane was the first to be solemnized in that church. He was also a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

Surviving besires his sorrowing wife are three sons, Gordon L., and Charles C., both of Peterborough, and Jack B. of Toronto; two daughters, Gwendolyne of Peterborough and Mrs. George Daly of Napanee; two brothers, Fred H. of Toronto, and Charles of Peterborough; and one sister, Mrs. William Meager, of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from All Saints' church, Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson officating. The body will rest at All Saints' Church, from 1 to 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Interment will be made at Little Lake cemetery.

PRIEST TRAPS BURGLAR

STAPLETON, N.Y., May 23 (A.P.). — The Rev. Joseph Kirchoffer, a priest who likes to make "gadgets," riged up a home-made burglar alarm to trap the man who was stealing from the church poor box. He constructed an electric alarm in his study and wired it to the poor box. Yesterday the alarm rang and Father Kirchoffer rushed into the church. He grappled with and subdued a man later booked by police as Dennis Murphy, 44, who was standing by the poor box.

One More Wedding

By HELEN WELSHIMER

CHAPTER 43

On a day in early April Barbara concluded a conference with two of the members of the English staff, and decided that she would go shopping. There was a smell of sea in the air, as though the breeze had carried it along as it blew in from the water. She would get a green suit, she decided. She even hummed a snatch of a new song under her breath because she had thought once that she was through with greens and grays. They were her best colors.

Yes, she would get a sea green, one with a slim, tight skirt and a wide cape that was skirt length. Then she would wear gray sweaters or yellow sweaters for the green must be on the grayish side. She would get two hats, too—something foolish and cock-eyed in green and something a little more demure in gray.

She finished the shopping quickly, for the shops seemed to have anticipated her desires. She had lunch at a little inn, and the waitress drew her table nearer the small fire that burned at the back of the room. It was quite late, nearly three o'clock, so there were no other diners.

She had told herself that tonight she must write to the home office of her magazine to see about her transfer to the London branch. For a fraction of a moment a wave of homesickness seized her. Not to go back any more! Not to watch the New York skyline swing out of the twilight for years and years.

But there would be new lands, and she would become so cosmopolitan that after a while all cities would be the same — Singapore London, Berlin, or Paris.

If, in some far day, she should meet Garry at tea somewhere, she would be so skilled in self-control that she could greet him casually as someone who had shared an hour of her life somewhere. She was glad that she had been able to achieve that impersonal note the day that he had come to the boat. Yellow roses wolud always hurt her heart a little but once more she could have them in bowls and vases.

Because the day was so lovely, she started to walk to her hotel. She would have dinner just before theater time and go to see a play tonight. Perhaps she had better see about a seat immediately. There was one show which people had been talking about and advising her to see; there was another that she had been planning to see. Fortunately the two theaters were not far apart. She would glace at the pictures and portraits in each lobby before she made her decision.

And so, standing alone, near the reservation window, she saw Wenda Ayer's name and picture on a placard that advertised the first play. For a moment surprise left Barbara weak Then swift rage followed. So even here, where she had found serenity and happiness, Wenda dared to come! It was no good for Barbara to remind herself that anyone could come to London at any time. Fiercely she wished that there was some way to build a fence and keep people like Wenda away.

But if Wenda were here, what of Garry? Had he sent her with his blessing because this was a better part? Or had his own play closed? Was he here, too? Her knees began to tremble. Oh no, no, not that, she prayed.

She decided that she would not see Wenda's play, changed her mind, and purchased a ticket. Her innate honesty made her admit that night that Wenda played a difficult role with artistry. It was a harsh role, Barbara realized, and knew that Wenda's slim loveliness took away the subtle cruelty of her character.

Oh, some women could do anything and be given a diadem of stars for the wounding they had done! Some women stood for mystery, glamor, laughter that could not age. A few of them were worthy, and some, like Wenda, were rewarded for they knew the secret of the pretense.

She was glad that she had seen Wenda's play. She understood the actress' charm a little better.

Just the same, when her telephone rang a day or so later, and a child's voice asked for her, she did not connect it with Wenda's presence in London.

"This is Bobbie, Miss — Miss Kingsley," a timid, eager answer came back in reply to her hello.

"Bobbie! Oh, how wonderful! You're to be here long?"

"No, not very. Just until my mother comes up to get me. Aunt Wenda is playing here now."

"Yes, I saw the play. But how did you know I was here, Bobbie darling?"

"I telephoned to your magazine in New York to say goodby and the ytold me where you were and everything. Gee, these phones are funny, aren't they?"

Barbara agreed, and waited for the child to continue. He did. "Could you have tea with me in the dining room of my hotel tomorrow or today? Aunt Wenda is nearly always out and I've saved my allowance and—?" He waited hopefully.

Barbara did not want to go. She had no desire to renew the acquaintanceship with Wenda or to be subject again to her ill-will. Once Wenda had said that she, Barbara, would make an excellent governess.

However, Bobbie was lonely or he would not have telephoned to her. She spoke gaily. "Bobbie, why don't you come to my hotel? I'll give you the address—have you a pencil and paper ready? Good." She waited while Bobbie copied it. "Shall we make it tomorrow, and are you sure that your aunt will not care? Did she know you were calling me, Bobbie?"

"N-no." It was a hesitant word. "Then see here, Bobbie, suppose you and I just have another telephone conversation. We'll get together some other time."

Bobbie's voice broke. "But you—you asked me!"

Barbara spoke swiftly. "Of course I did, honey, and I want you. I'll be waiting at four tomorrow. We'll have an hour. Be sure to take a cab straight to the door and I'll be watching."

She put on a yellow wool frock, also new since she had come to London, and wore brown accessories with it the next morning. She would arrive at the hotel just in time to meet Bobbie. She was going out to dinner that night and had been told not to dress— it would be a sightseeing party and she would be shown one of Dickens' favorite inns.

Early in the afternoon a long distance telephone call came in for her. Picking up the receiver she thought that it would be a business call. Several of them had come. Instead she heard Ray's voice:

"Barbara, my sweet, how are you?"

"Oh, Ray, darling, I'm fine!"

"I love you—I wanted to tell you so."

"You're a darling nut! Where are you?"

"On my way to Spain. The train was waylaid and the station had a telephone. I've been working out of Faris and I'm just starting on the big job."

"Ray, may all the luck in the world be with you!"

"Give me your love, Barbara dear, and it will!"

Love was a game when she talked about it with Ray. It never was real. But neither was anything else. Life was sweet and absurd and laughable. With Garry she had stumbled through the valleys and flown to the stars. But Ray was a darling—

"Help yourself, my darling," she answered lightly.

"Remember we have a date one of these days, Barbara dear."

"I'll not be forgetting, Ray!"

"The train's ready to be on its way. I have to go. Goodby, Barbara dearest. I—love—you!"

The merry voice ended She heard the click that disconnected the call. Ray was on his way. She felt alone, strangely alone. She wanted to wiggle the telephone and call him back. She would. She got the long distance operator, even found the French station. But the train was swinging down the track.

Her mind, though, was with Ray, not worring about Wenda, as she met Bobbie. He was dressed in a blue sailor suit and and he paid the cab driver and tipped him, beaming proudly.

Avoid Awkwardness in Introductions

Put the Other Person at Ease

She's noticed that others at the party aren't shaking hands. It's not necessary when a number of people are introduced in succession. Usually, in being introduced to a woman, the man takes his cue from her—waits to see if she offers her hand. Mr. Genial didn't wait. But that's no excuse for Mrs. Haughty to embarrass him. She should have extended her hand graciously.

How important introductions are! First impressions are often lasting. It's wise to know the rules—when to address first—what to say. Our 32-page booklet tells all this. Keeps you posted on charming manners everywhere — at dinners, dances, teas. Guides your conduct in restaurants, theatres, trains, and other public places.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of ETIQUETTE FOR ALL OCCASIONS to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and the NAME of booklet.

Looking Back On This Date

Fifty years ago today (May 23, 1888), Sir Charles Tupper was appointed high commissioner in London. He had been in London as "acting H.C." for five years, but had returned to Canada to help Sir John Macdonald in the elections of 1887 and in the negotiations over Canadian Pacific finances. After the elections had returned Sir John, Sir Charles decided that it would be well for him to go back to London, the truth probably being that he preferred the semi-diplomatic status in London to the hurly-burly of Canadian politics.

But he did not go back without an interesting incident. Sir John asked Sir Charles to stay in Canada, but he declined. Sir George Stephen, then president of the C.P.R., went to Ottawa and told Tupper that it was his duty to stay in Canada so that if "anything happened to Sir John I ought to be chosen as his successor." Still Tupper balked. Then Stephen wrote a letter to the same effect which was shown to Sir John Macdonald. The old man sent for Sir Charles: "If you will only consent to remain I will publicly recognize you as my successor," he told Tupper.

"But," retored Sir Charles, "you have already made pledges to Sir Hector Langevin. When you were in difficulties over the execution of Louis Riel you told Langevin that he would be your successor if he succeeded in retaining the support of the French Canadian Conservatives."

"If you will only agree to stay," persisted Sir John, "I will send for Langevin and the rest of the cabinet and designate you as my successor. Langevin, I am sure, will be agreeable."

Tupper was firm in his refusal. He told Sir John it would be good politics to have a French Canadian as his successor (as was done in the province of Canada when Macdonald and Cartier alternated) and a compromise was reached by which Sir Charles went back to the high commissioner's office and was replaced in the cabinet by "Young Charlie," later Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper.

But after Sir John's death Langevin was retired in disgrace because of his share in the corruptness of the Quebec harbor works and when Sir Charles did come back to become prime minister in May, 1896, it was too late to save the Conservative party and he went down to defeat.

Yet by all rights of fair play he should have succeeded Sir John in 1891, for without Charles Tupper there could have been no confederation and no Dominion of Canada.

When is a statue to him to be placed on Parliament Hill alongside Macdonald and Cartier? It is long overdue.

DOROTHY DIX

Life Runs No Free Accounts, So They Alone Succeed Who Are Willing to Pay the Price, Whether It Be Labor, Love or Business

"What will you have? quoth God, TAKE it, and PAY for it." It is a pity that every man and woman do not paste this immortal phrase of Emerson's on their mirrors where they can see it every time they shave or put on their complexions. It would save them from committing many disastrous follies if they realized that for everything they get they must pay.

Perhaps there is no other fact that is so hard for us to accept as that life runs no free accounts and that there is a price tag on all of our desires, with nothing free on the shelves. This always comes as a surprise to us because, no matter how many times we have seen others being bankrupted when called upon to liquidate their debts, we optimistically believe that this fate will never befall us. We think that somehow we are going to chisel our way through. We are going to escape the bill collector. We are going to have the sweet without the bitter. We are going to dance without ever having to settle with the piper.

But this never happens. Always in the end we have to pay. It is because we haven't the intelligence to realize this, or the grit and honesty, the manhood and womanhood to be willing to pay for what we take, that makes us fill the world with our whines and lamentations and that brings us half of the misfortunes from which we suffer.

Talk health, for instance. We all want to be strong and well, with steady nerves, and stomachs and lungs that are hitting on all sixteen cylinders, yet how few of us are willing to pay the price for our physical well-being? The drunkard knows what alcohol does to his kidneys and his nerves. The gourmand knows that he is digging his own grave with his teeth. Women know that by starving themselves in order to keep thin they pave the way for a dozen fatal diseases. Yet the drunkard and the gourmand are not willing to deny their appetites or the women their vanity in order to be well. They are not willing to pay the price of health.

Take success. We all desire to achieve fame and fortune, as the phrase goes, yet only a few men and women in any community rise above the ordinary level or accumulate money. Those who don't blame their failure on social conditions, on the Government, on their luck, claiming they never had a break. But, in nine cases out of ten, the reason is that they were not willing to pay the price of success.

They were not willing, as the others were, to work overtime; to put their jobs before their pleasure; to live poorly and dress shabbily in order to save a little money for a nest egg; to study at night while their companions were going on gay parties. The story of every man and woman who have achieved success is an epic of heroism. They took what they wanted, but they paid for it with endless patience, slavery and sacrifice.

Take marriage. Every man and woman want their marriage to turn out happily, but how few of them are willing to give what it takes to make it a success. The husband isn't willing to show his wife the tenderness she craves, or to refrain from criticizing her, or to do anything to make home bright and cheerful. The wife won't deny herself the pleasure of nagging and fault-finding, or posing as a martyr because she has to do the duties she contracted to do when she married. They want love and faithfulness, admiration and companionship from their mates, but they are not willing to pay for it with unselfishness and the sacrifices that marriage requires.

Take children. All parents hope and pray that their children will turn out to be a crown of honor to them. They want them to grow up to be fine men and women. But the father is so occupied with his business ht can't take time to chum with them and try to steer them in the right road.

The mother isn't willing to give up her clubs and her parties to be with her children and mold their characters herself instead of leaving it to hirelings. Good children cost their parents more in self-denial than they are willing to pay, and so we have the wild, undisciplined girls and boys who come to grief themselves and bring sorrow upon their fathers and mothers.

"What will you have? Quoth God, TAKE it, and PAY for it."

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

IT WAS a pleasant day. There wasn't a cloud in the sky. The children decided to take a walk in the park, and, of course, their shadows followed right behind them, taking good care to keep out of the sun. Shadows don't ever like to stand in the light of the sun.

Well, the children had gone quite a way in the park and had stopped for a moment to look at the swans in the pool when all at once Knarf, the shadow boy, turned to Hanid, the shadow girl, and said: "I hear music, Hanid!"

Hanid listened. "Yes—I hear it, too."

"Do you think it's a parade?"

Just then one of the children heard the music, too. "Oh, it's a carousell he exclaimed. Let's go and see it!"

"What's a carousel?" Knarf asked Hanid as they glided along the ground behind the children's footsteps.

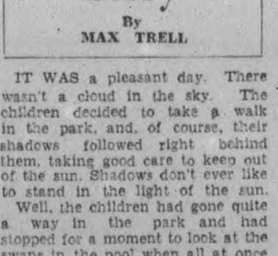
It's Merry-Go-Round.

'A carousel is a merry-go-round,' the shadow girl told her brother. "It has horses on it, and they all go round and round while the music plays."

"What do they go round and round for? Why don't they go straight ahead? How can they ever get any place if they keep going round and round?"

"They don't want to go any place."

"I hear music, Hanid!"



They want to stay on the carousel. They like it."

By this time they had reached the merry-go-round. Knarf looked at them closely. "They're wooden horses," he said. "They couldn't gallop off even if they wanted to. But just the same—"

"Just the same, what?"

"—just the same, I'd like to ride on one of them. Do you think we can?"

"H'mm," said Knarf. "They've got to decide to ride on this merry-go-round; I'm going to make them. And when I get on one of those horses, I'm really going to make it gallop off. Just you wait and see!"

Barclay On Bridge

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

EAGLES FLY HIGH

IT IS ONLY natural that Eagles should rank higher than any of the old suits in Five-Suit bridge, which some players were beginning to call Quintract. In many a deal, game can be made at the new suit when it would be impossible at any other declaration. That is because you need one less trick for game, which is 120. Four-odd at Eagles, counting 30 each, are easier than 5-Spades or 5-Hearts counting 25 or 6-Diamonds or clubs counting 20. Three No-Trumps at 40 a trick is tempting, but pretty hard when you have to stop five suits.

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable. Widow card: Heart 4.)

This was a case of a worthless little card, which was not a trump, being worth two tricks to the declarer when he used it properly.

South opened the bidding in second hand position with 1-Eagle. West overcalled with 2-Diamonds and North jumped with 3-Eagles. That bid has acquired almost the same meaning as in four-suit contract, so South raised to 4-Eagles, a game contract. It meant that he had to take 12 tricks, or four over the book of eight. He could therefore afford to lose four tricks of the 16 and still have his game.

Using the widow correctly, he placed the heart 4 in the dummy, discarding the diamond 4. He ruffed the third diamond lead with the A, ran trumps and trashed two spades on the dummy's hearts. So he lost only two tricks in each minor.

Tomorrow's Problem

If West leads the heart J against South's 3-No Trumps at Five-Suit Bridge, where should South place the widow card and what should he discard?

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, May 24

While there are auguries of some occurrences of a propitious and pleasant nature, yet on the whole a day of surprising and peculiar developments is forecast.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very exciting year, with much sudden and surprising action of a drastic character. The emphasis may be on the intimate romantic affairs with peculiar turns and sudden twists, in which impetuosity, strife extravagance and excess seem to figure.

A child born on this day may have a jolly, pleasant and kindly disposition, yet may be reckless, erratic, changeable and impulsive. It may, nevertheless, be popular and enjoy surprising strokes of fortune.

For Wednesday, May 25

The auguries for this day promise fairly encouraging prospects in certain directions, but these may be subject to delays, obstacles and other disheartening angles in which jealousy, enmity or greed may figure. But otherwise, especially in the social and private lives, sentimental relations or in employment, there may be much pleasant activity.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of some good fortune, with successful employment, some increase in finances, and a definitely happy situation in the intimate or sentimental life.

A child born on this day may be capable, versatile, industrious and ambitious, with many opportunities as well as good luck. It may have many kindly and influential friends, although it may be morose at times.

CENTRETON

Mr. and Mrs. T. Tucker, Plainville, were visitors in the village on Tuesday.

The officers and directors of the Cemetery Co. held a meeting on Monday evening. It was decided to hold the annual decoration service on Wednesday, June15.

The Y.P.S. met on Tuesday evening with quite a number in attendance. Mr. Pinock, representative of the Bible Society was the speaker of the evening. Reports of the year were read and officers were elected for the coming year.

The W.A. met in the Sunday School room on Wednesday afternoon. It was decided not to have refreshments during the summer months and it was also decided to have a garden party. Several other items of business were discussed and the following program was given: Readings by Mrs. H. McAuley, Martha Fleming, Mrs. Walton and Mrs. Fraser; Mrs. Webb sang a solo and refreshments were then served.

Mrs. Bruce Parker of Peterborough is visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. Prettie and family.

CANOEISTS GET SCARE

LEWISTON, N.Y., May 23.—(AP).—A New York-to-Nome canoe trip almost ended here yesterday when the 18-foot craft disappeared. When Mark Richelsen and Robert Fuller, the canoeists, found the craft missing they notified state police.

Sunday school children on their way to church found the canoe hidden behind a hedge and state police believe the craft was hidden by pranksters. Richelsen said the trip would be resumed within a few days.

Murray St. Group
Spring Flower Festival

Group One of Murray Street Baptist Church Mission Circle held a most delightful Spring Flower Festival at the home of Mrs. A. S. Zavitz, 141 Benson Avenue Saturday afternoon.

The decorations were most effective, lilacs and spring flowers being beautifully arranged in the rooms, and a small side table, dolls in many hued crepe paper frocks, danced about a miniature Maypole.

A most enjoyable program was provided for the entertainment of the guests, who were members of the group and their friends. Arranged by the hostess, Mrs. Zavitz, the program included musical numbers by Marion Cocks, June Wallis, Thelma Zavitz, Jack and Raymond Sutcliffe, Gray Zavitz and Davis Graham. A reading was given by Mrs. F. M. Somerville, leader of the group, and a most interesting contest in which all took part, was entitled, "A Garden Tragedy," the whole program following the theme of springtime and flowers.

Supper was served at a table attractive with lace cloth, and lilacs. Mrs. Alex Scott poured coffeee and members of the Group assisted in serving.

St. Paul's Ladies
Hold Blossom Time Tea

One of the most attractive events held by St. Paul's Ladies' Aid this year, was the successful and charmingly carried out Blossom Time Tea, for which the Sunday School room was transformed into a scene of floral beauty, with a gorgeous profusion of the lovely wild blossoms of the spring.

At each pillar, tall standards held fragrant apple blossoms, surmounted by choke cherry flowers and mauve lilacs, and on the platform, massed with the same flowers, the central basket filled with yellow cow-slips and mauve lilacs, was most striking.

The large tea table was beautifully arranged also. Centering the cloth of Irish lace, a large silver basket holding tulips and wild cherry blossoms was placed on a reflector, around which were pink apple blossoms. Tall apple green tapers in junior holders were placed diagonally with bud vases of lilies-of-the-valley. The many little tea tables carried out the same pretty idea, tulips in bud vases being surrounded by sprigs of mauve lilac. The lovely decorations were in charge of Miss Lena F. Eakins.

The many guests were received by the president, Mrs. W. C. Steinkrauss, and Mrs. A. T. Barr. Pouring tea at the large table during the afternoon were Mrs. H. B. Cowan, Mrs. R. MacGregor, Mrs. C. A. Sollett and Mrs. A. R. Nobbs. Replenishing the table were Mrs. W. Burrell and Mrs. J. A. Vincent, and assistants were Mrs. Adam Sands and Miss Orma Lacheur. Hostesses for the small tables included Mesdames John Anderson, C. E. Blewett, A. E. Barrie, A. R. Bennett, A. W. Cochrane, D. T. Diplock, W. Gordon Hall, W. J. Hancock, H. C. Harris, A. Jacks, O. A. Moore, W. J. Moorehead, W. McKee, G. A. Macdonald, H. G. McKenzie, J. P. Pulkinghorn, F. H. Rowan, F. Smith, H. E. Stenson, E. J. Searight, R. N. Wilson and R. Veitch.

Mrs. Robert Ross was general convenor of the affair, for which Mrs. W. Lyburn acted as treasurer.

A program of music was also enjoyed during the tea hours, and included solos by Mrs. L. R. Mitchell, Misses Isabel Duthie and Orma Lacheur, and piano solo by Billy Hall. Mrs. H. V. Dobson and Mrs. Adam Sands were accompanists.

Brady—Curtis

In St. John's Anglican Church at one o'clock on Sunday afternoon, the marriage was quietly performed by the Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson of Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Curtis, to William Brady, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brady.

The attendants were Miss Margaret Curtis and Whitty Thirnbeck. Following a short honeymoon, the couple will reside in Peterborough.

Irwin—Lacey

At half-past one o'clock on Saturday afternoon, a wedding of much beauty was solemnized in All Saints' Anglican Church, when Lillian Mary (Dolly), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lacey of Rubidge Street, was married to Roy Kenneth Irwin, son of Mrs. W. J. Graham of Keene and the late Wesley Irwin. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson.

Lilacs, spring flowers, and ferns decorated the church, white lilacs being massed on the altar. White satin ribbons tied off the guest pews.

The bride was a charming figure in her bridal gown of white satin, made on straight simple lines, with long train, and tiny self-covered buttons trimming the back and the long sleeves. Her long veile of tulle was held in place on her hair with tiny clusters of lilacs at either side, she wore white gloves and slippers, and carried a bouquet of Calla lilies. As an ornament she wore the same gold cross and fine gold chain worn by her mother on her wedding day.

Miss Peggy Lacey was bridesmaid to her sister, and was attired in a beautiful and striking gown of peach net over peach taffeta, with wide bands of turquoise taffeta let into the skirt. The bodice was made with short puffed sleeves and square neckline, and trimmed with the matching taffeta. On her hair she wore a central cluster of turquoise flowers, from which fell a shoulder length veil of peach net. Her mittens were in peach shade, her slippers turquoise, and she carried a nosegay of roses, sweet peas, lily of the valley and blue forget-me-nots.

Clifford Irwin attended his brother as best man, and the ushers were the bride's brother, Bert Lacey, and Mark Swanger of Oshawa, cousin of the groom. Mrs. W. A. Logan presided at the organ throughout the ceremony.

A reception attended by about forty guests was held later at the home of the bride's parents, when the guests were received by Mrs. Lacey, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Graham, the groom's mother, with the bridal party. Mrs. Lacey was gowned in navy triple sheer, with matching hat and accessories, and wore a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Graham wore green crepe, with black hat and accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

The happy couple left later for a motor trip to Montreal and Ottawa, the bride wearing for travelling a navy sheer frock, with matching accessories and a beige coat with fox collar. They will reside at 223 London Street when they return.

The Chandler-Lucas Wedding

A wedding of much interest took place on Saturday when Gwendolyne Lucas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Lucas of Wolfe street, was married to Victor Chandler, son of Mr. and Mrs G. E. Chandler of Bolivar street. The bridal group above includes, reading from LEFT to RIGHT, the best man, Reginald Chandler, brother of the groom, the groom, the bride, and the bridesmaid, Miss Meta Hart. DISTRICT COUNCIL.

The Peterborough District Council met at Christ Church, Omemee.

The chairman for the evening was the vice-president of the Council, Alton Clark of Emily.

After the reports of the various committees were presented, the meeting was addressed by Gordon Clegg of St. John's, Peterborough. He gave a very interesting account of the life and work of Dr. Schwietzer, who gave up such a promising career in music to bring relief from the sufferings of the natives of the "dark continent" of Africa. He is certainly doing a remarkable and heroic work among these people and we are always glad to hear about them and the sacrifices they have made to carry them out.

At the conclusion of the address, the gathering of young people then enjoyed some games under the direction of Walter Howell of St. John's, Peterborough.

Altogether there were representatives from Omemee, Emily, and the four city branches, making a total of one hundred and four young people at this meeting.

Wednesday (Economical)

Liver and Macaroni Casserole
(See note)
Grated Cabbage and Apple Salad
Prune Whip Gingersnaps Tea.

Note.—Have the butcher put a pound of pork liver through his food chopper for you. Saute it in beef dripping with 1 grated onion for 5 minutes. Boil macaroni or spaghetti in salted water until it is tender. Mix the sauteed liver with the boiled macaroni, add half and half milk and water to make a very moist mix, put in greased casserole, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and bake until heated through and golden. Both tomato juice and cheese may be added to this if on hand.

Thursday.

Zimbalist Violin Club Ensemble Makes Fine Impression With Concert

The Zimbalist Violin Club present its first public concert Friday evening, when All Saints' Parish Hall was filled by a large audience which showed much enthusiasm for the program. The stage was beautifully decorated with flowers, tulips, lilacs, ladies' slippers and Columbine, also the Club banner in colors of red, gold and blue.

Ten Ensemble numbers were presented, all played with fine expression and interpretation, especially "Musette," which showed to advantage the fine work of the violins, and "Morning Prayer" (muted) was finely rendered in expression and tone shading. "Rondino," (Kreisler's arrangement) was played with dignity and assurance that brought continued applause, as did also the last number, the sparkling "Hunter's Song" which had to be repeated. For the "Caprice Viennois" and "Will-o-the-Wisp' the solo parts were well played by Ruth Fisher, Anna McLeod and Janet Prophet.

The violin solos were delightful. Kenneth Reade played with splendid interpretation and singing tone, and Keith Sproule's "To the Rising Sun" showed up to advantage his tone shade and expression. Mr. Roy Rome, Ruth Fisher and Miss Marguerite Rome are deserving of much praise for the violin duet, the Allegro Maestoso, Romance, Rondo, Allegro Moderato, Tempo di Minuetto, and Allegretto movements of the Mazas Concert Sonata edition were played brilliantly, with much expression and fine bow work. Ruth Fisher contributed her part magnificently too, and the piano accompaniment was outstanding.

Shirley Ashby gave her selection, "Serenade" (Haydn) with singing tone and fine effect, and another performer, nine-year-old Mary June Wharry, quite astonished her audience with her brilliant playing (from memory) of her two numbers. She plays with feleing and assurance rare for one so young. Anna McLeod's contributions were nobly played, the "Ave Maria" with lovely tone and long sustained bows, and "The Rain" showed up her technical ability.

Olive Rome's solos in her lovely controlto voice added much to the evening's enjoyment. She sings with splendid interpretation, expression and clear diction "O Lovely Night" appealed to the audience, and "O Dry Those Tears" was sung entrancingly with color and feeling, the muted violin obligato providing a fine background for this lovely number. Much credit goes to the director, Mr. Roy Rome, and to Miss Marguerite Rome, who accompanied beautifully throughout the program. Miss Alma Duffy was of great assistance also in the numbers she accompanied.

The program was as follows:

Minuet (Bach), Two French Folk Tunes (arranged by Gustav Saenger), Violin Ensemble; Loure (Bach) accompanist Alma Duffy, Kenneth Reade; Gavotte in B flat (Handel), Violin Ensemble; Danny Boy (violin tria, with piano) accompaniment by Alma Duffy, M. McLaren, Douglas Ferguson, and K. Reade; Country Gardens (Percy Grainger), To The Rising Sun (Torjusson), K. Sproule, pupil of Marguerite Rome; Musette (C. VonGluck), Morning Prayer (Tschaikowsky), Violin Ensemble; Love th Peedlar (Ed. German), O Lovely Night (Ronald), viola obligato by Roy Rome, Olive Rome; Serenade (Haydn) violin solo, Shirley Ashby; Violin duet from Mazas, Concert arr. Op. 38 Roy Rome and Marguerite Rome, Ruth Fisher; Rondino (Kreisler), Violin Ensemble; Moment Musical (Schubert) Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair (Stephens Colin Foster), Mary Jane Wharry; Caprice Viennois (Kreisler) Will-o'-the-Wisp (Jac Don't), Violin Ensemble; Ave Maria (Gounod), The Rain (Carl Bohm), Anna McLeod; O Dry Those Tears (Del Riego) violin obligato by Roy Rome, Olive Rome; Ave Verum (Mozart), Hunter's Song (Robert Schumann), Violin Ensemble, unaccompanied.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

—you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties. BUT, if you are cross, lifeless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure.

Make a note NOW to get a bottle of world-famous Pinkham's Compound today WITHOUT FAIL from your druggist—more than a million women have written in letters reporting benefit.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Undergoing treatment one month; fit to play baseball the next. Read what Mr. R. A. himself says about Fynnon Salt.

"I want to thank you for putting me on my feet", he writes. "For months I suffered with a severe attack of Sciatica and tried many kinds of treatments. All to no effect. Then I read of Fynnon Salt and tried it. In less than three weeks I was up and out, even having a game of baseball."

Fynnon Salt is doing as much for sufferers all over the country, as the constant stream of testimonials show. This treatment for Sciatica and other Rheumatic troubles is similar to a Spa treatment at Home! A ½ teaspoonful of the sparkling crystals in a glassful of water every morning gives you the relief-giving Spa elements of Sodium, Potassium and Lithium, which gradually remove from your system Uric Acid and health-destroying waste. With the cause of the trouble removed, and liver and kidneys working properly once more, you are soon fit again. At all druggists, 75c a large bottle.

2 BRIDESMAIDS DIE IN HOUR FROM BURNS AFTER WEDDING

Billowing Dress Touched Electric Fire in Photographer's Studio

COVENTRY TRAGEDY

Coventry. — Two bridesmaids among a wedding party of nine caught in a fire at a Coventry photographer's studio within an hour of leaving the altar died in hospital.

They were six-year-old Josephine Russell of Sovereign's Rd., and Miss Eunice Naylor (23), of Kensington Rd., Coventry.

The bride, formerly Miss Lola Doreen Kendall of Earlsdon Ave., Coventry; her sister, Leonie (16), and another bridesmaid, Josephine Hollier (eight), of Sussex Rd., Coventry, were admitted to hospital with severe burns.

The bride and bridegroom had posed for their pictures and the rest of the party were entering from the waiting room when the tulle dress of one of the bridesmaids burst into flames. Without a moment's hesitation the bride and another bridesmaid tried to smother the flames and at once became involved themselves.

Bridegroom and best man (Tom Mitchell, Elmsdale Rd., Coventry) and Mr. and Mrs. John Clayton, the photographer and his wife, all tackled the fire and were burned in turn.

After blazing clothing had been torn off and desperate efforts made to beat out the flames the injured party dashed from the studio, a separate wooden building, which caught fire and was severely damaged.

When help arrived two ambulances had to be summoned to take them all to hospital.

There it was found that a page, Bobby Carey, and a bridesmaid, Miss Sheila Gunn, had alone escaped injury.

Wedding guests who had gone on for the reception after the ceremony in St. Barbara's church did not learn of the tragedy until after a long wait.

SOLICITOR CROWNED AS ROSE CHAMPION

Nurseryman Says Good Plant May Be Worth $5,000

Westminster—Two champions—one amateur, one professional—were crowned by the National Rose society at their spring show in the Royal Horticultural Old Hall, Westminster.

The amateur is Herbert Oppenheimer, a wealthy solicitor, of Bray, Berkshire. He is middle-aged, short, slight, carries an ivory-handled cane crooked on his wrist.

The other champion is T. Beatty, Cheshire born employee of a great Essex firm of rose growers.

He created the "Finest Rose in the Show"—an incredible Dame Catherine of palest sulphur yellow, perfect in form and symmetry.

"I've worked for this firm for 43 years," said Mr. Beatty. "I do most of the hybridisation.

"You see, it's not new varieties we want, it's varieties that are better than the old ones. Nine times out of ten when you cross roses you get a single flower—one with only four or five petals. But if you get a winner"—a slow smile spread over his face—"well, then it's worth while.

"A rose can be worth a thousand pounds to a nurseryman," he went on. "If it's good it goes all over the world. But it takes six years to get it ready."

Mysterious Death Follows an Alleged Drinking Bout

Westminister.—The husband of a drowned woman — himself missing and believed to have been drowned—called at the Westminster coroner's office shortly after the inquest on his wife.

Dazed and apparently ill, the man, Harold Wright, an electrical engineer, of Westcliffe-on-Sea, said that his wife left a house in Crescent Grove, Clapham, S.W., where they had been staying, and he had not seen her since.

Frederick Henry Veales of Leigh-on-Sea, a brother of Mrs. Wright, said that she and her husband had been drinking excessively.

ESKIMO DOG HERO 'LIONIZED' AT ZOO

Moscow.—"Happy," the Eskimo dog which travelled with the four Soviet scientists on their ice-floe drift from the North Pole, is drawing record crowds to Moscow zoo.

He is a special favorite of children.

"Happy's" kennel is electrically refrigerated, and he has an air-coole swimming tank, as zoo officials feared the change from Polar cold to Moscow's summer heat might have bad effects on him.

SAILOR ON RAMPAGE AS GIRLS TURN COLD

"Caused No Nuisance Until Shunned," He Explains

Weymouth.—"All the nice girls love a sailor" so they say—but the able seaman who was charged at Weymouth with being drunk and disorderly in a dance hall had a contrary experience.

"I went to a dance hall with two shipmates," he said.

"I was aggravated by the many refusals of dances by the young ladies. I don't know why. It may have been the uniform.

"The girls seemed to have their own particular partners, but I had paid for admission as well.

"I caused no nuisance until I was shunned, and then I spoke my mind to one person. Then the attendants came and ejected me forcibly without any explanation."

PLAN RADIO STATION FOR ATLANTIC 'PHONES

British Assistant Postmaster-General Announces Rochester Scheme

Brighton—Sir Walter Womersley, assistant postmaster-general, speaking at the banquet of the national chamber of trade at Brighton, announced a new short-wave station to deal with transatlantic telephone calls was being planned by the post-office.

"To improve still further the reliability of the post-office transatlantic telephone service and to prepare for the difficulties due to sunspot activity, which is expected to reach a maximum within the next two years, it is proposed to remodel the short wave receiving system," said Sir Walter.

"The principal feature of this work will be the erection of an aerial which will extend over a distance of two miles and will be connected to the receiving apparatus by 16 miles of special cable. The site for the new short wave station is at Cooling Marshes, near Rochester, Kent."

Sir Walter also stated that arrangements were in hand for the provision of ultra-short wave radio telephone channels between England and France.

Arrangements had also been made to provide a telephone service to the Shetland Islands by ultra-short wave links with the mainland. This system would also be utilized to connect the Hebrides and the other islands where neither telegraph nor telephone communication had hitherto been available.

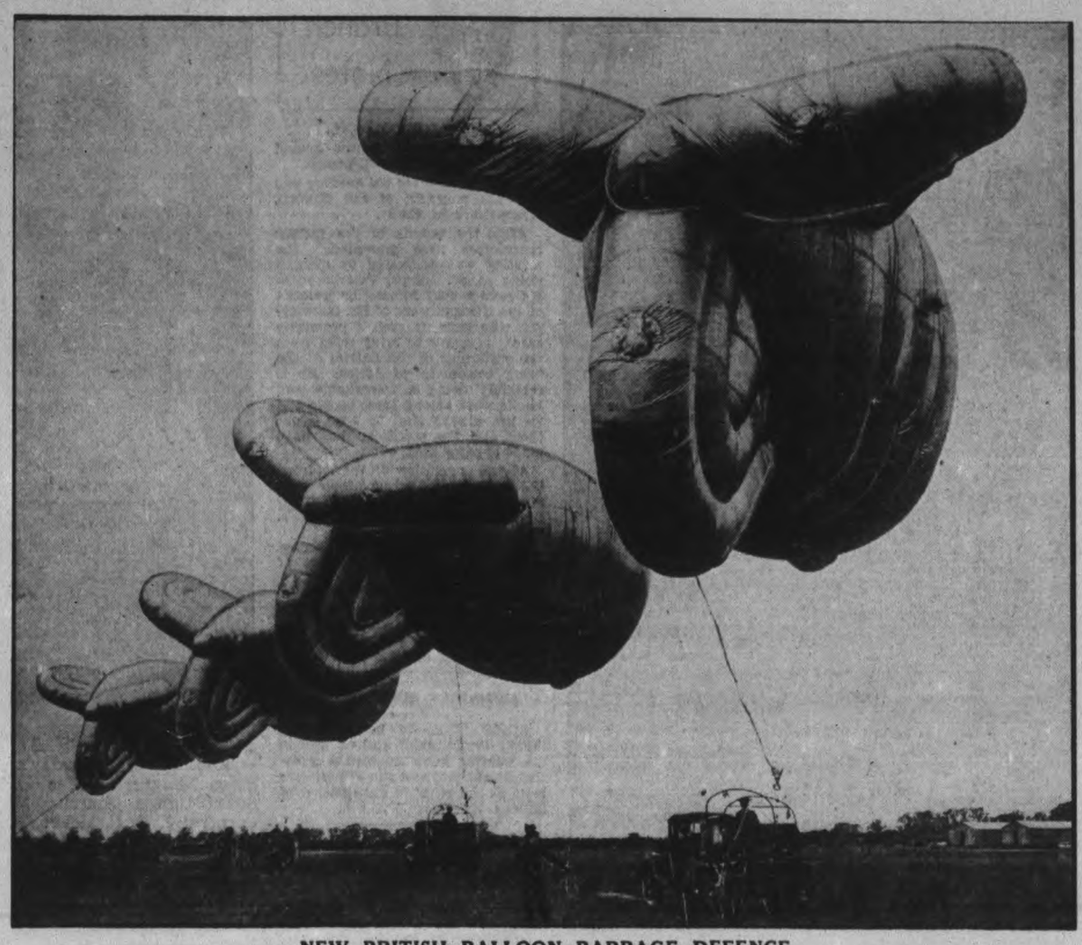
MAN DIES OF HEAT IN KITCHEN OF HOME

Elderly Schoolmaster Succumbed to Exposure, Jury Decides

Weymouth.—Exposure to heat was given as the cause of the death of John Spencer, an 83-year-old retired schoolmaster, at a Weymouth inquest.

A doctor said that a 15-inch flame from a gas pipe, from which rubber tubing had been accidentally detached made the room so hot that sugar in a basin on a table was caked solid. Spencer had no injuries and no burns.

A verdict of death by misadventure was returned.



NEW BRITISH BALLOON BARRAGE DEFENCE

The Royal Air Force's new balloon barrage group, recently demonstrated at Cardington, England, attached to a great length of cable, are designed to ascend to an amazing height. Aircraft flying into the suspended cable are destroyed. The earth-end of the cable is mounted on a lorry giving the balloon mobility. They will be used for the protection of London from air attacks and resemble angry insects with big noses as they wait to be released on their long journey into the stratosphere, trailing their deadly cables beneath them.

NIECE MUST MARRY TO COLLECT BEQUEST

Inherits Aunt's Estate Provided She Is Not Childless

Wealdstone.—A clause in the will of Miss Caroline Garnham, Danes Gate, Wealdstone, published recently, states:

"£1250 ($6,250) and £750 ($3,750) Consols to my niece, Annie Florence Garnham, provided she is not a childless married woman; otherwise I leave to her £250 ($1,250) and £750 ($3,750) Consols."

The residue of the property, about £2,000 ($10,000), also goes to her niece, "unless she is a childless married woman (not a widow). If she is, she is to receive half of the residue."

Mrs. John W. Garnham of Kingsway, Wealdstone, stated that the niece is unmarried so that all the money associated with her name in the will is inherited by her.

BALK AT GAS DRILL

Sunderland, Eng.—The education committee of this town has expressed its opinion to the British government that gas drill and respirator practice are undesirable for children because of psychological and other effects.

GLASGOW BOILER EXPLOSION DRIVES 150 GIRLS ON STREET

Two Men Are Killed in Blast in Scottish Laundry

CHIMNEY IS SPLIT

Glasgow.—One hundred and fifty girls were seized by hysteria, ran screaming into the street, when an explosion wrecked the boiler-house of a laundry in Crow Rd., Glasgow.

Doctors living near, who hurried to the laundry, found that many of the girls had collapsed.

In nearby houses whose windows had been shattered by the explosion hysterical girls were treated by doctors, ambulance men and nurses.

Nine girls were taken injured to hospital, too. Two men were killed. Sixty-five-year-old William Lowrie, a boilerman, was killed in the boiler-house, three sides of which were blown out; 26-year-old Frederick Copperhill was hit and killed by a flying piece of machinery as he left the main laundry building.

In the front of this building most distant from the boiler-house the 150 girls were working. Their rooms shook and debris hurtled through roofs and windows.

DOMESTIC WORKERS FORM TRADE UNION

Preliminary Efforts Are Concentrated on London Area

London.—The general council of the T.U.C. approved a recommendation of a sub-committee that a new trade union for domestic workers should be established.

At first efforts will be concentrated on establishing the union in the London area, but arrangements for extending it as quickly as possible to the provinces are contemplated.

REPEAL OLD BATHING LAW

Bournemouth—Thousands of girls have been breaking the bathing by-laws of Bournemouth for years. They probably did not know, but an old by-law decreed that:

"Every female above the age of eight must wear a suitable costume or dress, consisting of tunic or blouse reaching from the neck to the knees, with belt and knicker-bocker drawers."

The council has decided that this must be repealed.

NO CHILDREN TO PLAY IN ENDOWED FIELDS

Middleton, on the Stour, Boasts Population of Seventy People

Middleton, Essex—Population, 70; none between nine and 21; no shop; no school; no post-office; no public-house.

That is Middleton, on the Stour, in Essex.

Four cottages comprise the main street, and "No houses of any kind have been erected for 70 years," says the rector, Rev. F. Clive Luget.

"Do you wonder then that with only four children living in the village we have been unable to carry out the wishes of a former resident who left £100 ($500) to provide a playing field for the children of Middleton?

"This money," the rector adds, "was handed over to Essex County Playing Fields association and is in the bank in the hope that it may some day be used for the purpose it was left.

"The inhabitants are mostly old. The younger ones leave when they marry and never return; there are no houses for them."

WOMAN ROBS BLIND MAN BY SENDING 'LOVE LETTERS'

"Almost Impossible to Imagine More Despicable Conduct," Says Magistrate

GETS SIX MONTHS

Colchester. — Stated to have robbed a blind man and to have deceived him with "love letters" which she made up, a woman was sentenced to six months hard labor.

She was Mrs. Mary Eggleton, of Belle Vue Rd., Colchester.

"It is almost impossible to imagine more despicable conduct, rendered particularly mean because you have taken advantage of a poor, simple blind man," said the chairman, Mrs. P. R. Green.

The blind man, James Henry Winterflood, said he knew Eggleton's sister-in-law, Florence Eggleton.

Eggleton used to bring him letters in which Florence said that she wanted to marry him. Believing he was going to marry Florence, he handed Eggleton £72 ($360) altogether. He thought she would send the money to Florence so that when they married they could settle down in a comfortable home.

Police Sergeant Dorothy Watson, of the women's police, said that Eggleton agreed that she had not seen her sister-in-law for seven years, and that she invented the story about Florence marrying Winterflood.

She made up the contents of 299 letters herself. She had had the whole of the money.

Eggleton had said: "I know it was a mean way to treat a blind man."

Eggleton's husband attributed his wife's conduct to dealings with "tally men" and pawnbrokers, and he refused to be responsible for her any longer.

WEST INDIAN VICAR MARRIED IN HASTE

Weds Daughter of Canon Who Openly Opposed Mixed Marriages

Manchester. — Twenty people waited outside St. Augustine's Pendlebury, Manchester, hoping to see Miss Marion Kerby, daughter of Canon E. T. Kerby, married in her father's church to the Rev. Guildford A. P. Thomson, 39-year-old West Indian vicar of St. George's, Pendleton, Manchester.

But they were 24 hours too late. While Canon Kerby was finishing the communion service on Sunday morning his daughter, unknown to him, was being married by special license to Mr. Thomson at St. George's, three miles away.

Canon Kerby has several times condemned mixed marriages from his pulpit. He had assisted Mr. Thomson in getting the living at St. George's where he has been three years.

Mr. Thomson had been engaged to Miss Kerby about a year and met her through his friendship with her father.

PRIVATE FIRE BRIGADE

Epping, Essex.—Out of his own pocket, and just as a hobby, 65-year-old H. L. L. Woore runs and captains a fire brigade in this busy town, only 16 miles from London. He pays all costs except for the inspection of hydrants.

GOOD JOB WAITING SWEET GENTLE LION

London Zoo Wants Jungle Baby for Pets' Corner

London.—The zoo needs a lion cub of good character and placid nature.

It has 18 lions on view in the lion house, four at Whipsnade, and others in the sanatorium and the north mammal house at Regent's Park; but not one of this two dozen fills the bill.

The lion that is needed is a cub which can be trusted near children, so that it can be one of the "stars" of Pets' Corner this summer — a cub which will not lash out with its paws and claws when a youngster comes near.

SCIENTISTS TO STUDY SPEED OF LIGHTNING

Off to Bukuru, Nigeria, Where Electric Storms Rage

London. — Three young Englishmen have gone out to Bukuru, in upcountry Nigeria, to measure the speed of lightning and study accompanying phenomena.

They are Fergus R. Perry, G. H. Webster and P. W. Baguley, and they have been sent out by the Electrical Research association.

Bukuru has more lightning than any other place in the world.

An official of the Electrical Research association explained the object of this scientific study: "In England there are certain phenomena accompanying lightning, but lightning is not prevalent enough here for us to study them as we would like.

"In Bukuru these scientists will be able to study flash after flash.

"We want to observe the speeds of lightning and the conditions under which it operates, so that we can take steps to protect electrical apparatus here from injury and avoid breakdowns and damage.

"We hope to be able to adjust appliances to cope with lightning speeds."

(Lightning travels at approximately the same speed as light, which is 186,000 miles a second. Compared with light, sound, which travels at 1,100 feet a second, appears to stand still.)

FORTRESS PROTECTS ENGLISH BOOKMAKER

Barbed-Wire Fence and Maze of Trenches Pierced by Police

Wolverhampton.—A bookmaker fined at Wolverhampton was said by the police to have done his business in a place like a fortress, with barbed-wire entanglements and a labyrinth of trenches.

Detective Milligan said he saw the man, Thomas Ernest Eggington, outside a wooden gate, taking betting slips through a gap in a fence seven feet high with barbed-wire on top.

His wife, Doris, 22, was walking up and down a passage keeping watch. She shouted: "Look out! The cops are here" when the place was raided.

It was stated that observation had been kept on the "fortress" for two months, and special photographs had been taken of it. One attempt to approach in a haycart failed.

Watchdogs barked warning and heavy oak doors, bolted and padlocked, barred two of the three entrances. The thick, high fences and walls, topped with knotted barbed wire, surrounded a "V"-shaped enclosure providing a good view of approaching strangers.

NEWS AND VIEWS FROM ALL CORNERS OF THE WORLD

WITCHCRAFT IS STILL RIFE IN TANGANYIKA TERRITORY

Whole Families Sometimes Slain at Behest of Witch Doctors

OFFICIAL REPORTS

Nairobi.—That witchcraft is still a potent influence in native life in Tanganyika is revealed in the annual reports of provincial commissioners in Tanganyika territory presented to the current session of legislative council.

The senior provincial commissioner, Lake province, writes: "Nowhere in the territory does witchcraft play such a malevolent part in the native life as in the Biharamulo district, where it handicaps good administration and brings tragedy and unhappiness to the people.

"During the year a judge of the high court in session at Biharamulo sentenced seven men to death for the murder of a woman who, in their eyes, was a witch, for they had been told so by a Rundi witch doctor.

"While the case was being heard, another native five miles away murdered a woman and her child as they fled from their blazing hut.

"The next morning, in the presence of 19 armed men who were escorting to hospital a second child he had wounded, the same man stabbed the child to death while the guard stood by and watched, not attempting even to protest.

"In the eyes of these natives, practically no death is due to natural causes; someone has caused the fatal illness, and, for the sum of 10 cents the witch doctor will, without fail, indicate some inoffensive neighbor as the guilty party.

"Murder is so often the outcome of the divination that witch doctors, though they seldom tell the client to kill, know perfectly well that it is probable he will do so."

LIGHTHOUSE CELEBRATES

Gibraltar.—The Gibraltar lighthouse, which, with that at Tarifa and Cape Spartel, lights the straits, celebrated its centenary recently.

The Gibraltar lighthouse is the only one in the British Empire overseas, with the exception of that at the Falkland Islands, which is under the control of the Trinity Brethren in London. It is thus entitled to fly the Trinity House flag.

FOUR INSURANCE MURDERS CHARGED

Vienna Woman Slew Kin, Police Assert

Vienna. — A woman charged with four murders for the sake of insurance money was brought up for trial in the Vienna central criminal court.

She is Martha Marek, aged 40. She is accused of murdering her husband, Emil Marek; an aunt; another woman who lodged with her, and one of her own children.

All the bodies were exhumed, after suspicion was aroused, and traces of thallium, which is alleged to have been obtained from rat poison, were found in each.

RELY ON RACE TRACK TO POPULARIZE WIN

Australian Government Thinks They Have Way to Circulate "Cartwheels"

Sydney, N.S.W.—A definite use will soon be found for the new Australian five-shilling ($1) coins, popularly known as "cartwheels" because of their size. Hitherto they have been regarded more as a curiosity than a practical part of Australian currency, and the first 200,000 crown pieces ($1) which were minted soon disappeared from circulation into the collections of professional and amateur numismatists.

A further supply was then minted, but the coins never became popular with the man-in-the-street and soon found their way back to the banks.

Now the conversion of the mutuel machines at Randwick race course from a 10-shilling ($2) to a five-shilling ($1) unit is providing a use for the discarded coins.

It is proposed to simplify the giving of change by handing out as many crown pieces as possible on the largest race course in New South Wales. The handling of four coins to the £1 ($4) instead of 12 will help considerably to avoid congestion.

STOCKHOLM IS BOOMING

Over 1,500 New Apartment Buildings Erected During Past Year

Stockholm.—The building boom in Stockholm is on the increase. During the first three months of this year, 1,432 new apartments with a total of 4,238 rooms were completed. Last year the figures were 1,335 and 3,705, respectively.

GIRL, 15, AIDS MAN CUT UP WIFE'S BODY

Later Leaves With Slayer on Motor Trip—Caught After Chase

Chalons-sur-Marne, France. — A girl of 15 told the magistrate here how she helped a man cut up the body of his wife, and then went off on a motor tour with him.

The girl whose Christian name is Yvonne—her surname is kept secret because she is a minor—was arrested with the man, M. van Thouroudt, after a 60 m.p.h. car chase.

It was alleged they had obtained petrol from a garage without paying for it.

$10,000 IN JEWELRY MISSING AFTER FIRE

Taken to Cottage for Safety, Then Vanish

Bognor Regis—Search was made in a 500-year-old cottage at Barnham, near here, for jewelry worth £2,000 ($10,000) missed after a fire at Garden court, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Stableford.

The fire badly damaged the house. Valuable furniture and the jewelry were taken into the garden, and later placed in the cottage.

Mrs. Stableford, who was in London for the day, was told of the fire while having a tooth extracted. She said: "We had only recently rebuilt the house. I believe the jewels must be hidden in the cottage, but so far we have been unable to find them."

WOMAN HALED INTO COURT FOR "BOXING MAN'S EARS"

All Femininity of Holland Awaited Decision of Appeal From Fine

CONVICTION STANDS

In February she slapped a strange man in a tramcar because he called her an "impertinent hussy".

She thought, by his behavior, that he intended to insult her, and one word led to another.

He complained to the police, and a magistrate fined her 11s ($2.64) for assault.

Her appeal failed. Yet she scored a moral victory.

The public prosecutor, admitting that it must be very disagreeable for a respectable woman to be called an impertinent hussy, persuaded the judge to reduce the fine to 2s 6d (60 cents).

In court was the man whose ears were boxed. The judge told him some pungent home truths.

He tried to excuse himself by saying that if Cissy had been a man he would not have reported her to the police, but would have settled the matter himself.

DOG STICKS TO INJURED MAN

Adelaide, Australia—A dog here defied ambulance regulations by accompanying his injured master to hospital, watched doctors dress the wounds and later was found in bed huddled beside the patient.

VOLUNTEERS ASKED BY NAZI HOSPITALS

Get 4 to 16 Cents a Day for Aiding Nurses

Berlin. — Women between 20 and 30 years of age are asked to volunteer to assist overworked nurses in German hospitals.

Two years' service is contemplated. For the first six months volunteers will earn 4 cents a day, and after that 16 cents a day. Should they marry after completion of their term, they will receive a state dowry of $400.

They will not be expected to do rough work, and should they wish to adopt nursing as a career, they will be welcomed.

CRIES FROM GRAVE SAVE BABY'S LIFE

Allahabad. — The child of an Aligarh clerk died at the age of seven days and was buried.

Four hours after the burial, a servant was sent to make the customary Hindoo offering of milk at the grave.

She rushed back, told the father, who ran to the grave and began digging frantically.

He found the child alive—and crying.

GOING-GOING-GONE

VESSEL DIPS IN SEA PICKS UP PORPOISE

Four-Foot Sea Mammal Flounders on Foredeck

Southend.—The Dutch motor vessel, Johanna Hendrik, crossing from Holland to Southend with a cargo of bricks was plowing through heavy weather in the Thames estuary when her bows dipped under a big green sea.

When she shook the water off—there was a 4-foot porpoise floundering about on the foredeck.

This was the story which the crew told when the vessel berthed at Southend, and people asked how they came by a porpoise.

COLD NOSE UNHEALTHY IF WRONGLY PLACED

Affectionate Terrier Causes Crash and Court Appearance

Folkestone.—Tinker, wire-haired terrier belonging to George Watkins, a Folkestone fruiterer, is a healthy dog. He has a cold nose.

That is why Mr. Watkins was fined £2 ($10) for careless driving. Tinker pushed his cold nose against his master's neck, caused him to swerve his van into head-on collision with a taxi, and spoil a 32-year no-accident record.

IN MEMORIAM

MORENCY.—In loving memory of Mrs. Mary Morency, who passed to her rest one year ago to-day, May 23, 1937.

We are sad within our memory,
Lonely are our hearts to-day,
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever been called away.
We think of her in silence;
No eye may see us weep;
But many silent tears are shed
When others are asleep.

HANSON—In loving memory of our dear Mother, Sarah Hanson, who passed away May 23, 1926.

Her life's a beautiful memory,
Her death is a silent grief;
She sleeps in God's beautiful garden
In the sunshine of perfect peace.

—Lovingly remembered by Lottie, Herb, and Children.

CRERAR SUGGESTS PARK SURROUND ISLANDS BRIDGE

OTTAWA, May 23 (CP)—Prompt action by the Dominion government to acquire the necessary property in the Thousand Islands to establish a national park at the site of the new international bridge near Gananoque, Ont., was urged by Hon. H. A. Stewart (Con. Leeds) in the House of Commons yesterday.

Resources Minister Crerar said the rule was that provinces furnished the necessary land. If a national park was to be established at the international bridge site it would be necessary for the provincial government to obtain the site and hand it over to the Dominion parks branch.

Mr. Stewart said the bridge would be opened in August. It was eight miles long, including island highway, and passed through the heart of the Thousand Islands group. He urged the government to take immediate action for appropriation of Hill Island, most important of those concerned.

Referring to the new scenic highway along the St. Lawrence River between Brockville and Gananoque, Mr. Stewart said the provincial government was taking over the strip between the highway and the river, as a park district.

Similar action by the Dominion government at Ivy Lea, Canadian end of the new bridge, would preserve that scenic area from commercialization of an undesirable nature.

Mr. Crerar promised to take as many of his colleagues as he could induce to accompany him and make a study of the proposed park site.

Model Testifies

Ann Naylor, former dress model at the fashionable New York establishment of Marcel Rochas, is shown with Customs Agent Gordon Pike en route to testify in the U.S. governments suit against Rochas. The U.S. customs department is attempting to collect $75,000 on the grounds that Rochas evaded payment of that sum by smuggling dresses from Europe on the backs of his models.

PAIN ACROSS KIDNEYS!

YOU may prolong life by taking the advice of a famous physician, which is: "Keep the kidneys in good order, avoid too much meat, salt, alcohol or tea." Drink plenty of pure water and drive the uric acid out of the system by taking A-uric in tablet form. It is the discovery of Dr. Pierce of the Invalids Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all druggists. Read what Mrs. W. Horton, 76 Poulette St., Hamilton, Ont., said: "The kidney secretions passed too frequently at times and burned. When I stood on my feet awhile I would get such a pain across my kidneys. My feet and ankles swelled too. Before I had finished using a bottle of Dr. Pierce's A-nurie I felt so much better." Startling New Scientific Discovery Restored Youthful Health, Strength, Vitality

Mr. C. R. of Ottawa, Ontario says, "I am forty years of age. Before taking 'Vitamized Iron' I felt that old age must be creeping up on me. I had no energy, was getting underweight. Then a friend suggested 'Vitamized Iron' and I started taking this splendid remedy. It didn't seem any time before I felt my old energy and pep coming back. My normal weight and health returned and I really felt twenty years younger. I can heartily recommend 'Vitamized Iron' to anyone feeling as I did." You too, will want to tell your friends about this wonderful new medical discovery once you see what "Vitamized Iron" does for you! Entirely new, entirely different from ordinary tonics, "Vitamized Iron" is a special form of iron combined in such a way with the vital Vitamins B and G that it is quickly, easily absorbed into the blood stream; contains magnesium and other vital minerals; gives weak thin, watery blood new strength and richness. Tones up the nervous system, keeps stomach and intestines active, healthy, stimulates glands, promotes weight. No wonder so many tired, sleepless, skinny, worn-out people are writing enthusiastic letters in praise of "Vitamized Iron." Take advantage of this new medical discovery now. Order a large box of easy-to-take "Vitamized Iron" tablets from your druggist right now.

Wreckage Of Airlines In Which Nine Met Death

Fog and a mountainside spell end of $88,000 luxury plane.

Four women, two children and three others met death when this plane, a new Lockheed luxury liner, crashd into a mountainside northeast of Burbank, Cal., shortly after taking off at Burbank for St. Paul, where the ship was to be delivered and put into service by Northwest Airlines. The wreckage was found after the plane had been missing for three days less than 50 miles from its starting point, by a rancher living near Mt. McDill. All aboard were employes or relatives of airlines officials.

APSLEY INSTITUTE ELECTS OFFICERS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, May 23.—The 10th annual meeting of the Apsley Women's Institute was held in the town hall on Thursday night. Mrs. R. Tucker, the retiring president, then gave a short address, thanking all the members for their wonderful co-operation in the past. The secretary, Mrs. W. Lean, then gave her report. She reported the books audited and receipts for the past year were $110.02. Expenditures were $106.44. Balance $3.58.

Mrs. N. Wilson took the chair for election of new officers. Those put in for office this year are: President, Mrs. N. Wilson; first vice-president, Mrs. N. E. James; second vice, Mrs. Harry Reid; secretary, Mrs. McMullen; treasurer, Mrs. R. Brown; district representative, Mrs. F. Bullied; district director, Mrs. W. Lean. Also organist Mrs. J. Downing and convenors of standing committees.

It was decided that members must now attend at least seven meetings in order to take advantage of cut rate to district annual or any other trip.

Special items of business at a special meeting were report of committee to interview Mrs. G. Kilborn re the taking of some of her pupils to district annual to sing. She would be willing to take them, it was decided to take up a voluntary collection to pay children's dinner. A committee was then formed. Mrs. W. Lean, Mrs. J. Wallbridge and Mrs. N. Wilson to arrange transportation to the district annual, fourteen or more members wishing to attend. The secretary was asked to write the Douro players to bring their play, 'Irish Eyes', to Apsley.

The co-operative program was then discussed, and it was decided that 'Care of Clothing' be first choice, 'Meat Cooking' be the second choice, third, 'Preservation of Fruit.' The meeting was then closed by singing God Save the King.

Anglican Guild Meeting.

The Guild of the Saint George church, Apsley met on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. James Downing, with five members and one visitor present. A discussion followed on a parish supper to be given on June 6th, when the Bishop is to come to Apsley for a Confirmation at St. George's church. It was decided to hold a parish supper in St. George's hall at 6 p.m. before the service, for any parishioners coming in from other missions. The meeting closed wtih Rev. T. McMulkin giving the blessing. The hostess then served a dainty lunch and a social half hour spent.

HALL'S BRIDGE

The meeting of the Y.P.S. was held in the Presbyterian Church on Tuesday evening, May 17, with the president, Miss D. Menzies presiding over the first part of the meeting as follows, Prayer, current events given by Miss Vera Haines, several items of business were discussed.

The worship convenor, Miss M. Bennett then took charge and the following program was presented: Prayer by Mrs. S. Wood; scripture lesson, read by Mrs. A. Bennett; topic "Finding My Place in Life," by Miss M. Bennett; poem "Doers of Little Things" by Miss D. Stabler. Discussion on topic by Mrs. S. Wood.

SLEEP AND AWAKE REFRESHED

If you don't sleep well—if nights are interrupted by restlessness—look to your kidneys. If your kidneys are out of order and failing to cleanse the blood of poisons and waste matter—your rest is likely suffering, too. At the first sign of kidney trouble turn confidently to Dodd's Kidney Pills—for over half a century the favorite kidney remedy. Easy to take. 114

OREGON LABORITE RUNNING SECOND

PORTLAND, Ore., May 23 (AP)—The traditionally Conservative agricultural element challenged the strength of Oregon labor today and gave Governor Charles H. Martin a slim, uncertain lead over the favorite of two new dealers in the nationally significant Democratic primary contest for governor.

The 74-year-old governor who described himself as loyal to President Roosevelt without offering "rubber stamp" endorsement to the administration's program, led Henry L. Hess of La Grande, former state senator, by 446 votes in the unofficial count from 1,112 of the state's 1,681 precincts. Martin's total was 30,855 against 30,409 for Hess.

Hess, described by Martin as a John L. Lewis Committee for Industrial Organization candidate, looked to reports from 210 missing precincts in labor's chief strongholds to draw him back toward the 2,000-vote leadership he once held. Martin hoped for additional strength in 179 missing precincts in the well-populated farming country. Other missing precincts were scattered and minor.

MARMORA

Mrs. C. McInroy and daughter Joyce left on Monday to visit the former's daughter, Mrs. J. Hollowaty at Detroit.

Rork Ferguson, M.P., visited the village on Monday.

Mr. C. A. Bleecker is having a new cottage erected at Crowe Lake.

Mr. S. A. Stephens is making extensions to his store on Forsythe street.

Mrs. F. N. Marett returned to Belleville on Wednesday owing to the condition of her father, J. W. Pearce, who is ill in Belleville General Hospital, causing some anxiety.

Nine Highlights In Estimates

OTTAWA, May 23 — (CP). — Following are the highlights of the supplementary estimates tabled in the House of Commons Friday by Finance Minister Dunnings:

Total to be voted in addition to the $425,000,000 contained in the main estimates is $106,509,436.

Work-producing expenditures to be voted amount to more than $40,000,000.

Grants in aid to the provinces to assist in meeting direct relief costs $17,500,000. A reduction of $2,000,000 from last year.

Public works expenditures in all provinces totalling $13,731,548 in addition to $12,997,625 in the main estimates.

Agricultural estimates provide for expenditure of an additional $6,742,059 of which $5,977,990 is for care of live stock, feed and fodder, resettlement and prairie farm rehabilitation.

Fisheries to be assisted by an additional $650,000 for use in rehabilitation and to expand markets.

More than $3,000,000 to be spent on tourist highways and roads to mining developments.

Transport Department to spend $1,300,000 on airport facilities and assistance to municipal airports.

SIX YEARS IS GIVEN FOR ARMED HOLDUP

HAMILTON, Ont., May 23 (CP).—Magistrate James McKay convicted John Holovitch, 37, on a charge of robbery while armed, to-day and sentenced him to six years in the penitentiary.

George W. Ballard, K.C., Crown attorney, pressed for a sentence of 10 years so that an additional term would be imposed to the sentence given in Orillia May 4 when Holovitch was sentenced to four years on a breaking and entering charge, two years on a charge of possession of explosives and three months for carrying firearms, these terms to run concurrently. Today's sentence will run concurrently with the Orillia terms. Mr. Ballard expressed his approval of the term imposed by Magistrate McKay after he learned the Orillia sentences were concurrent.

"I thought they were consecutive and that he would have no additional time to serve for this offence," the Crown attorney commented.

Today's charge hinged upon the hold-up of Henry W. Bingham on No. 2 highway near Alberton March 10 last. Bingham, who stopped where two men were standing because he thought one was injured, was suddenly confronted with a revolver and was told to put up his hands.

He was made to get out of the car and into the rear seat, while one of the men drove and the other kept him covered with a gun. Some distance away, he was searched and his watch, ring, slide rule, money and other articles taken from him. Near Smithville, he was told to leave the car.

200 MISSIONARIES IN BATTLE ZONE

SHANGHAI, May 23—(AP)—Chinese and Japanese forces were locked in bitter fighting today at the little Lunghai railway town of Lanfeng, 275 miles from the coast and key to China's ancient capital, Kaifeng.

Both sides agreed Neihwang station near Lanfeng changed hands in pitched battles twice during the day, as Japanese warplanes rained bombs on towns all along the Lunghai west of captured Suchow.

The Chinese were said to have possession of Neihwang late in the day. A most critical situation at Lanfeng was prevented by the arrival of heavy Chinese reinforcements, reports from the front said.

The capture of this town would make Kaifeng untenable, forcing the Chinese to withdraw westward toward Chengchow, junction of the Lunghai and the Peiping-Hankow railways.

Chengchow is the next major goal of the Japanese in their drive to reach Hankow, China's provisional capital.

Thousands of Chinese civilians and nearly 200 foreign missionaries were imperilled as the fighting swept westward along the Lunghai from Suchow and southward through 200 square miles of farmlands, towns and villages in a bloody triangle between the Lunghai and Peiping-Hankow railways and Lake Hungtze.

The danger was increased by Japanese bombers, which flew in relays, pouring tons of bombs on Kaifeng and Kweiteh.

Use Of Disease Germs In War Unlikely, Too Liable To Prove Boomerang

Rome, May 23 (AP)

USE of disease germs in future wars—which some have feared as a horror worse than poison gas and liquid fire — is a mere bugaboo, the international congress of chemistry was told today.

Professor Marston Bogert of Columbia University, New York, said "It seems scarcely likely that disease germs will be used to any extent in war because of the impossibility of controlling the spread of pestilence or restricting it to the enemy country."

He said distribution of insect pests among an enemy undoubtedly would immobilize large numbers of fighting men, but that science was unable to confine such an invasion to one side.

BERLIN PROTESTS NEW CZECH BORDER BREACH

BRITAIN SWINGS POLES, HUNGARY IN PEACE PLAN

Puts Pressure on Heads At Warsaw and Budapest And Gets Their Support

LONDON, May 25.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that the Polish and Hungarian governments had joined in the search for a peaceful solution of Czechoslovakia's Sudeten German problem and the attendant friction with Germany.

Answering a question, Mr. Chamberlain said:

"His Majesty's representatives in Warsaw and Budapest have already made clear to the Polish and Hungarian governments the importance which His Majesty's government attach to securing an immediate and peaceful solution of the problem and have secured satisfactory assurances from both sides."

The cabinet session was the regular weekly meeting the first since Sunday's emergency gathering because of the quarrel between Praha and Berlin.

Berlin Angry

There were before the ministers two important reports, one by Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, on a talk yesterday with the German ambassador, Herbert on Dirckseu; the other by Prime Minister Chamberlain, who outlined the situation in an audience with the King yesterday.

There was an unconfirmed report that Lord Halifax had remonstrated with the ambassador because of German press attacks on British diplomatic action.

Berlin editorials indignantly held unnecessary the representations of Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, warning Germany of the gravity of the situation last week-end when it was feared Chancellor Hitler might order a march into Czechoslovakia.

REBEL SEAPLANES SINK BRITISH SHIP

VALENCIA, Spain, May 25.—(CP-Havas) — The British freighter Thorpehall was hit by insurgent bombs today and sank just outside the port of El Grao, close to this city.

An officer and one member of the crew were injured. The injured men and other members of the crew were rescued before the ship sank.

The vessel, anchored about 1½ miles outside the entrance of the port was attacked by insurgent seaplanes coming from the Island of Mallorca. The airmen dropped four bombs, two of them scoring direct hits.

The Thorpehall figured prominently in a series of incidents earlier in the Spanish hostilities, when it ran the Bilbao blockade. British warships had to go to its aid on a number of occasions to save it from attack.

Today's incident follows a series of insurgent aerial attacks on British ships in Spanish harbors. The British government has vigorously protested these attacks and warned the insurgents they must cease.

12 PEOPLE DROWN IN 13 DEATH TOLL ON VICTORIA DAY

TORONTO, May 25 (CP) — A death list of at least 13 was counted in Canada today, aftermath of Victoria Day accidents. Twelve persons were drowned, six in New Brunswick alone. The 13th death was that of a man run over by a truck.

From Brantford, Ont., came the first report of a boating accident early last night. Thereafter the number of drowning victims mounted quickly, climaxed by a quadruple drowning in New Brunswick. On the uncertain list was Joseph Comeau, 21.

Feared to have drowned off Meteghan, N.S. Comeau's dory in which he had set out on a fishing trip was found floating off shore.

Three men and a boy were drowned in Lake Utopia, near St. George, N.B., in the day's most tragic accident. The dead: Shirley B. Ellis, 40; his son, John, eight; Collin W. Rayworth and John Collins. Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Rayworth and Mrs. Collins swam to safety when the boat in which the party was cruising on the lake overturned.

Sink Going For Wages

Charles Mitrick, 45, and 36-year-old John Buku, set out in rowboats to cross the flood-swollen Newcastle creek near Minto, N.B., to collect back wages at McDougall's Mine yesterday. Both were drowned when the frail craft capsized. A companion, Joseph Ouvolichs, escaped.

Three persons were drowned in Ontario's holiday mishaps. Charles Crichton, 14, fell from a rowboat in Libby Lake, near Brantford, Ont., and his uncle, Ernest Mableson, 31, jumped into the water in an attempted rescue. Both succumbed quickly to the chill of the lake waters, Lucien Jodoin, 27, died under similar circumstances in Lake Sesekinika, in the Kirkland Lake

T.V.A. HEADS GUILTY OF FALSIFICATION MORGAN CHARGES

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—Arthur E. Morgan charged today that two Tennessee Valley authority directors—H. A. Morgan, a native of Strathroy, Ont., and David E. Lilienthal—participated in falsifying a report on T.V.A. negotiations for the purchase of utility properties owned by the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation.

A. E. Morgan, ousted chairman of the gigantic United States government power and flood control agency, testified before a 10-man congressional inquiry committee, elaborating on charges he had made previously against the other two directors.

After making a general charge that "collusion, conspiracy and mismanagement" had characterized the administration of T.V.A., the former chairman said Lilienthal made a "persistent attempt" to convince the public that Commonwealth and Southern "was arbitrarily refusing to sell its properties."

Through Wendell L. Willkie, its president, Commonwealth and Southern repeatedly offered to sell "any or all" of its properties, Morgan said.

Gave False Impression

He testified at length regarding negotiations with the company, which he said were carried on largely by Lilienthal. After a meet-

Brunt Hits Labor In Rail Plans

Senator Graham Charges Little Heed Paid Poor Man Or Railroader—"Can't Save and Pay Properly"

OTTAWA, May 25 (CP).—Clouds lowered over the Senate railway committee today. Its placid atmosphere was ruffled when chairman George P. Graham (Lib. Brockville) protested that in all the schemes so far presented "to save money for men who already had money" little heed was given to the poor man or the railway worker.

"There is no trying to avoid it," he said. "Every dollar saved must be saved out of some part of the expenditures. The large part of these is for labor. If you are going to look after labor efficiently and sufficiently, you are not going to make any saving."

Some members of the committee protested. "If that idea prevails, this committee might as well rise," said Senator James Calder (Con. Saltcoats).

Mr. Grahams statement came shortly after Senator James McCrodock (Lib. Ottawa) had read a letter from a resident of Hornepayne, Ont., which set for the added burden the townspeople would have to bear if the railway was abandoned there.

"You heard Mr. Murdock's letter," he said. "You can understand we have a large number of similar letters. It's all very well for people who are well fed to sit around and figure out how we can doctor up the transportation system mainly to help railway investments. Our whole aim is to aid the railway situation, forgetting what it is going to do to the man in Hornepayne."

While other Canadians were enjoying all the facilities the country offered, "this man in Hornepayne would be an outcast socially, if you do to him what you are going to do to him and to a large number of people in Canada," said Senator Graham.

"No matter how serious the transportation problem is, are you going to help Canada by bolstering it up, or are you going to injure Canada by making this land poorer than it is?"

Easier Abandonments

Strengthening of the authority of the Board of Railway Commissioners had been suggested as a way to easier abandonments.

"The Board was not established and appointed solely to protect the railways," he continued. "It was to maintain an equilibrium between

TWO FUGITIVES TAKEN IN FIGHT

ORILLIA, Ont., May 25 (C.P.).—Eddie Alvin, 22, and Albert Wilson, 28, identified by police as men who escaped on Saturday from Burwash Reformatory, were captured here early to-day after a brief struggle with Police Constables Joseph Abernathy and Harold Beever.

The policemen, patrolling No. 11 Highway near here, noticed the licence number of the car the fugitives were riding in corresponded with that of an automobile reported stolen yesterday in Parry Sound. They gave chase and forced their quarry to a halt.

Wilson, driving the auto reported stolen, jumped out when the police car caught up and attempted to belabor Constable Abernathy with a crank handle. The officer dodged the blow, however, and overpowered his attacker. Alvin dashed through a field in an effort to escape but was caught and handcuffed by Beever after a brief struggle.

Wilson had three months remaining of his Burwash sentence, while Alvin had one month.

Says War Planes Are Busy On Spy Missions

Czechs Brand Hitler's Sending of Wreaths To Sudeten Funerals as Insolence; Nation Tense With Ultimatum Hinted

BERLIN, May 25 (CP-Havas).—Germany today made a strong protest to the Czechoslovakian government over alleged violation of the German frontier by Czechoslovak military planes.

The official news agency charged Czech planes had crossed the German frontier four times during the last 24 hours.

The agency reported a military plane yesterday flew over Eger, half a mile from the border at an altitude of 80 to 100 metres, its occupants allegedly engaged in studying the ground below.

The other plane violations allegedly occurred over Gross-Schoenau, near Zittau, Hinter, near Helmsdorf, and Klingangthal.

The population in the German border districts was described as being highly uneasy over the Czech "provocations" and the military preparations just across the border. On the German side, its was stated there are no troops.

Funerals Stir Friction.

PRAHA, May 25 (A.P.). — Nazi funeral honors were bestowed in the ancient and historic town of Eger to-day on two Sudeten Germans, whose deaths in a frontier shooting last Saturday provoked a grave national crisis.

The nation was tense, and among Czech patriots there was evidence of resentment that Chancellor Hitler of Germany sent wreaths for the two coffins, and that two German officers were picked to place them.

The Czechs fear Hitler one day may march his army into their nation to try to bring the 3,500,000 German minority into his Greater Germany.

That the focus of Czech concern for to-day was on Eger turned back the history pages 300 years to something of a parallel.

For there on February 25, 1634, was slain the famous General Wallenstein, who dreamed and planned for a great Germanic Empire of which he would be the ruling power.

Wallenstein was slain by officers loyal to the Archduke Ferdinand, when it became apparent he was preparing to desert the Emperor.

The two Germans honored to-day were Georg Hoffman and Nikolas Boehm. They were shot when they sped past a police barracks near the German frontier, after, police said, they ignored shouts to halt.

The German officers selected to place wreaths in the name of Fuehrer Hitler were in the military and air attaches of the German Legation here. Czechs also were resentful that Konrad Henlein, Czech Nazi leader, was asked to deliver the funeral oration.

Hitler's Act Resented.

Several Czechs described Hitler's gesture as insolence, and one refer-

9 MEN, WOMAN DIE IN AIRLINER CRASH AS 2 MOTORS QUIT

CLEVELAND, May 25 (AP).—W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines, said today that the trim twin-motored airliner which dived into a suburban ravine last night, killing 10 persons, suffered "simultaneous power failure of both engines" just before the crash.

Patterson said an investigation of the tragic wreckage, only eight miles from Cleveland airport, where the plane was scheduled to land, showed that "neither of the two engines was in operation at the moment of the impact."

The two pilots, the stewardess and all seven passengers died as flames leapt at the wreckage of the United Air Lines ship, bound from Newark to Chicago via Cleveland.

Among the passengers was John Brostuen, Republican State chairman of North Dakota, returning to his Alexander, N.D., home from a Washington conference with his State's senators.

It clipped off the tops of trees two feet thick and plunged into a natural grave in the wooded gulley.

Hunt Wreck For Clues.

Department of Commerce inspectors searched the wreckage for some clue that might throw light on the cause of the crash.

United Air Lines listed the dead, besides Brostuen, as:

L. Arthur Doty, 42, of Watertown, Mass., who was en route to Chicago to attend funeral services for his brother Harold, who had died only a few hours before. The crash victim was a district credit manager for the Texaco Oil Company.

C. F. Lickel, New York business man (A. and M. Maragheusian Company).

R. P. Morrell, New York importing firm salesman.

J. R. Moffett, identified with the Masonite Corporation, Chicago.

E. H. Veblin, 43, of Los Angeles, chief test pilot for the Douglas Aircraft Company and former air mail flier.

Richard C. Lewis, Ansonia, Conn., salesman.

Pilot James L. "Monty" Brandon, of Chicago, a flier 19 years.

Co-Pilot A. S. Merrifield, of Chicago.

Stewardess Mildred Macek, of Chicago.

WOMAN DENIES GUILT IN FIRES AT NEWTONVILLE

Witness Recalls Treat Of Accused to Burn Barn 2 Weeks Before Arrest

COBOURG, Ont., May 25.—(CP)—Mrs. Priscilla Grieves of Clark township appeared in court today before Judge Coleman and pleaded not guilty to arson in connection with the destruction by fire of April 24 of two barns and a shed owned by M. J. Holman of Newtonville. She was arrested three days after the fire by Provincial Constable D. P. Morris of Whitby.

According to evidence Mrs. Grieves and her husband resided with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ellis on a farm owned by Holman. Ordered to leave the place on April 23 she left the following day. The same day fire broke out and destroyed the buildings. Mrs. Ellis testified that she received no comment from Mrs. Grieves when she informed that she had to leave and the accused left the place at 10.15 a.m.

Asked as to previous conversations with the accused, Mrs. Ellis recalled that Mrs. Grieves had threatened to burn a barn owned by a Mr. Austin about two weeks before, because she had been told to move off the Austin property. The building was torn down and the fire didn't occur, she testified.

Percy Hoskin, resident near the Holman farm, told of seeing the smoke from the burning buildings. He also noticed Mrs. Grieves standing near his farm gate at that time.

Provincial Constable Morris testified that he and Provincial Constable E. Mennie of Cobourg had made no progress when Mrs. Grieves was first questioned regarding the fire. On a later date he and Inspector D. H. Craig of the Fire Marshall's Department interviewed Mrs. Grieves and receive a signed statement which had been read over to her twice. She was not under arrest at the time. Defence Counsel T. F. Hall, K.C., objected to the statement going in because Mrs. Grieves had not been handed it to read over.

4 HURT IN CRASH NEAR BRIGHTON

BELLEVILLE, Ont., May 25 (CP), —Mrs. Bernice Knapp, Toronto, suffered a fractured spine, Mrs. Walter Redpath, Toronto, a fractured wrist, and her husband, Walter Redpath, a fractured skull, when the car which Mr. Redpath was driving was struck last night at an intersection of the highway with a county road, near Smithfield, three miles east of Brighton. They were brought to hospital here. Mrs. Knapp and Mr. Redpath were in a serious condition.

Mr. Knapp, Eleanor Knapp, 11, and a baby 21 months old, not seriously hurt, suffered from multiple abrasions and bruises. The baby was thrown clear of the car, while the others were pinned beneath the wreckage.

A. P. Ingles of Smithfield, driver of the car which struck the Redpath car, will be charged under the Highways Traffic Act, County Constable Frank Atkinson of Brighton said.

MUNCHUK LOSES MURDER APPEAL

TORONTO, May 25.—(CP).—Appeal of William Munchuk, of St. Catharines against conviction for murder was dismissed to-day by the Ontario Appeal Court.

Munchuk, convicted of the murder of Mrs. Amy Seabright during a dispute over a line fence dividing their property at St. Catharines, is under sentence to be hanged July 14. Postponement of the death date from May 31 was made last week by Mr. Justice W. E. Middleton on application of Munchuk's counsel.

Munchuk allegedly beat Mrs. Seabright and her husband to death on June 8, 1936. First tried for the death of Seabright, he was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to 20 years in penitentiary.

Later he was tried for Mrs. Seabright's death and was convicted of murder. The Appeal Court ordered a new trial. At the third trial was found guilty March 1.

Survivor Of Crash In B.C. Wilds Hikes 25 Miles For Aid

Pulls Pilot And Woman From Sinking Plane But Is Unable To Rescue Third Man

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C., May 25 (CP).—A sudden downdraft that struck their airplane while circling a small lake in British Columbia's isolated central interior was blamed by a survivor for the crash that brought death to one person and serious injury to three others Sunday.

Air Engineer Bill Martin of Vancouver, who hiked 25 miles through wild bush country to water, where he improvised an Indian dugout as a motor boat and set out for aid, told the story of the crash that killed Dan Miner of Fort St. James.

The plucky Martin was the only one of the trio able to talk. Mrs. Allan East of Fort St. James suffered head injuries and badly cut and bruised arms and legs. Pilot Charlie Elliot of Vancounver had serious head injuries and possible internal injuries. An inquest will be held.

From the time Martin left them for aid until Pilot Russ Baker of Canadian Airways picked them up yesterday, Mrs. East and Elliot were without food or matches to light a fire. All their belongings were in the wrecked plane.

The plane left Fort St. James Sunday with its two passengers for Germansen Landing, near Takla Lake.

Sixty miles north after their take-off, Martin said, they were circling an unnamed lake when the treacher-

Poison Gas Tossed In Perth Plant

PERTH, Ont., May 25 (C.P.). — Four bottles said to contain a poisonous gas, were hurled into different parts of the Perth shoe factory early to-day. Only three of them were broken.

The plant was immediately closed and notices were posted warning employees not to enter until the gas was cleared.

Robert McGonegal, night watchman at the factory, said he heard a noise in the building and on investigating found one of the departments filled with fumes. He notified police.

The factory has been the scene of labor trouble within the last six months.

Detroit, May 25 (CP)

JEAN McINTYRE, said to be of Detroit, will receive a thick billet doux from Walter Mapplebeck of Glasgow, Scotland, should she be interested enough to call at the mayor's office here.

Walter wrote Mayor Richard Reading recently, begging his "valuable advice and assistance in a most delicate matter," after a note in a bottle found in the Atlantic Ocean near the Ballantrea Golf Club, Glasgow, stirred his romantic impulses.

The bottled note said the writer was Jean McIntyre, 23, a blond orphan with an income of $200 a month who wished to marry a Scotsman. She was opposed to cocktails, she noted, and added that she would try to find the man of her choice a job in Detroit.

She planned to be in Glasgow for the British Empire Exhibition in June, and would wear a white flower in her coat while strolling about the fair grounds, she said. The note was found by a caddy, who turned it over to Walter the Scot.

Alaskan Fishermen To Fight Jap Salmon Poachers

Pacific Company Sends High-Powered Rifles, And Union Extra Men To Boats in North

SEATTLE, May 25—(AP)—Angry Alaskan fishermen prepared to arm today to fight encroaching Japanese boats in one of the world's four best fishing areas.

The Pacific Coast Codfish Company announced it would dispatch 24 high-powered rifles and "plenty" of ammunition to its crews aboard two United States ships in the Bristol Bay area of the Bering Sea in response to wireless appeals for arms.

Threat of open warfare between United States and Japanese fishermen spread quickly on the Seattle waterfront. The Alaskan fishermen's union announced it would send immediately reinforcements aboard the ships Mt. McKinley and La Merced today for Southwestern Alaska.

"We will not fool around any longer with this Japanese situation," William Hicker, secretary of the union said. "The fishermen are angry and will take action to drive the Japanese out. Our men going north will be ready for action."

He said he had been advised there were 15 Japanese boats within eight miles of the United States shore and that they were making trips to shore "when no one is looking."

Other recent advices from Alaska said Japanese cannery vessels had their nets and gear stretched out for miles in Bristol Bay.

Japan recently promised the United States not to fish for salmon in the Alaskan area, but the agreement did not apply to crab fishing outside the three-mile limit.

Algoma Area Gets Some More Snow

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., May 25.

SNOW fell in northern part of Algoma yesterday, as much as one inch being reported at Goudreau and Franz on the Algoma Central Railway.

Chief Forester G. H. R. Phillips of the Forestry Branch here ran into a snowstorm at Batchewana. fifty miles north of the Soo, while on a patrol flight.

Swamp Whiskey "Leg Liniment" Tale Adds Month To Woman's $125 Fine

Hamilton, May 25 (CP)

A FINE of $125 and costs or three months was imposed by Magistrate H. A. Burbidge today when Mrs. Annie Zwanovitch, appeared for sentence on a charge of possession of a small quantity of "swamp" whiskey.

In addition to the fine, the magistrate dubious of the woman's explanation also imposed an additional jail term of one month.

"Has she helped the police?" asked the Magistrate.

"No, Your Worship," replied Constable Reavley of the Ontario Provincial Police. "I have not heard from her."

"I didn't think you would," commented the Magistrate. "The newspapers made a big display of her story that a woman drove into her gasoline service station and gave her the 'swamp' whiskey to rub on her leg. After that, I don't think the woman would come back to that service station."

King And Bennett Divide On War

Premier Claims League Cannot Commit Canada; Will Aid Empire Only On Ottawa Ruling

OTTAWA, May 25 (CP).—Looking out over what Prime Minister Mackenzie King described as "a disturbed and seemingly chaotic world" party leaders in the House of Commons find widely differing conclusions as to the part Canada will or must play in the event of war.

After nearly six hours debate on foreign affairs yesterday the following general views had been registered:

Mr. Mackenzie King: Canada is unlikely to engage in a war on her own account or to be attacked, cannot now be drawn into war by the League of Nations, and will not join the Empire in a war except on the decision of parliament.

Opposition leader Bennett: Canada, as a member of the British commonwealth of nations is automatically at war if the Empire is attacked. The only alternative is separation from the Empire which he believed would not be the choice of Canadian people.

J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader: Canada should take action to relieve herself from obligation to fight any war but in defence of her own shores. If war did come wealth as well as men should be conscripted.

Friendly With All

In presenting his review of world conditions and his long-promised statement on foreign policy Mr. Mackenzie King said Canada's policy was to be friendly with all nations and to refrain from war-like talk or criticism of other countries.

Into this calm pool of thought Mr. Bennett dropped a bitter denunciation of Japanese invasion of China to prosecute a destructive war that

CHILLY 24TH FAILS TO DAMPEN ARDOR OF SPORTS LOVERS

TORONTO, May 25 (C.P.). —Canadians generally observed Victoria Day in the traditional manner of an outdoor holiday—the first of the summer season—without the widespread ceremonies that marked the day in years gone by.

But even while the Carillon in the Peace Tower rang out happy melodies serious debate sounded within the walls of Parliament concerning Canada's position should conflict flare in a troubled world.

As thousands of sports lovers throughout the Dominion trooped to ball games, race tracks, and golf links, little troubled by cloudy weather that prevailed in most sections, Canadian statesmen debated foreign policy and considered events in Europe and Asia that had little to do with commemorating the birth of Queen Victoria who died at the turn of the century.

The day was cloudy in the Maritimes, and besides the usual sports, harness racing fans enjoyed a good program at St. John, New Brunswick.

Sunny Out in Vancouver.

Out on the Pacific Coast the sun was shining. It made 700 single jobless men staging a stay-in demonstration in Vancouver's Post Office and Civic Art Gallery swelter through their fourth day of sitting and waiting.

A chilly wind swept most of Ontario. Fort William held its 24th annual road race. In Toronto baseball games drew thousands, and municipal and private tennis courts were crowded, but raw winds tempered enjoyment of outdoor sports.

The traditional 24th of May fireworks caused 15 fires in Toronto, most of them minor ones on roof tops or back fences. A lad threw a lighted cannon cracker into a doorway and a store fire resulted with slight damage.

At Onsweken, Ont., the 200th anniversary of the arrival in North America of the first Indian superintendent, Sir William Johnson, was celebrated by Six Nations Reserve Indians. A colorful pageant enacted by the Indians recalled the 1738 scene when Sir William came from England. A white doctor took the part of Johnson.

MEXICAN TROOPS CHASING CEDILLO NORTH INTO HILLS

MEXICO CITY, May 25 (AP).—The Mexican Government today ordered fresh troops into San Luis Potosi State and acted to cut off retreat of the rebel chieftain, General Saturnino Cedillo, northward through Tamalipas.

At the same time President Lazaro Cardenas issued a proclamation asserting the "revolution lacks justification" and urging rebellious Cedillistas to lay down their arms under full guarantees if they returned to "a life of honesty."

Division General Antonio Guerrero, commander of the Tamaulipas garrison, left Tampico with Governor Marte Gomez for Antiguo Morelos near the Tamaulipas border, to inspect Federal troops and checkmate Cedillo in that direction.

The 24th Infantry Battalion was ordered from Toluca in the State of Mexico northward to the strife-torn area, making seven battalions of infantry, seven regiments of cavalry and special units ordered to the war zone.

Only 3,000 in Rebel Army?

Although government spokesmen continued to vie with one another in discounting importance of the revolt, several developments counteracted their assurances that only 3,000 rebels were in the field. These included:

1. The Defence Ministry asked the Mexican railway to lend it 10 flat cars, presumably to transport light artillery.

2. A band of 40 rebels dynamited a repair train on the San Luis-Tampico Railway between El Gato and El Borrego, killing two trainmen and injuring four. It was the first time such traditional Cedillo tactics had succeeded.

3. The gunboat Queretaro and two coastguard cutters were assigned to patrol the Tamaulipas and Northern Veracruz coasts, apparently to prevent possible reinforcements from reaching Cedillo by boat.

4. There were reports of fresh rebel activity about Chirimoya, Cerrito and other San Luis Potosi points and also in Southwestern Tamaulipas. Apparently the central part of the State was dotted with outlaw groups.

red to "reaching across the boundary of a foreign state, making heroes of a couple of Sudeten Germans who failed to halt when they were challenged."

Apprehension and bitterness grew in Czech political circles with reports from Berlin that anti-Czech reports were being distributed in tremendous volume, reminiscent of the anti-Schuschnigg drive before his removal as Austria's Chancellor and the annexation of Austria.

Some Czech observers interpreted all this as an indication Hitler was on the point of presenting an ultimatum to Praha, demanding the withdrawal of Czech troops from the border region.

One heard on every hand a defiant reiteration of Czech determination to fight, rather than submit—in the confident expectation democracies of the world would fight with Czechoslovakia to preserve her independence.

BEATTY CLINGS TO UNIFICATION FOR RAILWAYS

Sees No Blow to Labor; Says Scheme Permanent; Save 75 Million Yearly

OTTAWA, May 24 (CP)—If the Canadian railways are not placed under unified management, they will have to move along in the path of voluntary economic co-operation, but drastic individual reductions in operating expenses will have to be made, Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway believes. Compulsory co-operation would not work, nor would an arbitral tribunal be effective.

Sir Edward spent all of yesterday giving evidence to the special committee of the senate on the railway problem. He disclosed his plan for unifying the railways, and adhered to his position that, on the 1930 basis of earnings, unification would save Canada $75,000,000 annually.

Labor would not be dislocated, nor in the abandonment of 5,000 miles of line which the sheme contemplated would any communities be left without service. He reminded the committee these abandonments covered only lines that were redundant.

Sir Edward's plan was evolved for keeps, he said. Once the omelet was scrambled it was not intended it should be unscrambled. A board of 15 directors would form a new company which would operate the C.P.R. and the C.N.R. as one going concern. Five directors would be appointed by the C.P.R., five by the C.N.R. and the other five by the 10 directors already named.

All services with the exception of the ocean-going steamships, the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Corporation and the C.P.R. lands project, would be thrown into the amalgamation. Sir Edward did not ing of Willkie and the T.V.A. board last January, the former chairman said, Lilienthal issued a news release which "gave a very false and inaccurate impression" of Willkie's position.

"The news release was an explicit falsification, the natural result of which was to deceive the public on a vital issue, to engender increased public bitterness toward the utilities and to substitute conflict and recrimination for open and aboveboard dealing with the facts," Morgan said, adding:

"Both the other directors were deliberately and consciously parties to this falsification."

The 59-year-old Morgan, called to amplify his previous charges against the other two T.V.A. directors, said the latter had not given an "honest administration of a great public trust."

The other directors, Harcourt A. Morgan, a natice of Strathroy, Ont., and David E. Lilienthal, were to be heard later.

In a packed Senate committee room, Morgan made six specific charges against the other two directors, telling the inquiry committee they had been responsible for:

1. Inaccurate and misrepresentative reports to the president, the congress and the public.

2. Mismanagement of the power program.

3. Lack of candor in statements to the congress and the public concerning the power program.

4. Improper and misleading accounting, reporting and publicity in reference to the 'yardstick.'

5. Collusion, conspiracy and mismanagement in administration.

6. Subservience to political and other special interests."

Reading from a prepared statement, Morgan told the committee that "in the long run, the greatest danger to the T.V.A. lies in improper administration."

"If the T.V.A. is honestly and soundly managed," he continued, "and if the present abuses are corrected, no amount of opposition from without will defeat its purposes."

'On the contrary, the continuation of present policies and practices will inevitably discredit it and tend to defeat its purposes."

No Charges of Bribery.

Morgan, who was called to elaborate on charges of "lack of integrity," by the other T.V.A. directors, told the committee he had not charged "that any director of the T.V.A. has taken bribes or stolen money."

"Nor have I charged," he added, "that any director has profited financially through any transaction of the authority.

"There are other and more subtle forms of failure to meet a public trust which are no less a menace to good government.

"My charges relate to the execution of public duty and responsibility by the majority of the board This has not been open, candid, fair and straight-forward, and hence it has not been honest administration of a great public trust."

Priceless Pearl Pagoda

When the athletes assemble in Tokyo for the 1940 Olympic games, they will see on display this $125,000 model pagoda, constructed entirely of pearls over a platinum framework. Over 25,000 pearls went into its construction and oddly enough, it is a duplicate of a CHINESE temple. The young lady is Miss Kuniko Takase.

OBITUARY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MRS. H. A. TURNER

MILLBROOK, May 26. — The death of Alice J. Scott, beloved wife of Dr. Henry A. Turner, of Millbrook, which occurred suddenly at the Nicholls' Hospital, Peterborough, on Thursday, May 19, cast a feeling of sadness and depression over the entire community and countryside; it is not too much to say that her passing brought to many in her wide circle of acquaintances and friends a keen sense of personal loss.

Mrs. Turner was the only daughter of the late Thomas Seaton Scott, and his wife, Mary Mackenzie, of Ottawa, and was born in Montreal during the time of her parents' residence in that city. In her early girlhood the family moved to the Capital city, when her father received appointment as the first Dominion Architect, in 1869, the Marquis of Lorne being Governor-General at that time. The interior of the library in the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa, the Post Office at Peterborough, and many other Government buildings, are included in those for which Mr. Scott designed plans.

Choosing the nursing profession as her life work, Mrs. Turner graduated from the General Hospital, Toronto, in 1891, and two years later, in 1893, her marriage to Dr. Henry A. Turner took place at the home of her parents at Ottawa, the late Reverend W. T. Herridge, D.D., father of Major W. D. Herridge, brother-in-law of the Honorable R. B. Bennett, performing the ceremony. Dr. and Mrs. Turner established their home at Millbrook, where all of their married life was spent.

Brought up in the Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Turner, after her marriage, joined her husband as a member of St. Thomas' Anglican church, of the Parish of Cavan, at Millbrook. Her constant companionship, and the understanding and capable assistance which she gave to her husband in connection with his professional career, led to a warm personal interest in his patients, and to many acts of thoughtful kindness, which won for her an ever-widening circle of friends.

The immediate surviving relatives, besides her husband, include two daughters, Beatrice Mary, at home, and Frances Alice, of Toronto; one brother, Gordon Maxwell Scott, of Ottawa; and two nephews, residing in New York. Two older brothers, Seaton Mackenzie, of New York, and Thomas, of Montreal, were previously deceased.

The funeral, which was very largely attended, took place from the family residence, King street, on Saturday, the Rev. P. W. A. Roberts, Rural Dean of Colborne, and Rev. C. R. Spencer, M.A., of Bowmanville, both formerly of the parish of Cavan, and warm personal friends of Mrs. Turner and her family, having charge of the services, in the unavoidable absence of the rector, Venerable Archdeacon William Simpson.

The honorary bearers were all intimate friends of the family and included Messrs. John Dawson, J. R. Eakins, G. F. Burton, H. B. Allen, R. E. Stanton, L. H. Winslow, T. H. Collins and P. I. Bentley; the acting pall-bearers were: Messrs T. A. Campbell, ex-Wardens W. T. Wood and Percy Stinson, A. A. Needler, H. A. Kerr, and Dr. A. Jemison. Interment was in the family burial plot at St. Paul's cemetery.

Among the many from outside points who attended the funeral were: Messrs. J. C. Porter, and H. S. Ames, department managers of the Robert Simpson Company, Toronto; Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Brand, Miss Mary Thompson, Harold and Jessie Fallis, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Noakes, and Allen Pitt, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Roy, Dr. and Mrs. Moir, and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Goring, of Peterborough; Mr. G. M. Scott, of Ottawa; Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Cuddy, Mr. Donald Ruddy, of Whitby; Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Needler of Toronto; R. J. Dixon of Oshawa; and Henry Gray, of Campbellford.

the railways and the public, largely for the benefit of the public.

Unless you change the act, you can't expect any honest Board of Railway Commissioners to tear up these roads just because that would help the railway companies.

"I am speaking for the man who is going to be injured. There are far more people going to be hurt than I can see benefitted," Senator Graham said.

T. C. Mcnabb, general superintendent of the Canadian Pacific Martime division, today's witness, interposed that peopel of communities where abandonments were contemplated would continue to be served by transportation facilities.

"If that individual at Hornepayne is a railway employee, then under the scheme of unification his rights are going to be protected," said Mr. Mcnabb.

Must Be Inspired

No matter how the estimate of savings was considered the Senator continued, the effect was that most of the reduction would come out of labor. The committee could not just pass a resolution saying these men were out of jobs, but they were not going to be hurt.

"When they're out, they're out of a job," Senator Graham said. "I can't sit and listen hour after hour, and hear how they are going to benefit the railways only and their component parts. I can't listen without thinking of the people that are going to be injured."

Mr. Macnabb repeated that under the C.P.R. unification proposal labor would be protected.

"We know that," said Senator Graham. "But the effect remains; and there is no trying to avoid it, that every dollar saved must be saved somewhere out of some part of expenditures. The large part of the expenditures is for labor."

"The situation put before us by Senator Graham is that if you are to effect economies, 90 per cent of these affect labor," said Senator Calder. "We all realize that. On the other hand, according to the record, if these economies are to be made under unification, that element is provided for. The provision may not be entirely satisfactory but it is there."

He recalled how labor had been protected under the British amalgamation scheme.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, May 25 — (CP). — Trade was active and firm on all grades of Toronto Livestock Market to-day. Calves, sheep and lambs held around former levels while no hog price was set by early afternoon. Cattle holdover from Monday was 300 head.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle, 1,550; calves, 900; hogs, 1,300; sheep and lambs, 500.

Good to choice heavy steers sold at $7 to $7.35, with common as low as $6.25. Butcher steers and heifers were strong, good and choice bringing $6.75 to $7. Common butchers sold downward to $5.50. Plain butcher cows brought $3.75, with good cows at $5.75. Canners and cutters were $2.50 to $3.50.

One load of bulls traded at $4.25 to $4.75, while good butcher bulls were as high as $5.25. Fed calves made $7.50 to $8, plain going as low as $6.50. A few light stockers moved at $4.50 to $5.

Good veal calves were priced at $8 to $8.50, with tops at $9. Common vealers ranged down to $4.50.

Previous close on off-truck hogs was $10.25 to $10.40.

Good spring lambs sold at $12 to $13 cwt., with common at $10. Feedlot lambs were $9 to $10.50 with plain clipped lambs at $7. Culls went at $2 on the sheep section, good light ewes reaching $5.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 25. — Despite renewal of war tension in Europe, Chicago wheat prices plunged down 2⅜ cents a bushel yesterday to fresh four-year bottom records.

Unexpected sharp breaks in Liverpool quotations, together with official announcement Great Britain had acquired vast secret reserve stores of wheat and other foodstuffs, preceded the market tumbles here. Another factor tending to depress Chicago values was apparent absence of any worthwhile North American export business.

Instead, talk was heard that futile offerings of 1938 wheat were being made in Europe as low as under 95 cents, including cost, insurance, and freight. Further rains in the American South-west counted as an additional bearish factor.

Auspicious domestic crop reports, both from the South-west and the North-west accompanied the downward sweep of prices. At no time were recoveries more than fractional. Summaries pointing to larger world production this year than in 1937 gave additional impetus to the lower trend. Bottom-most levels for the day were reached a few minutes before dealings were ended.

Rye, the companion breadstuff to wheat, fell even further than wheat did, 2½ cents. All deliveries of rye registered season new low price records, influenced by weakness of the leading cereal. On the downturns however, September rye was purchased liberally by North-western interests, and there also was purchasing of rye against sales of wheat and corn. One late report was that the French wheat crop would permit exports of 55 million bushels.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, May 25—(CP). — Winnipeg May and July wheat and all flax futures crashed five cents to-day on general liquidation and stop-loss selling that followed two-cent breaks at Liverpool and Chicago yesterday. Final wheat values were 5 to 4⅝ cents lower. May $1.11⅛a, July 96⅛a October 78½ to ⅝ cents.

October wheat future dropped to its lowest price since midsummer of 1936, and July was below the 1937 bottom level of 97⅝c.

Apart from weakness in outside markets yesterday and to-day, good showers over the prairie spring wheat belt and grain trade belief that estimates of the United States Southwest winter wheat crop would exceed 754,000,000 bushels, were major bearish factors.

POSED BY MODEL

Read how mother of two gets new weight, strength, color and life from startling new scientific discovery. Mrs. W. S. of Guelph, Ont., says: "I'm 29 years old, the mother of two children. Since I was fifteen years of age, I have been terribly underweight and have had no color at all. I was always tired and had to go to bed. Some months ago I started taking 'Vitamized Iron' and it has helped me tremendously. I have gained a lot of weight, have a good color and feel 100% better in every way. I certainly think 'Vitamized Iron' is a wonderful remedy." Even men and women who have always been thin, sickly, nervous and weak, are finding new strength, new healthy pounds, new vigor and vitality with "Vitamized Iron." You too should try this amazing new scientific discovery! "Vitamized Iron" contains magnesium and other minerals including a special compound of iron uniquely combined with concentrated Vitamins B and G. In this form the iron is readily absorbed into your bloodstream to give full benefits. The vital Vitamins help counteract excess acids that attack the nervous system, keep stomach and intestines actively healthy, stimulate lazy glands, promote new healthy weight. Make up your mind right now to get a youthful figure, youthful pep and vitality with this amazing remedy! Order a box of easy-to-take "Vitamized Iron" tablets from your druggist today.

Chronic Fatigue
Tells of exhausted Nerves

In health, rest soon overcomes fatigue. When you become chronically tired there is an underlying cause.

Perhaps you cannot rest or sleep because of the irritability of the nerves. Memory and power of attention soon weaken when the nervous system is exhausted. It is difficult to concentrate the mind and the daily task becomes a worry and a burden. Indigestion and sleeplessness ruin your temper, and you become depressed and discouraged.

Whatever may have been the cause there is a way in which to regain health and that is by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. New Nerve Force is created to restore the functions to the bodily machinery and ensure the healthful working of the mental and physical organs.

MORE BLIND MEN THAN BLIND WOMEN

There are not as many blind women as there are men in Canada, but there are enough. On the register of The Canadian National Institute for the Blind at the end of March this year, there were the names of over 3,800 women and girls and the names of over 4,900 men and boys.

There is no difference in the ambitions and desire of these blind women from those of their sighted sisters; they want to be normal, to live, to work. Many of them, of course, are old and many of them are content, in middle age, to sit quietly at home with their radio, or knitting or Braille book, but there are many who are too young and vigorous to be content to waste their lives in idleness and there are plenty to whom work is as much of a necessity as it is to any of their full-sighted neighbors.

It is not easy to find work for blind girls and women. Some of them are very adept at household tasks and a great many of them can sew and weave and knit and tat with great skill, but few are able to make more than a trifling income at such occupations.

Operate Two Factories.

For twenty years The Canadian National Institute for the Blind has been operating a factory for the purpose of providing employment for blind women and girls. At the present time, there are two in operation, one in Winnipeg, and the other in Toronto. In the Toronto plant there are thirty-seven blind women and girls regularly employed and in the Winnipeg factory eleven.

Probably most Canadian housewives are acquainted with the products of these factories. They consist, for the most part, of aprons and house-dresses. Blind girls, after a period of training in The Institute garment factories, are able to operate power-driven machines with great speed and accuracy. With the assistance of some sighted employees, these blind workers can produce dresses and aprons of the highest quality at a rate of production which enables them to compete with similar goods made in ordinary factories.

Occasionally some well-intentioned visitor to these factories will protest that it is a shame to make these blind girls work. It would be a tragedy, indeed, if no work could be provided for them. There are probably no two happier groups of working girls in Canada than the employees of The Institute's two garment factories in Winnipeg and Toronto. They are earning their livelihood in the normal way. Their time is occupied. They work in association with their friends. They live. The C.N.I.B. looks upon the maintenance of these factories for women as one of its outstanding achievements. For efficiency, economy of operation and in amount of wages paid to the blind workers, these factories have no equal in North America.

RATS UNDER CONTROL

KITCHENER, Ont., May 25.—(CP).—The rat situation on various Kitchener dumping grounds is well under control, reports Sanitary Inspector W. H. Rau. A campaign was carried out in February and March to eliminate the rodents and check-up shows only a negligible number is left. A fresh campaign will be made against the survivors.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Grain has not been grown for many centuries, but recent experiments with certain cereals have given satisfactory results.

124 DECIDE TO RUN IN SASKATCHEWAN

REGINA, May 25 (CP)—The number of candidates for Saskatchewan Provincial elections June 8 reached 124 today with only six days left before the official nomination lists are rolled up and the standard-bearers start on the last lap of the campaign.

Before nominations close June 1, however, Social Credit forces will reveal names of those who will support the policies propounded by Premier William Aberhart of Alberta and his followers. Altogether, approximately 175 candidates are expected to stand for election in the 49 constituencies, three of them two-member city ridings of Regina, Saskatoon and Moose Jaw.

Polls will open in 47 ridings June 8 as voting in two has been deferred. They are Athabaska and Cumberland, far flung northern seats, where the electors will cast ballots July 28.

Premier W. J. Patterson and his Liberal party will send 53 supporters into the field to bid for re-election. The Liberals were swept into power in 1934 with 50 members against an opposition of five carrying the colors of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation and led by G. H. Williams.

The C.C.F. up to the present has entered 30 candidates; Conservatives, led by J. G. Diefenbaker, K.C., total 24; Independents, six; Independent - Labor, three; Labor-Progressive, two; Independent Conservative, one, and Union-Progressive, one, Social Crediters known to be running have reached four.

OBITUARY

SHIRLEY WEST

(Examiner Correspondence.)

PLAINVILLE, May 25.—Mr. and Mrs. Elmer West were sadly bereaved when their only little daughter, Shirley, passed away at the age of nineteen months. Shirley, a lovely, active little girl was striken with pneumonia and died after a week's illness. Besides her sorrowing parents, she leaves two brothers a little older, Roy and Garnet.

Rev. H. Mellow conducted the funeral service on Friday afternoon at the family residence, where a large number of relatives and friends had gathered. The flowers were many and beautiful and the four small boys who acted as pallbearers were Ross Carruthers, Ronald and Murray Manley and Maurice Buttars. Interment was made at the United Church Cemetery, Plainville.

WARSAW

Those from Warsaw who attended the W.M.S. officers' gathering in George Street Church last week were Mrs. Allan Taylor and Mrs. Robert Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Pringle from Vancouver are visiting Mrs. Pringle's sister, Mrs. George Taylor, and Mr. Taylor. They motored from Vancouver, and stopped at many places to make good use of their trip.

Mrs. Arthur Payne was in Peterborough on Thursday.

Mrs. Charles Bowen, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Cherry, and her granddaughter Velma Cherry, are home from Buffalo. Mrs. Cherry plans to open her house at the lake this week. She will take her little daughter with her.

Mother Saves Nine Lives

If you count the lives of the heroic mother and the baby she saved, the total comes to 18 saved by this cat and caught in the act by the photographer. The kitten was playing by the curb, chased a piece of paper into the roadway among the speeding traffic and would very probably have become a highway victim if mother had not dashed to the rescue. Here, the erring babe is brought back by the scuff of the neck despite its struggles.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"And the parson made it his text that week, and he said likewise,
That a lie that is half a truth, is ever the blackest of lies;
That a lie that is all a lie, may be met and fought with outright,
But a lie that is part a truth, is a harder matter to fight."
—Tennyson.

Dear Friend:

A few of us were talking about lies and liars the other day, each giving their point of view, so, one of my friends said to me, "why don't you take this as a basis for an article? Maybe it will clear the air for others." So here goes.

Some time ago, I wrote on little white lies, things we all must say at different times in our lives if we are to remain on even speaking terms with those around us. We may not like their hat or their coat, but we do not want to take their pleasure in these things away from them, so—we say we like them.

Not long ago, a woman said to me. I don't know what to do with myself. I said, why? She said, I have just told a woman I know that I liked her out fit, and truly Roberta, I wouldn't be found dead in it. Am I becoming an out and out liar, or what.

What can anyone do under like circumstances? None of us like our taste in the choice of clothes to be questioned. About the only ones who will give you the cold brutal truth, are the members of a large family.

Too often do I remember one of my sisters, or my brother say to me when I thought I was dressed fit to kill, "You are not going out in that are you?" And then I got the truth in all its nakedness. It wasn't palatable, I didn't like it, but it was a great factor in wise choosing of clothes.

Lately I also wrote you on coating the truth, so that it would be more acceptable. But today I am on half-truths, a thing hard to combat. A woman I know had a half truth to fight lately, and it left her very bitter.

She had been at a home where an argument had taken place about another woman, and some had got in a few very spiteful remarks. But—all this took place after she had left, she did not hear a word of it, and was as shocked and disgusted as the woman spoken about.

Then, when the one slandered was trying to get an explanation of the whole thing, the one asked to explain turned to the one who had left early and said, "what are you looking so virtuous about? you were there too."

It was a half truth, for it put doubt in the slandered one's mind as to whom she could trust. She explained, but the other, to clear herself or share the blame, kept stubbornly saying, I don't care, you were there too.

See what I mean. You can fight an out and out lie, you can bring proof you are not guilty, but a half truth is a bad thing to fight. Of course it is only a cowardly person who would use such a thing, but what a lot of havoc they can cause.

Holmes tells us this: "Sin has many tools, but a lie is the handle which fits them all." My mother used to say, "you can catch a thief, but it is hard to catch a liar." Fortunately, I am a very poor liar, so I gave it up long ago, so, when the truth in all its baldness must be told, I tell it.

When it does more harm than good, I change the subject. So, if you cannot tell the truth about another, don't stoop to tell a half truth, thus damning them in the eyes of others. If there is anyone beneath contempt, it is the ones who have neither the guts to tell the truth, nor the decency to refrain from half truths. J. S. Blackie says: "All things profits none, but those who use it well." Hoping I have cleared the air for you.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

VANDALS AT "PLAY"

FREE FROM SCIATICA FOR 35 YEARS

In Perfect Health at 73—Thanks to Kruschen

Thirty-five years ago this septuagenarian was helpless with sciatica. Then he heard of Kruschen. Since that day, he has enjoyed perfect health. Here is his remarkable story:—

"Thirty-five years ago, I had a severe attack of sciatica, and could scarcely move for about six weeks. Then I started taking Kruschen—about half - a - teaspoonful every morning in hot water. In a few weeks, I got rid of the awful pain in my hips. I have never had to consult a doctor since, and am still in perfect health at 73 years of age, which I can only attribute to taking Kruschen Salts every morning."—T.A.

Most people grow old long before their time because they neglect one vital need of health—the need of internal cleanliness. Eventually, they start the healthy Kruschen habit. Then, probably for the first time in their lives, they start getting rid, every day, of all waste matter from the system. The result is renewed health and vigour. Ailments due to clogged systems vanish, youth returns, and life becomes really worth living. advt.

Working For Governments

As more evidence continues to be placed before the Rowell Commission we learn more about the manner and extent of taxation in various parts of Canada. Incomes earned in the City of Saint John in New Brunswick are heavily taxed by the municipality.

The city income tax rate this year is $4.06 for each $100 of income, compared to $2.84 in 1930. Stenographers and clerks all pay their share, since only $600 is exempted on incomes less than $1,000. On an income up to $1,800 only $200 is exempted. Income tax accounts for about one-third of the revenue of Saint John. It means a man with a salary of $3,000 a year would hand over about $120 as income tax to the city and would also pay all the other forms of taxation. When he paid his income tax to the federal government he would not be able to claim exemption on the $120 which he paid his city. He would also pay the 8 per cent. sales tax, and the other hidden taxes as well as his property tax to the city.

All our governments find they need more revenue; few of them ever arrive at the point where they have sufficient. In Saint John the municipal government is taking all it can get; the provincial government will be doing the same thing and so will the federal tax collectors. It has been estimated that the average individual spends 54 working days of the year earning what he has to pay out in taxation. It may be the people in Saint John have had their sentence extended to over-reach the sixty-day mark.

The Premier's New Car

When William Aberhart, premier of Alberta, undertook the invasion of Saskatchewan he left himself wide open to all manner of attack which might be levelled against him. And that is fair enough according to the laws or rules of campaigning.

Into the campaign has been dragged the fine and stately lines of the official automobile which Premier Aberhart has ordered to be provided for his own use. Money is not plentiful in Alberta; the province cannot of its own strength borrow any, and it has been repeated many times that the monied powers have been bearing down hard upon the province. The people there have not yet received their $25 per month credit dividend.

But the Premier has a new car. Liberal speakers in Saskatchewan have a picture of the thing and they declare it is a dandy. They repeat it is a custom built affair which cost $8,000, and it is reported another one like it was built for delivery to the Duke of Windsor. Mr. Aberhart in his addresses also takes up the question of his car and says it did not cost $8,000. A "calf with a cough" once became an election issue in Ontario and a Premier with a big car looms large in Western politics today.

Why Tolerate It?

The cadi was so unimpressed by what he heard that he threw the case out. He also declared that some of the evidence submitted was "wholesale perjury." Judging by the names we would come to the conclusion that these people had come to Canada from the eastern part of Europe. Whether they are naturalized we do not know.

If they do not understand that we mean business when holding court in this country then that point ought to be made clear to them. Of course they would not be the first to offer perjured evidence in this country, as we have a good deal of it from our own people.

But when a magistrate knows there is perjury in the court, and says that he knows it, then we believe his plain duty is to see that action is taken. If action for perjury always followed perjured evidence in court then we might have less of it.

For $5 A Day

Insurgent authorities in Spain are going into the tourist business. They announce a desire to engage the services of 15 guide-interpreters to conduct tourists over the various war-fronts. The fee charged the tourists will be $5 per day. Of course they will not take the touring folk right up to the battle front and demonstrate how the thing is done; visitors will have to be content with seeing what has been done.

Perhaps it will be possible for the tourist to see where homes have been blasted and where men, women and children have been killed; they may be able to view sections from which the population had to flee to escape death. We are quite certain they will see nothing which indicates a condition where life is sweeter and more pleasant than it has ever been before. They may be able to see larger cemeteries than used to exist, but they will not see more people working in the fields or living in better homes. They probably could see much evidence of horror and suffering but $5 per day plus other expenses is rather a high price to pay for that form of entertainment.

The press photographer will go a long way to get a picture. He will go just as far as a reporter to secure a story he wants. The other day photographers went well up into the mountains near Burbank, California, because a luxury plane had crashed there. There were four women, three children and three men on the plane, all of them employees or relatives of the airline officials.

The pictures which the photographers took made the trip worth while because they revealed exactly what had taken place. They told plainly how complete the wreck can be when a giant plane runs into a giant mountain.

What was left of the plane amounted to little. There was no force which came and beat upon the plane after the crack; no giants moved throughout the mountain to resist the invasion of man with what he was pleased to term his luxury plane. There would be just that scraping crash against a mountain which would not move; then the fire, the makings of which men had brought along in their luxury plane and that would complete the destruction of the $80,000 creature of the air.

Pictures make it look as though giants with great weapons had beat upon the helpless thing as though resisting the invasion of the mountain fortress; they had smashed it and twisted it and flattened it. More destruction they could not have visited upon this bird of luxury.

The plane carried with it the elements of destruction. They were touched into action when a man-made plane crashed into a great mountain, and the destruction was so complete that nothing more could have been added to it.

The Big Brick Block

A three-storey brick block was more or less destroyed by fire in a Western Ontario village two weeks ago, and we notice a statement from the owner saying he has not yet decided whether to build again or not. The building was fairly well occupied by tenants, but the top floor was bringing no revenue.

According to the owner such a building could not be erected today for less than $22,000, but he had purchased it five years ago for $2,300 when an estate was being closed and he was the highest bidder for the property. The owner of the burned building says:

"I was taking over what looked like a big property at a price which was a joke compared to the original cost. But I did not want all that had been built there as much of it was of no use. It was built at a time—67 years ago—when it looked as though the village was going to be quite a place, and when a man was satisfied to work for a dollar a day. The rentals I received were low and I could not increase them because there were other vacant places down the street. I know it leaves a nasty hole in the main street but I doubt whether it would pay to rebuild."

Nor is that the first case where fire has taken out some of the large buildings of other days; a good many towns and villages have scars of the same sort. Nor are those great old blocks in demand. There is so much space in them which cannot be used to commercial advantage that wise people hesitate before approaching them with a view of purchase even at a sacrifice price. And today when fire comes and takes one of them out of its accustomed place there is that unsightly gap in the street. And often enough there is also the owner of the place trying to figure out whether he can profitably replace the old structure, and finally deciding in the negative.

A Plain Blunt Truth

Vancouver has its full share of odd events in connection with people being out of work and demanding that the city or province shall do something about it. The thing becomes acute because when a transient gets as far as Vancouver he can't go on unless he gets on a boat and that is not easy to do without buying a ticket.

The latest move in Vancouver is to try and make the single unemployed go home, and that is one thing they will not do. They say—and probably with truth—they would be just in the same position there as they are in Vancouver. So why go?

Seven hundred of these single men have staged a strange and rather new sort of demonstration by occupying the central post office and Civic Art Gallery and the ground floor of the Hotel Georgia. There were 300 in the hotel and they finally marched out after the city aldermen had paid $500 to the organization set up by the men called the Relief Project Workers' Union. The money is to be handed out to the men at the rate of 60 cents per day, and some of it will be used to feed the demonstrators who are occuping the other buildings. According to reports there was no guarantee given that the squatters would not repeat their tactics. The $500 payment does not mean a thing. It merely means that the Aldermen in Vancouver wanted to do something to prevent trouble and they did not know what else to do.

The Minister of Labor in British Columbia says he does not intend to provide relief work for men from other provinces; the Minister of Labor at Ottawa makes the statement that he considers the stand of the Labor Minister in British Columbia reasonable enough, but none of these statements solve the question. They just say something about it.

Going back of the question there is one great truth which waits for those who are honest enough to face it. Just this: We have this question of mass movements of men with us for about seven or eight years and we are no nearer the solution today then we were at the start.

We have built up quite an extensive system of dealing with the results of such conditions, but we have not come to grips with the condition itself. All our governments can do is say that we shall pay more for relief and for works intended to help the man who wants to work or the man who cannot find work; we have counted these people and placed them in our index system, but our knowledge of remedial measures does not keep pace with our statistical excellence.

Primarily the trouble is that governments, Municipal, Provincial and Federal, have been called upon to become responsible for giving people work. Some years ago if a carpenter, a mechanic, a printer or a laborer was out of work he would never have thought of calling at the municipal offices and asking what the people there were going to do about it. He sought and generally obtained work from private sources. When these private sources, such as factories, contractors, commercial houses, etc., found they wanted no more workers, and when they started laying off those which they had, there was that movement toward the governments, and all our governments were expected to do what employers generally had previously done—give people work.

We have found no plan which has been successful, and the extent and variety of taxation which our governments are now imposing on business is making it increasingly difficult for these places to go ahead and become greater centres of employment. We are not working hard enough at a plan which will eventually put people at work. Our fondest expectation seems to be that in some unknown way times will be better; there may be a great crop in the West and so on. But with all our doing and with all our gathering of facts we are confronted with the blunt truth that we have not come to grips with the causes of unemployment That one fact alone should be sufficient. Until we can put our people to work nothing else matters.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Pictures of horse races are interesting because they serve to show some folk how far out of the money their choices really were.

The Dominion government is asking $40,000,000 for pump-priming purposes. Perhaps there is going to be an election this year after all.

According to a Toronto paper tradition was tossed to the winds when Bunty Lawless won the King's Plate. And so too were thousands of betting tickets on other horses in the race.

Ottawa we are told is worried about the situation in Europe. On the other hand there is no reason to believe that Europe is doing much worrying about the situation in Ottawa.

The provincial representative who said that Canada is a name and not a nation has doubtless realized that the actions of some of the provincial governments are helping to create the condition he mentions.

Twelve persons lost their lives and $786,309 worth of property damage was done in 1,173 Toronto fires last year. The tragedy of it all is that most of these fires could have been prevented with ordinary care.

Six Canadians fighting in Spain have been decorated for bravery. There is nothing surprising in that. They were Canadians to start with and anybody who would go that far to fight for another country woud necessarily have to be brave.

TIME

(By A. R. K.)

¶ When comes a holiday around, there's lots of chores quite easy found, and things that I should do; I don't get time to celebrate, or pay my tribute to the state, or never I'd get through.

¶ I started out with good intent, be done before the day was spent, then I would sit and rest; but Dan came passing down my way, he had an awful lot to say, and got it off his chest.

¶ Dan seemed all wet in what he said, some foolish notions in his head, and he was turning sour; and so I tried to set him right, so he would see a little light. that took most half an hour.

¶ The wind was blowing rather hard, when I was choring in the yard, I thought I'd like a change; so I knocked off and got a chair, where I could find some warmer air, beside the kitchen range.

¶ Then Dave come with a book of mine, and he sat down to rest his spine, and aired his latest view; when he had gone and closed the door, there wasn't time to work much more, the morning well nigh through.

¶ Then after dinner I met Joe, he'd come to get a rake and hoe, talked politics and such; so by the time the day was spent, though I was filled with good intent—I hadn't done so much.

They All Appear "Out of Order"

(From Parliamentary Debates)

Mr. ESLING: Mr. Speaker—

Mr. SPEAKER: I think the hon. member has spoken on this already. He can do so again only with the unanimous consent of the house.

Mr. ESLING: I did not get an answer.

Mr. SPEAKER: I must remind hon. members that the house is not in committee.

Mr. BLACKMORE: I think there is no record of my having spoken before on it.

Mr. REID: With all deference to the hon. member, I have just checked up and I find that page 2658 of Hansard shows that he spoke on it, and I was agreeably pleased to hear him say he was in support of this bill.

Mr. BLACKMORE: And I was.

Mr. REID: The reason I was rising to object was—

Mr. SPEAKER: Before the hon. member speaks, I call his attention to the fact that if he speaks now he closes the debate.

Mr. PERLEY: The minister made in respect to the bill of the hon. member for New Westminster a statement which is not correct.

Mr. SPEAKER: The hon. member is out of order. He has already spoken.

Mr. PERLEY: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, a statement was made a few minutes ago by the minister with respect to the voluntary agreement brought into force between the provinces and the railway companies with respect to a rate in 1933. The impression was given—

Mr. DUNNING: Is this a point of order, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. SPEAKER: No; it is not.

Mr. PERLEY: That statement is not true; it is not a fact, and I think I am within my rights when I make that plain.

Mr. Dunning: That is not a point of order.

Mr. PERLEY: I think a statement that is not correct should not be allowed to pass.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): What is the statement?

Mr. PERLEY: The statement that in connection with the bill of the hon. member for New Westminster in 1933 the then Minister of Railways advised the board of railway commissioners to bring into force a voluntary agreement between the provinces and the railways with respect to a reduction of rates.

Mr. DUNNING: No, no.

Mr. PERLEY: I have here Hansard of 1933—

Mr. SPEAKER: The hon. member is out of order.

Mr. DUNNING: May I say, on the point of order, that I did not intend to refer to any particular hon. member, I referred to a similar happening. That is what I meant to convey, and I think I did.

Mr. PERLEY: The hon. member for New Westminster suggested that it was on his bill.

Mr. THOMAS REID (New Westminster): Mr. Speaker—

Mr. SPEAKER: If the hon. member speaks now he closes the debate.

Mr. PERLEY: I knew quite well I had spoken. I wanted to correct a misstatement.

Mr. REID: I am going to correct the hon. member on a few things before I conclude my remarks. He is one who needs correcting.

Some hon. MEMBERS: Order.

Mr. REID: Just listen to what I have to say, and if hon. members do not agree with me I shall withdraw anything they do not like.

◇ ◇ ◇

YOU SIT DOWN!

Mr. PERLEY: Will the hon. member tell us what happened to that resolution?

Mr. REID: You sit down. I haven't time.

Mr. PERLEY: Just tell us what happened to that resolution.

Mr. REID: Yes, I will tell you; I am going to.

Mr. PERLEY: It was ruled out of order.

Mr. REID: I am going to tell the exact truth. I am not like you; I will keep to the record of Hansard.

Some hon. MEMBERS: Order.

Mr. PERLEY: I appeal to the Chair; I think the hon. member should withdraw that remark.

Mr. SPEAKER: What is the point of order?

Mr. PERLEY: The point of order is that the hon. member should withdraw the statement that I was not telling the truth.

Mr. SPEAKER: I do not think the hon. member meant that.

Mr. REID: I mean that when the hon. member spoke the other evening and said I did not support his resolution, he did not keep to the record. That is as far as I can go, according to the rules.

HOME FRIGHTFULNESS.

(Johanesburg Times)

IT HAS BEEN left to Signor Mussolini to give the world a wordy sample of "home frightfulness" which for sheer brutal callousness is probably without an equal. "By calling on men aged between 21 and 55 Italy can reach the figure of eight million mobilized troops," he told the Senate in Rome recently. "By adding men between the ages of 18 and 20 the figure exceeds nine millions." At a conservative estimate, nine million fighting Italians means twenty-seven million potential mourners—mothers, wives and children; and the whole population of Italy is not more than forty-four million. Moreover, for the honor of squandering their lives, not, be it noted, in defence of any highfalutin' pinciples of individual liberty and justice, but to uphold Signor Mussolini's personal prestige and keep him in his job, boys of 18, elderly men of 55, and adult males of all ages in between, are to be rewarded with one penny and two meals a day, "and no extras." And even at that the Fascist Chief would very soon find himself in a hopeless financial mess.

• Getting Something To Eat In London

(By Herbert Ramsay in St. Thomas Times-Journal)

LONDON—I have always been able to partake of "hot" curries. A week or so ago I went into an Indian restaurant and ordered the hottest curry dish they could make. Was it hot enough? Zowie! The first spoonful seemed like molten lead. It burned my tongue and made my eyes water! The Indian waiter, a resplendent individual in a long white gown, with a red sash and a white turban, had mercifully placed a glass of water by my side and I cooled my tongue. A second spoonful produced the same result. But I'm no piker. Every spoonful scalded my tongue and brought tears to my eyes. But I refused to reveal myself to those Indians as a quitter. I stuck it out to the bitter end, slowly but surely, gasping as each spoonful went down. When the ordeal was over I remarked quite offhandedly to the waiter that the curry was pretty hot. He smiled knowingly and said I had better ask for "goulash" next time. That night when I went to bed I expected to wake up in a few hours with peritonitis, but I did not suffer the slightest inconvenience.

But I am going to take the native's advice and ask for goulash next time.

Talking about food reminds me that there are some customs here which must irk Canadians and Americans. Water is never served in any restaurant or hotel. If you ask for it the waiter will look at you with surprise. And coffee, tea or milk is never served as part of a dinner in any restaurant or hotel. No matter how much the dinner costs—and believe me, if you take a few friends to certain places it is wise to study your letter of credit to see if you have enough to cover the bill—you have to pay extra for coffee. And you are not always sure of being able to get that. I had supper in a Soho restaurant one night and asked for coffee. The waiter said they had neither coffee nor tea; I would have to have wine, beer or mineral waters. Of course the idea back of it all is to make the patron buy drinks. Even if he is in a temperance place a wine list is placed before him. You pay in advance and a waiter goes out and gets it from licensed premises next door, the restaurant getting a percentage of the cost. So it pays even a temperance cafe to push the sale of liquor.

• Better Leave It For the Courts

(Sarnia Canadian Observer)

A WINNINPEG lawyer makes the complaint that a murder case in that city where he is defending the accused, has been prejudiced by a clergyman who made references to it in a sermon.

William McQuarrie is charged with slaying his wife. The woman is said to have been stabbed to death by her husband while returning from a police court hearing where she was given the custody of her nine children when she sought a legal separation from McQuarrie who had just been released from a two-year term in prison.

Rev. Stanley Knowles had spoken of the case in his sermon at the West Kildonan United Church, deploring the alleged lack of police protection for Mrs. McQurrie. He said further: "But that doesn't mean we should place all the blame on the police and demand an investigation. Police are merely expressing our general attitude, which is that the law is to protect the good and the wealthy and to keep the bad and the poor in their place."

The protest of the lawyer in this case seems warranted by the facts. No one would want to restrict a free expression of clerical opinion on matters of current interest, but Mr. Knowles appears to have wandered from the normal path in assailing the officers on the ground that they are only active when the rich and the good are concerned. Generally speaking, police administration in Canada is worthy of loyal commendation. There may be cases where there is exterior influence with regard to cases but that is not the fault of the police. It should rightly be ascribed to the activity of citizens who have not the right conception of justice and fair dealing. On the whole, however, the inclination of the police in Canada is to resist such influences and to carry out their tasks in a fair and impartial manner.

Sometimes those who occupy positions of public trust, like clergymen and newspaper writers, are inclined to be over-critical of the policies of those associated with the administration of justice. It is easy to impute blame where all the facts have not been divulged. The courts of this country are competent and impartial. It is well not to hamper their functions by hasty judgment.

• Strange Man With Great Voice

(Toronto Star Weekly)

CHALIAPIN, the Russian singer, was a superman, six feet, four inches tall, with the voice of a god. Yet he had some of the qualities of a devil. He began to sing as a boy but did not think of a public career until he made a hero out of successful clown. Perhaps no roles pleased him as those that belonged to comedies. He was a natural actor and the power and quality of his voice was incredible. He liked to sing in Toronto and gave performances there on five or six different occasions. He said Torontonians appreciated his art.

Born a poor boy, Chaliapin had a drunken father who frequently beat his mother who, however, taught him to pay the utmost respect to the male parent. He was street sweeper, porter and shoemaker before he became a musician. He could not help using his matchless voice and thought it was wonderful to be paid for something he delighted to do. He earned a quarter of a million dollars a year but often was without money because of his terrific gambling. He drank heavily and in 1927 he divorced his wife in Moscow after thirty years of married life, during twenty of which he and his wife lived apart. He remarried and altogether had ten children, two of whom were adopted.

Czar Nicholas once refused to receive him because he had sung a revolutionary song. Later, the Shah of Persia was in Russia and expressed to the czar a desire to hear Chaliapin. At the time Chaliapin was playing "A Life for the Czar," the part of a man who saved the first Romanoff. Hearing that the czar was present he sank on his knees as the curtain went up and sang the national anthem. The czar was much pleased and, sending for him, embraced and forgave him.

After the war Chaliapin stayed for years in the Soviet Union and headed the national theatre system. He said his purpose was to save Russian art for the world. But he could not stand the restrictions of the Bolsheviks and fled to foreign parts, leaving property in four districts to be confiscated by the government. His chief criticism of the Soviet Union was that it was the "dictatorship of the mediocre."

A FRUGAL POPE.

(Manchester Guardian)

THE LARGE gifts of money which the Pope has been making towards the relief of distress in troubled Spain indicate that the Papal Treasury is now much better off than when Pius XI succeeded Benedict in 1922. It was then found that only £11,000 remained out of the funds accumulated before the war. Benedict having been extremely liberal in his grants to the poor. He had indeed, subscribed over £440,000 to help the needy in Russia and Austria alone.

The new Pope ordered the utmost economy in all directions, setting up a committee of four cardinals to carry the scheme into effect. Of simple habits himself, Pius XI instituted the practice of paying for each meal as he took it, thus facilitating the keeping of his household accounts. On one occasion, however, the cook made the blunder of charging the Pope twice for a single chicken, which his Holiness had partly consumed at a previous meal. The cook was therefore discharged.

ADVICE TO GIRLS.

(London Daily Express)

THE COUNCIL of Dorset Women's Institutes at their annual meeting at Dorchester passed a resolution declaring that the shortage of girls for domestic service was a disaster not only to the prospective employers but to the girls themselves and to the nation.

The Council urged the National Federation of Women's Institutes to take all possible steps to persuade mothers and daughters of the advantages offered by domestic service as a training for girls for their most important work of the future that of home-making.

One delegate said that, while 15,000 foreign girls were employed as servants in England, the same number of English girls were drawing the dole, and a similar number of housewives were suffering from want of domestic help.

AN HONEST CITY.

(Glasgow Bulletin)

THE MANAGEMENT of a Glasgow tearoom is said to be highly impressed with the honesty of the city as revealed the other day in their establishment. What happened was this. There was a fire scare and some twenty tea-drinkers on the first floor had to make a hasty exit without being given their checks. All but two called on the following day and paid their dues. Not perfect—but pretty good.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

AS YE HAVE therefore received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk ye in him: rooted and built up in him, and stablished in the faith as ye have been taught, abounding therein with thanksgiving.

Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the traditions of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ. For in him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily.

And ye are complete in him, which is the head of all principality and power: in whom also ye are circumcised with the circumcision made without hands, in putting off the body of the sins of the flesh by the circumcision of Christ. . . .

Let no man therefore judge you in meat, or in drink, or in respect of an holyday, or of the new moon, or of the sabbath days: which are a shadow of things to come; but the body is of Christ.

Let no man beguile you of your reward in a voluntary humility and worshipping of angels, intruding into those things which he hath not seen, vainly puffed up by his fleshly mind, and not holding the Head, from which all of the body by joints and bands having nourishment ministered, and knit together, increaseth with the increase of God.—Col. ii, 6-11, 16-19.

EXIT JOHN L. LEWIS

(Cleveland Plain Dealer)

THE CONSPICUOUS casualty left on the field after the Pennsylvania Democrats got through voting in primary was John L. Lewis. The party of the national administration may now make its plans for 1940 without consulting him. And this is clear gain.

Mr. Lewis took his C. I. O., with its reputed three or four million members in the country, bodily into the Pennsylvania primary. With Senator Guffey's backing, he bolted the regular party ticket and set up candidates of his own for governor and senator. His nominee for governor was Thomas Kennedy, now lieutenant governor and secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, a C. I. O. organization. For senator to succeed James J. Davis he supported S. Davis Wilson mayor of Philadelphia.

The nominees supported by the regular party organization, Jones for governor and Earle for senator, were nominated.

This should mean the end of the Lewis "menace" in national Democratic politics. The next candidate for President can be named two years hence without conceding a veto power to the C. I. O. chief.

STUDY IN CONTRASTS.

(Edmonton Journal)

AN INTERESTING study on contrasts was afforded Friday afternoon when His Honor the Lieutenant Governor and the Premier of Alberta arrived in separate cars at almost the same moment to attend Convocation. The representative of His Majesty the King, having been deprived of his official car on the alleged ground of economy, arrived in a hired taxi. Premier Aberhart came in his new limousine—the most luxurious and costly car ever to be driven by a premier of Alberta.

SCOUT JAMBOREE DRAWS 300 YOUTHS TO LINDSAY RALLY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, May 25.—It takes more than chilly atmospheric conditions to dampen the ardor and enthusiasm of Boy Scouts. This was demonstrated yesterday in the big Boy Scout Jamboree staged in Lindsay. The event attracted 300 Scouts from Peterborough, Port Hope, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Lakefield, Cannington, Bobcaygeon and Little Britain. The boys took Lindsay by storm. The town was theirs for the day and the Stetson-topped youths certainly made merry.

It was originally intended to hold the day's celebration in the Agricultural Park but Jupiter Pluvius spoiled this part of the program, as the grounds were too wet and soggy. Nothing daunted, the local Scouts were up bright and early and hauled their equipment from the park to the Lindsay arena where the program was carried on. The different troops assembled in Victoria Park shortly after one o'clock, and headed by the boys' band paraded the different streets. The procession was a colorful one, and wound up at the arena, which was filled to overflowing. The proceedings opened with a march past and flag break. His Worship Mayor Claxton gave the address of welcome. Addresses were delivered by Major Sir Charles McLaren Brown, K.B.E., president of the Provincial Boy Scout Council for Ontario; Bruce McNevin, M.P., Victoria and Haliburton; and Ald. R. Butler, Mr. John Hornsby of Peterborough and formerly of Lindsay, and who is District Commissioner, acted as chairman. Mr. Hornsby was Scout Master of the First Troop of Boy Scouts organized in Lindsay. The reception accorded Major George McLaren Brown was a most enthusiastic one and his address was a ringing appeal to the Boy Scouts to be true to their pledge which was the foundation of good citizenship.

Colors Presented

A pleasing feature of the program was the presentation of colors to Lindsay Troop No. 2 of St. Mary's Church by the Canadian Legion. The presentation was made by Major Jones, president of the Legion. The big gathering of Scouts repeated the Scout Promise, and the arena rang with their declarations. Games and competitions followed, chief of which was the shuttle relay for the Beall Trophy between troops in Peterborough and Victoria counties. This relay involved eight runners, each running 100 yards. Peterborough carried off the honors. After supper the campfire was held in the arena before an electric campfire. This proved the climax of the Jamboree. Awards in the different competitions were made and every troop was called upon to supply entertainment.

Relay race, combining fireman's lift, four-hand carry and making improvised stretcher—1, 5th, Peterborough; 2, 2nd, Port Hope; 3, 10th, Peterborough.

VINE CROPS ESCAPE

WELLAND, Ont., May 25 (CP).—Fears for vine crops were expressed through this part of the Niagara district as frost struck during the night, but indications were that the damage would be slight. Light to fairly heavy frost was reported over Welland County, and while the official low in Welland was 34, ice was frozen solid in bird baths.

Triplet Calves Make Bovine History

Twin calves are unusual, and triplets are almost unheard of in the bovine world. But a cow on the farm of Fred Mitchell, near Oxford, O., gave birth to three heifer calves and they're all healthy as you can see. The whitest calf was born a week before the other two.

HAMILTON FROST BLACKENS PLANTS

HAMILTON, May 25 (C.P.). — Frost created havoc in a wide area around Hamilton during the night. Farmers awoke to-day to find a white rim on fences and roofs. Out in their fields they discovered one of the worst frost disasters in many years.

In the Burlington district, where fields were dotted with growing tomato plants, and where potatoes were eight to ten inches out of the ground, the cold struck like some swift blight. One grower surveyed his fields, and placed an order without further loss of time for 10,000 tomato plants. The producer from whom he ordered the seedlings could fill the order, but had little to spare.

Since practically all plants had been set out, there is danger that farmers will not be able to obtain more seedlings to replace those plants destroyed.

Potatoes turned black and wilted as the morning sun warmed up the rows.

Ottawa, May 25 (CP)

FINANCE Minister Dunning reported Saturday that Home Improvement loans up to May 20 numbered 39,470 and amounted to $15,467,915. This was an increase of 1,485 loans totalling $618,780 over figures reported on April 30.

An increase of 647 loans amounting to $271,761 in Ontario brought the total for that province to 17,436 loans for $6,905,659. Quebec with an increase of 322 loans totalling $170,726 shows a total of 5,936 loans for $2,986,493. British Columbia holds third position with an increase of 142 loans for $41,886 bringing the total for the province to 4,383 loans for $1,399,939.

APSLEY

BURLEIGH COUNCIL CONSIDERS ROAD INTO CEDAR LAKE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, May 25. — Burleigh and Anstruther Muncipal Council met in the Town Hall on Saturday, May 21, with all members present, when the follwing business was transacted:

The Reeve, with Councillors Bolton and oBoth and the road superintendent were appointed a committee to investigate the feasibility of putting a road to Cedar Lake and to report to the next Council meeting, on motion of Councillors Tucker and Kilborn.

It was moved by Councillors Booth and Tucker that the Council approves of the measures taken by the Reeve re the fire hazard on the Apsley-Clanncarde Road, and that he and the road superintendent be authorized to enforce same. Carried.

The clerk was instructed to procure prices on voters' list printing, on motion of Councillors Kilborn and Bolton.

Moved by Councillors Bolton and Kilborn, that the Reeve be given the custody of the 1938 assessment roll for inspection by the County Council at its June session, and that he press for a reduction on the equalized assessment. Carried.

The road superintendent was authorized to purchase six culverts, on the motion of Councillors Tucker and Booth.

Moved by Councillors Kilborn and Tucker, that the clerk write Mr. Fraser re Mrs. Warner's case. Carried.

The clerk was also instructed to write to the owners of buildings on the right of way at Jack's Lake Landing, notifying them to remove same by January 1, 1939, on motion of Councillors Tucker and Kilborn.

The road superintendent was appointed weed inspector on motion of Councillors Tucker and Booth.

Subject to the approval of the Department of Health, Gordon Lean was appointed sanitary inspector, on the motion of Councillors Tucker and Booth.

The fee for attendance at Board of Health meetings by the members was established at $2.00 per meeting, moved by Councillors Tucker and Booth.

The following lots were removed from the county treasurer's books on motion of Councillors Tucker and Kilborn: Lots 28 and 20, Concession 15; Lot 28, Concession 13; Lot 23, Concession 18, all in Anstruther; Islands Nos. 18 and 48B; w. part Lot 12, Concession 5, Burleigh, and part 0, Concession 5, water front.

The following accounts were passed: Peterborough Examiner, $2.40; Municipal World, $4.40; R. Brown, $12.00; Dr. Carr-Harris, $6.00; C. A. G. Spence, $8.00; Road Superintendent, pay voucher No. 1, $86.75; Road Superintendent, salary, $26.25; City of Peterborough, re G. McIlmoyle, $8.24; Dr. Smith, trip to Whitby with patient, $15.00; M. Tucker, salary, assessor, $78.00; M. Tucker, registry search, $2.00; H. Tucker, Council meetings, $6.00; N. Bolton, Council meetings and mileage, $9.40.

Over 4,800 speckled trout were placed in Eel's Creek on Saturday by the Game and Fisheries Department. They came from the fish-rearing ponds near Sharbot Lake, and looked lusty and lively little fellows. They were from 5 to 7 inches long, and were 15 months old, and will no doubt thrive in their new home.

Dodge Romance Is Confirmed

DETROIT, May 25—(AP). — A rumored story-book romance between Daniel George Dodge, 20-year-old son of the late John F. Dodge, automobile manufacturer, and Loreen Macdonald, 18-year-old telephone operator at Gore Bay, Ont., was confirmed today.

Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson, Dodge's mother, announced the impending marriage. Dodge is the beneficiary of a trust fund which, by a recent accounting, amounted to $9,331,606.

Miss Macdonald, daughter of a Manitoulin Island tugboat captain, has been a guest at the Dodge estate for several weeks.

To Hang July 5

Sentenced to be hanged on July 5 for the slaying of his wife, Gertrude, last April 26, William McQuarrie is shown being led from the Winnipeg court-house to the jail. He was convicted of killing his wife by slashing her throat with a pen knife as they were returning from juvenile court.

DO YOU EVER HAVE THAT "ALL-GONE" FEELING?

You needn't—not if you follow the lead of the millions who know the health value of Eno's "Fruit Salt". Just about nine times out of ten, physical disturbances are caused by some form of constipation. Incomplete elimination causes headaches, dizziness, nausea, sour stomach and many other minor and major ills. Strong purgatives—harsh mineral salts, of which Eno has no trace, are likely to do more harm than good. A dash of Eno's "Fruit Salt" in a glass of water morning and night soon gets at the source of the trouble. Eno safely rids the intestines of those toxic poisons which slow a man up and make him miserable. Doctors prescribe Eno and take it themselves. It is both effective and safe—for young and old. Eno is pleasant-tasting, acts mildly—a simple, natural way to good health. Life today calls for Eno's "Fruit Salt". Order a bottle from your druggist now. Handy size, 50c; Household size, 85c.

Soccer Affiliation Fully Explained

A special visit of the Ontario Football Association president Jimmy Flemming, Toronto, when he was present at the game between Peterborough and Toronto during the holiday. He met the members of the local association here for the purpose of discussing the question of affiliation and received a hearty response from the local members when he explained the benefits to be gained from affiliation. The information was revealed to the board that it is possible to become fully associated with the supreme council through the activities of the local teams co-operating to carry out the details of the code according to the Ontario Football Association.

The account of this visit will be brought before the full executive, next Monday night, and the subject will be discussed from all angles when it will be decided wether they will become affiliated or associated to the O.F.A. which proved of great assistance to the code in this city.

Oshawa GM-Men Defeat Petes 2-0 In Opener Of The Season

The 1938 baseball season opened here Tuesday with Oshawa GM-men copping a 2-0 C.O.B.L. victory over the Petes in Riverside Park as a thousand fans shivered in the cold wind. Official opening ceremonies took place before the umps called "Play ball!" In the above layout of pictures, Alex T. Elliott, K.C., M.P.P., is shown in No. 1 hitting a single as part of the opening ceremony. No. 2 shows the players of the rival clubs criss-crossing at the late and shaking hands before the start of the game. No. 3 depicts Tommy Foley of Oshawa scoring the first run of the season in the initial inning as Catcher Cy Whatley and Umpire Ken Colling watch the flight of the ball. Al. Clark is seen in No. 4 being tagged out at the plate by Catcher Buzz Bennett in the fourth frame. Mayor James Hamilton (No. 5) pitches the first ball to start the season.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

For the first time since 1933, we were compelled to cancel all activities that were staged for opening day, May 24. The heavy rain of Monday left our greens in such a condition that after viewing the grounds early on Tuesday, the greens committee decided and wisely so to hang up the 'no bowling' sign. However if it is better today we will commence the annual President-Vice President competition at 7.30 p.m. All games to be of 14 ends and total number of points in the two night's play to determine the holder of the cup. The draw for this competition was posted last week.

Just what kind of a tournament will be staged on Friday night, we don't know. We'll have to look around and get some information and then pass it on. Keep reading this column and when we get a piece of lawn bowling news, it is yours.

Somerville Keeps Up Canada's Hopes

TROON, Scotland, May 25—(CP)—Sandy Somerville kept Canada's hopes in the British amateur gold championship burning by coming from behind in to-day's third round to defeat Bob Rutherford of England, 3 and 2.

Golf Notes

Victoria Day sweep was played by a few of the hardy golfers who braved the cold west wind which blew across the course.

The sweep was a two class affair, first class being for players with handicaps of twenty and under, which was won by R. Abbott who, in spite of the elements, scored a net of 76. Close behind was Eric Westbye who with the help of an eagle 2 on the thirteenth, copped second place with a net of 77.

In the second division W. B. Gordon, who has been coming very close in the previous sweeps, came through to take first place with a 75 net. Dr. M. J. McCulloch finished second in this division, played a good brand of golf to net a 78.

SOCCER PRACTISE

The Brinton football club will hold a general practise this evening at six o'clock at King Edward Park, and all players are urged to attend.

VISITING SOCCER CLUB ENTERTAINED

The Canadian General soccer club entertained the Earlscourt-Kenwoods club from Toronto, last night, in the Canadian Legion hall. A banquet was held at six o'clock when President Alex. McKinley occupied the chair. Mr. McCrea, assistant manager of the Peterborough plant, spoke on behalf of the company and welcomed the visitors to the city and complimented them on their sportsmanship and their friendship.

Mr. Sandiland, president of the Toronto club, replied for the visitors and gave a resume of the activities of the ladies auxiliary which enable them to foster a juvenile club that will become an asset to the senior club in future years. He trusted that when the return game is played that Peterborough will be well represented by all those that were present at the banquet.

The president of the Social and Athletic club, E. G. Hardie, gave a resume of the code in years gone by and reminiscence of the code in the city of years ago.

Mrs. McCrae spoke on behalf of the Toronto Ladies Auxiliary while H. McCushland, Toronto Kenwoods, and Ben McMaster of C.G.E. expressed their sincere thanks for the splendid game of the code on behalf of the players. Mr. Rickard for the C.G.E. club and President Stroyan Leith for the Peterborough and District Football Association.

Throughout the evening songs were rendered by Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Duncan, Mr. Withers, Mr. Tom Stewart and a special feature was the dancing of the Highland Fling by Miss Millard. George Lovett supplied the music for dancing. Mr. J. Lankin, of Toronto, assisted at the piano for a number of dances.

The company of nearly a hundred returned to Toronto last night, in two large busses.

Negro Slayer Wins $500 For Kindness

Philadelphia, May 25 (AP)

WILLIAM CUNNINGHAM, negro, who once killed a man who stoned his dog, got a reward today for being kind to animals—a $500 bequest in the Will of Mary Craige Yarrow. Cunningham served twenty-six years in the penitentiary for the slaying. He was pardoned last year. Miss Yarrow, a daughter of a Philadelphia physician, said in her will the $500 "has been long due" Cunningham.

Golf Facts

Watch Your Swing

The first rule in golf is to take care of your swing. If you follow this rule you will soon have a swing that will take care of you. But, many things other than the swing seem most important as the average player sets out to play.

This point was brought out recently in the performance of one of my own pupils. This pupil knows much more than does the average player about the correct swing and he can make a swing that brings envy to the hearts of his fellow players. However, he doesn't produce this swing with any great consistency. I walked around the course with him just to see that he carried out my instructions about taking care of his swing and to make sure that the results struck home.

For the very first wood shot I made him drive with a spoon and swing as easy as he would with an iron club. I insisted that he try to get no more than 175 yards, just enough length to clear the rough in front of the tee. Then I had him hit a similar shot for his second. These two sissylike shots brought him to a point right in front of the green where he had an easy shot at the flag. His approach gave him a 10-foot putt for a birdie and two putts for a par.

On the second hole, I had him drive with the brassie but with the same easy swing. By taking it very easy for the first four holes he was able to produce his best swing before he played six holes and he kept improving with every hole. The demonstration proved that it is well worth while looking after the swing.

ROSENEATH OPENS SEASON WITH WIN

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, May 25.—Northumberland Baseball League opened the season here on May 24th, the home team taking Colborne into camp 5-3. Robert Dawson, president of the league, opened the game by pitching to first batter, his sweeping curves being too much for Cliff Cowley, Colborne, secretary of the league. C. Varcoe, president of the local team done the receiving.

It was a great pitchers duel, Smoke of Roseneath striking out 14, allowing 7 hits and 2 walks, while his opponent Cowley of Colborne had 11 strikeouts, allowed 9 hits and issued 2 walks. Roseneath took advantage by bunching their hits. Dr. Morin and A. Loukes led Roseneath team with 2 hits apiece out of 4 times up to bat. W. Griffis and B. Fox led the Colborne batters with 2 hits apiece out of 5 times to bat.

The day was cold but it was a real exhibition of ball, considering the high winds fooled some of the players. The feature of the game was a beautiful running catch by Dr. Morin, which he took at his shoe tops.

Errors on both sides were very costly. Colborne did not earn any runs, errors were responsible for all their runs, and for 2 of Roseneath's. The teams lined up as follows:

Colborne—W. Griffis, ss; B. Fox, lf; W. Cleary, 3b; F. Griffis, 1b; E. Cowley, P; R. Naylor, 2b; C. Hull, rf; F. Cowley, c; S. Rutherford, cf; G. Black, rf; C. Berley, cf.

Roseneath — J. Loukes, 3b; M. Brown, 2b; L. Lonsberry, ss; Dr. Morin, rf; G. Smoke, p; F. McMillan, lf; A. Loukes, cf; E. Tucker, 1b; J. Bigwin, c.

Score by innings:

Colborne	010 000 011—3
Roseneath	010 000 22x—5

Umpires—Varcoe, bases; Turpin, plate.

Hastings Defeats Warkworth 10-3

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, May 25.—The local girl softballers took their second consecutive win of the season last night in Warkworth when they defeated Warkworth 10 to 3.

Clever pitching on the part of Madaliene Thompson and excellent fielding are credited with the locals' win. Marion Phillips for Hastings knocked the only home run of the game.

DIES OF BURNS

BELLEVILLE, Ont., May 25.—(CP)—Terribly burned about the body when a gasoline stove exploded in a dairy shed, where she was washing bottles, Mrs. Harry Flindall, 45, Smithfield, was rushed to Belleville Hospital Saturday and died today. Dr. T. S. Farncombe, Trenton, attended and the coroner decided an inquest unnecessary.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

AND SO we burst forth into song in a tenor (or terrible) voice to put a bit of rhyme, rhythm and song into the column to wind up the glorious May 24th—and if ya don't like it ya can have your three cents back:

Just a song at twilight when the ball game's o'er,
And the teams have departed; still is the fans' roar.
Tho' the heart be weary with another defeat—
Still let us at twilight rise up and repeat
That old alibi song!
(altogether now and lean on the last note)
THAT OLD ALIBI SONG!!!

* * * * * * *

HOWEVER, we have no alibi. The Petes dropped a 2-0 C.O.B.L. opener to Oshawa here yesterday but they went down gallantly. If we had an alibi, it would be the fact that the GM-men toted horseshoes in their hip pockets. They had plenty of luck all right, but they played winning ball. While over 800 paid customers shivered in the Arctic breeze. The warmest spot on us was our chilblains, by golly!

* * * * * * *

HAD IT BEEN a nice warm sunny day, that would have been about the neatest opening ball game of many years in Peter's borough. Some good pitching, nice fielding, extra-base blows, and a low score. What more could you ask? Aside from a boost in pay and lower taxes. The GM-men got two early and then it was a dandy dogfight. They threatened often but couldn't counter again. One of their runs was unearned and the Petes, besides being robbed on several hits by spectacular fielding by their rivals, threw away at least one marker. Either poor coaching or base-running. There were a few mistakes in judgment, and even the umps had a few close ones that looked a bit awry, but that is typical of opening day. No complaints at all. The Petes apear to have a good team and they'll be in there plenty this year. The GM-men (with Doug May in Kirkland Lake) used two promising juniors at third and short, and looked right tough again.

* * * * * * *

JACK TURNER hurled four-hit ball in a fine effort. Big Russ Kitchen was slow starting—curvers love warm weather — but he turned in a nice performance. With some hitting support he might easily have won. Gave but seven hits in eight frames and fanned half a dozen. Whitehill allowed three hits but two were mighty scratchy, and a nice double play saved him.

* * * * * * *

OUR NEW PLAYERS looked good in defeat. Cadd was steady on first with 13 perfect chances and hit the ball on the nose, Rowden robbing him of at least a two-bagger with a circus grab. Deadey covered acres in centre and also nailed the apple hard. After twice hitting what might have been homers in Toronto, only to see them caught at Riverside, he shook his head sadly. After a few weeks in this loop he'll quit shaking his head at that! Bob Doll on third, wearing pants that must have been built for Lepper, caught the eye though he had little to do afield. He conked a double and hit it hard two other times. And the local lads went well. Whatley caught in fine style, picking a man neatly off first, Kingdon was flawless and Clark looked nice out there at short. Burton pulled in a couple of smart grabs while Kearns had a soft day in right field. The club didn't hit any too well.

* * * * * * *

SO WE HAVEN'T any kicks to make today about the tough opening loss. Later we may pan 'em all plenty, but the boys went pretty fair on the 24th. Hurst played out of position but roped everything hit in the general direction of left. Foley again proved bad news to us. Rowden and Hurst led the hit ters. We had but one error to 2 for the other side. The fans stayed right to the end, and it was always exciting. And the customers seemed to like the game, and also the home team—even if they did drop the decision.

* * * * * * *

GIRLS' SOFTBALL returns to town tonight at the Bowl at 6.15 of the clock when the local rivals, C.G.E. and Westclox, tangle in a loop fixture. Maybe some sort of opening ceremony beforehand and then Umpires Bob Batley and Bill Bennett will start the big ball rolling. Both teams have a few newcomers in their lineups and we expect those Electrics to give Westclox more trouble this year than the question: "How many days a week are ya working now?" The champs have a trio of twirlers in Marg Snowden, Barb Blade and an ex-Ottawa slab artist. Any one of 'em may see action this eve. Can't say who C.G.E. will pitch but wouldn't be surprised to see their ace heaver, Marilyn McCarthy, draw the first assignment. Should be a goodly gathering of fans on deck to get a slant at the femmes in the first fray.

WORD FROM OSHAWA is to the effect that they won't have a lacrosse team this season. They had the players and could raise the dough but have no place to play— the arena refusing to open for the lacrossers this summer. Too bad, that. Kelly DeGray and Chuck Barron will now line up with Brampton seniors, and Daniels will go with them, too, 'tis expected. Motor City scribe says he hears Brooklin aren't keen to be grouped with the Petes, and the locals may have trouble lining up a decent grouping. Surely the O.L.A. will do something about it soon. Meantime, the Petes have an exhibition joust with Brampton intermediates here this Friday night.

THE MANLY ART of self-defence, sometimes known by cynical sports writers as the sour science, returns here next Monday—as we've mentioned before. The Riverview A.C. has a strong card lined up for the lacrosse arena and, if the weather is mild, should draw a huge crowd of ring worms. Four Toronto mitt-slingers swap rights and lefts with local pugilists, and there are three all-local bouts arranged. As well as an amateur rasslin' exhibition between Toronto matmen. Referee Jimmy Simpson of Toronto will be third man in the ring. Norm Bowler is promoter and Harry Low the matchmaker. We may get more dope on the visiting fighters in a day or two. Peterborough pugs are playing lively tunes on the punching bags in their gym these days, getting ready for this important spring mitt show.

Petes Blanked By GM-Men Before Shivering Crowd To Open Baseball Season

Nifty Game Dished Up With Visitors Getting An Early Lead To Win

Oshawa GM-men opened the 1938 C.O.B.L. season here yesterday with a 2-0 victory over the Petes. More than 800 shivering fans braved the chill weather to witness the first baseball game of the year, and they saw a fine fixture. Cold weather made it uncomfortable for the holiday crowd but the teams turned in a nifty opening dish.

Taking part in the traditional opening ceremony were Alex Elliott, K.C., M.L.A., at bat Mayor James Hamilton pitching; Max Swanston, president of the C.O.B.L. and O.B.A. member, catching; and Ald. Walter Stocker, chairman of the Parks Committee, as umpire. Mr. Elliott singled and the game commenced.

It developed into something of a hurlers' duel between Jack Turner of Oshawa and Russ Kitchen of the locals. With Turner having an edge. He pitched four-hit ball while fanning one and issuing one free base. Russ struck out six but gave up two walks and seven hits in eight innings. Gunner Whitehill took the mound for the last inning, striking out one and being nicked for three hits, two of them scratchy. A double-play kept him from being scored on.

Score at Start

Oshawa scored a run in the first and another in the second. They threatened to tally in several other innings but tighter pitching and some smart defensive play held them down. They had 10 men left on base to four by the homesters. The Petes only seriously threatened once, in the fourth inning when a runner was thrown out at the plate following a single and a double. They got runners on in several more frames but only got as far as second. Timely hitting, including three doubles, some sensational fielding in spots and good heaving earned the win for Oshawa.

Doc Rowden had three hits, including a double, in four times up and Peg Hurst had three in five, one a two-bagger. Foley hit a double and single. Bob Doll got a double for the Petes, with Clark, Kingdon and Whatley hitting a single apiece. Each side pulled off a snappy double play. Fielding features were catches by Rowden and Hurst to rob locals of hits. The Petes hit the ball hard quite often but they were right at fielders.

Foley started the struggle with a two-bagger to left. He moved up on Jubenville's out and scored on a single to left by Rowden. In the second, Wallace singled to centre, was sacrificed by Dalton and scored when Clark missed Bennett's grounder. A walk and single followed but there was no further scoring. The Petes went out in order the first two frames.

Petes Come Close

Rowden opened the third with a booming two-base blow to left and he advanced on an out but died at third. Whatley singled in the third for Manager Eddie Murphy's gang but was out trying to stretch it. Oshawa failed to threaten in the fourth but the Petes nearly tallied. With one out, Clark singled. Doll followed with a long double to left but Clark was thrown out at the plate by two yards, Hurst to Dalton to Bennett. Next batter lined out to short.

Jubenville fanned in the fifth but was safe on a wild pitch, moving up on Rowden's hit and taking third on an out, failing to get any further. Kingdon singled for the Petes but was forced at second. The GM-men went down one-two-three in the sixth. Foley dropped Kearns' fly in the homesters' half but an infield double play stopped the Petes up suddenly a minute later. With one out in the seventh, Hurst doubled but did not reach third that heat, and the Petes went down in order in their side. Neither team did a thing in the eighth, though Whatley walked for the Petes. In the ninth, Bennett angled off Whitehill. Turner fanned for the fourth time, but Foley and Hurst got scratch infield hits to load the sacks. However, a nifty double play ended the frame. Kearns and Clark flied to left for the Petes, Doll got to second on an error but Burton popped out to end it.

TORONTO-PETES IN SOCCER DRAW ON THE HOLIDAY

Peterborough soccer fans were treated to a smart game, May 24, on King Edward Park, when Toronto Kenwoods played the Canadian General A.A. in an inter-city game which resulted in the score of two-all, after a hard-fought battle.

The local team trotted out in new equipment of orange and blue sweaters, blue sateen pants and blue and orange stockings. The visitors were attired in blue sweaters and white pants to prove a smart aggregation.

Before the kick-off, the president of the soccer club, A. McKinley, introduced Mr. Solmonsen to the players, who spoke briefly; also Mr. Stocker and Alderman cotton, on behalf of the Mayor, welcomed the visitors to the city. Thereafter the manager of the local plant set the ball in motion.

Snappy Combination

The spin of the coin fell in favor of the visitors. Toronto opened up the exchanges with the long swinging passes that resulted in Petes' halves dominating the situation, Buchan intercepting a pass up the field to send a lightning drive past the upright. McCushland carried the play to the other end where two unsuccessful corner kicks resulted in Bolton fisting clear in below the cross-bar. The pivot tapped the ball out to the centre half, who ratfleda low grounder into goal, Bolton kicking clear. But they were rewarded a little later when Fitzpatrick trapped the ball cleverly from the left winger to place the ball at McKee's foot, who picked the corner to the net. Thereafter, the exchanges became very even, with neither team making any headway against the half-back divisions that were nigh perfect. It was first McCushland, then Buchan, Petes, endeavoring to get the break that never materialized, although both custodians had busy sessions while the forwards were in the proximity of the citadel.

After a mid-field exchange, Mitchell, full back, nipped Hubbard in the act of scoring as he sent his teammates away into their opponents' half, where N. Downer gained the decision in a close tackle to slip the ball over to Ben McMaster. The custodian ran out of goal to intercept the play, but was surprised when McMaster registered the equalizing goal. Toward the interval, Hubbard, now at centre-forward worked like a Trojan to get the winning counter, as he was plyed with the ball from his wing men, but found the defensive tactics too tight, although McCusher should have had the winning counter when all set to score, but Mitchell blocked his shot. Half time.—Toronto, 1; Peterborough 1.

A Very Keen Tussle

Right from the re-start, Toronto took the upper hand to confine the activities to the Peterborough goal in which Bolton was outstanding as he picked up all kinds of shots ranged at him. Petes replied with a steady attack that resulted in Toronto relying upon the individual efforts of their forwards. Fitzpatrick, a juvenile at outside left, being prominent wth his elusive passes along the wing, thereby giving the local backs a lot of anxiety. It was from one of his brilliant attacks that McCusker registered the leading counter with a left footer that landed in the back of the net like a bullet. Within the next few minutes, they again scored, but it was disallowed through an opponent being in an offside position after the referee had consulted the linesmen. Beautiful combination prevailed for the remainder of the period, with Goodhue carrying the attack on the left wing to baffle the Toronto full backs. He made many successful runs along the wing to place McMaster in possession. Black, Toronto goalie, gathered up the ball quickly but not soon enough to prevent the local pivot again making the score even. Both forward lines endeavored to get the winning counter, but found the halves controlling the situation.

The teams:

Toronto Kenwoods. — D. Black, goal; C. Morrison and A. Burton, full backs; H. Parsons, H. McCushland and R. Chisholm, half-backs; H. McKee, W. Hubbard, D. Fitzpatrick, J. McCusker, and R. McGreish, forwards.

Peterborough.—J. Bolton, goal; J. Mitchell and S. Murduff, full backs; H. Stewart, J. Buchan and T. McPhate, half backs; H. Keith, A. Ross, Ben McMaster, A. Mitchell and M. Downer, forwards. Subs.—J. Cribbis, W. Harris, and J. Goodgue, S. Clark.

Referee—Asa Downer.

Linesmen—V. Stewart and J. Campbell.

Henry Armstrong And Ross In Training

Ranking second only to the Louis-Schmeling affair in the amount of interest created in fight circles and among fans in general, is the Henry Armstrong-Barney Ross tilt on May 26. In this match, Hammering Hennery, world's featherweight championship, skips the lightweight class and moves up to challenge champion Barney for his crown. Following this fight Henry meets Lou Ambers, lightweight champ and thus has a chance to become the second holder of three crowns in ring history. Bob Fitzsimmons is the only one to have turned the trick. The top picture was taken at Armstrong's training camp when Nat Fleischer, LEFT, presented him with the featherweight championship belt. The man on the RIGHT is pudgy Eddie Meade, Armstrong's manager. The lower two pictures are of Barney Ross, a great fighter for years past, but figured to be past his peak. The fight will be held in Madison Square Garden's Long Island Bowl, N.Y., and is expected to gross over $200,000.

LEAFS DIVIDE WITH BUFFALO

TORONTO, May 25 (CP). — Richard Twilley Porter, who took over the managership of Syracuse Chiefs of the International League last week, is one fellow who'd probably be glad to eat his words.

Three years ago, Porter, who had been in the big leagues for eight years, was released to the Chiefs by Boston Red Sox. He refused to report to the minor league club.

The Chiefs sold him to Newark but a year later Porter was back in Syracuse and liking it. The Chiefs have won four of their six starts since the 36-year-old outfielder took over the reins of the last place club, and are heading out of the cellar. They clouted out a 12-7 victory over Baltimore Orioles last night while the three runner-up clubs to the league-leading Newark Bears again scrambled the first division.

Rochester Red Wings moved from third to second by splitting a Victoria Day doubleheader with Montreal Royals, losing the first game 4-3 and taking the nightcap 7-3. Buffalo also divided a holiday twin bill with Toronto Maple Leafs, winning 6-5 in the matinee and losing 5-1 in the night half. The fourth paring of the day saw Jersey City Giants stop the Bears for the second straight day 2-0.

Player Injured In Ball Practice

DETROIT, May 25 (A.P.). — Pitcher Harry Eisenstat of the Detroit Tigers was in Henry Ford Hospital to-day with a fractured skull suffered yesterday when he was struck over the right eye by a batted ball in practice.

There was a possibility the young left hander's vision may be permanently impaired.

ARMSTRONG HOPES FOR TRIPLE CROWN

NEW YORK, May 25 (C.P.). — A triple champion, unknown in boxing annals since the days of freckled Bob Fitzsimmons, is the goal of little Henry Armstrong, who hopes to add the welterweight belt to his collection when he tackles Barney Ross in Madison Square Garden bowl on Thursday night.

Already ruler of the featherweight division, the dusky dynamiter has designs on the welter and lightweight crowns. Should Armstrong defeat Ross, he will get the chance to complete his dream here late in July. He has been assured of a match with Lou Ambers, lightweight king.

Thirty-five years ago Fitzsimmons held the middle, light-heavy, and heavyweight titles at one time. But since then no champion even has had a "double." Several boxers have held more than one crown—but not simultaneously. Most of them won their second title after losing or relinquishing the first one.

Forcing houses, heated by water from hot springs, are employed for growing flowers and fruit, grapes being thus successfully cultivated.

Indians Regain American Lead During Current Home Stand

Allen's Hurling And Averill's Hitting Enables Tribe To Beat Yanks 9-5

NEW YORK, May 25 (CP). — Cleveland Indians, who haven't won the American League pennant since 1920, may turn out to be a tough team to beat this season in spite of everything.

In this case, everything includes the fact that Oscar Vitt, their new manager, hardly expects to turn a fourth-place club into a pennant-winner in one season; that they have had the habit for years of falling apart in mid season after looking like serious contenders; that they're a notoriously weak road club, and that those murderous Yankees still are hanging around, waiting to break loose some fine day.

The Indians, however, have accomplished a couple of notable feats during their current home stand. They climbed back to the lead after dropping to third place while they were in the east. They won six out of seven games from eastern rivals, losing only a 12-inning battle to Washington, and they turned back the Yanks twice in succession.

Beat Yankees 9-5.

The pitching of Johnny Allen, a former Yankee, and the clouting of Earl Averill enabled the Tribe to beat the Yanke 9-5 yesterday and drop the New Yorkers into third place. Boston Red Sox, who took over second with a 5-4 triumph over Detroit Tigers, invade Cleveland today for a two-game series.

The only other game which altered the standings was Boston Bees' 10-9 triumph over Cincinnati, which sent them back into third place, a half game up on the Reds. New York's league-leading Giants belted over St. Louis Cardinals 9-4 as Slick Castleman, who hadn't started a game since last August, came back and proved his back is no longer ailing by limiting the Gas Housers to eight blows. Chicago's Cubs kept pace 2½ games behind, by trimming Brooklyn 10-4.

Chicago White Sox got some good news for a change when Monte Stratton, laid up since March with a lame arm, came back to pitch them to a 10-3 decision over Washington.

Lynn Nelson's five-hit flinging and a well-timed attack enabled the Athletics to whip the St. Louis Browns 6-1. Pittsburgh's game at Philadelphit was rained out.

SPECIAL SHORT FEATURES

The Examiner BULLETIN BOARD

Snow fell in the northern part of Algoma yesterday, as much as one inch being reported in some districts.

Four residents of St. John, N.B., were drowned in Lake Utopia, near St. George, when a boat overturned. They were Shirley B. Ellis,; his son, John, 8; and Colin Rayworth and John Collins.

Dan Miner of Forth St. James was killed and three other persons injured when a Pacific Airways plane crashed near Tchentlo Lake, B.C.

James Henry Law, formerly of Prairie River, Sask., was killed instantly when four tons of rock dropped on him while at work underground in God's Lake Mine, 350 miles north of Winnipeg.

Property Seized

The entire property of the Monastery of St. Lambrecht in Styria belonging to the Catholic Order of St. Benedict has been confiscated by the Nazis, a Vienna despatch says.

By a vote of 79 to 42, A. W. Neill's bill to place Japanese immigration on the same status as Chinese was defeated in the Canadian House of Commons. Five Liberals supported the bill.

The Ontario Library Association yesterday placed itself on record in favor of the certification of librarians and a system of pensions for librarians and library assistants.

Raiding a house in the central south-end residential section of Hamilton, police found a still of 250 gallons capacity and valued at $2,000.

Guard Is Injured

One guard was seriously injured and two long-term convicts wounded by rifle fire in an attempt by three prisoners to escape from Alcatraz Island Prison in San Francisco Bay.

The United Church of Canada, by the will of the late George Armstrong, has been left $100,000, to establish a home and training school for homeless children or to build new churches.

Dr. A. M. Young, Liberal member for Saskatoon in the House of Commons, is in hospital in Toronto for observation following an attack of syncope.

A bomb carried in a bag by a man on a main street in Rotterdam exploded, killing the carrier and injuring two passers-by.

The Greatest Cause

Negligent driving was Quebec's greatest motor accident cause last year, according to the annual report of the provincial roads department.

Reduction in Montreal electricity rates amounting to $400,000 annually, was announced Monday by Premier Duplessis following an agreement between the Beauharnois Power Corporation and the Provincial Government.

As no sponsor appeared for the divorce bill of Senator Lendrum McMeans of Winnipeg when it was called in the House of Commons, Monday, the measure did not receive first reading.

Legislation reducing interest rates 60 per cent on Government-guaranteed bonds was declared ultra vires of the Alberta Legislature in a majority judgment of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of Alberta.

BRIGHTER POSTS

LONDON—(CP). — Speaking on electric street lighting Sir Cyril Hurcomb said they should "be so designed as to enhance rather than to detract from the appearance of the thoroughfares in which they are placed."

Toronto Greeter

Golden-haired Joan Bronstein, age six, of Toronto, has been chosen "Sweetheart of Toronto B'nai B'rith." She will greet delegates and visitors from Eastern Canada and United States to the 36th annual B'nai B'rith convention in Toronto, May 28-30. Above she is seen with B'nai B'rith's key to the city which she will present.

STABLE BOYS STRIKE

LAMBOURN, England, May 25—(AP).— Police were called on to guard horses working out to-day for the Derby June 1 as 300 stable boys, seeking a wage increase of five shillings ($1.25) a week, remained on strike. Trainers, however, said they were experiencing no trouble and were carrying on their work without help. The stable boys had been receiving 45 shillings ($11.25) a week.

Enter Truck, Bus Business

Under unification the roads would also go into the motortruck and bus business. They would not increase rates, Sir Edward believing the railways would lose more than they gained.

A great deal of work would still have to be done on the railways under the plan for railway construction never ceased. The new company would need a working capital of $20,000,000.

The labor situation would not be difficult. Turnover of employees was about five per cent a year. The process of "attrition" reflected by the retirement of aged workers, the extension of the formative period of the unification plan from five to seven years, and limitation to taking on new employees would solve the labor situation without any ill effects.

Sir Edward did not disclose the basis on which net earnings might be split between the unified companies, beyond saying that up to a certain point there would be a division in conformity with the value contributed by each. After that the division would be 50-50.

He did not ask for any guarantee to the C.P.R. bondholders or shareholders believing so firmly in the successful issue of unification that demand for such guarantee was unnecessary.

The directorate, he believed, would entirely remove the railways from political authority by reason of their controlling the livelihood of nearly 200,000 employees. He himself had never known how C.P.R. workmen voted; and he was not interested. They were at liberty to exercise their franchise as they pleased.

A Question

Sir Edward was closely interrogated by the members of the special committee throughout the day. Toward the close of his hours before the committee Government Leader Dandurand asked the railway knight what the two railway systems would do "if faced with the fact the country will not accept amalgamation."

The senator asked would it not be the duty of parliament then to see that the railways, through cooperation, brought about the economies Sir Edward saw through unification.

The railway president replied that if unification is definitely out of the question the railways should cooperate as far as possible through the 1933 enabling statute. If traffice continued depressed drastic individual economies would be necessary for both railways.

He did not believe in compulsion. "I don't think the intervention of the railway board in a compulsory, coercive way would be effective," he said. It would have responsibility for management without responsibility for results.

While the C.P.R. was competing with the C.N.R. he thought it unwise and, perhaps, unfair, that it should be subjected to the orders of an independent board on matters of administration.

An Excellent Idea

The idea of cooperation was an excellent one. But Sir Edward was not surprised that under the "hybrid system" adopted in 1933 more progress had not been made. However, he did not think progress was at an end. Economies could be effected by voluntary cooperation but he doubted if any were possible under compulsion.

In submitting his plan Sir Edward listed five points he regarded as vital to unification. They were:

1. The railways should continue to own their present properties, the securities remaining in their present ownership.
2. The Canadian Pacific should be given no guarantee on its stock or other capital issues.
3. Each railway should continue to receive under unification the net earnings past experience showed they would have received as independent institutions, the remainder to be split evenly.
4. Provisions should be made to prevent the unified company from neglecting its duty as a public utility and depriving any community of necessary railway service.
5. Provisions should be made to protect the rights of railway workers.

Five Advantages

Sir Edward listed five advantages of unification. They were:

1. Considerable relief to the treasury of Canada.
2. The Canadian Pacific would be permitted to earn a fair return on prudently invested capital.
3. The savings under unification would permit the railways to carry on inevitable remodelling, modernizing and improvements.
4. By stabilizing the industry unification would aid in freeing the railways of the imminent danger of forced abandonment of light traffic lines to an increasng extent.
5. It would permit the stabilization of the employment of railway workers.

MORE ABOUT— KING AND BENNETT

was "undeclared, unwarranted and unprovoked."

When Mr. Bennett assumed that the government was condoning Japan's action the Prime Minister hastened to deny it and to declare that he agreed entirely that Japan's action should be denounced.

Mr. Bennett had preceded his remarks with the statement that he was speaking for himself and not for his party which would meet shortly in national convention to adopt new policies including one on foreign affairs.

One measure designed to directly prevent Japanese immigration was defeated on division by 79 to 42 votes, and another to effect the same end indirectly, was talked out. Both were sponsored by A. W. Neill (Ind. Comox-Alberni).

Jap Minister Scored

The debate also furnished a stormy welcome for Baron Shuh Tomii, new Japanese minister to Canada who arrived in Ottawa Monday. Mr. Bennett sternly criticised the minister's statement to newspaper reporters in Niagara Falls, Ont., that Japan would defeat China. Mr. Mackenzie King agreed that the comment was entirely wrong.

"I deny the right of any man to come here, whose country and nation has signed a document guaranteeing with the Dominion of Canada the integrity of China, and talk about the defeat of China in a war which was not declared and with respect to which there is no justification," Mr. Bennett said.

"I am not one of these who believe that you serve any useful purpose by forgetting your own dignity and the honor of your own country in order to placate any power, however powerful it may be.

"I feel perfectly certain that in our desire to maintain neutrality the Canadian people have no desire, in the interest of trade expansion or otherwise, to sacrifice their sense of national honor and of the decencies of international relations."

The Tomii incident was brought up early in the day's proceedings, prior to the foreign policy statement of the Prime Minister, by Mr. Woodsworth who asked the Prime Minister if the government approved of the reported observations by the minister.

Mr. Mackenzie King had not seen the report and his agreement with Mr. Bennett came later in the day after he had read the article.

Justice Minister Lapointe contributed to the debate the statement that, since the Great War, Britain has saved the world from war twice.

He hesitated to speak of what might be confidential but he had heard two British cabinet ministers comment on criticism of the British action regarding the Italian invasion of Ethiopia. They said certain nations had urged them to go to war but when they were asked what help they would give had declined to furnish any.

Offered No Advice

With respect to relations with the Empire, Mr. McKenzie King said Canada did not offer advice to the United Kingdom and did not feel bound by the United Kingdom's decisions.

"Our foreign and external policy is one of peace and friendliness—a policy of trying to look after our own interests and to understand the position of other governments with which we have dealings," the Prime Minister said in his general statement.

"It is not and cannot be a headline policy. It is simply the sum of the countless daily dealings with other countries, the general result of an effort to act decently and a hope of receiving the same treatment from others."

Canada had no ambitions requiring aggression or expansion for their fulfillment, no grudges, nor envy and no desire to interfere with the distiny of other nations. "We know and the world knows that we have neither the power nor the will to attack any land for our own ends. Nor are we inclined to organize to join crusades.

"Any danger of attack upon Canada is minor in degree and second-hand in origin. It is against chance shots that we have to defend ourselves. The truth of this is recognized in every country."

Fight Or Surrender

Mr. Bennett reduced the whole question of Canada's foreign policy to what he declared to be the fact that if the Empire was at war Canada would be called upon to at least defend herself or surrender.

There was no alternative to that except separation from the Empire, and he hoped he would never see that come to pass. Canada had won a high place among the trading nations of the world because she was a part of the Empire. The British Navy protected her trade routes.

"The power that protects us is not the power of Canada," Mr. Bennett declared, "and a frank recognition of that is essential in an expression of Canadian foreign policy."

Mr. Bennett agreed the League of Nations was unlikely ever to involve Canada in a war because "the League has fallen to pieces and ceased to function for the purposes for which it was created."

He agreed also that Canada was unlikely ever to be forced into conflict because of conduct of her own affairs. But he did not agree she was unlikely to be attacked. If the Empire or any of its members was at war Canada would be attacked by the common enemy, and no action of Parliament could prevent it.

Automatically at War.

It was idle to talk of Parliament deciding whether or not Canada would go to war. If the emergency arose and the Crown were attacked, Canada would be at war automatically. The only decision would be what steps if any would be taken for defence.

Canada was on an equal status with other members of the Commonwealth, but the Westminster statute of 1926 making her independent had also declared she was freely associated with other members of the family of nations and with common allegiance to the Crown.

That association involved Canada making common cause with other member nations and there was no escaping it except by separation.

Mr. Woodsworth said he believed he would be much nearer the policy of the Prime Minister than that of the Opposition Leader "if I knew what the policy of the Prime Minister really was." While he appreciated the statement of the Prime Minister he could not find in it any clear indication of Canadian policy.

He was interested in the opinion of the Prime Minister that Canada was not likely to be attacked in view of the fact that reasons for large appropriations for defence recently had been based on the danger of attack.

Mr. Woodsworth thought the Government should say at once to the United Kingdom that Canada would or would not assist in the event of war involving the Empire.

While the policy of the C.C.F. was to remain neutral in all wars and to take armed action only in defence of Canada, Mr. Woodsworth would prefer to see an international police army rather than great national war machines.

Students Clash With Socialists In Mexico City

Students of the National University in Mexico City are shown filing into the building after Socialists, with whom they had clashed, had been ousted by police. Socialists took advantage of the students' absence on vacation to take possession of the university buildings which they consider a right wing stronghold. Revolvers and knives were used in the hostilities and combatants on both sides were injured. The disturbance is part of the general unrest sweeping over Mexico in the wake of the government's oil expropriations action.

LILY LAKE

Many beautiful and useful gifts were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Everett Tully (formerly Helen Rowland) in a miscellaneous shower presented to them in Braeley's Hall last week.

During the evening also an appropriate address was read to the bride and groom by Cecil Hancock and the presentation of a handsome Kenwood blanket and Alladin lamp was made by Marguerite Darling and Harold Thompson, on behalf of Lily Lake Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Society. Arrangements for the evening were in charge of Cecil Hancock and Jack Ferguson, while the address was signed by Margaret Middleton, Jack Ferguson, Evelyn Young and Stanley Darling. After thanking their many friends for the splendid gifts, all joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

Music for dancing was supplied by the Monaghan Mountaineers and Stan Jackson and M. McWilliams were the efficient callers.

SOMETIME WITHIN the next twelve months, thousands of motorists are going to buy cars in or above the LaSalle price group—and still not get LaSalles!
Many of these people, we suspect, will do this simply because of a misconception as to LaSalle's price. They believe that because LaSalle is so high in quality, it is probably also high in price.
This is decidedly not true! Actually more than half of all motor car manufacturers have models selling at or above the price of a new LaSalle V-8!
Remember this when you buy your next car. It's only common sense to do this—because a Cadillac-built LaSalle will give you far more performance, far more comfort, and far more safety—as well as far more prestige and general satisfaction.
Investigate before you invest. Compare prices—compare cars. Don't envy the man who owns a LaSalle. Get one!

Is Feared Drowned

OWEN SOUND, Ont.—Fears were held today that Thomas Fanning, who set out on Georgian Bay this morning in a rowboat from Balaclava, was drowned. The boat and one of its oars were found some distance from the shore by William Moulton, fisherman.

Boys Better Singers

TORONTO—Boys make a better church choir than any other collection of soprano voices, Dr. Sydney H. Nicholson, director of the English school of church music, said here today in an interview. Dr. Nicholson is here to direct an ascentiontide choral festival.

DRIVER CHARGED FAILING TO GIVE PROPER SIGNAL

John S. Kidd, Dummer township, charged before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning with having made a left turn on Highway 28 without giving a signal and under circumstances that made a turn unsafe.

The charge was the aftermath of an accident near Nassau on May 17 in which Kidd's car and another automobile driven by Harold Haig, London street, figured.

Kidd, who pleaded not guilty, was defended by T. J. Carley, K.C., while Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

Harold Haig, who said he was 17 and had been driving a car for eighteenth months, testified that he had seen Kidd's car ahead of him on the Lakefield road on the evening of the accident. Kidd was only driving 15 or 20 miles an hour and the witness was doing 40 miles. As his car got to a car's length of Kidd's machine and was about to pass witness said he sounded his horn twice. Kidd's car began to turn to the left and witness said he swerved his own machine over to the left side of the road, continued there until he struck a laneway, returned to the road and came into contact with Kidd's car after which Haig's car went across the road, along the right shoulder of the road some distance and turned over in the ditch. He swore that Kidd did not put out his hand or give any other signal that he was about to turn.

Closely Cross-examined.

Mr. Carley cross-examined the witness closely as to the speed at which he was travelling before the accident but Haig maintained that he was driving at about 40 miles an hour.

"I put it to you," said defense counsel, "that you were driving closer to 60 miles an hour."

Haig denied that such had been the case.

Traffic Officer Gordon Broughton testified that when he investigated the accident Kidd admitted that he had not given any signal. He had told the officer he did not see the Haig car. Two brothers-in-law of the defendant, Bert and Gordon Lockington, had been there and both of them, as wel las Kidd, had said that Haig was not driving faster than the speed limit.

Officer Broughton told Mr. Carley that marks showed that after the impact of the two cars, the Haig machine had travelled 154 feet before going into the ditch.

Caled by the defence Bert Lockington denied that he had told Officer Broughton anything about the speed of the Haig car. He had seen Kidd's car going along the road he said, and he judged that the sound of the impact and of the horn blowing were almost together.

Gordon Lockington, who was on his own property on the Lakefield Road when the accident happened, also testified before the court adjourned for luncheon.

Thieves Break Into Coldsprings Factory

(Special to The Examiner)

MADOC, May 25.—Thieves believed to have been transients broke into the Coldspring cheese factory near Madoc on Sunday and made away with part of one cheese. They also cut a hole in one of the tires on the automobile of the cheesemaker, Thomas Neal, who was away at the time. The cheese was cut up in the factory and parts of it not carried away.

The Rambling REPORTERS

USED SAME WORD

Chief Dan Whetung of the Curve Lake Reserve told the Examiner: "I noticed a young man from The Examiner went to the Old Country on a cattle boat and sent a cable telling of his arrival and did it in one word 'Okay.' That reminds me that several years ago I received a letter of inquiry from a man in the States who wanted to come out this way for a vacation. He wanted to know everything that was to be known before he started out to make the trip, so he had listed all the questions he wanted answered, and as there were eighteen of them it would have taken quite a letter to tell him everything he wanted to know. So when it came to answering that letter I just included all 18 questions in one answer and wrote "Everything okay." And he came."—K.

IN WRONG PLACE.

A funeral is not often a part of a sight-seeing itinerary, but it was on Tuesday for a group of young Toronto people who were visiting St. Andrew's Church.

About 12 cars of the visitors set out on a trip around the city, journeying first to the top of Armour Hill for a general view of the territory which they were about to inspect. Returning, the party reached the traffic light at George and Hunter Streets just as it was turning from green to red. The leaders, alone familiar with the city, got through on the green, the others were halted. When the light turned they raced ahead to catch up with their leaders, and soon saw a small procession ahead of them, and so joined it.

The procession was travelling slowly, the visitors thought, but reasoned probably their hosts wished them to get the best possible view of the city. Not until the cars ahead of them reached Little Lake Cemetery did they realize they were in the wrong gathering. They spent the rest of the afternoon sight-seeing without guides.—P.

RECKLESS DRIVER IS FINED $10, COSTS

George Scholey, 22, pleaded guilty to reckless driving, before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in Police Court this morning, and was fined $10.00, and $3.00 costs. In addition his driving permit was suspended for 15 days.

Traffic Officer Archie Menzies told the court the accused had driven along Park Street at 40 miles an hour, crossing an intersection at that speed and almost hitting a pedestrian. Traffic was heavy at the time, the officer stated.

For speeding, James Guiry was fined $5.00, and costs, and Wesley McClure was assessed the same amount for not having markers on a trailer. W. A. Reid of Millbrook was asked to contribute $2.00, and $1.75 costs, for angle parking.

MILTON CLARK WINS POSTER CONTEST

The poster contest conducted annually by the local W.C.T.U. resulted this year in a number of fine posters sent in from three of the city schools to Mrs. E. Wand, superintendent of this department. Acting as judges were Miss C. E. Wagar and Charles Saunders. The lucky winners were finally chosen as follows:

First prize—Milton Clark.

Third prize—Equally divided between Ernest Darling, Miss Greene's class, Prince of Wales' School; Rosemary Blaiklock and Kenneth Burnham, Mr. Kerr's class, King George School, Jean McIntyre, Prince of Wales' School.

Honorable mention was awarded the posters contributed by Mamie Henry, Thelma Frost, and Mary King, of Prince of Wales' School; William Scott, of Queen Mary School; and Garth Choate, of King George School.

The prize-winning posters will be on view in Hall's store windown this week.

GARDENERS FEAR FROST DAMAGE

Dawn this morning presented the city's roofs white with hoar frost, a candescent afterglow of the winter that is supposed to have retreated into Antarctic regions. A. O. Phillips, official weather recorder, said his thermometer registered 34 degrees, two points above freezing, but market gardeners reported quite a heavy frost which they believed had done more damage than they could immediately estimate.

"You could scrape the frost off the hot beds this morning," Bruce Johnston of North Monaghan told the Examiner, "but you couldn't tell at a glance what the effects will be. Some of the tender plants recently set out must have suffered, and it may be that strawberry blossoms were also hit."

LOVE BLOOMS ANEW

HORNELL, N.Y., May 25 (AP).—Love has bloomed anew after 60 years for a Hornell man, 84, and an Andover woman, 78. Childhood sweethearts, John Wood and Mrs. Lena Hood Babcock planned to wed here May 31. Parted in childhood, Mrs. Babcock received a letter from Wood recently. She said she failed to remember him, "but I wrote anyway." Instead of replying, Wood hastened to Andover and proposed and the wedding day was set. Mrs. Babcock has been married once and Wood twice.

Main Street Topics

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up By Examiner Reporters.

TO DISTRIBUTE PLANTS.

A supply of tomatoes and cabbage plants wll be distributed from the relief office on Thursday. Those persons having relief gardens are asked to call.

ERROR IN ADDRESS.

By some error either of misinformation or misunderstanding a wrong address was given in The Examiner on Monday regarding an eviction on Victoria Avenue. The correct address was 53 Victoria Avenue and not 52.

ONLY TWO DRUNKS.

Victoria Day produced only two over-thirsty customers for Magistrate Langley's examination this morning. One pleaded not guilty and secured an adjournment for a week; the other said guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

DE LAVAL BUSY.

From all accounts the brightest spot on Peterborough's industrial map at the present time is the De Laval Company. The big dairy plant has been running along smoothly since the first of the year apparently with no awareness of recession or any other kind of droop in business.

TO ADDRESS KINSMEN

Professor E. W. Morse of Trinity School, Port Hope, will address the Kinsmen club at its meeting on Thursday night. His subject will be "The World's Narcotic Problem." Professor Morse has for some years studied his subject and his address is being eagerly looked forward to by the Kinsmen.

INFORMATION WANTED.

Information is wanted by the city police in regard to Wm. Earle, 18, of Niagara Falls, supposed to be in Peterborough at the present time. He is wanted at his home, and anyone who knows anything about him is asked to communicate with the police station. Earle is 18, about 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighs 141 pounds, and has blond hair.

MONGRAW REMANDED.

Charged with the theft of the use of a car belonging to Walter Belleghem, Hunter Street, Fergus Mongraw asked through his lawyer, T. J. Carley, K.C., for a remand when arraigned before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this morning and the case went over until June 1. "I have not had an opportunity to talk things over with the boy's father," Mr. Carley told the court in asking for a remand.

A FISHERY OFFENCE.

J. Mehalick, who pleaded guilty to fishing with unbaited hooks at the Peterborough Lock, was fined $10.00, and $2.50 costs, in Police Court this morning.

TO HOLD INQUEST

The drowning of Charles Joyes and James Murphy in the Otonabee River near Bensfort Bridge last Saturday night will be investigated at an inquest before Coroner Dr. Herbert Young and a jury in the police court here on Friday night.

AWNING BURNED

Although the small boys, and others not so small, were tossing fireworks and firecrackers around promiscuously Tuesday, the only damage reported was a hole burned in the awning of the Playmor store on Charlotte street.

VOTED FOR BILL

Rork Ferguson, member for Hastings-Peterborough was one of the five Liberals who supported the bill introduced into the House by A. W. Neill that would have placed Japanese immigration on the same basis as Chinese—in other words would have excluded them. The bill was defeated by 79 to 42.

HOLIDAY TRAFFIC

Provincial Traffic Officer Lloyd McClure reported holiday traffic Tuesday as about the heaviest of the year on Highway 28 while Traffic Officer Gordon Broughton said the volume on Highway 7 was not abnormal. Both officers said the driving was uniformly careful and there were no accidents to report.

ROPE IS FIXED

Using the 65-foot ladder of the fire department, Max Peters made his way to the top of the big flagpole in Confederation Square on Monday afternoon and replaced the rope that had been pulled out from the top of the pole. Firemen supported the ladder as Peters climbed to the top of the slender pole.

CATERPILLARS MULTIPLY

Farmérs have been reporting that the caterpillar' colonies along the fences are more numerous than they have been for years. The wild cherry trees are stripped of leaves, and apple trees are also attacked. It is likely that there is not an effective spraying machine in the whole of Peterborough county to combat the caterpillar test, but possibly some farmer who has retained interest in its orchard is equipped with a complete spraying outfit.

ENGINEERS TO TORONTO

Members of the Peterborough branch of Engineer Institute of Canada will visit the new William H. Wright Building in Toronto, Friday evening, to see the new plant of The Globe and Mail, and the printing of the first of its Saturday editions. They have already been notified by the secretary to meet in The Globe and Mail Building at 9 p.m. (summer time), and it is likely that they will spend two or three hours observing the production methods of the big newspaper plant.

CAR IN DITCH

Henry Booth, 147 Hart Avenue had a narrow escape from serious injury when his car plunged off Monaghan Road near the corner of Wolfe street Tuesday night and landed rightside up in a deep ditch. Both got over too far to the right side as he was driving north on Monaghan Road and when he swerved abruptly to the left, he apparently lost control of the car which shot across the street and into the ditch. He was unhurt but the front of the car was damaged considerably.

New Masonic Temple

Campbellford residents are proud of the new Masonic Temple that graces their town. Work has been progressing on the building, formerly a theatre, since early last fall. Final touches are at present being given to the floor of the auditorium and the landscaping around the outside of the building. Masons held their first meeting in their new quarters just recently.

SEAT PLAN OPENS FOR "Y" PAGEANT

The reserved seat plan for the Y.W.C.A. Gymnasium Pageant, which opened this morning, was an encouraging token of a large and appreciative audience. All morning the "Y" office was a busy scene as the line up exchanged tickets. There are still available some fifty cent seats which have not been reserved and these are now available. There are also good seats at seventy-five cents and the thirty-five cent rush section should also be a popular sell out.

The discouragements of a new place for the pageant this year have all been overcome and the splendid co-operation of all gym classes taking part, has meant much in building up a bigger and better pageant than ever. The wonderful large stage, artistically decorated, provides space for a much prettier setting than ever before and allows new work in large formations, with plenty of space, as the children say the stage will be like a "three ring circus." The finale of the Sea Ballet makes a beautiful picture as the gold fish swim off to corners among the sea weed and snow white baby gulls flit over the sandy beach where children play among the oysters, lobsters and sea anenomes.

WORK IS RESUMED ON BANCROFT ROAD

Work on the Apsley-Bancroft highway has been resumed by the contractors, Curran and Briggs, Limited, of Toronto. They began operations last fall and carried on until the cold weather halted them. Within the last week they started to work again on the section of the road extending south from Hubble's Corners toward the Haliburton boundary. The contract that is being done by Curran and Briggs is on the ten-mile stretch south of Bancroft.

Johnston Brothers, Limited, of Brantford have a similar contract north of Apsley, but are not likely to continue their operations for a month or two.

FLYER INJURED

SOUTHAMPTON, England, May 25 (C.P.-Havas). — Pilot Officer A. Keith Hunter was severely injured to-day when a seaplane he was flying burst into flames. He came down in a parachute as the plane dropped into Weymouth Bay.

Hunter, the only occupant of the plane, which was from the Royal Air Force Training School at Woodsford, was picked up by a motorboat and taken to a hospital.

SPORT BADGE FOR SOVIETS

Russia announces that about 4,500,000 physical culturalists have passed the tests for the "Prepared for Labor and Defence" badge, showing they have an all-round sport training.

Exploding Cracker Starts Small Fire

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 25. — Slight damage was done to a Front street store at noon Tuesday when a fire cracker lodged behind a wooden step to start a small blaze. Children were celebrating Victoria Day in the proverbial manner and part of a large canon cracker lodged behind the step and as smoke was seen emerging from it a call was put in to the fire department which responded and extinguished the blaze with a small quantity of water.

ROBERT MAXWELL FALLS FROM SHED DIES IN HOSPITAL

Robert Maxwell, 81, of 491 Aylmer street, a veteran Orangeman, died in Nicholls Hospital Tuesday night as the result of a heart condition brought on by shock and exposure following a fall from a shed at the rear of the above address early Tuesday morning.

Maxwell, who boarded with Miss Plunkett at 491 Aylmer street, had been unwell for several days. It is thought that early Tuesday morning he became confused and getting out of his bedroom window on the roof of a shed outside, fell or stepped off the structure, dropping seven feet to the ground. At all events, Victor Barrie, city fireman, who lives next door, was aroused by the sound of someone moaning as if in distress. The police were notified and Sergt. W. E. Wigg and P. C. Percy Sexsmtih investigated. They found Maxwell standing in a dazed condition in the yard. He was in his bare feet and clad only in his underwear and on the steps near him were several purses containing in all $223.49.

Dr. S. Y. Walsh was called and Maxwell was alter removed to Nicholls Hospital, where his death occurred Tuesday night.

Maxwell had been a resident of Peterborough for over 40 years, and was a familiar figure in Twelfth of July parades.

There will be no inquest.

BODY OF MURPHY FOUND IN RIVER

The body of James Murphy, second victim in a double drowning fatality on Saturday night, was recovered from the Otonabee river shortly after three o'clock on Monday by a volunteer crew who had dragged the river for two days Murphys body was only about two hundred feet from the shore.

Murphy's funeral was held this afternoon (Wednesday) from the family residence at 175 Rubidge street at 2 o'clock, Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson of St. John's Anglican church officiating. Interment was made at Little Lake cemetery.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. William Murphy, deceased was born in Quebec and had resided in Peterborough for the past 20 years. He was a member of St. John's Anglican church. and of the Loyal Orange Lodge. Number 50. Surviving are his sorrowing parents; four brothers, Ernest, Arthur, William, Harry, all of this city; and two sisters, Eelanor and Mrs. James Amyott, of Peterborough.

Four Persons Hurt Car Leaves Road

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 25—Four persons were hurt, none seriously when a car said to have been driven by George Bound of Seymour Township left the road on Sunday evening.

The accident occurred about 6 miles from Campbellford on the Stirling road and the car is thought to have left the road when the driver was unable to make a turn. The car was badly damaged and its occupants tossed around when it hit a tree on leaving the road. Provincial Constable Campbell investigated the accident and following laid a charge of wreckless driving against Bound.

Large Entry Seen For Amateur Show

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 25.—The amateur night being sponsored by local Rotarians is assured of a large number of entrants according to Earl A. Bell who has been receiving applications from entrants in various parts of the town and township. The contest is being held in the arena where a special stage is being held in the Arena where a special stage is being constructed and an amplifying system installed on June 6. Although the judges have not yet been named it is expected they will all be from out of town. The three winners of this contest will go to Roseneath to compete in the county finals for which Ken Soble will act as master of ceremonies. The winner at this contest will be heard on the radio station.

BIRMINGHAM, England — (CP). —Summoned for speeding a motorist here said he had been driving five years without a license and didn't know it was necessary. He was fined £17.50.

LINDSAY

FATHER AND SON RESIST OFFICERS OVER THEFT CASE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, May 25.—A serious automobile accident occurred on the Lindsay-Fenelon Falls Highway, near the town boundary, on Saturday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. J. Washburn, of Guelph, were en route to Fenelon Falls, and when near Stewart's corner, Mr. Washburn failed to notice the turn and the car took to the deep ditch. Mrs. Washburn sustained three fractured ribs and severe cuts about the head, while Mr. Washburn was cut about the head and suffered body bruises. Mrs. Washburn was taken to the Ross Memorial Hospital. The car was badly damaged.

Two residents of Cambray will appear in police court this week to face two serious charges as a result of a mix-up with the police. Provincial Constable Adair visited the home of a man named Douglas for the purpose of placing his son under arrest on the charge of theft. When he entered the home he found the father and son together, and the former told the son, it is alleged, not to submit to arrest, and declared there would be trouble if the officer undertook to place the boy in custody. The situation looked so serious that the officer decided to come to Lindsay for help. Together with Constable Symnett of Lindsay, and Constable Yule, of Beaverton, the officer returned to the Douglas home. The occupants were found to be in fighting mood, the father declaring that he was not afraid of the entire police force in Victoria County or County Crown Attorney Anderson. The trouble started in earnest when the officers proceeded to arrest the son. The two men were finally subdued, however. The son will be charged with theft and resisting arrest, and the father will face the charge of obstructing police officers in the discharge of their duties.

The story of a battle outside at Corson's Siding, during which knives were produced, will be told in police court this week when five residents of that district, together with a resident of Lindsay, will face Magistrate Gee. Too much moonshine mixed with wine, it is reported, caused the trouble. One man fared badly during the fight.

An auto collision occurred on Kent Street on Saturday afternoon in which a Peterborough and a Lindsay car figured. A. Brady, of Douro Street, Peterborough, was proceeding south after having crossed Kent Street, when he was sideswiped by a car driven by Garnet Fee, town. Damage to the two cars is estimated at $200.

Inspector Reports Case Of Starvation

The regular meeting of the Humane Society was held on Tuesday night with the president presiding.

The inspector, Dr. Thomas Johnston, gave a long and excellent report covering his month's work. A bad case of starvation was reported from Cavan and the owner is being prosecuted. A horse on the city streets with a bad case of ringbone was ordered off the streets.

Horses examined, 20; dogs brought to shelter, 35; dogs destroyed, 33; cats to shelter, 11; cats destroyed, 10; complaints investigated, 338; phone calls, 205; emergency calls, 27.

CHAPTER 44

The hot scones and tea for Barbara, the toast and marmalade and milk for Bobbie, had been served and the candles in the dining room had been lighted when Bobbie said: "I guess I'd better tell you. I didn't let Aunt Wenda know I was going to see you. I just left the name of the hotel at the desk so she wouldn't worry. She doesn't even know you're here."

"Drink your milk, Bobbie. It's lots of fun but it isn't quite fair to your aunt. I'll take you back now."

Bobbie's frightened voice interrupted. "Barbara! Here comes Aunt Wenda now. She's looking for me!..

To Barbara's surprise Wenda Ayer did not greet her coldly, nor demand that Bobbie come with her. Instead she said:

"Forgive me for interrupting but I had no idea what Bobbie's message meant. May I join you?"

She sat down and ordered a pot of tea. Then she said: "I didn't know that you were in London, Miss Kingsley. I thought you probably were married by now."

"Married?" Barbara asked. She wondered if the news of her engagement had reached Wenda, too. Undoubtedly it had. Therefore, it must have come to her through Garry.

"I'm going to be married soon," she said. "At the moment I'm very busy with my magazine. We're to be married in Paris, in a month or so."

"You've seen my play?"

"Yes, I enjoyed it very much." This was such a farce—to sit and chat with Wenda as though they shared some bond that let them relax in the firelight while they drank their tea.

"You wouldn't make a good actress, Miss Kingsley. You can't conceal your feelings. You are thinking at the moment that I'm a prize example of disloyalty because I walked out on Garry's play, after getting him to take me back."

Swift amazement flew to Barbara's eyes. What was it Wenda had said? After getting him to take me back!

But when she spoke, Barbara's voice was cool and unexcited. She said: "'Lost April' will miss you. You did a fine piece of work and you were excellent last night. You see, I didn't know you were here, either, until I happened to go to the play."

"You didn't know?" It was Wenda this time who did not conceal her surprise.

"No, I haven't been reading theatrical news."

"And Garry didn't tell you?"

Ah, then Garry must be in town, too, and Wenda thought that he had seen her. That, then, accounted for Wenda's sudden interest.

"It's been a long time since I've seen Garry," Barbara answered coldly. She was grateful that Bobbie interrupted. A punch and Judy show was being presented at a charity tea in another room, and he had caught a glimpse of the puppets.

Wenda spoke unexpectedly. "Run along, Bobbie, and watch it." She turned back to Barbara and her eyes were gleaming wickedly. "Excuse me, Miss Kingsley, but aren't you marrying Garry Page?"

"No, of course not!"

"Oh, goodness!" Wenda began to laugh, and she did not talk for a moment. Then she said: "Oh, that's funny! It's too funny for anything! It's Ray Lipton then, isn't it?"

Barbara threw her head higher. "I'm afraid I can't see why you should be so amused."

Wenda wasn't through. "You're marrying Ray Lipton and you don't love him any more than you love Bobbie. Oh, of course, you like them both. You still love Garry Page. You're as transparent as ao piece of cellophane."

Barbara knew that Wenda was watching her closely, that Wenda was not sure of the ground on which she trod. She knew, too, that whatever might be the matter between Garry and Wenda, Garry had not come to her. He had taken Wenda into the play—maybe at Wenda's own insistence — and Wenda had been in his apartment. If Garry had yielded to Wenda's charms and pleadings than, he would do so again. This knowledge made her voice hard as flint, aflame with fury, as she answered.

"I don't know what it is you want, Miss Ayer, but my life definitely does not touch your nor that of anyone you want!"

Wenda's laughter ceased. "You little fool, I don't want him! Do you think any man can talk to me the way Garry Page did and get away with it? I'm laughing because he isn't going to get you after all. Oh, I know that night I came to his apartment he flung himself out to go down and vow deathless love to you. You needn't sit there and pretend such innocence of the whole thing."

"The night you left your vanity case at Garry's apartment, wasn't it?" Barbara supplied, pieces of memories falling in place like a mosaic.

"Yes, it was. So he even told you that!"

"No, he didn't." She spoke slowly. Far away small bells were beginning to ring—bells that she had thought had silenced their tongues forever and forever. "I haven't seen Garry since the night of the murder except for a few moments, in a crowd, at a sailing party."

Wenda looked at her carefully. "I believe you are telling the truth." Then she drew a deep breath. "Well, since I've spilled the beans I might as well empty the whole pot. You've guessed enough by now. You'll be seeing Garry and I'm not going to have him filling in the details because he thought I was afraid to!" She flung her golden head higher.

"Garry told me he loved you, that he thought he always had loved you, and he meant to tell you so except he was so ashamed of himself. He seamed to have some idea that he was a damned fool for buying me an orchid and a few dinners."

Then, being Wenda, she dropped her acid touch. "I think the poor simpleton had an idea that I honestly would marry him!"

On an impulse Barabara leaned forward, not knowing that lamps shone deep wthin her eyes. She laid an eager hand on Wenda's arm. "Why did you tell me this?"

The other girl sighed a little wearily. "I honestly don't know. At first I thought you knew, and then it was sort of fun to watch you giving up Ray when you knew Garry wanted you. Now I'm going!"

She stood up, picked up gloves and purse, and crossed to the room where Bobbie had gone.

Barbara sat for a moment, trying to grasp the news that Wenda had left. Garry loved her! He had not returned to Wenda! But why hadn't he tried to see her? Why hadn't he come to her that night that he flung himself from his apartment and Wenda? She thought back, over the nights that had happened before she left New York. She remembered a time or two when the telephone had rung and stopped before she reached it.

To all of these questions Garry would know the answers. And the roses he had sent, the glorious, golden roses. . . .

"Oh Garry, Garry, my dearest dear!" she breathed, and doubled the tip she ordinarily would have left for the waitress.

Only one thing was vivid in her mind. She must get back to Garry! She would not ask for that change of country now. Garry had looked thinner that day at the boat, and his eyes had sought her eyes, but she had looked away. She remembered how gay and impersonal she had been and she felt a little choked sensation in her throat. She had known, even then, that Garry had something to say to her. If only she had listened, so much time could have been saved!

And Ray . . . poor Ray, who was so loyal and dear, and whom she would have loved as best she could. He, too, in time would realize that her best would not have been good enough for him. She trembled when she realized how nearly she had married Ray.

But now she must go home . . . home!

The people who were taking her to the inn to dinner came in a little while. They had a long motor hide first. It was a place called the Porridge Pot Inn, once a favorite of Shakespeare's and located in the Avon territory, to which they went. Barbara found herself remembering the day that she and Ray had come through this country but her heart held no painful memories, no regrets. She and Ray had had a good time together. That was over. The very manner in which she could forget him showed her again how little her emotions had been involved.

It was late in the evening when her friendes dropped her at her hotel. When they had driven away, Barbara decided she wolud take a walk. She would go to see the pleasant, plump old lady at the luncheroom, to whom she had confided that first strange night in London.

She passed a news stand on the way. Sometimes the old lady at the lunchroom was busy with other customers. Since Barbara had not seen the afternoon papers, she purchased one to read while she drank her coffee. She threw back her head, loving the foggy air, the omnibus, and the chimes from the clock in Westminster Abbey.

The elderly proprietress was engaged when Barbara entered the lunchroom, so she opened her paper to the American news. She read one item, found another, and started it. Then the whole room swayed crazily and she clutched the counter to keep from falling. She must not faint! She must read those words again!

Your Nerves Can Be Friend or Enemy

Don't Let Nerves Get You Down

Mrs. Hayes tries to repress her nerves, but haggard looks, aging lines are the only result. Expression—not repression—is the cure she needs.

Like most nervous types, she has keener emotions, more creative energy than the average person. But these qualities—which could keep her so young and lovely—she bottles up until they turn to "nerves".

If she would only find a way to express herself, would choose a hobby, such as rhythmic dancing, making hooked rugs, growing unusual flowers! Her nerves would disappear, her old vivacious charm would return.

But Mrs. Hayes protests she has no time for such things! Nonsense! When she conquers her "nerves" carries out a health program, she'll feel so well, so alive, her work will be done in half the time.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of OVERCOMING "NERVES" AND EVERY-DAY HEALTH PROBLEMS to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Wives May Resent the Theory That They Must Make Many Sacrifices, But They Must Learn That Connubial Bliss Is the Only Road to Success for Themselves

NOTHING else in the world so infuriates women as to urge upon them the importance of retaining their husbands' affections. The mere suggestion that they should strive to keep their husbands in love with them and glad they married them see red and have homicidal impulses toward the adviser.

"Why is it any more necessary for a wife to retain her husband's affection than it is for him to retain hers?" they demand as with one angry voice "Why should a wife make any more effort to please her husband than he should make to please her? Why should a wife have to yes-yes her husband and side-step all of his little prejudices and peculiarities, while he can be as grouchy as he pleases and walk roughshod over all of her feelings? Why should a husband feel he has a perfect right to fall in love with a platinum blonde if his wife gets fat and old while he expects her to see a romantic figure in him, no matter how paunchy and bald he gets? It isn't fair that there should be one code for conduct for wives and another for husbands?"

Of course, it isn't fair, but it's that way. When the Creator made women He bestowed upon them many perquisites and privileges, but justice was not included among them. In every relationship between the sexes men get the best of the bargain. Especially in marriage never a fifty-fifty proposition. On the wife is laid the heaviest par of making it a success.

So the answer to the question of why it is more important for a woman to retain her husband's affections than it is for him to retain hers is, just because it is. Because life is like that. And chiefly because marriage, to a woman, is not only a vocation, but an avocation. It is her career. Her profession. Her meal ticket. Whereas to a man it is a side issue. Something that adds to his comfort, happiness and prosperity if it turns out happily, but that, in any case, doesn't stop him from being a lawyer or a doctor or a business man and making a living.

Most girls in these days are trained for some sort of gainful occupation but, no matter how much time and money one has spent in fitting herself for a profession, she nearly always gives it up when she marries. Marriage then becomes her career, her life work. The thing into which she puts the labor of her hands, her hopes and ambitions. And if that goes blooey she is bankrupt in purse as well as heart.

The divorced woman is one who has lost her job just as definitely as any stenographer who has quit in a temper or been discharged for incompetence or sassing the boss, and often enough she finds that there are few opportunities open to middle-aged women whose only asset is a smattering knowledge of domesticity. That is a good reason why it is just as much business sense for a wife to use as much tact and soft soap in handling her husband as she would in handling an employer.

Another reason why it is important for wives to keep their husbands in love with them is because it is money in their pockets and fine clothes on their backs and automobiles in which to ride. This is no romantic theory. It is an established fact that nothing is such an important factor in a man's success as for him to be happily married. If he has peace at home, he has quiet of mind in which to concentrate on his work. If he thinks his wife the greatest woman in the world, it fires his ambition to crown her with honors and puts strength in his arms to toil to bring her the richness of the earth.

Look about you and you will realize that almost all of the prosperous men in your community are those who are crazy about their wives. Also, you will note how often a man begins slipping financially as well as morally when he tires of his old wife and begins philandering around with young girls. So it pays a wife to keep her husband from spending his money on the Other Woman by continuing as a Lady Love herself.

The biggest reason of all for a woman making an effort to keep her husband in love with her is because that is the one and only way in which she can secure her own happiness. Connubial love isn't everything to a man. He has his career, his ambitions, his outside interests to console him even if his wife is indifferent and his marriage not all that he had hoped it to be. But a woman's life is centered in her affections and her home, and if her marriage is a failure all the balance is cinders, ashes and dust.

So it pays a woman to guard the treasure she values most.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

LOOP-THE-LOOP IN A HOOP

Down the street ran little Frank, rolling his wooden hoop before him. He tapped it with a stick, steered it, made it go faster and slower just as he pleased.

And right behind the boy ran his shadow, Knarf, keeping right in his master's footsteps. He glided along the pavement sliding over the bumps, dodging around the tree trunks, turning around corners.

"Slower! You're going too fast!" the shadow cried. "You're dragging me all around! Now let me roll that hoop and you follow behind!"

Then Knarf thought of a scheme. "All right," he grumbled, "I'll go along with you and that hoop. But I'm not going to run. I'm going to roll. Just watch me!"

Rolls Down Hill

Do you know what the shadow did at that moment? He sprang right inside the moving hoop, curled himself around, and went rolling with it. And now he cried: "Faster! Faster!" One moment he was standing on his head and the next moment he was standing on his feet. "This is wonderful! Now I'm enjoying myself."

All at once Knarf saw that the hoop was coming to a corner. His master began getting ready to steer around it. Then Knarf said: "Ugh-ugh!" and pushed with all his might. And instead of turning the corner, the hoop suddenly shot straight ahead. It bumped over the curb and started rolling down the hill.

"Come back! Come back!" cried the boy, racing after it.

"Now I've got it!" Knarf shouted back. "Now I'm going to roll it myself, all the way down the hill!"

Do you know what happened to Knarf? The hoop finally rolled down to the bottom of the hill and bumped right into a stone wall and flew up in the air. And Knarf went flying so high that it wasn't until his master finally reached the bottom of the hill that he dropped down under his footsteps again. He didn't try to roll the hoop any more after that! Oh no!

"The Authority on Authorities"

FIVE-SUIT SAFETY

SAFETY PLAYS are just as important in Five-Suit Bridge as in four-suit contract. They exist in one additional form—the correct use of the widow card. Another important principle of the old game—to adopt even an improbable course if it affords the only possible way to make your contract—also fits. It too may be extended to the placing of the widow card. In brief, you want to give yourself every possible chance to succeed, either through a safety play increasing your probabilities or through a desperate stab preserving your sole hope.

South started the action here with a diamond and after North bid an Eagle he tried 1-No Trump, although he had no heart stopper. North rebid Eagles at two, South rebid no trump at the same level and North raised to 3-No Trumps.

When the heart J was led, South regretted his optimism and saw that game would be out of the question unless he could bring in the dummy's Eagles. If he had put the widow Eagle deuce in the dummy to lengthen that suit, he would have been thrashed, unless the A fell on the first round. Instead he put it in his own hand, discarding the spade deuce.

With five Eagles in the opponents' hands, his fate depended on the A coming in on the second round. If the player holding it had three, he would surely hold it up twice and thus beat the contract. The odds were three to two that this would happen, but the short end developed. The man with only two spades had the A, so the contract was made—four Eagles, one heart, four diamonds, one club and one spade, the 11 tricks required for three-odd over the eight-trick book.

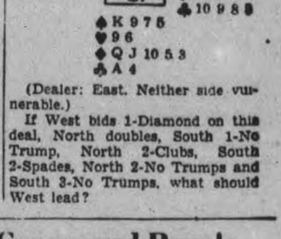
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

If West bids 1-Diamond on this deal, North doubles, South 1-No Trump, North 2-Clubs, South 2-Spades, North 2-No Trumps and South 3-No Trumps, what should West lead?

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, May 26.

A very propitious state of affairs may be looked for under this day's sidereal direction, with all things under an impetus for action, growth and expansion, particularly in those things relating to business, writings, publishing or promotion. It seems a good time for pushing for new contracts or major undertakings, with finances ready for meritorious propositions.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year with an outlet for their well-stimulated energies and ambitions, with the support of influential personages awaiting meritorious and practical propositions.

A child born on this day may be ambitious, energetic, capable and have a fine initiative, which may attract financial support for sound business ideas. It should be personally popular, attractive, and socially successful.

Lily Lake Society Entertains Guests

A picnic in which a number of the leading Christian Endeavour members throughout Ontario, joined with Lily Lake Society, was held in the city yesterday. Due to the cool weather, meetings were held in St. Andrew's Church, and lunch was served at 12:30 to a large gathering in the dining hall.

The visitors were cordially welcomed by the local members, and during the afternoon a softball game was played in Nicholls Oval between Lily Lake and a number of the visitors, resulting in a victory for the home team of 12 to 2 for the men, and a similar victory for the girls. Following the game the visitors were taken to Armour Hill for a view of the Liflocks and Filtration plant. Some of the party were given a thrill when they crossed the floating bridge of Chemong for the first time. The young people were much impressed with the beauty of Peterborough and its surroundings. At 5 p.m. supper was served to a large crowd. The tables were in charge of the Misses Alta and Rheta Wilson, Reta Darling, Edith Hancock, Margaret Tully, assisted by Cecil Hancock, Jack Ridyard and a large number of helpers. After the supper a religious service was held, under the leadership of Wm. Tait of Toronto. Wm. Rae, also of Toronto, led community singing, and a period of sentence prayers was held, in which may joined. Gilbert Rae, Toronto, spoke on Faul's conversion, and emphasized the readiness with which he placed himself at God's disposal. Bill Webster spoke of the forthcoming Sunday School annual convention, which is to be held at Elgin House, Muskoka, in the autumn. The Lily Lake members, and the pastor of St. Andrew's Church were heartily thanked for their hospitality, to which Miss Alta Wilson ex-president of the society, and the Rev. E. W. Young replied.

Among those present from outside points were: W. T. Webster, president Ontario Christian Endeavor Union, Mrs. W. Webster and Allan Webster, Toronto, Annie Watts, Hilda Pegg, Ronald Neilly, Arthur Kirbyson, Albert Watts, New Market Christian Endeavor Society of the Christian Church, Margaret Thompson, Norma Sjoberg, F. Travel Talk Given Bible Class

The Treasure Seekers' Bible Class of St. James' United Sunday School held a very interesting open meeting on Friday evening in Wesley Hall. A good attendance of class members and friends gathered to enjoy the social hour, as well as the exceptionally fine program.

A. E. Prest, the former superintendent of the school, presided over the meeting, and the guests were welcomed by the class teacher, Mrs. W. H. Buckler, and the first vice-president, Mrs. E. L. Woodley. The devotional service opened with a hymn and prayer offered by the pastor, Rev. F. W. Craik. A delightful sacred solo, "Somehow I Know That He is Mine," was contributed by Mrs. R. C. Searles, with Mrs. H. F. Doig at the piano, and was very much enjoyed.

Short talks were given by the pastor and the Sunday School superintendent, E. R. Frost, concluding this part of the program.

During the social hour, refreshments were served under the convenorship of Mrs. A. Wilson and her competent group of assistants, including Mesdames Dinsdale, Bateson, Orr, Ball, Emery and Godfrey. Spring flowers in abundance formed an attractive setting.

Thanks were extended to all who assisted in making the meeting a success by the class president, Mrs. W. Rose, and Mrs. Woodley, and were heartily endorsed by all present.

Prince of Wales School Observes Empire Day

Empire Day was observed at Prince of Wales School on Monday afternoon, when an appropriate program was held in the kindergarten room preceding the inspection of the classrooms by parents and friends, and tea, served later by the Home and School Association.

Adjutant Neil Warrander of the Salvation Army was the special speaker, addressing a packed audience of pupils from the different classes. The significance of Empire Day, the example set by the great Queen it continues to honor, and the fact the British Empire has been built to a great extent on the character of its men and women, was emphasized by the speaker. Patriotic songs by different classes made up the remainder of the program for which Principal G. A. Mattice was chairman.

In the classrooms and halls, examples of the pupils' work and exhibits by the Manual Training and Domestic Science classes, taught by A. Hope and Miss Anne Jamieson, were on display. Tea was served in the kindergarten room, from a table attractive with white linen cloth, tulips in a crystal vase and red candles in silver holders. The guests were served by Mrs. H. Darling, the president, Mrs. F. Harrison and Mrs. C. Gardner. Mrs. W. Constable was convenor for the arrangements. Flags, large and small, were used to decorate the entrance and the platform for the affair.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Jackson Celebrate Golden Wedding

Many friends called at 295 Margaret avenue on Monday afternoon and evening to offer congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. James Jackson who were celebrating in the midst of their family the golden anniversary of their wedding day.

Mrs. Jackson, charmingly gowned in black chiffon over printed silk, with corsage of sweetpeas, received the guests with her husband, in rooms literally filled with many lovely floral expressions of goodwill and congratulation. In the dining room, tea was poured during the afternoon by Mrs. R. S. Cotton and Mrs. W. Howe, and in the evening by Mrs. W. E. Jackson, daughter-in-law of the house. The table was most effectively arranged with ecru lace cloth, gleaming silver services at either end, two crystal bowls holding golden roses, charming little crystal ornaments, and in the centre a two-tiered wedding cake, surmounted with gold horseshoe and gold lettering. Another daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. A. Jackson, assisted in entertaining the guests, and tea-room assistants were the three daughters of the house, Mrs. H. A. Cranfield, and the Misses Ruby and Hazel Jackson. J. E. Jackson of Detroit was the only member of the family unable to be present.

IS YOUR BABY GETTING A TOOTH?
YOUR BABY must "get a tooth". But he need not get a fever with it.
If baby's mother is wise he won't.
Here is what one wise mother, Mrs. Archie Begbie, of Consecon, has to say: "We have not lost one night's rest through teething as I always use my old standby, Baby's Own Tablets. They are worth their weight in gold."
And Mrs. Alfred Hauser, of Guelph, Ont., says: "I have eight children, have used Baby's Own Tablets for 21 years, and find them very beneficial during teething."
Give these safe, little tablets at the first sign of teething fever. Sweet-tasting, easy to take, prompt in action, yet safe for the most delicate baby. Analyst's certificate in every package.

PASSION FOR TAX COLLECTOR BLAMED FOR WOMAN'S CRIME

Married Church Worker Turned "Robin Hood"—Court Is Told

GETS SIX MONTHS

Launceston, Cornwall.—A married woman church worker who, her solicitor said, developed an infatuation for an ex-income tax collector, and then became "a kind of Robin Hood," stood in the dock here.

Admitting 11 charges of theft, Mrs. Florence Edith King, 43, wife of a Launceston grocers assistant, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

Among the articles stolen, some from an hotel, were petrol cans, bath towels, wine flagons, slippers, garden shears, and bags of potatoes.

In the dock with her stood Percy Cory, 60, of Launceston, insurance agent and former income tax collector for 36 Cornish parishes. For aiding and abetting Mrs. King, and receiving, he was sent to jail for one month.

J. C. Hubbard, for Mrs. King, stated that until the present offences, which began in 1934, she had an unblemished character.

"She was interested in church work and social activities," he said, "and there is no reason why she should not still be but for the fact that she met Cory.

"Mrs. King had accidentally burned some paper money, and asked Cory, as an insurance agent, if she could claim. Cory made an improper suggestion, and in consideration for some money Mrs. King became Cory's mistress.

"Since then Mrs. King has had an unholy infatuation for Cory, and has belonged to him, body and soul," said Mr. Hubbard.

"She changed from a perfectly honest and good wife to a life of deception. She adopted a Robin Hood kind of attitude, and stole in order to benefit others whom she considered to be less fortunate than herself."

Anthony Hawke, counsel for Cory, pointed out that of the eleven charges against Mrs. King, there were six in which Cory was not concerned, while two of the remainder had been withdrawn.

He complained that Cory had been made to "look like a strange mixture of Casanova and Fagin," and objected to his being described as an adulterer and seducer who led the woman into crime.

A police witness said that since her arrest, Mrs. King had done everything possible to assist the police in collecting evidence against herself.

NURSES WEAR MASKS AT PROTEST MEETING

'Left Decent Homes, Did Not Anticipate This Treatment," Says One

London—Nurses from L.C.C. hospitals in all parts of London attended a protest meeting organized by the London district of the Guild of Nurses at St. Pancras town hall to protest against some of the conditions of service under which they are working.

Nurses in white uniforms and wearing black masks addressed their colleagues from the platform.

One, an Irish girl who described herself as "just a baby in the profession," said that as one of the rising generation she felt that a stand must be taken by them in this protest, for unless something was done to give better conditions there would be fewer nurses in the course of time.

"We want something to look forward to," she said. "Some of us have left decent homes, but we did not anticipate this kind of treatment."

Resolutions demanding the immediate withdrawal of the spread-over system and the application of the 48-hour working week, the right for trained nurses to live out, and other improvements in service conditions, including conciliatory machinery for the settlement of grievances and full trade union recognition of the guild of nurses, were passed.

VICAR HALTS TROOPS MARCHING BY CHURCH

Against Law for Band to Interrupt Service, He Protests

Hull—A sensational incident took place at Hull during a parade of Hull Territorials after their annual church service at Holy Trinity church, the parish church of the city.

The various units had formed up to march past the saluting base at Queen's gardens, but when the parade passed into Lowgate with bands playing there was a sudden interruption.

The vicar of St. Mary's church, the Rev. Maurice Clack, ran out of the church in his surplus and, waving his arms in the air, said to the drum major in charge of the first band: "I protest, I protest."

"My service is interrupted. It is against the law for any military band to pass a church when a religious service is in progress."

The drum major waved the vicar aside and said he could do nothing at the moment.

The vicar, however, continued his protest and the commanding officer of the units, Colonel John Good, instructed his adjutant to stop playing until after they had passed the church.

OFFICIAL OF CLUB WED TO WAITRESS

Marriage to First Wife Dissolved in January

Liverpool—William Lees Evans, rich, middle-aged, gray-haired coal magnate, has married a waitress at Liverpool Constitutional club, of which he is vice-president.

Mr. Evans' marriage with his first formerly Miss Delia Carmody.

Mr. Evans" marriage with his first wife, a daughter of Sir Frederick Radcliffe of Tuesley court, Godalming, Surrey, was dissolved in January.

RUFFORD ABBEY SOLD COVERS 18,600 ACRES

Sherwood Forest Estate Likely To Be Converted to Building Development

Nottingham—The contract for the purchase of Rufford abbey, ancestral home of Lord Savile, in Sherwood Forest, and one of the show places of the dukeries, has now been signed.

The purchaser is Ald. Sir Albert Ball, a former Lord Mayor of Nottingham.

Sir Albert said that, as Lord Savile was a minor—he is 19—the contract would have to be confirmed in court.

The estate covers 18,600 acres, including several villages, but the contract does not include the valuable coal deposits.

The contents of the abbey, except for certain family pictures, are included in the sale. Among the articles are rare tapestries and valuable furniture and books.

Sir Albert stated that he would try to sell the residence. He regards parts of the state as ripe for building development.

BOY GETS ADVANCE ON DAMAGE AWARD

"Can't Wait Until He's 21," Judge Decides

Birmingham.—Thanks to Mr. Justice Goddard, a 12-year-old boy left Birmingham assizes with £10 ($50) in his pocket.

When the boy was awarded £228 ($1,140) for personal injuries, the judge said:

"I think the little boy should have £10 for himself, at once, so that he can buy something that he would like and have a bit of fun with it.

"It is not very interesting," he added, "to be told that you will have such and such a sum when you are 21. It is only right that a little boy who has suffered as much as this boy has should have something at once."

MURDER ALLEGED

Woman Faces Charge of Using Instrument Illegally

London.—Mrs. Margaret Cox, 34, widow, of East Ham, was at West London remanded, charged with the murder of Winifred Isabel Likeman, 29, who was stated to have died following the unlawful use of an instrument.

CELEBRATING PRINCESS ELIZABETH'S BIRTHDAY

The twelfth birthday of Princess Elizabeth was the occasion for a celebration at Windsor Castle, London, England, where the court was in residence. A "collar day" was proclaimed for the event and all officials wore their orders and decorations, the princess being heir to the throne. This picture shows the famous Grenadier Guards marching from Windsor Castle headed by the drum major in ceremonial dress as part of the celebration.

BUYING 18,600 ACRES IN SHERWOOD FOREST

Historic Property of Lord Savile Founded in 1148 To Be Sold

On this occasion his purchase involves 18,600 acres, including the four villages of Ollerton, Boughton, Dellow and Elkington, in addition to the ancient abbey istelf, founded 800 years ago by Gilbert the Gaunt, in which many members of the royal family have been entertained.

Sir Albert announced that he had been negotiating for some months with the trustees of the abbey. He expected a contract to be signed in the near future.

He added that the sale would include all the contents of the abbey except for a reservation regarding family portraits.

The abbey, which has been in the Savile family since the end of the 16th century, was originally a religious house of the Cistercian order.

DIED IN AEROPLANE

DRIVER WITH GUN AT BACK WAVED PAST BY POLICEMEN

ABANDONS $1,250

Preston.—With a robber pressing a revolver into his back, a mill manager here was compelled to drive his car past two policemen on point duty and ignore a police motor patrol.

The officers waved him on when he gave the signal. He passed to near to one that a whisper might have been a sufficient warning.

Farther down the road the driver passed within a few yards of a stationary police motor car in which sat two officers.

The driver of the car, Ernest Thompson Barnish, accompanied by his cashier, James Fowler, had collected nearly £1,500 ($7,500) from a bank to pay the firm's wage bill.

The gunman vanished with more than £1,200 ($6,000), in notes, after scattering £250 ($1,250), worth of silver over the floor of the car, in which he escaped and later abandoned at the docks.

Mr. Barnish and Mr. Fowler had just entered the car when a man opened the rear door, calmly sat down and, producing a revolver, said to Mr. Barnish, "Drive where I tell you."

Then started a nightmare drive of four miles through the crowded centre of the town to Factory-lane, a lonely winding path surrounded by fields.

Here the robber told Mr. Barnish to turn up a lane and drive beyond two railway arches.

A few yards past the second bridge he halted them and, still covering the men with the revolver, he ordered them out, jumped into the vehicle and raced away at a terrific speed.

INFANTS IN GAS MASKS

Manchester — Thirty-two school children, the youngest under three years of age, entered a gas-filled chamber in masks at a demonstration at the fire brigade headquarters in Manchester.

TWO CYCLING LOVERS HAVE LEGS CUT OFF

Collide With Motorist Driving on Wrong Side

They were injured — by being thrown from their motorcycle—because Cecil Raymond Walsh, sales manager, of Colebrook, Portsmouth, drove his car dangerously on the wrong side of Havant Rd., East Cosham.

Walsh was sent to prison for two months, and had his driving license suspended for three years.

PHANTOM CHOIR BOY IN DIDLING CHURCH

Vicar Vouches for Phenomenon and Recalls Old Legend

Chichester, Sussex.—At least four people have heard the phantom choir boy of Didling, a tiny hamlet in the Sussex downs near Midhurst. His voice has been heard among the blackened oak beams at the east end of the 13th century church there.

The vicar, the Rev. W. W. Whistler, states that he has heard the phantom singer three times.

When he first went to the parish six years ago he was told a voice was heard on rare occasions in the roof, but thought nothing of the story.

"One Sunday evening I heard the voice myself, a high and beautiful treble that might have belonged to a trained cathedral choirboy," he said. "I looked round the church to see who could be the owner. They were all old people, and suddenly the story came back to me.

"Since then I have heard it twice. The voice has not come from any one singing in the church, so what the explanation is I cannot understand."

MOUSE SCARE IS FATAL

Nottingham.—At an inquest on Mrs. Lily Reddall, 58, of Gedling, Notts, it was stated that the woman was scared by a mouse running across a floor, fell and broke her leg. She died from pneumonia.

COURT AWARDS HEART BALM TO EX-SALVATIONIST LASSIE

Gave Up Army for Fiance, She Says—Gets $875

"LOVED THEM BOTH"

London — A former Salvation Army girl, who, according to her counsel, had to choose between the army and her fiance and chose the young man, was awarded £175 ($875) breach of promise damages in London sheriffs' court.

She was Miss Emily Maud Oxenham, 29, of Highbury, who sued Reginald Frank Baker, a furniture mover, of Islington. Mr. Baker did not appear and was not represented.

I. H. Jacob, for Miss Oxenham, said the breach of promise was not denied and the question for the jury was one of compensation.

The couple first met in January, 1932, when Miss Oxenham was 23. Mr. Baker was seven months her junior.

The wedding was arranged for June 12, 1937, the banns were published, invitations prepared, bridesmaids' dresses bought, and even a deposit paid on the wedding cake.

Then Baker said: "I think we shall have to cancel everything," and kissed her good-by.

"Before she met him she was a Salvation Army officer," said Mr. Jacob, "and was very much in love with her work. Baker put her in a dilemma by saying, 'Either have me or the army.' Well, she chose him.

"She was one of eight sisters, and the only one unmarried, and you can imagine what a shock it was to her. She still has not recovered from it."

Miss Oxenham, a neatly dressed brunette, said that she had been in the Salvation Army since she was 14.

"I really loved them both, but I gradually dropped the army when he asked me to make the choice," she said. "I have never been back since." Baker was her first sweetheart.

"I really have never had a boy friend before," she said.

FINE FAIR SMUGGLER TREBLE GOODS' COST

Lost Her Head Under Questioning, Her Lawyer Asserts

Dover—A woman smuggler who was said to have lost her head and told an untrue story to customs officers was ordered to pay £250 ($750) treble value and duty on the smuggled goods, and was also fined £50 ($250) with five guineas costs.

Mrs. Hetty Davis of Hendon, N.W., pleaded guilty to making a false customs declaration concerning a white ermine fur coat, and to attempting to evade the payment of customs duty on the coat and on two silk nightdresses.

B. M. Stephenson, prosecuting, said when defendant arrived from Calais and was questioned about dutiable goods she declared a small quantity of perfumed spirits. When she was asked if she had anything else dutiable she said she had nothing.

When the fur coat was found she said it was purchased in England before she went abroad, and she signed a declaration to that effect.

A Paris invoice was found in her handbag, and defendant then said: "I am very sorry. It refers to the coat. I was silly and I apologize."

GIVES JUDGE PEEK OF SCAR ON LIMB

Woman Awarded $620 Damages for Unsightly Mark

London—A woman who complained that she had to wear a longer skirt because of a scar on her leg, took down her stocking in court for Judge Hargreaves to see the scar.

Miss Emily Prior, aged 27, of Notting Hill, sued Vauxhall Garage Co. for damages for personal injury sustained in an accident while she was bicycling at cross-roads near Knightsbridge, S.W.

"I have to wear special thick stockings to hide the marks, and cannot wear thin silk ones like other girls. "I have to wear a longer skirt, too," Miss Prior told Judge Hargreaves.

Judge Hargreaves awarded Miss Prior £134 ($620) with costs.

NEW COLOR SCHEME DESIGNED FOR JAILS

Green and Yellow Background to Improve Appearance

London.—Brighter prisons, with a color scheme of green and yellow and pictures to improve the appearance of the mess rooms, are referred to by Sir Samuel Hoare, the home secretary, in a letter to William Gallacher, Communist M.P. for West Fife.

Sir Samuel mentions two suggestions made by Mr. Gallacher after he visited Wakefield prison.

"Your first suggestion," Sir Samuel writes, "was that prisoners at the week-end, at any rate, should be allowed to wear their own clothes.

"I have considered this in consultation with the prison commissioners, but the difficulty about this proposal is that, as the quality of their clothes varies considerably, it would tend to emphasize differences of social status and so would run counter to the principle that all prisoners, whatever their social status, are treated alike in prison. I am afraid that, for this reason, it is not possible to adopt it.

"It is rather different from the suggestion you made to me on another occasion in regard to prisoners wearing their own clothes when receiving visits. This is being tested experimentally in two prisons.

"Your other suggestion was that some color should be introduced into the prison, especially in the mess rooms. The present color scheme of green and yellow was introduced only a few weeks ago and the prison commissioners regard it as generally satisfactory.

"They are, however, considering what can be done by providing additional pictures or otherwise to improve the appearance of the mess rooms."

LUXURIOUS SHELTER AGAINST AIR RAIDS

So Equipped Children Will Not Be Alarmed by Bombs

Chichester.—One of the most luxurious and strangest air-raid shelters in England has been built beneath a rock garden on an estate at Bosham, near here.

It is so constructed that children can play as usual, oblivious to the danger of enemy aircraft or of poison gas.

It has been equipped for general use, so that it will not be unusual for children to go down to the shelter in the event of an air raid, and they will not feel alarmed.

It is built of reinforced concrete with bomb-proof bricks and marble facings, and is secluded under the rock garden. Mr. Gestetner, who owns the estate, has had the shelter built in the form of a passage to link his two houses, with access by stairs from each house.

In it Mr. Gestetner will be able to offer safety to his friends and neighbors.

The shelter is fitted with ultra-modern steel furniture and on the walls are a number of yachting scenes. The windows are made of frosted glass, the floor is covered with a cork composition.

A radio set has been installed and a recess has been built for a cocktail bar.

There are table tennis facilities. There is also a glass tank holding 800 gallons of water with dozens of tropical fish swimming in it.

LIFE IS ATTEMPTED AS HAVEN REFUSED

Austrian Jewish Refugee Recovers in Croydon Hospital

Croydon.—Paul Rendi, 32-year-old Austrian Jew and friend of Major Fey, was escorted to an aeroplane at Croydon and with another Austrian refugee left for Amsterdam, where Rendi has friends.

Rendi arrived at Croydon the previous night, and on being refused permission to enter the country swallowed poison. He was taken to Croydon hospital and there recovered.

Rendi left the airport for Amsterdam. He looked pale and nervous as he walked to the machine beside a police officer.

ESCAPED PAIR OF CONVICTS NABBED IN PREMIER'S HOME

Returned to Prison After Three Weeks of Stolen "Honeymoon"

DRINK CHAMPAGNE

Geneva.—A stolen "honeymoon" in a premier's house, with free champagne thrown in, ended sadly.

Robert Duboin and Agnes Favre, lovers who escaped from prison at Sion, in the Vaud canton, were recaptured after three weeks of liberty.

Fifty gendarmes and police dogs had been searching for them day and night since their escape. Duboin was serving a life sentence for murder.

While the police were scouring the mountains the couple were living a peaceful and merry life in the unoccupied villa of the canton's premier, M. Marcel Gard, on the outskirts of the village of St. Luc.

After planning their escape, the woman took the bandit to the villa where she had once been a servant.

The villa's cellar was well stocked with choice wines, and the police found 15 empty champagne bottles in the kitchen.

BORING FOR OIL IN VICTORIA

Powerful Plant Operated by Geological Department Officials

Canberra, Australia — Geological department officials are taking keen interest in tests to determine oil bearing possibilities of territory south of Bairnsdale, Victoria.

Dr. Woolnough, geological adviser, and J. W. Binney, state engineer, have chosen a spot near Pelican Point for a deep bore to be made with a powerful boring plant imported from the United States.

OUTPUT OF OLIVE OIL LARGEST SINCE 1930

Italy Among Countries to Report Increased Production

Rome—The European production of olive oil during the 1937-38 season was the largest since the record year of 1930, according to an official statement issued by the International Institute of Agriculture.

The total oil production of Europe's major olive growing countries, namely Italy, Portugal, Jugoslavia and Greece, is as high as 1,065,000 tons.

Production has been exceptional in all countries. In Greece and Cyprus it is a record, while in Italy and Portugal it approaches the previous maximum reached in 1930.

SOUTHERN RHODESIT SEEKS POPULATION

Britain to Aid in Immigration Scheme

Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia.—A scheme to attract British immigrants to Southern Rhodesia is to be launched by the government of the colony working in conjunction with the 1820 Memorial Settlers' association. The greater part of the cost is to be borne by the Southern Rhodesian and British governments in equal contributions.

"It is the definite policy of the government to maintain the British population in the colony and it is with this object in view that the new scheme has been started," states an official memorandum.

TRY EMULATING HERO ONE DEAD, TWO HURT

Climbing Wall Like Legendary Figures Brings Disaster to Hindoos

Poona—One woman was killed and two men seriously injured in trying to emulate the exploits of an ancient Hindoo hero, Tanaji Malusare, at Sinhgarh Fort, about 17 miles from Poona.

One of the injured, a youth, tried to climb a rope suspended from the wall of the fort, and fell 25 feet. He was taken to hospital in a precarious condition.

An attempt was also made to imitate the legend of Tanaji, which relates how he entered the fort by means of a rope which was attached to an iguana's tail. The big lizard, it is said, climbed the wall and fixed its claws in the top to take the weight of the hero. But in the modern attempt the iguana turned back when half way up.

At this display, which was watched by a large crowd, another young man was bitten by a snake and his life was saved only by amputating part of his leg. An aged woman died of heart failure with climbing, and another fell into a tank in the fort, but was saved from drowning.

The occasion was an anniversary of the exploit of Tanaji Malusare, a lieutenant of Shivaji, ruler of Deccan, who lived in the 16th century.

AUSTRALIAN ORE TO JAPS

Sale Reported of 1,000,000 Tons From Yampi Sound

Perth, Western Australia—Japanese interests are reported to be behind a project to produce 1,000,000,000 tons of iron ore at Koolan Island, on Yampi Sound. The plant will embody the most modern methods in Australia, according to H. E. Vail, managing director.

CLAIMS GERMANS AID IN GOVERNING GREECE

Exiled Head of Agrarian Party Asserts Dictatorship Rules

Paris.—Greece to-day is ruled by a dictatorship along Nazi lines and with German assistance, John Sofianopoulis, exiled head of the Greek Agrarian party, charged in an address before the Foreign Correspondents' association.

With King George obscure in the background, General John Metaxas "established an elaborate system of espionage with the assistance of German Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels, who went to Greece for the purpose of spreading German propaganda there," said Sofianopoulis.

Metaxas is now the dictator, he said, and Greece's democratic leaders—like himself—have been seized and exiled to isolated Greek islands.

"Strict censorship has been imposed on the Greek press, which now publishes only such articles and news as the government dictates."

Sofianopoulis said that Greek public funds now are being wasted, and the populace is suffering many privations. "Many innocent citizens continue to be imprisoned for their democratic ideals," the Agrarian leader asserted.

He predicted, however, that the "Greek people, who love their liberty, will soon shake off the yoke of dictatorship and take their rightful place among the democratic nations of the world."

COULDN'T BEAR SEPARATION REFUGEE TRIES OWN LIFE

Fled With Wife From Germany to Escape Conscription

RESCUED AT SEA

Algiers.—Franz Nurvinski, 22-year-old Jew who, with his wife, fled from Germany to escape conscription and was found adrift in a fishing boat in the English channel, was discovered seriously ill in his prison cell in Algiers.

A rope made out of torn bedding was beside him.

On him was found a letter saying that he could not bear to be parted from his wife who is in a separate cell.

The prison governor gave permission for Nurvinski to see his wife three times a week.

The Nurvinskis were brought to Algiers in the Glasgow steamer Meta (1,575 tons), which picked them up in the channel.

They had fled from Germany through Switzerland and France to Cherbourg. There they stole the fishing boat, attempted to reach England, but were caught in a storm.

The Meta put into Brixham, Devon, but the two Nurvinskis were not allowed to land. They were taken to Algiers, the Meta's next port of call, where they were jailed to await deportation to France on a charge of stealing the boat.

HOSPITALS FOR CLYDE

Glasgow—With £500,000 ($2,505,000) from the Scottish commissioner for special areas in hand, plans are under way for three Lanarkshire hospitals at a cost of £900,000 ($4,509,000).

COTY PERFUME KIN IS KILLED IN CRASH

Car Hit Tree and Burst Into Flames

Bourges (France)—The wife of M. Roland Coty, son of the millionaire perfume manufacturer, was killed when her car hit a tree and burst into flames at Theillay, 24 miles from Bourges.

The other occupant of the car, believed to be her sister, was also killed.

The car was given to Mme. Coty by her husband recently.

GAS TRAINING SOUGHT FOR ADULTS IN INDIA

Plan for Military Training in Schools Rejected

Madras, India.—Congress majority of the city council has put forward a resolution appealing to the government for a three-months course of military and gas training for adults. The resolution has been prompted by fear of a world war as the result of the Japanese aggression.

An amendment proposing that military training should be instituted in schools and colleges was rejected.

TRAMPLE BLUEBELLS

London—By order of botanical experimenters large beds of bluebells in Kew gardens were trampled into the ground by burly gardeners just to see if they will recover after such treatment.

Norwood High School Retains Inter-School Sports Shield In Field Day Competition

Miss Madge Curtis Wins First Prize For Fancy Float In Parade

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, May 25.—The annual "Victoria Day" celebration sponsored here yesterday afternoon by the Havelock Albion Club drew a large crowd of interested spectators. A wide variety of sports and entertainment was held under almost ideal weather conditions, and the day was a decided success.

Commencing at one o'clock with a grand parade which assembled before the Town Hall, the procession made a tour of the village, led by the Albion Club official car and the brass band. Prizes for the best entries in the parade were won as follows: Best fancy float, Miss Madge Curtis, "Wool Shop"; best comic, Robert McCutcheon's "Wreckers"; and best special exhibit, W. E. Warner, with an attractive display of new 1938 General Motors products. The judges were Mrs. Joseph Hoffman and T. P. Lancaster, of town, and H. F. McNicholl of Milton.

In the afternoon's special attraction, Norwood High School retained the inter-scholastic shield, presented annually to the winner of a joint field day between Norwood and Havelock by defeating the local High School athletic team, 51 points to 37. Highlight of the ten events in this competition was the pole vault in which Arnold Lobb, Norwood track star, pulled a surprise by defeating the local favorite, Howard Harnden. Lobb's mark was 10 feet.

Results of the events were as follows:

Boys' high jump: H. Harnden, Havelock; A. Lobb, Norwood; H. Hamilton, Havelock. Height, 5' 4".

Girls' high jump: M. Seabrooks and L. Thompson of Havelock (tied); I. Clements, Norwood. Height 4' 4".

Junior boys, 100 yards: L. Bongard, Norwood; W. Buck, Norwood; H. Hamilton, Havelock.

In a lively softball tournament, in which five teams were entered, Keene emerged as the victors by one run in the final game with Havelock. Other teams entered were Campbellford, Hastings and Marmora.

In the first round of the tournament, Campbellford defeated Hastings 3 to 1 and Havelock defeated Marmora 7 to 0. Keene drew a bye. In the second, Havelock drew a bye, and Keene defeated the Campbellford boys 5 to 0.

The final between Keene and Havelock was a very closely fought match, both teams playing brilliant ball and coming through in the pinches. Brunton on the Havelock mound and McCarthy for the visitors pitched good ball and the game was a crowd-pleaser from start to finish.

Keene had a three-run margin by the second inning, the locals tied it 6 all in the fourth, but were unable to hold out the visitors, who scored another run in the last of the fourth, which eventually proved the winning tally.

The line-ups were:

Havelock: J. Voyer, F. Hill, J. Mathison, H. Hunter, J. Ketchen, J. Peters, C. Wrightly, B. Jones, W. Brunton.

Keene: Gall, Renwick, Woods, Whalen, Brown, Nelson, O. McCarthy, Fletcher, D. McCarthy.

Campbellford: Blake, C. Couch, L. Holmes, H. Campney, D. Couch, D. Montgomery, McMullen, Bedford, McComb.

The tournament winners were presented with a set of ten softball sweaters and the runners-up a bat and ball.

A number of smaller sports were also run off, for which the prizes donated by the village merchants were given. Winners in these races were as follows:

Boys, six years and under: Calvin McQuigge, G. Rowat.

Girls, six years and under: Pauline Curry, M. Rowat.

Boys, eight years and under: D. Hamilton, J. Hill.

Girls, eight years and under: N. Pollock, B. Ellis.

Boys, ten years and under: M. Curry, W. Nobes.

Girls, ten years and under: M. Pirie, W. Lobb (Norwood).

Boys, 14 years and under: L. Bongard (Norwood), H. Gordon.

Girls, 16 years and under: M. Pirie, I. Clements.

Boys, 18 years and under: H. Harnden, A. Lobb, Norwood).

Girls, 18 years and under: M. Pirie, L. Thompson.

Men's open, 100-yard dash: H. Harnden, A. Lobb.

Girls' open, 75-yard dash: J. Stevenson (Norwood), M. Pirie.

Married men's race: R. Jennings, W. Forsythe.

Bicycle races also attracted much attention, Alex. Poste, of Havelock, easily taking the three-mile open race for men, with Stanley McCutcheon, also of town, coming second. Bicycle race for girls was won by Miss Muriel Seabrook, with Miss Muriel Poste taking second. A race for boys under sixteen was won by H. Hubble, S. Deline coming in second.

A special prize for the best dressed couple on the grounds during the afternoon was presented by the club executive to Mr. and Mrs. Philip Greenley of town.

Havelock's May 24th celebration concluded last evening with a big dance in the Town Hall, sponsored by the "Wreckers" junior softball team. Music was provided by Jack Grant and his "Aces" of Havelock. Novelties and prizes were handed out during the evening.

LAD DOWNS A PENNY

WINDSOR, Ont., May 25—(CP).—Perhaps it was because he had so much money he didn't know what to do with it all, but 10-year-old Bobby Robinson swallowed a penny last night. He was rushed to hospital by his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Russell, but authorities found no need to work. He'll be all right, but he doesn't like the taste of castor oil.

Delegate Returns

NERVOUS WOMEN

IF your day begins with backache, headache or periodic pains, "nerves," irritability, and discomforts associated with functional disturbances, and you are miserable, you should try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It stimulates the appetite and thru the greater intake of food, you're built up. This is what Mrs. M. Atkinson, 41 Dundurn St. N., Hamilton, Ont., said: "Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a good tonic. It helps to stimulate the appetite and relieves one of that tired, nervous condition. It is so good for girls growing into womanhood; it gives relief from periodic distress and helps to build one up. It was of fine benefit to me in my younger years." Sold by druggists. New size, tablets 50 cents, liquid $1.00. Large size, tablets or liquid, $1.35.

So Bad With Nerves Would Lie Down and Cry

It is generally admitted that nerve troubles are more frequent than formerly and growing more so every day.

Wherever there are people whose health is poor, and their nerves shattered, they will find in Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills a tonic that will help to restore the deranged centres, and bring the nervous system back to its old time condition.

Mrs. K. M. Harvey, Bramber, N.S., writes:—"I got so bad with my nerves I would lie down on the bed and cry. Most of the time it just seemed I could not help it and would not know what I was crying for. I used to feel as if I would go crazy I was so bad.

I tried several different medicines, but received no relief. I then took Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills, four boxes of them, and started to feel better after the first few doses. Now I feel better in every way."

It's No Surprise That You're Constipated!

If constipation has you bogged down so you feel tired, sunk, all played out—it's time you asked yourself some questions!

What have you had to eat lately? Just meat, bread, eggs, potatoes? It's no surprise you're constipated! The chances are you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is what you lack, your ticket is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need plus Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B1.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and take a new lease on life! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in London, Ontario. Sold by every grocer.

Rumor Links Names Of Hitler And Italian Princess

Following the visit of Chancellor Hitler to Rome rumors are flying in Italian court circles that the German dictator has asked for the hand of Princess Maria, 23-year-old daughter of King Victor Emmanuel. It is also rumored that Italy's King and Queen many return Hitler's visit and the Princess may accompany them. A marriage between the two would cement the Rome-Berlin axis tighter than any treaty.

PLEA T.B. HAS NOW BECOME ALMOST NATIONAL PLAGUE

FREDERICTON, May 25 (CP).—Tuberculosis has reached the "amazing prooprtions" of a national plague in Canada so it can only be dealt with successfully by national action, the Union of New Brunswick Municipalities submitted to-day before the final session here of the Rowell Commission.

The problem was far beyond the capacity of the municipalities to handle, in some cases the cost of tuberculosis now absorbing as high as 12 per cent. of total municipal revenue.

"The cost is increasing so rapidly with each succeeding year that unless something is done by way of preventive measures, the entire controllable revenues of some of the municipalities will not be sufficient to cope with the problem," the Union said.

Worse Than Leprosy.

Tuberculosis was more dangerous than leprosy and quite as deadly in its last stages, it continued, noting that spread of leprosy had been prevented only through the efficient organization of the Federal Government.

Bovine tuberculosis had been attacked by the Federal Government with considerable success, and the union felt similar service should be extended to include the whole sphere of tuberculosis in Canada.

The union outlined to the commission the difficulties of municipal finance with the steady increase of responsibilities. To relieve the situation, it advocated that a national policy on employment be adopted by the Federal Government, to include old age and widows' pensions, unemployment insurance and hospitalization in general.

It asserted that "no material relief" could be afforded taxpayers through further economy in ordinary expenditures considering the heavy burden of debt charges. It accordingly suggested the Federal Government should consider some method by which municipal interest rates could be put on a "more equitable basis" than at present.

Mother Of 7 Boys Dies In Crash

ST. THOMAS, Ont., May 25.—(CP)—Mrs. Eva Palmer, wife of Wayon E. Palmer, market gardener, east of St. Thomas, and mother of seven boys was killed here today when the car she was driving collided with a heavy truck at the corner of Alma and Talbot streets. Mrs. Palmer was returning home after driving one of her sons who works in London, to the station.

He was questioned by police but was not held. The accident happened as Heimpel was making a left hand turn into a service station. An inquest was ordered.

"I'm Saving QUARTERS now ...I'll Take Out DOLLARS Later"

"I've been working for a few years . . . still single. Married or single however, I am going to have an income of my own which I can enjoy to the full when I am 55 or 60 . . . My Canada Life policy will take care of that.

"I'm putting in quarters now so I can take out dollars later . . . I advise every business woman to do the same. The sooner she starts saving a little of her money this way, the less she will have to put by from each salary cheque.

Sound advice. And it is surprising just how many "future dollars" your quarters will make.

Millbrook Cadets Entertain At Annual Military Banquet

Rev. C. R. Spencer, M.A., Midland Regiment Chaplain, Is Guest Speaker

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, May 25.—A pleasant gathering took place in the Armouries on Thursday evening when the Millbrook Cadet Corps, No. 403, entertained at its annual banquet.

The tables were arranged in U-shape, and guests at the head table included: ex-Warden Percy Stinson, who filled the position of toastmaster, and Mrs. Stinson; the guest speaker of the evening, Rev. C. R. Spencer, M.A., chaplain of the Midland Regiment, and Mrs. Spencer, of Bowmanville; Captain P. J. Bigelow, of Port Hope; Lieutenant W. R. Howard, M.A.; Lieutenant B. B. Dawson, and Mrs. Dawson; Rev. A. L. and Mrs. Siscoe; Reeve W. E. Ball; Dr. J. W. and Mrs. Wright; Misses Doris J. Bannister, B.A.; Flora E. Morgan, B.A.; Betty Montgomery, M. E. Needham, Ruth Thorndyke, and William Edworthy.

The Y. P. U. of St. Andrew's church catered for the banquet, and following the service of the substantial meal, ex-Warden Stinson proposed the toast to the King, which was duly honored, W. Edworthy presiding at the piano throughout the evening. Community singing, led by B. B. Dawson, offered a pleasant interlude, after which Cadet Lieutenant Orville Wainman proposed the toast to the Midland Regiment, mentioning the fact that the local Corps felt like an orphan when its affiliation with the Prince of Wales' Dragoons came to an end, and the gratitude and pride with which it had accepted the invitation to affiliate with the newly-formed Midland Regiment.

Rev. C. R. Spencer replied to the toast, taking the place of Colonel Bounsell, Officer Commanding the Midland Regiment, who had been at the inspection in the morning, but was unable to remain for the banquet at night.

Warm applause followed the fine address given by Rev. Mr. Spencer, and, as a variety in the program, Beatrice McDowell gave as a whistling solo, "Little Old Lady", which was much enjoyed.

Dr. J. W. Wright proposed the toast to the Cadet Corps, urging that its good reputation be continued, and Cadet Captain Kenn Kidd replied.

A solo, "The Desert Song," by Orville Wainman, brought a demand for a recall, and Jack Arundel extended the thanks of the Cadets to Mrs. W. M. Theobald, who had sewn the new colors on their uniforms, presenting her with a two-pound box of chocolates.

The toast to Cadet Instructor, B. B. Dawson, was proposed by Robert Theobald, who mentioned that it was in 1925 that 'Bruce' had taken over the training of the Corps, and has held the position ever since. He recalled also many of the honors received under Lieutenant Dawson's leadership, referred to his capability as an instructor, his popularity with the boys, and his being a rifle shot of outstanding skill.

Mr. Dawson replied briefly, emphasizing his personal pleasure in the contact with the Cadets, in the matter of leadership. This closed the toast list, and the young people cleared the tables and made the floor ready for the dance which followed the banquet, music being furnished by Marshall's Blue Birds orchestra or Peterborough.

As usual, there was a large attendance, and many from out of town were numbered among the guests, the Cadets being popular hosts for such an occasion.

TRACTOR RUNS AWAY

WIARTON, Ont., May 25—(CP).—Runaway horses are common, but Gord Shouldice has a runaway tractor on his farm near here. A neighbor's son asked for the privilege of trying it out and all went well until he tried to stop it and couldn't. The tractor's wild excursion was finally halted by a wire fence.

JAPS RESHUFFLE TOKYO CABINET PUT IN FIGHTERS

Foreign, Finance Posts Go to Ex-War Ministers To Speed China Conquest

TOKYO, May 26.—(CP-Havas)—The Japanese cabinet was transformed today into a predominantly military government whose aim will be to push forward the war in China with all possible energy and to drive for the capture of Hankow, provisional capital of the Chinese government.

General Sadao Araki, another former war minister and head of the so-called "extremist" faction in the army, entered the government as minister of finance and commerce, replacing Okinobu Kaya and Shinji Yoshino.

General Hajime Sugiyama, war minister, was replaced by Lieut.-General Seishiro Itagaki, who has been on the China front.

Dissatisfaction with the slow pace of the war in China and the reluctance of the civilian minister to proceed with plans for national mobilization as embodied in the national mobilization act were believed at the bottom of the cabinet reshuffle.

Prince Would Resign

Prince Konoye, it has often been rumored, desires to resign, but has been prevailed upon to remain at his post because he is regarded as an ideal link between the military and non-military elements.

While the Japanese forces in China have been registering formal victories, these have been won only at a huge cost and with heavy losses extending over campaigns of many months' duration.

This has caused increased pressure for the creation of the "war cabinet" that was finally formed today after many weeks of behind-the-scenes negotiating between the armed forces and the premier and other political leaders.

Observers agree that the changes mean an immediate intensification of the war drive at home and on the battle-fields of Central China.

QUINTS' ENGLISH QUICKLY NIPPED

CALLANDER, Ont., May 26 (CP).—Though they won't be four until Saturday, the Dionne girls speak both French, their native tongue, and English. Not much English, it is true, but plenty of French if one could understand it all.

They demonstrated their bilingualism yesterday before a crowd of several hundred tourists who watched them playing at the Dafoe nursery—the advance guard of 400,000 persons who are expected to visit them this summer.

As Norah Rouselle, their teacher, beckoned toward their nursery at the end of their play period, Annette ran to the wire fence in front of the building at a point in view of the departing crowd.

"Hello! Hello!" she cried, waving eagerly to the delighted visitors. In a matter of seconds, Marie, Yvonne, Cecile and Emilie, the other Quints, were at Annette's side joining in the greeting and waving gaily.

"Non, non—Bon jour, bon jour," Miss Rouselle admonished. The youngsters immediately reverted to the tongue of their parents and chorused a gay "Bon jour" to the crowd before being led off to a private romp.

TAMMANY CHIEF NABBED AS FIXER IN POLICY RACKET

NEW YORK, May 26.—(AP)—James J. Hines, one of the oest powerful leaders in Tammany Hall, was listed on the police blotter today, accused of being an ally and "political fixer" of the Dutch Schultz gang in a $100,000,000 policy racket.

Hines, 61-year-old former blacksmith, was the first "higher up" whom District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey has prosecuted in his three-year warfare against rackets. The young "racket buster" repeatedly has charged the existence of an alliance between New York crime and politics.

Charged formally with contriving a lottery, Hines was accused by Dewey before Justice Ferdinand Pecora yesterday of receiving $500 to $1,000 a week as political fixer for lottery racketeers. He was held in $20,000 bail.

Statements by George Weinberg and Harry Schoenhaus, indicted with J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, once Schultz's attorney, and nine others as successors to Schultz in the racket, resulted in the complaint against Hines.

Bachelor Constable Helps The Stork

New York, May 26 (CP)

PATROLMAN John J. Hildebrand, 28 and a bachelor, was pounding his Brooklyn beat today when a woman dashed up and told him a near-by neighbor was about to have a baby. When a doctor arrived he declared the mother and baby in grand shape.

NO PADLOCK ACT DUE IN ONTARIO SAYS HEPBURN

Calls Saturday Session To Name 2 Magistrates, Discuss Chorley Park

TORONTO, May 26 (CP).—Premier Mitchell Hepburn hobbled into his office at Queen's Park today wearing a slipper on the foot he injured more than a week ago, and plunged into the work that had accumulated during his absence at his farm near St. Thomas.

The Premier called a Cabinet session for Saturday to dispose of accumulated business. He indicated that at Saturday's meeting the commission to investigate cancer formulas would be named. Two new magistrates for Toronto will also be appointed and the government will consider the problem of Chorley Park, former residence of the Ontario Lieutenant-Governor, which was offered for sale but has had no takers.

Premier Hepburn said there was no question of Ontario instituting a "padlock law" similar to that in Quebec, against premises distributing Communist literature. "I can't see any necessity for such a law in Ontario," he said.

FEAR MURDER CASE WITNESS DROWNED

OWEN SOUND, Ont., May 26.—(CP).—Police to-day expresed certainty Thomas Fanning, an important witness in the mysterious death of William Waterton, had been drowned in the Georgian Bay. No attempt has been made to drag for the area is large.

"Fanning was an important witness in the Waterton case, as he is though to have been the last man to see Waterton alive," said County Crown Attorney J. F. P. Birnie. Waterton was found dead of shotgun wounds in his lonely shack some days ago, the shotgun being found beside the body. Doubt was expressed that Waterton had shot himself, however, as Waterton had only one arm, and the gun would have to be fired by a string from the trigger. No such string was found.

Harry Dales of Owen Sound, picked up as a material witness, is now on remand on a vagrancy charge. Clothing of Dales has been taken to Toronto for examination by Dr. E. R. Frankish, Ontario medico-legal expert who investigated Waterton's death.

Fanning disappeared yesterday from his home near the water's edge. It was believed Fanning took the boat belonging to Edward Morrison, which was found floating empty on the water with an oar nearby.

Beacon, N.Y., May 26 (CP)

GEORGE THOMPSON, 64, will take no sass from the younger generation he told the judge here yesterday. George was haled into court by his daughter because he spanked her for staying out late at night. She is 34, mother of a 10-year-old boy and estranged from her husband.

George told the judge he had come to an understanding with his daughter whereby she may stay out till 10 p.m. week nights and midnight Saturday and Sunday.

"I believe in children conducting themselves properly," he declared. "Why I've been married 40 years and I've only kissed my wife six times."

Czechs Hold Army At The Border

Citizens Ordered to Test "Black Out" Equipment And Be Ready for Emergency

PRAHA, May 26 (AP).—Hard-headed military preparations for Czechoslovakia's defence continued today without respite.

Troops mobilized for defence of the German frontier remained in the border region. It seemed unlikely the customary military parade would be held this year on the president's birthday — President Eduard Benes will be 54 on Saturday—because the men under arms had more pressing assignments.

The high command of the civil air defence issued a reminder to house-holders to test their "black out" equipment to make sure that they really were prepared for emergency.

Another reminder of the undercurrent of anxiety lest Chancellor Hitler of Germany, try to bring under his domination the nation's 3,500,000 German minority, was an announcement gas masks for public employees could be paid for on the installment plan.

All residents of cities are expected to acquire gas masks before June 30. The idea is to make their purchase as easy as possible for people who must remain at their post in emergencies and cannot speed to the sparsely settled countryside at the first alarm.

Theoretical Relaxation

Today was a holiday, Ascenion Thursday, and government offices theoretically were closed, and likewise theoretically there was a tendency toward relaxation and a truce on national and international politics.

Nevertheless, it was certain that this young republic's responsible leaders were engrossed in grave and delicate tasks of prolonging the period of quiet which followed last week's tenseness during municipal elections in part of the country.

There will be another series of municipal elections Sunday. While the balloting will be watched with interest, it generally is taken for granted that followers of Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten Germany party, will get their usual overwhelming majority of German votes, while in communities with predominantly Czech populations the pro-government parties will show that they are increasingly stronger.

CEDILLO REBELS PUTTING UP FIGHT

MEXICO CITY, May 26.—(CP)—The Mexican government today said its planes raided and destroyed a Cedillista rebel airport a few hours after War Minister Manuel Camacho had declared rebel planes bombed several small towns occupied by loyal federals.

Bombing ships raided the rebel airport near El Rucio in San Lis Potosi state yesterday, the government press bureau announced, firing gasoline tanks and scattering the party guarding the field.

From Tampico came word a swift plane swooped low over that port and let fall a shower of leaflets lauding the cause of General Saturnino Cedillo, the rebel chieftain.

Other developments included reports of two pitched engagements between detachments of federals and Cedillista bands, one of them lasting eight hours, and the decision by President Lazaro Cardenas to send school teachers in the wake of his soldiers into the small villages and towns to explain his program to the peasants.

Panama is feeling the decrease in the number of tourist visitors.

CONANT PROPOSES TO STOP TRAFFIC BY HIGH GRADERS

ORONO, May 26—Attorney-General Conant here yesterday forecast the first steps of an elaborate preventive program whereby his department, with the complete backing of the Hepburn Government, hopes to break the back of the annual $250,000 high-grading racket.

Much heavier penalties under the Criminal Code were expected momentarily from Ottawa, he said. At the 1939 session of the Legislature, Ontario law dealing with the disposal of gold would be drastically altered and strengthened. Provincial Police detection and enforcement machinery, he added, would immediately be extended and improved.

To Ask Co-operation.

These initial moves, which have been a matter of several weeks' consultation between Queen's Park and Ottawa, and which culminated last week in the Attorney-General personally surveying the situation as it applies particularly to the Porcupine and Kirkland Lake mining areas, will be supplemented some time this fall, it is understood, by a general North country conference, at which Mr. Conant will reveal all details of his scheduled drive to the gold-producing industry, and demand their 100 per cent co-operation.

Speaking before the annual meeting of the Durham County Liberal Association, the Attorney-General coupled his forecast of co-ordinated action against the high-graders with a stinging reminder to courts, juries, and the public generally, that not until the enormity of this offense of "gold stealing" was appreciated, would law enforcement officers be able to deal with it as effectively and firmly as they desired.

"High-grading, I say," he said, "is a very reprehensible crime, but, unfortunately, many people are not inclined to look upon it in that light. They don't consider it as stealing, and when they take that attitude they literally and figuratively are helping to kill the goose which laid the golden egg, because the mining industry is the beginning and the end for them—the very lifeblood of the North country in which they live."

Prefer Jury Trial

Any high-grader, like any other accused, he said, had the right to elect how to be tried—and most of them, he added cynically, now took the jury course of trial. "Because invariably," he added, "juries acquit them."

Where the same jury would con-

Women Call For Clarification Of Marriage Laws

Fine Firm For Firing Union Employees

Quebec, May 26 (CP)

CONVICTED of having dismissed thirteen factory workers because they formed part of a labor union, Perfection Corset Company was fined $10 and costs by Judge Laetare Roy yesterday.

The case developed out of a complaint from the discharged workers, who claimed they had been singled out for dismissal because of union affiliations, in violation of the Fair Wage Act.

Judge Roy said: "It was quite evident the President, directors and officials of the company conspired to get rid of union members working in the factory."

National Council Also Wants Greater Equality With Men, Uniformity In Provinces

OTTAWA, May 26 (C.P.).—Clarification of marriage laws and greater equality of status between men and women—with more uniformity of status among the various provinces — were proposed before the Rowell Commission to-day by the National Council of Women.

Specifically, the Council asked for an amendment to the British North America Act so that women throughout Canada "may demand complete recognition of the full marriage status upon the solemnization of marriage by any person who has been duly authorized to perform the marriage ceremony."

As the Commission resumed hearings here yesterday it first heard privately from Dr. Gunnar Myrdal, Professor of Economics at Stockholm University and member of the Swedish Parliament.

Then Miss Charlotte Whitton, speaking for the Canadian Welfare Council, presented a plan for setting up contributory social services where dependency was predictable, to be administered by the Dominion. The non-contributory services, under the scheme, would become the responsibility of the provinces, and the remaining needy would be the responsibility of the local authority.

Niagara Falls, Ont. May 26 (CP)

PLANS for a 950-foot bridge of the spandral arched type, 110 feet longer than the old bridge, were announced today by the International Railway Company, owners of the Falls View Bridge which collapsed during an ice jam last January and finally disappeared.

The roadway of the new bridge will be 42 feet wide between curbs and on the upstream side there will be a lower roadway for pedestrians, 12 feet wide. The new bridge is designed to accommodate 3,200 vehicles an hour.

Work is already under way on the excavations on the Canadian side and when they are completed the remaining wreckage of the old bridge on the American side will be removed.

Designed to prevent a recurrence of the disaster to the old bridge, the new structure will be 50 feet further back of the old abutments, and 20 feet higher on the shores.

City Council Is Asked To Name Judge O'Connor

Investigation Be Made Into Charges Made by Examiner and Joseph Wheeler, Former Member of the City Police Force

That, whereas certain charges have been made against certain members of the police force of this city which, if proved, should not be allowed to go unpunished.

Therefore be it resolved that the City Council of the City of Peterborough be asked to pass a resolution under the provisions of Section 266 of the Municipal Act as amended by the 1938 Statutes, requesting his Honour L. V. O'Connor, Judge of the adjoining united counties of Northumberland and Durham to investigate matters relating to the police force of the said city with particular reference to the following, namely:

(1) The charges of H. L. Garner dated the 24th day of January, 1938. (2) Certain charges of Joseph Wheeler made in writing. (3) Any and all other matters in connection with the police force, or any members thereof, which may come to light during the course of such enquiry.

And be it further resolved that the council be requested to engage and pay counsel to represent the corporation and to assist the said Judge in the conduct of such investigation.

And be it further resolved that the council be requested to engage a stenographic reporter to record the evidence taken upon such investigation and to transcribe the same for the benefit of the said Judge and this Commission.

The above resolution moved by Judge Smoke and seconded by Magistrate E. A. Gee was passed unanimously at the regular meeting of the Police Commission held on Wednesday afternoon.

It followed a short discussion as to the best course to adopt in dealing with the complaint made by H. L. Garner, managing director of The Examiner in regard to Chief Constable Newhall's conduct toward Keith Copping, former Examiner reporter, and with charges made by former Constable Joseph Wheeler.

When the matter was introduced Judge Smoke chairman of the Commission said that some action should be taken in connection with these complaints. That from Mr. Garner, he pointed out, had been made four months ago and Wheeler had been pressing for something to be done in regard to the matters he complained of.

It was pointed out that there were two courses that could be followed. The commission itself could conduct an investigation or under the Municipal Act it could ask the council to appoint someone to make the inquiry.

Judge Smoke moved, seconded by Magistrate Gee that the second course should be followed which means that the matter will come before the council.

CHURCH OFFICIALS ATTACK BRIBERY WITH PUBLIC CASH

OTTAWA, May 26.—(CP)—Many of Canada's present financial difficulties are due to "immoral practices" of governments in using public money to win popular support, it was charged today before the Rowell Commission.

The accusation was made in the course of a presentation by an official United Church group, sharply criticising some policies of Canadian governments in the past and submitting a series of specific recommendations for the promotion of social security in the future.

The submission was made by the commission on economic and social research of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada, under the chairmanship of Dr. Walter T. Brown, principal of Victoria University, Toronto, and represented the views of its 21 members "working in co-operation with consultative committees set up in various parts of our church."

"We believe that only a solvent state can adequately maintain the welfare of its people," the Commission said. "We would urge that governments must realize that they are trustees of the nation's finances."

All Spell Ruin

"We would ask for recognition in all government policy of the fact that the ultimate basis of government is moral and that the bribing of people with public money, the failure of governments to maintain contracts, the unwise administration of public funds, the desire to spend money far beyond the nation's ability to pay, spell ruin."

The commission voiced its views on national unity, education opportunity, public and private welfare work, need for unemployment relief and insurance, linking of financial and administrative responsibilities, unnecessary farm relief on the prairies, other relief irregularities.

It was made clear the commission did not intend to express opinions on political and economic matters from the purely secular point of view. "It is our purpose to set out what we conceieve to be the spiritual principles and moral values underlying society," the submission said. The historic endeavor of the church was to relate its life and work to the needs of the people.

SUDETENS SET FALL DEADLINE FOR CZECH CURE

German Warplane Sighted Over Great Skoda Plant, Stirs Up Fresh Friction

LONDON, May 26 (CP-Havas).—Unless Czechoslovakia halts its "oppression" of the Sudeten minority and grants far-reaching concessions the German government may be forced "by direct action to bring them within Reich frontiers," Konrad Henlein, leader of the German Sudeten party, told Ward Price in an interview published in the Daily Mail today.

"By next autumn a solution must be found for the Sudeten question in Czechoslovakia," the Nazi leader said. "Political fermentation in this country (Czechoslovakia) is poisoning the whole central Europe situation. If it were to continue, it might before long lead to a war so universally ruinous that the only fate left for Europeans who survived would be to go and beg for bananas in Africa.

"I am making a supreme effort to bring about a settlement by straightforward negotiations with the Czech government."

Henlein said he had proposed to the Praha government "the loyal co-operation of the German population of this artificially compounded state on a basis of full local autonomy in those districts where a majority of the population is of the German race."

PRAHA, May 26—(AP)—A government spokesman said tonight that a German warplane had been sighted on a flight over Czechoslovakia's great munitions plant, the Skoda factory, at Plzen (Pilsen).

The flight over Plzen, some 50 miles from the German border in Western Bohemia, was said by the spokesman to have been one of three border violations yesterday.

Foreign Minister Kamil Krofta had assured German Minister Ernst Eisenlohr that the Czechoslovak government had taken measures to prevent such violations by its own planes after Eisenlohr cited three cases.

Krofta cited 14 instances of aerial trespassing by Germany, involving 34 planes, between last Friday and yesterday. He said that, in some cases the planes flew in formation.

A BRITISH PLAN

LONDON, May 26.—(AP)—Great Britain today sounded out both Germany and Czechoslovakia on a plan to send British observers to their troubled borders as a means of lessening tension. Germany was understood to be not unfavorable to the plan.

Authoritative sources disclosed William Strang, head of the Central European Department of the Foreign office, would report on the proposal after visiting British diplomats in Berlin and Praha.

The observer idea was said still to be indefinite. It was assured, however, it would entail unofficial "umpires" who would give Britain unbiased reports of border incidents and help her in the role of peacemaker.

Mr. Strang left for the continent Tuesday, it was disclosed, because it was considered inadvisable for the British envoys to leave their posts to come to London at the height of the tension.

His reports were expected to give Britain a clearer picture of the issues and indicate what measures would be best to patch up the differences between Berlin and Praha.

Freighter Vanishes In Calm Sea With 39 Men Aboard

Silence Shrouds Anglo-Australian 2 Months In One Of Atlantic's Deepest Mysteries

By Jack Brayley
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, May 26.—(CP)—Disappearance of the Vancouver-bound freighter Anglo-Australian is added to the mysteries of the sea. Seldom have Lloyd's posted a ship "missing" with so many doubts.

On March 14 Captain Fred Parslow flashed a wireless "all's well" to the London owners from the vicinity of the Azores. But since then—silence.

The Anglo-Australian sailed in ballast from Cardiff March 8, scheduled to pick up a general cargo at British Columbia ports. She carried a crew of 39 and their relatives have now been told all hope is abandoned.

Shipping experts can give no reason for the vessel's disappearance beyond a theory she was engulfed by a huge water-spout. When last sighted she was in calm seas. She was equipped with two radio sets and all modern safety devices. When completed 11 years ago she was regarded as a perfect ship.

Not Slightest Clue

"I have had 50 years' experience in shipping and I have never investigated so deep a mystery," said Sir John Latta, chairman of the company that managed the Anglo-Australian for her owners. "It means she must have been destroyed by something abnormal, not a signal has been received from her since March 14, not a trace of wreck-

Australian Welcome Hard On Sailors

London, May 26 (CP-Havas)

EIGHT of nineteen sailors who deserted from H.M.S. Dorsetshire in Australia have been arrested, Alfred Duff Cooper, First Lord of the Admiralty, announced in the House of Commons yesterday.

"The commanding officer has reported that it is not possible to attribute these desertions to any particular cause," he added in response to a question. Asked whether men are well treated aboard the Dorsetshire, he said:

"Yes, the ship is a perfectly happy ship. Desertions are not infrequent in Australia, possibly due to the very hearty welcome they receive."

This statement brought laughter from the House.

Two Are Drowned In Northern River

TIMMINS, Ont., May 26 (CP).—Provincial police left here last night to investigate a report that Mr. and Mrs. A. Legault were drowned in the Redstone River 30 miles from here yesterday.

Information reaching here was that the couple were riding in a canoe paddled by Tom Mahan and the canoe upset. The journey to the scene must be made by car, boat and portage.

It was reported that when the canoe upset all three reached the bank, and Mahan left the Legaults clinging to the shore while he tried to retrieve the canoe. Making his way back he saw Legault sink below the water and found no trace of Mrs. Legault.

Claim Windsor Teachers Neglect Jobs To Improve Own Qualifications

Windsor, Ont., May 26 (CP)

PUPILS in Windsor Public School classes are being neglected by teachers ambitious to improve their own academic qualifications, chairman Percy McCallum of the Windsor Board of Education charged today.

Three teachers have asked leave of absence to write examinations, he said, and despite a previous resolution of the board which gave notice that such leaves of absence would be without pay, the board has voted to pay the three teachers in question while they write exams over a period of five days.

McCallum contended the examinations to be written by the teachers will come at an important time of the year when the pupils are also writing exams. Trustee J. F. Twigg said he could not see why the board should be asked to subsidize teachers in activities designed to increase their own earning powers.

ORGANIZER SLAYS UNION PRESIDENT IN FUND QUARREL

MINNEAPOLIS, May 26.—(AP)—William Brown, 43, president of powerful General Drivers Union 554, was shot to death last night, and police said today they had a confession from a man who quarreled with him over union funds.

It was the second labor slaying here in six months. Echoes of the unsolved Patrick J. Corcoran killing Nov. 17 still were reverberating as Brown's body was found slumped in the front seat of his car near union headquarters. A coroner's jury reported two days ago Corcoran, an officer of the Drivers Union, was killed by "a person or persons unknown."

Police Chief Frank Forestal said Arnold Johnson, 33, an organizer for local 544, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, confessed he had shot Brown twice, and then walked into a nearby tavern and reported the killing to Miles Dunne a trustee of the union.

Had Too Much Money

Forestal said Johnson stated he and Brown had been driving about on union business, stopping to have several drinks before parking on Washington avenue north, within a block of the union's offices. There, the Chief quoted the suspect as saying, the two quarreled over union funds and Johnson drew a pistol.

Brown lunged at him, Johnson told the Chief, and "I shot him I thought he had more money than was necessary. I shot him twice."

Detectives found two guns in Johnson's rooms, and picked up two women they found there for questioning.

Brown, who led his union through two truck driver strikes in the summer of 1934, had been a power in the labor field for 17 years, building up a local that became the largest in the area.

CANADIAN WOMEN MEET KING, QUEEN

LONDON, May 26.—(CP Cable)—Six Canadian women were among hundreds from Great Britain and the Empire who attended last night the first evening party of the season at Buckingham Palace as guests of the King and Queen.

The party created a precedent in that invitation gave each guest the same standing as if presented at a formal court. However the women wore ordinary evening dresses and the men uniforms or evening clothes with breeches. The party was for married women and their husbands.

Mrs. Vincent Massey, wife of the Canadian High Commissioner, introduced the Canadian women who were:

Mrs. Leslie Brown, wife of a Canadian government trade commissioner in London; Mrs. Robert Cameron, wife of Flight-Lieut. Cameron of Trenton, Ont.; Mrs. Gerald Loggie, wife of Col. Loggie of Ottawa; Mrs. Guy Turner, wife of Lieut.-Col. Turner of Ottawa; Mrs. Duncan MacDonald, wife of D. A. L. LONDON'S SINGLE WOMEN 21 TO 60 TO PAY HEAD TAX

LONDON, Ont., May 26—(CP).—Collection of a head tax from all single persons between the ages of 21 to 60, who are "gainfully employed" was unanimously approved by the City Council Finance Committee last night. A resolution will be forwarded to the Minister of Municipal Affairs, asking for the repeal of the present Statute Labor Act which imposes a $5 poll tax on single men between 21 and 60 and an amendment to the Assessment Act to effect the proposed change.

This amendment would bring single women under a tax the same as single men. The question came before committee in a resolution forwarded by the Kitchener City Council, where the move originated. The levy would amount to the same thing as if the present poll tax were extended to women.

His brother, Lou Glackens, was an illustrator whose pictures of "Brer Rabbit" and the "Tar Baby" have delighted generations of readers of the "Uncle Remus" stories.

marriage of two Roman Catholics or a Roman Catholic and a Protestant before other than a Roman Catholic priest, was valid. The Privy Council at that time, however, ruled that the Dominion Parliament did not have power to pass a law declaring such marriages binding.

In, 1921 the Privy Council held that "religious inpediments only affected the private conscience, not the civil law," and confirmed the previous decision of the Supreme Court, the Council said. "Since then a Justice of the Quebec Superior Court has refused to follow these judgments and has annulled such marriages."

The Council noted also that in Quebec a marriage, even though annulled, is considered by Articles 163-4 of the Civil Code to be a putative marriage "if one of the parties contracted in good faith and, as such, produces civil effects in favor of the party in good faith and the children, issue of the marriage."

Only Legal in Quebec?

"Despite this fact, when the wife and children go to reside in another province after annulment, the inclination has been to consider such children as illegitimate and the parents as unmarried, although by Quebec law the children are legitimate, have a right to support and to succeed their parents, etc," the Council declared. "It is therefore expedient that the legal position of such women and their children be placed beyond cavil."

It was recognized the Dominion had constitutional jurisdiction over marriage and divorce, but the provinces might enact regulations regarding solemnization which might affect the validity of marriage. A province, however, could not, according to established cases, deny validity to a marriage celebrated in another province according to its law, nor could it legislate "with regard to inherent capacity to contract marriage." It could, however, legislate regarding consent precedent to marriage.

Membership of 500,000.

The National Council spoke for 16 national organization in federation and 49 Local Councils of Women, with a total membership of approximately 500,000.

"Canada has, to a large extent, given effect to the principle of equality of status as between men and women but investigation has shown that there is discrimination against women owing to the mere accident of domicile, between one province and another," the Council observed.

Political and civil status varied widely in different parts of the Dominion. There was a cleavage, as far as provincial laws were concerned, between the eight common law provinces whose laws were generally similar, and the civil law province of Quebec, the Council said.

The Civil Srvice Superannuation Act was held to operate inequitably for women, particularly where it provided annuities for widows and minor children of contributors out denied this insurance benefit to women employees. Payment of contributions on retirement from the service varied, also.

Another Question.

There was some question the Council said, whether the Bankruptcy Act applied to married women who were not traders, although the Act did apply to married women traders and unmarried women on the same basis as to men.

On the lower scale generally more applicable to women than to men, the council submittel the purchasing power and tax contributions of wage-earning women were "too great to ignore." Many women supported dependents, assuming responsibilities not by their own choice, whereas men became heads of families through their own choice.

The Council said this situation had been met in Europe by the "family allowance system" under which men and women received an equal minimum wage and graded allowances for dependents.

The Council reviewed in detail various regulations covering minimum wages and hours in the provinces. It recommends more uniform conditions of industry throughout the provinces and more legislation to protect women in dangerous occupations.

YOUTH CONGRESS SCORES CANADA'S FOREIGN POLICY

TORONTO, May 26 — (CP). — So long as Canada does not "act for collective security," the Canadian Youth Congress will oppose a policy of general rearmament.

Charging the Canadian government's foreign policy has been "inconsistent and contradictory," the Congress in plenary session yesterday went on record as favoring "adequate defence" of the Dominion's coasts but opposing general Canadian rearmament "because of the failure of our government to act for collective security."

Howard Rapson, a co-chairman, explained in speaking before the final session of the Congress "If and when the government does take a stand for collective security our position would be reversed."

The 600 delegates urged strong national unity among Canadian youth, declaring in a resolution "The maintenance of peace and the preservation and extension of our democracy may well depend on the extent to which this collaboration is developed and the bands of our understanding and friendships cemented."

Support Hull's Plan

The Congress supported the plan of Secretary of State Cordell Hull of the United States "to supply homes in various countries for desirable political refugees. Canada should be the first to offer aid to these unhappy victims of aggression."

The Congress expresed itself as favoring that the Dominion Government "take the people into its confidence, by regular use of press and radio, in all matters affecting foreign policy. The government will be strengthened by adopting freely and openly, without reservation and hesitation, the policy desired by the people. A policy of secret commitments can only lead to disaster."

The Congress declared peace could best be obtained by collective action of democracies against aggressor states through the covenant of the League of Nations. It proposed seeking co-operation of affiliated groups to urge the government to impose an embargo on the export of war materials consigned directly to aggressor states, and to institute boycotts against goods of those nations

CANADIAN GAINS QUARTER-FINALS IN BRITISH GOLF

TROON, Scotland, May 26—(CP)—Sandy Somerville, Canada's amateur golf champion, marched into the quarter-finals of the British amateur title derby by defeating Scotland's R. C. MacGregor, Jr. 3 and 2 this afternoon.

Other survivors of the field of more than 200 which started out among the traps and gorse patches full of hope last Monday included Charley Yates, lone American survivor; Jock Stevenson, native of this golf-mad bit of Scotland, and Australia's H. W. Hattersley.

Somerville tomorrow will match strokes with the Australian, champion of that dominion in 1930.

Yates stayed in the running by burying Dr. W. M. Robb of England under a big six and five count, while Stevenson, darling of the galleries, ran over Kocsis by seven and five.

Gains Early Lead

In par-cracking form, Somerville raced into an early two-hole lead over MacGregor.

The London, Ont., veteran fired birdies on the fourth and fifth holes, both for wins, and finished the out-nine in 35, one under par.

After beating par on the 443-yard fourth and 180-yard fifth, on each of which MacGregor lofted approaches into bunkers. Sandy went 3 up at the sixth when the Scot took five to reach the green. MacGregor got one back at the short eighth when the Canadian lifted his iron from the tee into sand.

This morning Somerville eliminated Walter McLeod, Scotland, by one up.

The cards:—

Par, out	444	435	435—36
Somerville	444	325	445—35
MacGregor	444	337	435—37

On the homestretch Somerville won the first pair of holes and his advantage was four up. He took the 10th when MacGregor drove into deep rough and birdied the next, of 313 yards, by canning an eight-footer. The Scot fought back to take the 12th with a 10-foot putt and added the 13th when Sandy misjudged his second shot and wound up with a bogey five.

The Canadian star actually won the match on the 443-yard 15th when he was home with two fine woods and got his par four. The long 16th was halved in par fives.

The cards:

Par, in—444 434 534—35—71
Somerville—435 534 5
MacGregor—654 435 5

Yate's opponent in tomorrow morning's round of eight will be the veteran Cyril J. H. Tolley, champion in 1920 and 1929, who defeated Sam Roberts three and two.

Meantime Stevenson will face Cecil Ewing, burly Irishman of 1936 British Walker Cupper who eliminated Alex Kyle, member of the 1938 team. two and one.

man is bound up with the fatherhood of God, systems and institutions which affect the lives of men are the concern of the Christian church. We seek the best possible institutional arrangement and social structure for the ordering of our national life."

One Essential.

The Commission declared its belief that social well-being was only possible when the State recognized the supreme worth of human personality, a principle applicable in both political and economic life.

While it did not regard any form of government as the final expression of God's will, it believed the democratic form of government, with freedom of assembly, speech and of the press "with proper restrictions") guaranteed, to be the most desirable form of government for Canadians at present "to maintain the dignity and worth of personality."

"We would proclaim the rights of the ordinary man. Thus we deplore any legislation which would bar citizens from having free access to courts of justice. In any rearrangement of Dominion and Provincial powers, we ask that care should be taken to maintain the constitutional rights of individuals and minorities."

In the economic field, it viewed with alarm indications that "industry is being organized more and more for the financial reward of some of the members of the community only."

Included in the Commission's scheme of planning to eliminate unemployment were works policies to reduce future fluctuations, research aimed at development of natural resources, rehabilitation of unemployed to make them empolyable again, more general youth training.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, May 26 — (CP). — The 10-cent drop in Winnipeg May wheat since yesterday morning was partly recovered late to-day. Futures fluctuated within a five-cent range in the most mixed session of the year and at the close prices were lower to 1¼ cent higher. May $1.10, July .95⅝ to¼, October .79½ to ¾.

May future tumbled the five-cent allowable limit at the start and provided the first two-day 10-cent decline of any future for more than a year. Carryover of yesterday's liquidation and stop-loss selling pushed the July two cents lower and the October ½ cent.

age, not a boat, not a bucket has been found.

"We have spent a large amount of money searching for her and every ship on the Atlantic has been told to be on the lookout.

The captain of the Anglo-Peruvian that was coming the other way about the same time said the sea was like a mill-pond during the time the Anglo-Australian disappeared."

Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, said his department was collecting information preliminary to a possible formal investigation of the mystery.

Dutch Princess Christened

Park St. Church Choristers Assist In Warsaw Service

Baptist Church Well Filled At Both Services For Anniversary

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, May 26. — Warsaw Baptist Church was well filled both morning and evening on Sunday, May 22, when the fifty-second anniversary services of the opening of the church were held.

The men's brotherhood of Park Street Baptist Church took charge of the morning service. B. Smith read the scripture lesson. Roy McCabe lead in prayer and M. Dunkley sang "I Am Satisfied With Jesus."

The sermon was a splendid talk by C. Corbett on Human Life. "Other sheep I have which are not of this fold; them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and these shall be one fold and one shepherd," and in Luke 2:52 "Jesus increased in wisdom and in stature and in favor with God and man." The speaker emphasized that Jesus said "I am the door," "I am come that ye might have life," "Know ye not that ye are the temple of the living gods?" and that the law as given by Moses was dictated by God.

The evening service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Boyter, pastor of Park St. Church. The hymns sung were "Saviour Again to Thy Dear Name We Raise" and "Now the Day Is Over." The choir gave two selections, "Wash me in the Blood" and "Living for Jesus." Mrs. Richards played for both morning and evening services. Mr. Dunkley read the scripture lesson, and Mr. B. Smith led in prayer. The theme was "Scarecrows." "Foxes have holes and the birds of the air have nests but the Son of Man hath not where to lay his head."

The church was prettily decorated with spring flowers, including purple and white lilacs and tulips, and lovely house plants in the windows.

Personals

Mrs. Uriah Payne is back in Warsaw.

Mrs. Archie Tedford was in Warsaw on Sunday and able to attend both services in the Baptist Church.

Mrs. John Moore was unfortunate enough to sustain a fracture of her left shoulder on Friday and is now in Nicholls Hospital. Mrs. Moore was preparing to spend a few weeks in Warsaw.

MILLION FOR RELIEF

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP).—Americans have contributed nearly $1,200,000 for relief in war-torn Spain in the last year, the State Department announced today. Most of the donations went to the government side.

$10,000 FOR A DUMMY

HOLLYWOOD, May 26 (AP). — Charlie McCarthy, a wooden ventriloquist's dummy, gets $10,000 under a trust fund from the man who made him a national figure, Edgar Bergen. Bergen bequeathed the money to the Actors' Fund of America with the stipulation that Charlie be kept in good repair and used in ways to encourage the art of ventriloquism. That means Charlie will never want for hinge oil, sandpaper, paint and a tuxedo.

In Europe Miss Shuler will take an airplane and fly the rest of the way around the world.

UNIQUE MAGAZINE FOR BLIND PERSONS

There is a magazine in Toronto which carries no advertising, uses no illustrations, has no subscription price, pays no postage, and uses no printer's ink. It is not printed in a foreign language, but only about one twenty-fifth of one per cent of the population of Canada could read it. It is the Braille Courier, published in embossed type by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. The editor and editorial staff is Dr. Sherman C. Swift, B.A., M.A., LL.D., the blind librarian of the institute. Once a month the Braille Courier is sent to every blind person in Canada and Newfoundland who expresses the desire to receive it. Its fame is not confined to Canada and copies are purchased by most of the libraries operated for the blind in the United States. Private subscribers in countries outside the Dominion are sort of second-hand subscribers. When an application is received from a blind individual living in another part of the world Dr. Swift endeavors to find some Canadian reader who will send the applicant his copy after he is through with it. In this way a miniature world-wide circulation has been built up with readers in every part of the British Empire. The contents of the Braille Courier are of general interest although matters of particular interest to blind people are featured. The stereotyping machine upon which metal plates are prepared from which the magazine is produced, and the special press are housed in the publishing department of The Canadian National Institute for the Blind at 64 Baldwin Street in Toronto.

There are scores of ways by which it is possible to assist blind people through an efficient organization created to serve them. The Canadian National Institute for the Blind, in the interest of which a tag day is being held on Saturday, May 28, in Peterborough, is operated in such a manner as to aid any and every blind person in any legitimate manner.

IN THE HYGIENE COURT OF JUSTICE

Clerk Charged with Loss of Efficiency

Mr. Justice Kruschen concluded his summing up

JUDGE: This man has admittedly been taking no steps to safeguard his health, though he has a wife and three little children who depend entirely upon him.

—his consequent loss of efficiency threatens to rob them sooner or later of the support he owes them.

Remembering all these facts can you honestly find this man "not guilty" of the charge against him—that his loss of efficiency is due to ill-health? That is what you must decide.

(The jury then retired for ten minutes.)

FOREMAN OF JURY: My lord. The jury agree in finding the prisoner guilty.

JUDGE: Prisoner, in this court we do not punish: we reform. And serious as your charge is, you will be allowed to go back to your home on probation, on the understanding that you keep yourself out of this trouble in future.

PRISONER: My lord, how is that possible? I get no chance of proper exercise. I won't have a holiday for months. I'm sitting in a stuffy office all day long, I. . . . I. . . .

JUDGE: Silence! These are the very reasons why steps are so absolutely necessary.

PRISONER: My lord, I promise to do anything I can. But, the cost. . . .

JUDGE: All you need, my good man, is to learn one simple sentence—"It's the little daily dose that does it". It's Kruschen you're needing! And as for the cost; it is much less than 1c a day.

PRISONER: But my lord, how can one single salt do all that I need?

JUDGE: Don't ask foolish questions! A man of your age should know that Kruschen is not a single salt. It's a combination of several salts—Nature's own salts refined. It is a balanced prescription, gently stimulating to natural action those parts of your system that have become sluggish or inactive through unnatural modern living conditions.

PRISONER: I'll never forget what you say, my lord.

JUDGE: Now go away and get back your health and energy and efficiency. And so long as you never fail to take that little daily dose, you're not likely to be seen in this court again.

KRUSCHEN SALTS

relieve constipation and rheumatism

Kruschen is a combination of several mineral salts which your body must get, in some way, to keep the blood pure the inside clean, and the system generally toned up, but which you can't get in Nature's own way without abundant exercise and fresh air. You should have those salts every day; hence the importance of the "little daily dose". Every drug counter sells Kruschen in 25c, 45c and 75c bottles. It's the little daily dose that does it.

After Six Years!

Each time there is evidence offered before the Senate committee regarding the railway affairs of Canada there is something brought to the surface about which the people of this country knew nothing before.

Nothing had been made public regarding the manner in which there had been failure to eliminate duplicated service.

If one wants a good example of this it is contained in the statement that the grand total of lines which it had been proposed to abandon in Canada east and west of Fort William totalled 5,051 miles.

This proposal, says an Ottawa despatch, was made to the Royal Commission on Transportation in 1932, but was made public only today.

That is, six years ago that was recommended and the people are hearing about it now. And one of the railways is supposed to belong to the people and they have had to pay splendidly for their ownership.

The people would pay as well for that report of the Royal Commission on Transportation, and yet six years afterward they are told of something which the report contained!

Do They Want To Fight?

From Mexico comes word that leaders of one million workers are going to ask President Cardenas to furnish them with weapons so they can fight what they termed "the Fascist rebellion". Some more fighting will not be new for Mexico. There was a time when it included California, Arizona, Texas and Utah. Today it has an area of 767,000 square miles which is about equal in size to Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba combined. It has a coast line of 1,500 miles on the Atlantic (or Gulf of Mexico side) and 2,000 miles on the Pacific. It is a country of flat spots and high altitudes. Mexico City is on an elevation of 7,500 feet above sea level. It has volcanic craters which are still active and it is visited too often by earthquakes. But it has gold, silver, copper, coal and oil. Its oil wells are indeed rich.

Population as near as can be estimated is about 15,000,000 and one-sixth of these would be whites of Spanish origin; a full 50 per cent. of the people are half-castes. From October to May in Mexico it is dry, and from June to September it is wet. Most of the people there are poor; perhaps that is why they want the government to give them a gun. There are thousands of them living in squalid huts, the construction being mostly plain mud. Our method of using the phrase about a standard of living could hardly be applied to tens of thousands of the Mexicans; they have virtually no money at all; some of the preparations which they call meals would mean nothing at all to people from Canada. We could not eat them.

We are moved to doubt whether a million laborers are actually asking for weapons so they can flock to the support of their President. It is probably the truth to say there would be thousands of them who know nothing of their president or the trouble which may be going on in other parts of the country.

They Are Sticking

In the drought areas of Western Canada the salaries of school teachers are in arrears to the extent of over $1,000,000. Reading reports telling of their experiences it is related that those who are considered most fortunate are the ones who have been able to go on relief. When shipments of clothing are received from the East the teachers generally find they are not expected to receive anything from such bundles because "they are supposed to be in receipt of a salary."

It is recorded that there are teachers who have not received any money at all in a period of five months: one has been paid $11 cash in six months, and there is at least one school where there has not been a piece of chalk in three months.

These facts were brought out following a remark by J. G. Clarke of Montreal who said there were 850 teachers in Canada receiving a salary of less than $150 a year. Those who are in a position to know admit his statement may be correct, but are quick to add that the $150 was not the salary agreed upon when the teachers started work. The agreed salary was much higher but the money is not there with which to pay the teachers, and that is how arrears amount to over $1,000,000.

If the school teachers are not getting paid it must mean that others who are in municipal service are in the same position. The clerk, treasurer, the constable or any official would fare no better.

There are hired men working in the same country who have not been paid. We learn many of them are staying right there under the provision that if there is a crop they will be paid, and if there is not a crop they will be in the same position as the farmer who owns the land. They will get nothing.

These people in the drought area are not asking for sympathy, but they might appreciate a little understanding on the part of the rest of us as to what they are doing. They are sticking. They are staying with it when they might pick up and get out. They are hoping and believing that things will be better, and they are giving evidence of the faith which is in them by seeing it through. If the day comes when there is once more money in the land they will get their share of it. And they should.

Sold For a Song

There have been a number of efforts made to explain why the Pierce-Arrow Motor Corporation went out of business. Within recent years it has been considered a mark of distinction to own such a car. Not many people in the average community could afford them. In the days when money was plentiful that company was turning out a custom model which cost as high as $45,000.

And it is not far back as time goes since the Pierce-Arrow Company was doing a business of $28,000,000 a year, and it was profitable business.

But when the business was put up for sale it brought just $40,000. That's all. And yet a few years ago the business turnover was $28,000,000 in one year.

We do not know whether there is any particular business moral or object lesson in it, but no doubt some one said during the hey-day of the Pierce-Arrow Company that the people operating it were tied up with the "big interests" or some such thing. Today the people who had their money in there have been cleaned out of their holdings. A sale price of $40,000 would not mean a thing in the affairs of a company of that size. That much would not begin to account for its tool room.

One thing stands out: That people who go in and supply the capital in the hope of making dividends also have to assume all the risk of failure or success. Sometimes we forget about that. The stock-holders of the Pierce-Arrow Company have had opportunity within recent times to rediscover that old fact.

About Lobsters

There was a royal commission to make inquiries regarding illegal fishing and canning of lobsters in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, and for the report we paid $9,000. That of course is not much when compared with the cost of other investigations by commissions, but we dare say it would have looked like a great deal to the men who make a living catching lobsters.

A. J. Brooks, M.P. for Royal, N.B., told the House of Commons the report was not worth the money which had been spent to secure it. All the facts brought out could have been secured from officials of the fisheries department, and everyone in the district knew there was illegal fishing going on. Mr. Brooks said if the $9,000 had been spent to secure better nets and gear for the fishermen there would have been something to show for the expenditure.

But surely Mr. Brooks does not expect a government to spend its money that way. He has been in public life for a number of years and should know better. Governments will spend money for commissions to find out about lobsters and the manner in which they are being taken. It may or may not produce any better conditions for the men who make a living catching lobsters.

There is probably truth enough in what Mr. Brooks says about officials and staff of the fisheries department knowing about any wrong methods which are in use. If such departments have men in their employ whose business it is to know what is going on why should they not supply the information as part of their day's work?

No Street Parade!

Being Mayor of a city is more than sitting in an office or presiding at a meeting. There's more to it than being addressed as "Your Worship" and getting asked to almost every dinner and function in the community. In St. Thomas the Mayor is now called upon to do a bit of explaining.

This way: A circus is billed to appear in St. Thomas and now the people have found out there is not going to be any downtown circus parade. So they blamed the Mayor. The Mayor in turn says the city collected the fee from the circus, and this particular circus does not hold a parade. It is one of those cold efficient circuses which insists that people shall come and pay over their money before they see anything at all.

We doubt whether the Mayor of St. Thomas can live that down. It will be held against him if he ever runs again. St. Thomas takes its circuses seriously. Years ago it became famous when Jumbo the big elephant was killed there by being hit by a locomotive. And for a long time after that St. Thomas people travelling away from home found it easy to identify themselves by saying they came from the place where Jumbo had been killed. They liked it.

Being Mayor of a city of that kind calls for a man who is circus-minded. He should have known that his citizenry longed for a parade with their circus. Whether they paraded elsewhere or not they should have done so in St. Thomas. The Mayor might have caused the tax rate to be increased, he might have spent too much money romping about on deputations, he might have spoken with scant courtesy to indigant folk who called to lodge complaint. He might have done all those things and yet stand a chance for re-election. But to allow a circus to come into St. Thomas and not have a street parade! Well, we fear the Mayor is cooked.

Had His Own Method

The lure of distant places and adventure still calls to youth. Three years ago Frank Holloway, then 16 years old, hitch-hiked from his home in London, Ont., to Montreal; from there he worked his passage to London because he wanted to join the navy. He had formerly tried for a place in the Canadian navy but failed.

Holloway enlisted at Portsmouth and received 18 months' training as an ordinary seaman. Then he found several vacancies listed in the Canadian navy and secured a transfer which became effective last September.

He returned recently with the Saguenay which made a 22,000-mile cruise from Halifax to Bermuda, Jamaica, through the Panama Canal to Costa Rica and finally at Esquimalt. He is now qualified as an able seaman.

Frank Holloway says he made the transfer to the Canadian navy because it would give him a chance to get home now and then and also because the pay and allowances are three times higher than those received in the British navy, and both of those reasons one must admit seem good and sufficent.

The young naval man is now 19 years of age and ranks as an able seaman. He left home at 16 because he wanted to join the navy. He had his own method of accomplishing his purpose, and he has done what he started out to do. And we have not the least doubt that a good many folk told him before he left that he was on the wrong track and would regret what he was doing.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Ontario delegates complain that Toronto labor is "bossy". But then isn't "bossiness" a Toronto characteristic?

Our sympathy is extended to the radio enthusiast who thought it was Charlie McCarthy who was going to describe the King's Plate race over the air.

When the car driven by the chief of police at Niagara Falls was examined it was found that one headlight was tilted. Perhaps the Chief wears his cap that way.

Liberal women gathered in Ottawa demanded a larger share in the affairs of their party. And the gallant men will proceed to say it shall be done. But it never will be.

Supplementary estimates include over $6,000,000 for agriculture. Canada's basic industry cannot claim that it is overlooked when government money is being distributed.

Detroit optometrist says that changing conditions are responsible for considerable eyestrain. Here in Ontario those blurry license markers are also a contributing factor.

Sir Ernest MacMillan says that the actual basis of music is the human voice. Of course the eminent Toronto musician had not heard the office crooner when he made the statement.

The old joke about wagering on dog races is that the only safe way is to bet on the mechanical rabbit has been knocked out of court. In Toronto the other night the machinery failed and the rabbit would not even start.

"Mother and child die when brakes fail on step hill." There in one news heading is the most potent argument that could be advanced for insistence upon adequate brakes on every car on the road.

Now that Mr. Crerar has informed the House that Canada's title to the Arctic regions is beyond dispute we will breathe easier realizing there is no danger of waking up some morning and finding some foreign power has annexed an iceberg or two.

LEARNING

(By A. R. K.)

¶ My Cousin Jake is smart I know, though some regard him as too slow, his methods make them scoff; he never boasts of what he's got and yet I know he holds a lot, in fact he's quite well off.

¶ When salesmen came to Cousin Jake, they found they'd made a bad mistake, he'd listen to their line; but Jake would simply smile and say, he had no cash to throw away, and they were wasting time.

¶ Jake never picked up mining stock, he never bought a city block, nor did he speculate; each week he put a bit away, to serve him on a rainy day, he got a modest rate.

¶ I guess I often laughed at Jake, and tried to show him his mistake, but he just said he'd stick; I told him of the schemes I knew, and of the daring things I'd do, how I would get rich quick.

¶ The mines I bought were never sound, no silver and no gold they found, they worked in barren soil; and all the money that I spent, and handed to each slippery gent, it came from honest toil.

¶ So I don't laugh at Jake no more, like what I used to do before, he's sound as he can be; the only thing I have to fear, is that perhaps when I'm not near —that Jake will laugh at me.

Talking About Grading of Hogs

(From Parliamentary Reports)

Mr. GARDINER: Arrangements are being made at present to have a man established in British Columbia who will take charge of the grading of hogs in that province. That service was not previously given by the department in British Columbia; but the numbers produced, as has been indicated by the hon. member, have increased, and we feel now that we should give that service to the province.

Mr. BARBER: Will this official be grading on the rail at the abattoirs or will he also act as a field man, so that the farmers could get some information on the type of hog they should raise and how to improve them?

Mr. GARDINER: The one man at that particular point will do both. He will grade in the stockyards on the hoof, and also grade in the packing plant on the rail.

Mr. THOMPSON: Has the farmer any say at the present time as to how these hogs are graded? Can he have them graded on the rail or graded on the hoof as he desires?

Mr. GARDINER: It is for the farmer to decide whether they shall be graded on the hoof or on the rail.

Mr. THOMPSON: When he sells to the drover, and the hogs go into the stock yard, has the farmer the right to say: "I want these graded on the rail," or "I want them marked," and then have them forwarded on as they are to the abattoirs?

Mr. GARDINER: It is a deal between the drover and the farmer. They can be graded on the rail if he makes that deal with the drover.

Mr. THOMPSON: He has the option?

Mr. GARDINER: Yes.

Mr. THOMPSON: I think every encouragement should be given to the farmer because if the dairy cow and the bacon hog in eastern Ontario are eliminated, the farmers would go bankrupt. Those are their greatest assets, and I am pleased to know that the minister is giving the matter his consideration and giving more thought to the grading of hogs.

GRADING BY RAIL

Mr. ROWE (Dufferin-Simcoe): Would the minister consider the advisability of a regulation to have all hogs graded on the rail, in the interests of the export end of it and in the interests of the hog industry generally?

Mr. GARDINER: We have considered the advisability of it. We have not felt that public opinion is sufficiently behind it to warrant doing it at this time. When we are convinced that the public are ready we shall, of course, be prepared to make any further provision necessary.

Mr. ROWE (Dufferin-Simcoe): The department more or less agrees that this is the more efficient way?

Mr. GARDINER: Yes; the department agrees that it is the more efficient way.

Mr. THOMPSON: Regarding hog grading, I might say it was customary for the drover to grade the hogs, but one can understand that the drover gets in wrong with a great many of his customers if they think they have not as many selects as they should have; the majority of the drovers do not care to grade these hogs when they buy them, so they are marked and sent on to the abattoirs, where the government grader grades them, but the raisers of the hogs have to wait until the next shipment before the drover gets back his returns and pays them $1 apiece for their selects.

I see by this item that there are senior swine graders, swine graders and junior swine graders, and I should like to know the difference between them. There are three senior swine graders, fourteen swine graders, and twenty-five junior swine graders, and they are all paid different salaries. What is the difference?

Mr. GARDINER: The names applied to them describe pretty clearly what the difference is. The junior man is the man with the least experience; he has not as great a responsibility as the senior. The junior has the least experience, the swine grader next, and the senior swine grader is the most experienced.

Mr. Mac KENZIE (Neepawa): There is an impression in our part of the country that the premium of $1 a hog is not large enough to encourage the farmers to produce the proper type of bacon hog.

Mr. GARDINER: The amount now is $1 a hog.

Mr. SENN: What control, if any, is exercised over the differential in the different grades of hogs? It is true that the premium for select hogs is $1; but when you get light hogs, even if they are the right type and the proper conformation, sometimes there is a differential between the bacon price and the price of the live hog; and similarly with heavy hogs. Sometimes the differential is quite large. In some instances this creates a certain amount of dissatisfaction in the minds of the farmers. Does the department exercise any control in that regard?

Mr. GARDINER: The only control is in the matter of the premium of $1. As regards other differentials in other grades, that is a matter of agreement between the buyer and the seller.

GOVERNMENT JOBS.

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

THE PATRONAGE evil, about which any member of the Canadian Parliament or provincial legislature could write a book, does not exist in the United Kingdom, thanks to the British civil service system. Professor Harold J. Laski, who was on the faculty of McGill before the war, afterwards at Harvard and for several years, now, at the London School of Economics, has been lecturing in Washington, and, incidentally, telling something of the British civil service. He has been telling of half a dozen of his friends, who are members of parliament, and who have served combined terms running over thirty-five years. In the thirty-five years, says Professor Laski, no one of these M.P.'s has received a single letter from a constituent asking for a job. Conditions like that would be heaven to the representative of most any Canadian constituency.

• The Agitators Killed The Business

(Detroit Free Press)

THE ABANDONMENT of an uncompleted foundry in Adrian is attributed directly to labor trouble.

The plant, whose construction was giving employment to members of the building trades and which later would have given employment to many workers, was not half completed before its owners were harassed by strikes.

Again free labor and the rank and file of union labor are victimized by labor agitators, who are looking out for their own pockets.

Agitation of the same type has been responsible for the loss to Detroit of a large part of the machine tool business which it formerly enjoyed.

As a result of labor agitation and strikes it has been impossible for many tool makers to guarantee delivery at reasonable prices.

And the manufacturers who use the tools have in consequence been compelled to place their orders outside of Detroit, where workers, who want to work, are not compelled to quit their jobs by agitators, who alone prosper through the industrial unrest they stir up.

The first and greatest sufferers from this situation in Detroit are the men, whether they belong to unions or not, who are deprived of the right to work by ruthless and conscienceless agitators and their strong-arm followings.

• Marching Ducks Stayed In Order

(By C. A. Scheinert, in our Dumb Animals)

WE OFTEN observe ducks marching single file. Never does one crowd ahead of another, never do they bunch. Is there any reason for this? Perhaps this little incident will inform us.

Five White Runner ducks had a narrow runway leading into their house. Each night they filed in, one by one. Their owner wondered if they always came in the same order, tagged them to find out, after observing one particular duck was always third. And for 30 consecutive nights of observation, they came up to the runway, entered the house, in exactly the same order.

"The casual observer will say 'instinct'. But why and what for? Isn't the word 'instinct' just a name to cover up human ignorance, lack of understanding?" their owner now says.

He believes, after such a test, that ducks can count, to a limited number, at least. How else would they select their position in line? He also believes, after years of experience with wild waterfowl, that they are able to communicate with one another and intelligently plan their course of action.

Other observers tell us that ducks appear to select their own leader, and his aides, whom they follow loyally. The man quoted above also believes that ducks understand us, for he can call them and they come to him, put their necks into his hand—one by one—and again always in the same order, awaiting his turn.

• The Pedestrian Moves Slower

(Brockville Recorder)

THE HAZARD of speed may be more fully appreciated by converting miles per hour into feet per second, as the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations have done for our benefit. This conversion was roughly made by adding 50% to your rate of speed in terms of miles. Thus at 50 miles an hour you are travelling approximately 75 feet per second. If your reaction time is one second, then you have travelled 75 feet while you have been deciding what to do. To this must be added your braking distance — the distance it takes to bring your car to a standstill, after the brakes have been applied, which, of course, varies with your speed, the condition of your brakes and the road surface.

And remember the pedestrians' traffic problem. Thirty miles an hour is travelling approximately 45 feet per second. The pedestrian moves at the rate of about three miles an hour —4½ feet per second. In other words, while your car is travelling at 30 miles an hour, 45 feet, the pedestrian hardly covers a distance equal to the width of your car—and he cannot accelerate to 60 and 70 miles an hour in an effort to get out of harm's way. A little more consideration and courtesy and giving yourself a few minutes longer for the trip may easily save a life.

The faster you travel and the less time you have to react, the harder the impact and the greater the damage.

• Corn Keeping Our Boats Busy

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

THE OUTSTANDING feature of the grain traffic on the lakes so far this season is an exceptionally heavy eastward movement of corn from the United States, most of it destined for European markets. At the Cataraqui elevator there has been transshipped or stored already to date about nine million bushels of the yellow grain. The largest single cargo was brought there at the week-end by the huge Lemoyne, amounting in round figures to 534,000 bushels. This exceptional activity in corn is reported from other lake ports. At Goderich, for instance, the handling of corn is big business these days.

In reference to this corn movement, a Montreal correspondent of Financial Post states that South Africa has put a ban on the export of corn this year and that Argentina has a short crop. The result has been a very marked demand for United States corn and because of its perishable nature the St. Lawrence route is favored for its delivery. The Post's correspondent says it is expected that shipments will continue for some time and that between 75 and 80 million bushels are likely to move via the St. Lawrence river to Europe.

A review of United States grain in Canada in a bulletin of the bureau of statistics emphasizes the major position occupied by corn at present. During the week ending May 13 shipments of United States grain received at the St. Lawrence ports were: oats, 67,659 bushels; barley, 521,427; rye, 251,518, and corn 3,628,975 bushels. Besides the movement by water, considerable quantities of corn are being forwarded by rail. There were over seven million bushels of United States corn in store in eastern Canadian elevators at May 13.

The shipments of corn so far have gone a long way to offset—if they have not more than offset—the unusually small movement of wheat from Fort William and Port Arthur. It is decidedly welcome business for the grain carriers. Besides benefitting lake shipping it is bringing revenue to the railways. It is to be hoped that it will continue well into the summer months.

BILLIONS FOR WHAT?

(New York Herald Tribune)

THE FIGHT to halt the extremists of the New Deal while there is yet time reaches an important climax in the Senate this week. The spending bill is about to be reported out by the Appropriations subcommittee.

The issue is simple. Every Representative and Senator understands it. It is not relief. It is not even the spending program, dubious as that is. It is whether these vast sums are to be non-political moneys, impartially distributed, to aid the needy and foster recovery—or a New Deal campaign chest.

It is not a partisan issue. With almost frank brutality, Federal moneys are already pouring into the state of Kentucky in an effort to save the hide of Senator Barkley, the President's pet, in the coming Democratic primary. Any one who opposes the New Deal, whether Republican or Democrat, will feel the might of these billions from now to November—unless Congress does all it can to prevent their political use.

AND WHEN HE had called all the people unto him, he said unto them, Hearken unto me every one of you, and understand: there is nothing from without a man, that entering into him can defile him: but the things which come out of him, those are they that defile a man. If any man have ears to hear, let him hear.

And when he was entered into the house from the people, his disciples asked him concerning the parable....

And he said, That which cometh out of the man, that defileth the man.

For from within, out of the heart of men, proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murders, thefts, covetousness, wickedness, deceit, lasciviousness, and evil eye, blasphemy, pride, foolishness:

All these evil things come from within, and defile the man.—Mark vii, 14-17; 20-23.

HUMBLE BUT FAMOUS.

(Windsor Star)

THROUGH 22 years Anton Lang was the Christus of the Passion Play at Oberammergau, the open-air re-enactment of the passion and death of the Saviour which drew awed and reverent thousands from all quarters of the globe. He had retired some time ago, and another actor had taken his place, but his was the memorable portrayal of the central figure in the greatest drama of all history.

An actor needs no high-pressure press-agents, no fan mail, divorce suits or smoked glasses in order to reach the heights—provided he has ability, and the vehicle in which to employ it. The career of Anton Lang proved this. Rejecting offers to capitalize himself in the movies, he was satisfied to remain a humble woodcarver and pottery maker in the mountains of Bavaria. Yet he was world famous.

A Bit of Nonsense

ILL AGAIN?

Into the meat shop came a customer complaining that a ham which he had purchased was not good.

"The ham is all right," insisted the shopkeeper.

"No, it isn't," insisted the customer. "That ham is bad."

"Maybe it had a relapse!"

WONDER RETURNS TO SWAY CROWDS AT ALBERT HALL

LONDON, May 26 — (CP). — Yehudi Menuhin's return to London was magnificent. It was not a wonder child of music who stilled 8,000 tongues in historic old Royal Albert Hall. It was an artist—a violinist mature in sympathy and stature.

Menuhin has shed his childhood. The public acceptance of him as an infant prodigy is out-dated, though amaxement may abide that he is only 21. Menuhin playing concertos with the London Philharmonic Orchestra is something approaching the ultimate in musical entertainment. The artist left his youth and the novelty of his greatness far away in Australia where he retired two years ago.

England's celebrated critics proclaimed this point in their rather pontifical style, but not before the lofty galleries had yelled their bravos until it seemed the haggard old dome of Albert Hall must crash to the soft red carpet under expensive seats far below.

Playing a violin in massive Albert Hall must be like whispering into the Grand Canyon. But there was no effort to catch his subtle tones, no straining to feel his Mendelssohn—no effort in the arena seats, in the spreading orchestra, in the three tiers of boxes, in the two sections of balconies, in the sky-high galleries.

Indulging in no dramatics but rocking slightly from toe to heel as he gave himself to his instrument, Menuhin played with and yet dominated the vast orchestra led by Sir Henry J. Wood. But it was a domination of spirit and skill to which they submitted with enthusiasm, the players joining with their celebrated conductor in feverish applause at the concert's end.

Menuhin's assurance while playing has long been praised. But he has added to it a dignified yet natural bearing in his manner of meeting the audience, of acknowledging applause, of greeting his fellow-artists. He strikes no poses but goes about his work in a genuine sort of way that aroused general pleasure.

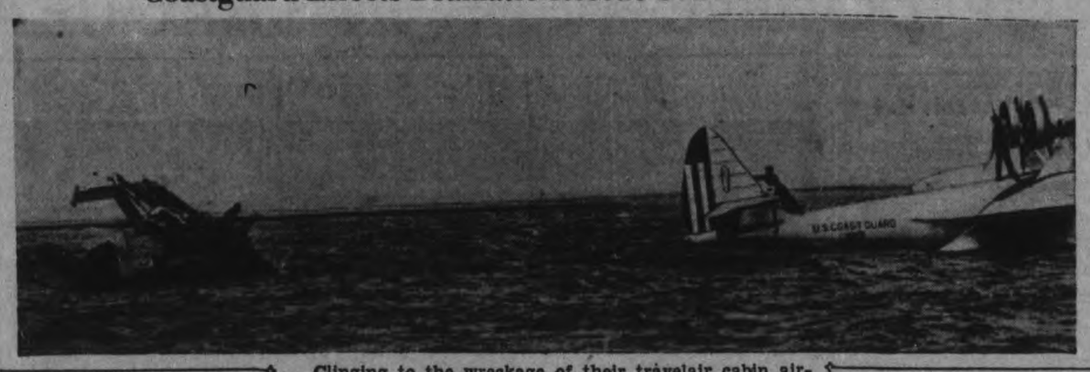
They Were Sell-Out

Tickets for his two appearances here, one with the orchestra and the other a recital with his sister Hephzibah Menuhin at the piano, were all sold long before the concerts. The program with the orchestra opened with the Schumann Concerto in D Minor—now popularly known as the "lost" concerto—and followed with the well-known Mendelssohn Concerto in E Minor in whose second movement the artist gained a mastery of expression rarely heard even in that tender melody. The Brahms Concerto in D. Major concluded the program.

In the corridors could be heard the word "Kreisler" over and over again. It may be unnecessary and unfair to compare Menuhin with Kreisler—yet everyone was doing it. There's no telling just how the vote would go—yet the Menuhin at 21 should even rate comparison with the world's best is perhaps a sufficient tribute.

The critics steered clear of this topic that was on every tongue—with the exception of The Daily Telegraph and Morning Post's writer who concluded that if "n the very remarkable performance of the mature Menuhin we do not find a personality as striking as Kreisler's is, or Ysaye's was, that is probably only because we have not heard enough of him. His mastery is beyond question, and his high ideals are shown, amongst other things, by the three-concerto program he gave us."

Coastguard Effects Dramatic Rescue Of Stranded Fliers



Clinging to the wreckage of their travelair cabin airplane, five passengers are shown awaiting rescue by the crew of the U.S. coast-guard Amphibian which sped to their rescue when their craft crashed into the New York harbor while taking off from Floyd Bennett airport. A coast guardsman is seen on the tail of the rescue airplane paying out line to another member of the crew swimming to the wreckage. All the occupants were rescued and brought ashore to waiting ambulances. Credit for their safety can be given to Lieut. True Miller, of the coast-guard craft, who witnessed the crash and set his ship down close to the wreckage.

OBITUARY

MRS. SAMUEL J. KELLY.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, May 26.—After a lengthy illness, Mrs. Samuel John Kelly passed away at the family residence in the 9th Concession of the Township of Thurlow on Sunday, May 22nd.

The late Mrs. Kelly was born in the Township of Thurlow, 74 years ago. Prior to her marriage, she was Miss Nancy A. Townsend, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Townsend. All her life was passed in the district where she was born, and she was highly esteemed by all who knew her. In religion, she was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

Surviving her are her husband, Samuel John Kelly; one son, Chas. A. Kelly, Thurlow Township; two brothers, Samuel E. Townsend and Herbert Townsend, both of the Township of Thurlow.

WARREN REID.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, May 26.—The funeral of Warren Reid, one of Rawdon's pioneers, was held in Bethel United Church last week, with a large assemblage of friends and neighbors, who gathered to pay a tribute of respect to the deceased. The Rev. J. E. Beckel, pastor, officiated.

The funeral was under the auspices of the L.O.L., the deceased being a loyal member of Tanner Lodge No. 509. The bearers were Messrs. Alex. Martin, William Johnson, Murney Roy, H. Dafoe, W. J. Tanner and William Martin.

The late Mr. Reid recently celebrated his eighty-fourth birthday, and he was well-known and highly respected throughout Rawdon Township. He leaves to mourn his widow, whose maiden name was Miss Sarah Cranston.

The interment was made in the Reid Cemetery at Ivanhoe.

4 OSHAWA YOUTHS HELD

COBOURG, Ont., May 26—(CP)—Following investigations by police into the robbery of the local liquor store, four Oshawa youths were arrested to-day at Cobourg. They are Vernon Bowler, Peter Croll, Mike Sanich and George Klem.

They are being held on vagrancy charges. On May 23 the liquor store was broken into and four bottles of liquor taken by thieves who forced open a transom over the front door.

BOTH HOUSES BUSY DESPITE HOLIDAY

OTTAWA, May 26 — (CP). — Parliament Hill probably never before saw a Victoria Day such as yesterday. People went to picnics, to horse races, to ball games and to the golf links. Even the carillon in the Peace Tower above the main parliament building sang out happy melodies.

Down in the halls of Parliament the grim facts of a worried world were being faced. Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the Commons about the outlook in Europe and Asia. Conservative Leader Bennett levelled a strong attack against Germany and Japan. The Commons sat afternoon and night.

In the Senate railway committee room Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, pictured a gloomy future unless the two great railway systems were unified. Forenoon, afternoon and evening, this committee sat.

The railway committee of the Commons in two sittings sought to smooth out conflicting interests in connection with the transport bill, a measure designed to give the railways a show against the competition of water and highway competition.

The Commons banking committee in two sittings sought a means of protecting from exorbitant interest rates persons who borrowed from companies specializing on small loans. There is a rather violent difference of opinion as to the best method of accomplishing this and several votes were taken without much progress.

Whatever may have been said in recent weeks about the progress of Parliament, its really bestirred itself and packed Victoria Day with plenty of action.

Libby's Tomato Products

"Gentle Press" works the MAGIC THAT PLEASES THE TASTE

Enjoying the flavour of Libby's "Gentle Press" Tomato Soup* is the equivalent of picking your own luscious tomatoes right from the vine, and eating them on the spot! That's how effectively "Gentle Press" works magic with your taste! "Gentle Press" is Libby's patented method of bringing to your table Tomato Juice, Catchup and Soup that retain the original garden-fresh tomato flavour!

By this process, the zestful juice of tomatoes, vine-ripened in the August sun, is so gently extracted that you get unmarred the full-flavoured goodness of each tomato, including all the health-giving vitamins. The tomatoes are certified, the result of selecting the seed from the choicest tomatoes each successive year until near perfection in vitamin-laden flavourful juices has been attained in each tomato.

"Gentle Press" is the magic difference that pleases the taste—that wakes wandering appetites—that makes your family say "Serve Libby's Tomato Catchup—Libby's Tomato Juice and Libby's Tomato Soup often."

MARK ST. SOFTBALLERS COP DOUBLE WINS IN LEAGUE GAMES

Sports DAY by DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

IF THE WEATHER is right tonight, the Men's City Softball League will open its '38 campaign, Westclox playin gMotorists at 6.30 in the Bowl. Next game will be Saturday eve when Omemee meets Westclox here. The tilt this twilight should see quite a crowd clustered around the sides of the nifty Ashburnham Bowl to watch the first scheduled men's softball game played in this park. The male softballers have switched from Central this semester to play alternate nights over on the eastern diamond, the gals having it the other three evenings. Lorne Bateman, ace hurler from down Belleville way last year, is likely to be on the mound for Pat Hayden's Westclox champs, but Shorty Barrett's choice for Motorists is still a mystery. We dunno. Both teams are reported strong and will show some snappy softball this p.m.

* * * * * *

BOTH THE MAIN BOUT and the semi-final of the mitt card here next Monday night should be pippins. Whatever about the supporting cast, these headliners ought to yank the fight fans out of their chairs when they start swapping blows. Nick Orlando, local lightweight, tackles a smart hombre in Young Jackie, colored Toronto flash. And Dutch McIlmoyle, bashing local 165-pounder, is in against a tough Toronto middle in Larry Hinds. Last time we saw McIlmoyle in action was several years ago in a Y's Men's Club bout, and what a furious fight he put up! Sockology instead of psychology is his forte and how he does wallop. These will both be real 'bouts, we imagine. They are five rounds of two minutes each, with no overtime.

* * * * * *

FOLLOWERS of the gutted-stick game will witness another nifty exhibition tussle tomorrow night at the George St. arena under the stars and electric lights when Brampton intermediates play the Petes at 8.30 o'clock. The goalie and a couple of the forwards with the Bramptonites formerly played senior with the good Excelsiors, and the team is reputed to be plenty potent. They'll need to be tough to take the local lacrossers, who have class stuck all over 'em like burrs in a rambling collie's hair. The Petes have practiced themselves into fine shape and showed it when they knocked off the good Woodbridge intermediates here a week back. While they await a good grouping from the O.L.A., they crave exhibition contests.

SKIPPER FRANK RANDLE expects to field pretty much the same lineup as last week. Might be a minor change or two, but the regulars will probably be on deck again. Looks to us like the gang made a 10-strike by landing Jack Westonfelt, Orillia junior, and Norm Worthy, ex-senior from Brampton. Both are classy competitors in this lively and rugged sport. While there are eight or nine local lacrossers who could just about hold their own in any company. Plus some promising youngsters with a season or two experience in lacrosse. Yep, it's a pretty fair team and will win a lot of games again this summer.

GALS' SOFTBALL opened locally last gloaming with the Westclox champs showing what made 'em tick by taking a soft 14-1 chuckle over C.G.E. in an eight-frame fray at the Bowl. A fair crowd braved the chill to see Ald. Bob Cotton officially open the home season. Barb Blade and Marilyn McCarthy opposed each other on the slabs, both allowing eight hits. But the Clockmakers bunched theirs and cashed in on walks and miscues in a couple of big innings. Marilyn McCarthy blazed her fast ball by 11 rival batters but also walked seven. B. Blade was steadier in the clutches. Homers were hit by E. Craig and M. Allison, as A. Sturgeon and G. Mann conked out triples. Ald. Cotton says kids at these games will have to sit down and cut out running around the place or the police will take a hand. As Keene aren't ready to play this week, C.G.E. will clash with Lindsay at the Bowl this Friday eve.

LOTS OF ACTION in the Church Softball League last p.m. on four fronts. Murray St. Seniors beat George St. Buzzers, 6-2, at King Edward; Mark St. Seniors took a 7-5 nod over Knox at the Oval; Mark St. Juveniles defeated All Saints, 12 to 5, at Queen Mary; and St. James Bantams ended their first half with a 10-9 nudge over Knox at the southend park. Games tonight are: George St. Majors vs. All Saints Seniors at King Edward, umps from Murray and Knox; Park St. Juveniles vs. George St. at Central, umps from All Saints and Mark; George St. Bantams vs. All Saints at Prince of Wales. This loop is running along pretty well on schedule so far.

OF THE GAME here May 24th, the Oshawa scribe says in part: "While Turner's fine hurling was the big reason for the victory, Kitchen also turned in a nice chore on the mound and was improving as the game went on. He was pulled for a pinch-hitter, who missed. The newcomers all made a fine showing. Cadd on first for the Petes lacked polish but handled 13 putouts without a miss. Deadey in centre handled his job with skill, of course. Bob Doll, U.S. import at third for the homesters, showed up as a real ball player. He hit the ball very hard, had one two-bagger, and with a great throwing arm stood out defensively." And he deservedly slips a couple of hefty boosts to the two ex-juniors who played third and short in fine fashion for the GM-men in their debut here on the holiday.

* * * * * *

HERB RALPH'S junior ballsters of Peterborough open their Lakeshore League schedule Sat. in Cobourg at 3.30 and are at home to the Cobourgites next Wednesday e'en. Probably Todd will draw the first flinging assignment. Herb has a good squad lined up this season, but he is in a tough, tough circuit. Bowmanville beat Oshawa the other day with Goose Osborne—former C.O.B.I. shortstop—coaching Bowmanville. While Moose Matthews, Motor City slugging outfielder, is coaching the Oshawa kids. The latter have a pitcher in McCabe who really towers on the hilltop. Tall as a fisherman's tale, he has to pretty nearly pitch straight down—they do be saying—to catch the strike zone of rival clouters! Ah, yes, indeed.

MURRAY GANG GET 1ST WIN IN FOUR STARTS

Four games were run off in the Church Softball League last night with Mark St. double winners and Knox twice losers. The best fray saw Murray St. Seniors take their first win in four starts by beating George St. Buzzers 6-2 at King Edward school. Mark St. Seniors beat Knox 7-5 at the Oval. Over at Queen Mary school, Mark St. Juveniles took a 12-5 smirk from All Saints. The St. James Bantams finished their first half by winning from Knox 10-9 at King Edward Park. Games tonight are: George St. Majors vs. All Saints Seniors at King Edward school, umps from Murray St. and Knox; Park St. vs. George St. Juveniles at Central, umps from All Saints and Mark St.; and George St. Bantams vs. All Saints at Prince of Wales.

The Buzzers were pushed back into third place as Murray St. climbed from the cellar in their tilt. It was a neat twirling duel as Dave Wilson gave six hits and fanned 11 in a dandy effort, and R. Rennie was nicked for but eight hits while fanning eight. A big third heat for Murray gave them four runs and the nod. Wilson helped along his own cause when he homered with one on base. G. Palmer and Foster were aslo effective hitters for the Baptists. Joe Weir got three nits, one a double, and fielded well for the losers. Metcalfe also clouted a two-bagger. The teams:

FOURTH STRAIGHT WIN

The strong Mark St. squad took its fourth straight senior win with a late drive. Tied going into the seventh, they picked up a pair from their keen rivals to win 7-5. Good heaving was shown by Rollie Hunter and Alex Wedlock, the former showing his best form of the season. Bill Brady celebrated his recent marriage by getting three hits and fielding perfectly. Darwin and M. Hunter also clouted them hard for the winners, and Hawkes was strong defensively. For Knox, the Wedlock boys and Masters led in hitting with McDonald and McKinley best afield. The teams:

WHEN WALKS COUNT

Five walks figured in the four All Saints Juveniles' runs in the first inning of their game, but then the Mark St. pitching tightened up and held All Saints helpless. Meantime, the East City gang stepped out and ran up a safe lead, scoring in every inning but the last. Davis walked 11, having plenty of trouble locating the plate, but he fanned 10 and turned in a two-hit pitching performance to subdue his rivals. Abraham was reached for 10 hits as he fanned two and walked seven, being wild also. Morley, Nichols and Robinson hit homers with the latter and Davis having triples, and Scriver a double. Juvenile teams are again urged to have players at the field in time. The teams:

Mark St.: Moore, 2b; Curtis, 3b; Robinson, c; Scriver, cf; Agnew, ss; D. Eason, lf; Davis, p; Nicholls, 1b; C. Eason, rf.

All Saints .... 400 001 0— 5	2	2

LACK FINISHING POWER

Knox Bantams had the winning runs on base at the finish of their fray but could not push them over. It was their first reverse and St. James third win. The latter led from the third but barely nosed in ahead. Ellis pitched steady ball for St. James and had much better control than his mound rival, Hamblin. Best hitting was done by Gertley, Parnall, Gardiner, Roode, Estlick and Ellis. The teams:

St. James: McMahon, rf; Lawson, rf; Estlick, 2b; Baldry, c; Leether, 3b; Murduff, cf; Wildman, 1b; Rutherford, ss; Roode, cf; Ellis, p.

Campbellford Rink Wins At Brighton

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 26—Playing in a Victoria Day tournament in Brighton on Tuesday afternoon a Campbellford Bowling team skipped by A. J. Meyers captured second prize. The locals met rinks from Warkworth, Havelock, Hastings and Cobourg. Each member of the Campbellford rink was presented with a silver entree dish. The rink included A. J. Meyers, skip, and Messrs. L. Diamond, A. G. Thompson and C. H. Calver.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

Notwithstanding the fact that his side lost five out of the nine games played, the President carries a lead of 34 points into the second half of the competition, which will be played to-night.

In opening the bowling season, the president, K. Sloane, welcomed the large crowd that had braved the elements to compete in the annual President—Vice-President competition. He thanked the committees for all the work that they had done, and hoped everybody would enjoy the season as one of the best on record.

If the same enthusiasm prevails throughout the season as it did last night, nothing can stop the success of our club. The boys commenced right in with the rolling of the first bowl and kept it going until the 14th end was over. It surely was one grand opening.

We are now able to give you the information re Friday night:

Weather permitting we will hold a mixed tournament, and it will be free. Three sets of prizes will be given. Telephone your name in and be there by 7.30 p.m. This will be the tournament that was to have been held on Tuesday, May 24.

NICK ORLANDO WON OVER MIDWAY PUG

There is a midway fighter in town today who must have a wholesome respect for the ability of local boxers. He is Russ Galloway, of Montreal, who is appearing in the ring with the midway now in this city, taking on challengers his own weight in evening exhibitions. Last night he received a sound drubbing from Nick Orlando, local amateur lightweight of the Riverview Athletic Club. Orlando, also a former Montrealer, accepted Galloway's challenge yesterday evening for a three-round bout. He was outpointed in the first round but knocked his tough opponent down three times and once out of the ring before the end of the bout.

Galloway represented Canada at the British Empire Games in 1930 as lightweight boxer, and he has several decisions over Lefty Gwynne to his credit. He is a smart, rugged ringman. However, over a hundred local fans saw some great boxing by Nick Orlando when the local Italian found his bearings. He has been training for a mitt show here next Monday and is in the pink of condition. He waded into Russ in the second round last night with both hands flashing, and it was a session that kept the crowd yelling. Both fighters were well marked up at the finish.

Adams Predicts Better Hockey

DETROIT, May 26 (C.P.) — Perhaps you're not much interested with a warm summer sun beating down, and vacation days not far away, but Manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings says his boys are going to show the National Hockey League just how the game should be played next season. The team has just returned from a barnstorming tour through Europe with Montreal Canadiens.

"Jovial Jawn" puffed off the train wearing the grin that made him famous during the successful Stanley Cup series of two and three seasons ago. He was emphatic the Wings showed better during their seven-week tour of England, and France than they did through a discouraging N.H.L. season. Wings failed to reach the playoffs last year, and finished in the last place in the American section of the circuit.

Adams hopes to discuss with Owner James Norris later in the week a great hockey player who is now on the loose. Perhaps the player was in Europe, but Adams won't talk.

Officers Elected N. Durham League

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, May 26.—At the annual meeting on Monday evening the North Durham Baseball League was re-arranged and new officers elected for 1938, as well as a schedule drawn up for the summer's activities. Teams will be entered from Bethany, Janetville, Nestleton and Yelverton.

The officers are: President, P. Hamilton, Janetville; 1st vice-president, Victor Malcolm, Yelverton; 2nd vice-president, Robert Sisson, Bethany; secretary, Gilbert Marlow, Nestleton; treasurer, Harold Porteous, Nestleton.

The first game will be Nestleton vs Janetville at Nestleton on Saturday, May 28th.

Girls' Softball Season Opens

The girls' softball season opened in Peterborough Wednesday evening in the Ashburnham Bowl when Westclox, 1937 league champions, took a 14-1 victory over the C.G.E. squad before a fair-sized crowd of chilly fans. It was a typical opening game for the lasses, with plenty of hitting and a good share of fumbles. Four players, two from each team, are shown above in a friendly pose before the contest started. They are, left to right, Avis Doughty, C.G.E. first sacker; Marie Ferguson, Westclox shortstop; Ann DeCarlo, Electrics' catcher; and Barb Blade, pitcher for Westclox.

Somerville One Up At Finish Of 4th Round In British Golf

Koscsis of Detroit Joins Canadian By Defeating Johnny Goodman

TROON, Scotland, May 26—(CP)—Sandy Somerville today defeated Walter McLeod of Scotland, one up, in the fourth round of the British Amateur golf championships.

Held all square on the first nine, the London, Ont., insurance man really won the match on the 16th a 566-yard test, when he uncorked two booming woods and got down in two for a birdie four. Pars on the last two—the 223-yard 17th and 390-yard home hole, were good for halves and maintained his lead.

Playing magnificently through a howling wind and rain storm, Charles (Chuck) Koscsis of Detroit defeated the United States amateur champion Johnny Goodman, a three and two, to join the Canadian in the fifth round.

Cecil Ewing, burly Irishman, also reached the round of 16 with a five and four triumph over Robert Wight of Britain, and Alex Kyle, named for the 1938 British Cup team, turned back Hamilton McInally, a fellow-Briton, six and four.

Youth Gets Victory

Charley Yates of Atlanta, continuing his remarkable approach shots, breezed home with a smashing seven and five victory over Andrew McClure of Britain.

Somerville, fighting through a howling storm of wind and rain, reached the turn even with McLeod.

Each won three holes and three were tied on the outgoing nine. The Canadian lost the first hole by overhitting an approach but evened it at the third where McLeod hit his second into the rough.

Somerville lost the fourth again by driving into the rough to the left of the fairway. He evened it again at the short fifth when McLeod missed the green and went one up at the seventh where his opponent caught a trap with his second.

The Canadian lost the short eighth by drifting his drive into the sand. The cards:

Par, out	444	435	435—36
Somerville, out	544	535	445—39
McLeod, out	445	445	535—39

Despite the most unfavorable sort of weather conditions—a southwest gale laden with rain—the determined Somerville carded an even par 35 coming in to beat McLeod one up. The Briton was only one over par.

Two glorious wood shots down the 16th fairway really gave the Canadian the victory. He got down in two on that 566 yard hole for a birdie four against McLeod's par five. They halved the last two in even pars.

The cards:	Par, out	36
Par, in	444 434	534—35-71
Somerville	445 434	434—35
McLeod	454 434	534—36

Johnny Stevenson, Troon-born favorite, routed Edward D. Hamilton of Britain, six and four, and moved into the fifth round bracket opposite Kocsis.

Little Harlems Cop 2nd Victory

Herb Payne's Little Harlem squad took their second straight Southend Softball League win Wednesday night with a 16-8 smirk over Maple Leafs at the Brinton field. With the Payne gang going good and the losers having some loose hitting and inability to hit in the clutches, the game became one-sided halfway through. Price pitched good ball for the victors and had neat backing, while his buddies blasted Anthony hard. C. Corbett and Connelly led the hitters for the Leafs. The main Harlem clouters were Calladine, Tompkins and Conroy. The teams:

500 CASES OF MUMPS

CHATHAM, Ont., May 26 (CP).—With no sign of any abatement in the epidemic of mumps here, Dr. A. E. Northwood, medical officer of health, has issued an appeal to parents to take all precautions in the interests of their children. Twenty-five new cases of mumps brought the total here this spring to more than 500, and chicken pox, measles and whooping cough are also prevalent.

OUTLAWS GAIN TOP POSITION HASTINGS LOOP

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, May 26.—The Outlaws climbed into first place in the Hastings Softball League when they defeated the Tanners 9 to 6 Wednesday night. It also marked the Tanners second loss in a row. The Outlaws took an early lead when they scored twice in the first innings. They scored two more in the second to take a 4 to 0 lead.

The Tanners tied it up in their half of the second innings on four singles, two walks and Brinklow's long homer over the left field scoreboard.

The Outlaws score four times in the fourth to take a lead they never relinquished. With three men on bases Dit Clapper came to bat and proceeded to strike out. Stickles, the next man up, sent a home run to deep centre to give the Outlaws a 4-run lead. They made it 9 to 4 to open the sixth when they scored one on three successive singles. The Tanners wound up the scoring in the last of the sixth when they scored twice on three hits and two errors.

Thompson of the Tanners with three hits in five times up led the Tanners while McKee, with two hits in three times up led the Outlaws.

McKee allowed the Tanners 12 hits. He struck out six and walked 3. The Tanners' pitcher, McCoy, gave the Outlaws 10 hits while striking out eight, three in a row in the fifth. He passed five.

On Friday evening Elgin and the Clerks tangle. The teams:

Tanners: C. Scriver, rf; Thompson, ss; G. Scriver, c; Hahn, lf; Sargent, 3b; M. Scriver, 1b; Brinklow, 2b; McCoy, p; Kelley, cf.

SCHUMACHER IS STAR IN GIANTS' 3-1 WIN OVER CARDINALS

Boston Repeats Win In Eleven Inning Battle With The Reds Yanks Continue Off Form

Indians Gain Full Game On Rivals By Defeating Red Sox 6-4

NEW YORK, May 26 (CP)—If someone can find out how a visiting team can win an extra inning game from the Bees in Boston, he probably could make himself a nice piece of change selling the secret to seven other National League managers.

It's getting so the fans in the National League Park want to make their rain checks good for the next day if the Bees finish a game in the regulation nine innings.

Casey Stengel's outfit has played four overtime engagements at home in the last seven games, and has finished on top in each one of them. And that's one of the larger reasons why the Bees have a tight hold on third place in the National League.

They aren't hitting much harder than the size of their shoes, as usual, so they're relying on the aging arms of their big four pitchers, Deacon Danny MacFayden, Jim Turner, Lou Fette and 31-year-old rookie Milt Shoffner.

Two Wins Over Pirates

The combination resulted in two victories in 25 innings against the Pirates on consecutive days, an 11-inning decision over Chicago Cubs, and, as recently as yesterday, a 2-1 win over Cincinnati Reds in another 11-inning affair. In this one, MacFayden turned in a seven-hitter to best Paul Derringer and boost the Bees 1½ games in front of the Rhinelanders, who were going at a merry clip until they reached Boston for their current series.

The Cubs, sparked by the three-hit pitching of Larry French, handed the doddering Dodgers a 7-2 setback. For the Giants Hal Schumacher hurled six-hit ball and beat the Cardinals 3-1.

Over in the American League Cleveland Indians gained a full-game on their nearest rivals by knocking off the second-place Boston Red Sox 6-4.

The Yankees, staggering in third place, continued to look far off form as they dropped a 7-4 decision to the Tigers, with four home runs, two each by Rudy York and Hank Greenberg, accounting for all the Detroit runs.

Rookie Howard Mills hurled 13 full innings as the St. Louis Browns outlasted the Senators 4-3. The White Sox clouted three homers to topple the Athletics 7-4.

WESTCLOX GIRLS DEFEAT C.G.E.

Westclox girls opened their home season before a fair crowd at the Bowl last night with a 14-1 victory over C.G.E. The game was called in the first of the eight inning for darkness after the Electrics had been to bat. Last year's champions had the best of it in timely and hard hitting, and defensively, though both sides booted some bad ones in spots. M. McCarthy twirled fine ball for the losers.

Alderman Robert Cotton addressed the crowd and stated he hoped this league would continue to supply the good clean entretainment that it had in the past. He wished them luck, and then hit the first ball to second base as part of the official opening ceremony.

Fans Eleven

Marilyn McCarthy fanned 11 of the Westclox but walked seven while bunched hits walks and errors cost her the game. Barb Blade struck out two C.G.E. batters and walked none. Both sides collected eight hits. The lone C.G.E. run was a homer by E. Craig, while M. Allison also hit a circuit blow. A. Sturgeon and G. Mann banged out triples. Fielding features were turned in by A. Sturgeon, D. Merrett and Marilyn McCarthy. The teams:

BUFFALO GAINS EDGE ON SERIES WITH 3-2 GAME

TORONTO, May 26 (C.P.). — Plenty of noise is heard from the cellar of the International League these days where the weak sisters of the circuit are staging the old worm-turning act.

Montreal Royals are the latest club to refuse to take it on the chin. Royals trounced Rochester Red Wings 7-0 yesterday and are making threatening gestures towards the first division from their seventh place berth.

Rabbit Maranville's men have won four of their last five games, and, despite their lowly position in the standings are but two games behind the fourth place Red Wings who dropped down from second.

Buffalo Bisons took over the Red Wings' runner-up spot by whipping Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2 while Baltimore Orioles, who along with Syracuse's Chiefs were idle, moved into third. Fifth place Jersey City Giants lost a chance to move into the select company when they were beaten 8-2 by the league-leading Newark Bears. Marius Russo fanned 12 in holding the Giants to six hits.

BRAMPTON-PETES HERE ON FRIDAY

An exhibition lacrosse match will be staged here tomorrow (Friday) night at 8.30 o'clock in the George Street arena between the Brampton intermediates and the Petes. It will be the second game for the locals this season, Manager Frank Randle's crew having copped a decisive exhibition win over Woodbridge here last Friday. With a decent break in the weather, a good-sized crowd of rooters is expected out for this affair, as both teams are classy. The Bramptonites defeated Woodbridge earlier in the season, and should make the smart Peterborough crew step on it all the way to pull out a victory.

The local lineup has not been definitely announced yet, but will probably be much the same as a week ago. The boys have been drilling hard for a month now and demanding games—with the O.L.A. slow in arranging their grouping—and they turn on the heat every chance in practices or exhibition tussles. Plenty of good lacrosse should be seen tomorrow evening to keep the fans on edge, and the Petes will be pulling for another early-season win in this contest.

SANDY IS PICKED TO BRING BRITISH GOLF HONORS HOME

TROON, Scotland, May 26.—(AP) The British Amateur golf trophy may spend the coming year in London but if it does the chances are it will be London, Ont.

Specifically it may spend a year on the mantle at 315 Huron street, London, Ont., for that's where Sandy Somerville lives. There's a growing suspicion here that this silent bachelor is about to give the cup Dominion status.

Only a madman or somebody who was ordered to write a piece for the afternoon papers would try to pick a winner out of this field. But if you are in either of these categories, Sandy is about as good a choice as any.

With the possible exception of Michigan's Chuck Kocsis he is hitting the ball closer to the hole with his irons than any man in the field. He has gone back to the aluminum putter he used to win the United States Amateur in 1932. He's straighter than ever before. He still looks as if his life depends on every shot he hits.

On a Vacation

Probably the most reserved competitor in major sport, Somerville is over here alone on a vacation from his insurance business. He arrived about a month ago and has been practising on the seaside course ever since and he has his game down just where he wants it.

In the tournament so far he has devoted his time to giving exhibitions to his opponents. For the first time today he is drawn against a well known player—Walter S. McLeod, a member of the British Walker Cup squad who did not quite make the team and like most Scottish topnotchers a tough opponent on Seaside links. Yesterday Somerville put out Bob Rutherford, Britain, 3 and 2.

Sandy is not expected to have much trouble with McLeod but tomorrow he'll probably be running into the Australian H. W. Hattersley. This should be one of the best matches of the tournament.

Gord. Peters Put Out

Unlike most of the North American competitors, Sandy got a good position in the draw. Probably the toughest player in his section was Gordon Peters, the noted Scotsman who was put out yesterday. Somerville is certain, however, to get plenty of competition if he reaches the semi-final for then he must play the winner of the second quarter which contains most of the big names.

The only technical weakness in Somefville's game is his grip. He uses the regular baseball grip which theoretically is a tremendous handicap but which didn't keep him from winning the United States amateur crown in 1932 nor almost innumerable Canadian titles, and may not prevent him from winning this one.

This is Sandys third British amateur. In his first attempt he lost in the first round but in 1933 he reached the sixth round where George Dunlap beat him.

RINGSIDE FAVORS ROSS TO DEFEAT HENRY ARMSTRONG

NEW YORK, May 26 (A.P.). — Chances are that one of the great fights, but it would be difficult to to-night in a big sunken saucer out on Long Island, when Barney Ross defends his welterweight championship against the negro featherweight king, Henry Armstrong.

There have been a lot of bigger fights, but it would be difficult to recall one that promised more action than this 15-rounder between the two best little men in the business.

Neither Armstrong nor Ross has been knocked out, and between them they virtually have cleaned out the lighter divisions. Only Lou Ambers, the lightweight champion, remains to give them a real argument. The winner to-night is due to fight Lou later in the summer.

Ross Gets the Odds.

Such betting as there was to-day still favored the 28-year-old Barney to fight off his younger antagonist, stem Henry's lunging, swinging attack, and win. Scarcely one of the experts thought there would be a knockout, despite Armstrong's record of having stopped 35 of his last 37 victims.

The negro's trail of destruction did not lead him through men like Ross, who has been fighting the best of the lightweights and welterweights for the last six years. Barney has stood and slugged for a total of 125 rounds with Vancouver's Jimmy McLarnin, Tony Canzoneri, Billy Petrolle, and Ceferino Garcia. Armstrong hasn't met that kind.

Ross's only knockdown came when Garcia conked him for a three-count in their first meeting. Barney got off the floor to beat him.

McRAE CHARGES LINE ABANDONING IS OVERSTRESSED

OTTAWA, May 26 (CP).—Protests that too much stress was being laid on railway line abandonments and that not enough attention was paid to the human element were before the Senate Railways Committee today as it continued examination of the Canadian Pacific Railway's plan for unification of the nation's rail lines.

Senator A. D. McRae (Con., Vancouver) told his fellow committee members at yesterday's late session they were attaching too much importance to line abandonments and not enough to matters where substantial economies might be effected. He said savings from abandonments had been demonstrated to be small and that large economies lay elsewhere.

Earlier Senator George P. Graham (Lib., Brockville) protested that in all the schemes so far presented to the committee "to save money for men who already have money," little attention was given to the poor man or the railway workers.

Senator McRae's protest came during examination of T. C. Macnabb, general superintendent of the C. P. R., Maritime division, on the C.P.R. proposal to abandon the National Transcontinental Railway from a point near Quebec City to Edmunston, N.B.

Senator McRae said it had been shown savings from abandonments would be only 10 per cent. of the total C.P.R. estimate of saving—$75,000,000. He had no doubt such abandonments would be proceeded with slowly.

Senator James A. Calder (Con., Saltcoats) supported his colleague. "The public has had an entirely wrong impression," he said. "You get more savings on maintenance and from re-routing traffic."

ANTONIO TALBOT WINS CHICOUTIMI

CHICOUTIMI, Que., May 26 (C. P.). — Antonio Talbot, 37-year-old Chicoutimi lawyer, started to-day on a political career launched by a sweeping by-election victory that recalled the Union Nationale Government's steamroller win 21 months ago.

Talbot, a newcomer to Legislative circles, ran as the official Government candidate in the Chicoutimi by-election. The vote was necessitated by the regination of Arthur Larouche, a Government supporter. Talbot piled up an overwhelming majority over Mayor Henri L. Duhaime of Chicoutimi and Alfred Tremblay, secretary-treasurer of nearby Ste. Anne Town. Tremblay and Duhaime ran as Independent Union Nationales.

When counting ended yesterday for 80 of the constituency's 91 polls, Talbot had 5,070 votes against 2,551 for Tremblay and 919 for Duhaime.

Spends $7,000,000

RHEUMATIC VICTIMS

Was there ever a more distressing ailment than Rheumatic aches and pains?

Rheumatism, Neuritis, Lumbago, Sciatica—what does it matter what you call them? The root cause is generally the same—Uric Acid in your joints—and the usual cause of Uric Acid is a liver that's out of order. Strike a blow at the cause and begin to enjoy real relief.

Take a glassful of water. Stir a ½ teaspoonful of Fynnon Salt into it and drink before breakfast every day. Soon Rheumatic aches and pains will begin to "let up". They'll become less frequent.

Remedy lies in the combination of Sodium, Potassium and Lithium in Fynnon Salt. These elements are similar to those from Mineral Springs which have brought fame to Spas the world over. But spas cost time and money to visit—Fynnon Salt comes to rheumatic sufferers in their own homes. Start today, get relief from rheumatic pains the Fynnon way. At all druggists, 75c a large bottle.

OBITUARY

MRS. ISABELLA JOHNSTON.

Largely attended by relatives and friends, the funeral of the late Mrs. Isabella Johnston was held on Thursday morning of last week at 10 o'clock from the family residence, Lot 22, Concession 16, Otonabee, to the Sacred Heart Church, where requiem mass was solemnized by Rev. Father J. J. O'Brien. Rev. J. C. Maloney preached an impressive sermon and also conducted prayers at the graveside. Interment was made in St. Peter's Cemetery.

The pallbearers were Michael McMartin, George Handbridge, Fred Chambers, John Crowley, George Michels and William Crowley.

JOHN DOHERTY

The funeral of the late John Doherty was held from the family residence lot 22, concession 9, Otonabee, Thursday, May 19 to the Sacred Heart Church where Requiem High Mass was celebrated at 9. Rev. J. C. Maloney said the Mass and preached a very inspiring sermon, taking for his text, "Blessed are they that die in the Lord for they shall possess the Kingdom of Heaven."

He said the deceased was modest enough to know he had to work for his salvation and his zeal and faithfulness to God despite his infirmities would put many younger men to shame. Present in the sanctuary also were Rev. J. J. O'Brien, cousin of the deceased, Rev. H. Fitzgerald of Parry Sound and Rev. Paul Costello of Hastings.

Besides his wife he leaves to mourn his loss two sons, James of this city and Francis at home; four daughters, Mrs. Francis Moher, Douro; Mrs. John Cleary, Hastings, and Mary and Marguerite at home; also two sisters, Mrs. Michael Heffernan, Otonabee and Mrs. Mary Heffernan of East City.

The pall-bearers were: Thos. Heffernan, Vincent Doherty, John Casey, Emmett Garvey, Herbert Condon and David McMahon.

The remains were borne to rest in St. Peter's Cemetery. Father Maloney also said the prayers at the graveside.

MISS HANNA LOUISA CARR.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, May 26.—Death claimed one of Norwood's honored residents on Saturday last in the person of Miss Hanna Louisa Carr, who was a daughter of pioneer stock of the North School district of Belmont Township, where she resided until coming to Norwood twenty-seven years ago.

Miss Carr, who was in her eighty-eighth year, had enjoyed good health until about two weeks before her death, when she was stricken with a stroke.

Miss Carr was a lady of quiet, retiring disposition and sterling character, and had won the respect of both old and young folk by her kindly ways and genial manner which was attested by the large gathering of friends and acquaintances who attended her funeral on Monday afternoon.

The only surviving member of a large family is one brother, Samuel Carr of Apsley.

The services at the house and grave were in charge of the Rev. A. S. Cleland of the United Church, of which Miss Carr was a faithful member.

The honorary pall-bearers were Messrs. Thomas McConnell, Adan Gardner, Hugh Drain and Charles Lobb.

The acting bearers were: Messrs. James Lobb, William Buchanan, Wellington Burgess, David Buchanan, Russel Thompson and Harold Beavis.

Interment was made in the Norwood Cemetery.

REV. F. H. HOWARD

MARMORA, May 26.—Residents of Marmora learned with sorrow on Wednesday of the death at Desoronto on the day previous of the Rev. Fred Hayden Howard, former highly-respected pastor of St. Andrew's United Church and immediate predecessor of Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth, the present pastor.

During his residency in Marmora, his kindly manner won for the deceased minister a large circle of friends. Former circuits on which he had served included Cordova and Warkworth. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Charles B. Cole and Miss Mary Howard, and two sons, Edwy and Arthur. His wife predeceased him a few years ago. The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon with interment in Belleville Cemetery.

MRS. WILLETT C. KETCHESON

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, May 26.—Mrs. Willett G. Katcheson died suddenly Wednesday morning, May 25th, at the family residence in the eigth concession of the Township of Thurlow.

The late Mrs. Ketcheson prior to her marriage was Miss Julia A. V. Sloan, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Sloan. She was born 72 years ago in the Township of Thurlow, and resided in that township all her life. She was a faithful member of Zion Hill United Church and for many years took an active part in the work of the congregation.

Surviving to mourn the loss are her husband, Willett C. Ketcheson; one daughter, Mrs. George McCullough, Sidney Township; two sons, Cecil Ketcheson at home and Clifford Ketcheson of Thurlow Township; two sisters-in-law, Mrs. Harry Sloan, Holloway, and Mrs. Carrie Sloan, Craik, Sask.; four granddaughters, Irene Ketcheson, Rhea McCullough, Ann Marie McCullough, and Isobel McCullough; one grandson, Laurison Ketchesgn.

TURKEY DINNER ABOVE THE CLOUDS

Turkey dinner above the clouds in one of the flagships of the American Air Lines Limited was the unusual experience of E. M. Wall on Victoria Day. He was one of the forty-three representatives of the George Weston Company who were given a four day holiday trip from Toronto to New York in recognition of attaining a sales quota of business. The company engaged two of the big twin-propellered planes for the flight from Buffalo to New York and return. Every detail of arrangement was effected without a hitch, and according to a policy of the American Air Lines meals are served free on any flight during the regular meal hours. Even the baggage was delivered in the hotel ahead of the arrival of the visitors.

The holiday in New York included a side trip to Passaic, New Jersey, where the George Weston Company's plant with the largest oven in the world produces 21,000 pounds of biscuits every eight hours. The factory in Passaic is at present working sixteen hours a day. This Canadian company was established in the United States about six years ago.

Mr. Wall told the Examiner the return trip from New York to Buffalo was made in ninety-three minutes. The plane in which he made the fast hop has a ninety-six foot wing spread, and carried twenty-one passengers. Its route was directed by radio beam control.

Selwyn Couple Observe 25 Years Of Married Happiness

Pressure Relieved

Sitting up in his bed at children's hospital, Washington, D.C., is to-and-a-half-year-old Alden Vorrath, whose skull was split open by surgical means a week ago to relieve pressure on the brain. Under his turban of white bandage Alden's cranium is even now cleft by steel wedges, which hold the two parts of the skull apart to give the brain room to expand. In time, doctors say, the cranial crevices will be closed and the child will be in a perfectly normal condition.

Mr. And Mrs. William Elliott Are Guests Of Honor At Party

(Examiner Correspondence.)

SELWYN, May 26. — Saturday, May 21, marked the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Elliott and in honor of the occasion a number of close relatives of the bride and groom of twenty-five years gathered at their home at Selwyn on Saturday evening and tendered a surprise party in their honor.

Unknown to Mr. and Mrs. Elliott the party had been planned beforehand, and about 8 o'clock that evening the guests arrived at their home. After seating the happy couple in an appropriate place, a short address was read to them by Howard Blewett.

A beautiful Gold Seal rug, accompanied by a purse of money was then presented by Stanley Grant and Melville Sanderson to the honored couple, also a handsome silver flower basket was carried in by their grandson, little Bobby Pratt, which he, in his own sweet manner, presented to his grandmother.

Overwhelmed with surprise and thankfulness, both Mr. and Mrs. Elliott replied in a few well-chosen words, and all joined in singing "For they are jolly good fellows."

The evening was spent in card-playing and croquinole until the "bride" was requested to view the table that had been arranged unknown to her, and which held so many good things to eat. It was prettily decorated wit han ecru lace cloth, and in the centre was placed the wedding cake made by the "bride's" mother, Mrs. E. J. Sanderson. On either side of the cake were silver bud vases holding pink tulips, also silver candle-holders with lighted candles. Silver tea services were placed at either end of the table, and pouring tea were: Mrs. E. J. Sanderson and Mrs. Sydney Blewett. The waitresses were: Mrs. Howard Blewett, Mrs. Melville Sanderson, Mrs. Lynley Pratt, and Miss Cora Grant. The age-old custom of the bride cutting the cake was carried out.

The actual wedding of the honored couple took place just twenty-five years ago at the bride's home in Lakefield. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Sanderson, who are still residing in Lakefield, and her husband is the son of Isaac Elliott and the late Mrs. Elliott of Selwyn. Their married life has been blessed by one daughter Mae (Mrs. Lynley Pratt), who now resides in Peterborough, and two sons, Russell, who is also married and resides in Peterborough, and Donald at home.

The guests who were present include the following: Mr. and Mrs Harry Young and daughter of Springville, Miss Josephine Blewett of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Blewett and daughters Peggy and Betty and son Jack, Mr. and Mrs. Lynley Pratt and son Bobby and Russell Elliott of Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Archer, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Blewett and Harry Blewett, William Grant and daughter Cora and sons Harry and Stanley, all of Lindsay Highway, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Sanderson of Lakefield, Mr. and Mrs. Melville Sanderson and Miss Emma Elliott of Selwyn. Isaac Elliott was unable to be present.

JAMAICA STRIKE GROWS OMINOUS

KINGSTON, Jamaica, May 26 (CP Cable)—Labor unrest reached ominous proportions in this harassed West Indies city today as a strike started last Saturday by longshoremen gained momentum Other workers joined or threatened to join. Business was practically at a standstill.

To date, the riots arising from the strikes have taken six lives, five men and one woman, all negroes. The city is under military and armed police guard.

A report from Bowden, near here, said the Canadian National steamship Lady Rodney was held up by the strike. C.N.S. officials at Montreal said they had not been informed of any tie-up of the ship.

Alexander Bustamante, labor leader on the island, was remanded in custody for a week when he appeared in court yesterday. He is charged with sedition and inciting a riot.

Volunteer workmen aided by armed guards have kept municipal departments and services in operation.

Chicago On Eve Of Relief Crisis

Cleveland is not the only American metropolis that is feeling the pinch of a shortage in relief funds. These two little fellows, members of Chicago's Italian quarter, are shown carrying home a supply of food they received from a federal surplus commodity depot after their families' relief cheque failed to arrive. Chicago relief funds are reported to be exhausted and relief recipients were forced to accept slim rations, including such items as dried beans, prunes and celery.

JANETVILLE

$40.00 REALIZED FROM BOOK SALE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, May 26. —The May meeting of the Women's Association was held in the United Church on Friday afternoon with a good attendance. A report of the newly printed recipe books sponsored by the association was given by the convenor, Mrs. W. Sanderson, and it was found that there was a profit of more than $40.00 from the advertising therein after the cost of printing and all other expenses had been paid. There still remains, as clear profit, the sale of 250 recipe books at 25 cents each, most of which are already sold.

The meeting extended a hearty vote of thanks and appreciation to Mrs. Sanderson for her unceasing efforts and ultimate success. Preliminary arrangements were made for the Sunday School anniversary and garden party, which will be held on Sunday, June 19, and Wednesday, June 22, respectively. Further arrangements are being made later.

A suggested pot-luck supper was, after discussion, dispensed with owing to the busy season, but, instead, the members agreed to each pay 25 cents towards some necessary improvements in the church. Mrs. S. E. Bradburn and Mrs. Sanderson were appointed program convenors for the next meeting. Mrs. Oswald McGill took the chair for the following program which was based on the theme "Womanhood." Two splendid papers, namely "The Story of Ruth" and "Mary and Martha of Bethany" were given by Mrs. Nicholson and Mrs. J. Thornton. These characters were examples of good, true women of Bible days, whose lives could well be emulated to-day.

An appropriate vocal duet was pleasingly rendered by Mrs. J. Howe and Mrs. Peel, and the main address of the afternoon was given by Miss Isabelle McInnis, principal of North Janetville School, on the subject, "Woman in the Home." The speaker urged that "Love" be the motto of every homemaker, and concluded her remarks by taking her hearers on a little trip to some homes several miles away and in describing these homes pointed out very clearly the influence of each type of mother on her family and in the community in general.

The meeting closed with a hymn and prayer, refreshments having been dispensed with for the summer months.

ESSEX TO ADVERTISE

WINDSOR, Ont., May 26 (CP).—Essex County Tourist Association will spend $2,500 advertising the county, particularly through nearby states of the United States, it was decided at a meeting here last night. The funds will be used during the first year of what is proposed as a five to 10-year program of intensive publicity.

Because of impending opening of the new international bridge at the Port Huron-Sarnia gateway, and the aggressive advertising campaign being carried on in that area, it was felt the Windsor gateway would suffer heavy losses in tourist traffic if immediate steps were not taken.

A Fine Start for Baby

FOR bottle-fed babies, there is no finer start in life than a Carnation Milk formula. They get a milk which is more easily digested, even by babies who have trouble with other formulas. There is never any variation in the milk to upset them — and no matter where you may travel, baby's milk is always the same. And all babies can benefit by the extra vitamin D in Carnation Milk, for it helps to insure sound teeth and bones. When bottle days are over, there is no question of "weaning" baby—he goes on getting Carnation Milk in his cup.

Carnation is pure, cows' milk with only water taken out — homogenized to break up the cream into tiny, digestible particles — sterilized for absolute safety, and to make it keep. Carnation Milk adds creaminess, smoothness and flavour to cooked dishes—economical and delicious for creaming coffee and cereals. Write for Carnation Books. "The Contented Baby" is free. The Carnation Cook Book with full-page, full-colour illustrations is 15¢ (postpaid). Carnation Company Limited, Toronto, Ontario.

BOMB RAID HITS ALICANTE MARKET KILLING OVER 250

ALICANTE, Spain, May 26 (A.P.)—Rescuers dug steadily to-day in the ruins of Alicante's shattered market place, extricating victims of yesterday's most disastrous single air bombardment of the Spanish Civil War.

At least 250 persons were killed and 1,000 injured when six huge insurgent bombing planes circled suddenly in the sky and dropped their missiles squarely in the market place where hundreds of women waited in queues to buy food.

The thundering detonations toppled towering masonry into dugouts into which men, women and children had crowded for refuge. Many bodies were tangled and torn to bits.

The casualties in the city of 70,000 which is 130 miles south of Valencia, exceeded in proportion the disastrous series of air raids in March upon Barcelona, a city of more than 1,000,000, when there were 3,000 fatalities.

More than 100 of the victims were found in the market place alone. Outside Alicante 50 were killed and hundreds injured.

Continuous Raids.

Alicante caught the brunt of insurgent air attacks in which more than 100 heavy bombers shuttled back and forth from the island base of Mallorca to Government coastal cities and towns, unloading explosives.

Sagunto, most-raided Government held city near the coast, was visited by 38 bombers which dropped 95 missiles into the town. Thirty casualties were reported and 40 buildings were destroyed and 90 others damaged.

Nearby villages of Estivella, Gilet, Algimia de Alfare and Albalat de Segart were bombed. One of the bombers was shot down into the sea. Castellon was attacked in another raid and many buildings destroyed, but no casualties reported.

The 1,250-ton British freighter Thorpehall was sunk with 3,000 tons of wheat in Valencia Harbor. All the crew was saved though three sailors were injured. Dozens of other villages along the coast were bombed.

CITY COUNCIL

George Street at Lansdowne Street was read. Mayor Hamilton explained that this resolution was due to complaints made by a resident of that district in regard to conditions around "Dinty's Inn" a refreshment booth.

Judge Smoke remarked that he had received a complaint about boys and men lying on the grass in Confederation Square and making insulting remarks to girls who passed. He suggested that the northern George Street beat be extended to include Confederation Square.

A resolution was passed asking the Chief Constable to have George Street at Lansdowne patrolled and also to have Confederation Square made part of a regular beat.

On motion of Judge Smoke, seconded by Magistrate Gee, the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Legion was given permission to hold its annual poppy day on November 5.

Amendments to the secondhand dealers' bylaw, providing for the issuing of collectors' licenses were discussed and left over until the next meeting. Under these changes it is provided that those who hold second hand dealers and junk dealers' licenses will not be required to take out collectors' licenses but all others who go from door to door for the purpose of obtaining, purchasing or collecting second hand goods must do so. The fee is to be fixed at $1.00 annually.

A statement of expenditures for the period ending April 30 was read, showing that up to that date payments to the extent of $9,077.55 had been made.

CONANT

vict a man for horse thief or cattle rustling, "without ever leaving the jury box," it could not seem to realize that high-grading was "a serious crime," and that a man might be found guilty of it.

Every one knew, he said, what Ontario's mining industry and gold production had meant, during the recent years of depression, to the stabilization of Canada's economic structure, and her general ability to hold her head up. Every one knew what business, generating from that industry, meant not only locally but in such comparatively distant points as Toronto. Millions of dollars had been spent by succeeding governments on railroads, and highways, and other avenues of transportation, to help it attain its maximum of achievement. Continuation of its outstanding success depended, he warned, on ability to check the high-grading racket.

"Those fellows—those high-graders," he said, "are taking the cream off the top—depriving the mining companies and their shareholders of hundreds of thousands of dollars every year to which they are rightfully entitled. Their little game must be stopped, and we are going out to stop it. It's not impossible to educate people to the enormity of this particular crime. As an economic necessity, they must be educated to it."

Parallel in Drunk Driving

Public indifference to high-grading, and its many and grave complications, had a parallel, said Mr. Conant, in drunk - driving. When he first began his Crown Attorney administration in Ontario County, he had a number of drunk-driving cases with which to deal. The manner in which people, generally, had regarded them was almost "to laugh." Drunk drivers weren't looked upon as "a potential lot of murderers," as they should have been, but as unfortunates who had not done anything very serious, and consequently should not expect harsh treatment from the courts.

"Well, fortunately, that attitude has changed," said Mr. Conant, "and people everywhere now realize that no leniency whatever should be shown in a drunk-driving case. I think 99 per cent of the public will agree to that, too. And they will support every proper law enforcement medium to bring such a driver to justice. Opinion with regard to high-grading must also surely change. In our courts, and elsewhere, I have recently had to appeal from court decisions on high-grading convictions because the penalties meted out were not commensurate with the gravity of the offense. That action from me should not be necessary. This offense, like drunk-driving, must be considered in all its serious implications and dealt with as such."

CLAIRE McGILLEN IS NEW CONSTABLE ON POLICE FORCE

Claire J. McGillen, 26 of Knox Street, is the new constable on the Peterborough police force, having been appointed at a meeting of the Police Commission held Wednesday afternoon.

His appointment was moved by Judge Smoke, chairman of the Commission and seconded by Magistrate E. A. Gee.

McGillen is well known throughout the city, largely through the fact that he has played lacrosse and minor league baseball here. He will begin his duties on June 1, under the usual conditions of a six months' period of probation and an initial salary of $1,200 a year.

With this appointment vanished the last chance there was of the possible reinstatement of former constable John Deannard, as had been requested some time ago by a deputation composed of former mayor Roland Denne, Ald. Jas Dutton, Ald. R. M. Glover and former alderman John D. Fitzpatrick.

Magistrate Gee stated when the matter came before the commission, that he had not made any inquiries and was not in much better position than before to deal with it.

Judge Smoke remarked that he had nothing against Deannard personally but that he was opposed on principle to his being reinstated. He pointed out that the officer had been before the commission twice since he himself had been a member and there were other occasions before that. "Apparently" said the chairman " he had every opportunity.".

Judge Smoke concluded by declaring he was ready to move the appointment of Claire J. McGillen. "Deannard has had five chances" remarked Mayor Hamilton who said however that he was still sympathetic toward the former officer.

Magistrate Gee said that he too always felt sympathy toward persons who had erred and that in his court he carried out that attitude to the extent of giving suspended sentence whenever the circumstances justified it. However in regard to formed Constable Deannard he felt that he had been given more than one chance and the standard of the police force had to be maintained. Accordingly he seconded Judge Smoke's motion.

"You might as well make it unanimous" said Mayor Hamilton as he too voted for the motion.

MADOC INSTITUTE SOUND CONDITION STATEMENT SHOWS

MADOC, May 27.— Madoc Women's Institute held their twenty-eighth annual meeting last week at the home of Mrs. Geo. Mill with a specially good attendance. The financial report was given by Mrs. W. J. Hulin, showing a balance on hand of nearly forty dollars. Correspondence was read, after which reports of committees were received.

Mrs. C. Henderson reported for the Sunshine committee and eleven boxes of fruit and dainties and nine of gifts of flowers sent to invalid and shut-in members. Mrs. L. McCarey gave an excellent report of the work achieved by the Girls' Club in their study of the well-groomed girl. A clas skit composed by Miss Gladys Aylesworth, was highly praised, and the practical work of the designing and sewing of the girls' wardrobe was most interesting and much enjoyed.

Mrs. George Hill reported that relief was given in several needy cases and milk supplied for a sickly infant. In the absence of several other chairmen, the reports will be handed to the secretary later. Reports on education by Mrs. Irwin and legislation by Mrs. C. Whytook, were given. Peace and international relations was represented by a fine address by Miss E. McDermid, and that on education by a paper on the new changes in the High school curriculum by Miss L. West.

In historical research we had papers on the history of Madoc Public school and one on the history of St. Peter's Presbyterian church.

Mrs. C. Moon of the Nominating committee, took the chair for election of officers.

The following are the officers for the year 1938-39: President, Mrs. L. McCarey; 1st vice-president, Mrs. B. Tanner; 2nd vice-president, Miss E. McDermid; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. W. J. Hapin.

District director—Mrs. Wm. Parks.

Branch Directors — Mesdames Bristol, A. Smith, W. Miller.

Delegates to district convention—Mesdames L. McCarey, Wm. Parks, R. Bristol, B. Tanner, H. Davies.

Alternates—Mesdames A. Smith, A. Dymond, L. Ashley.

The population of Melbourne, Australia, has just reached 1,000,000.

INDIANS ARE FINED FOR HAVING SPEAR READY FOR 'LUNGE

Although found guilty by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., of having been prepared to spear 'lunge in Rice Lake, Peter Crowe and Wallie Blaker, two Roseneath Indians, escaped with fines of $5 and $3.75 costs in police court this morning, with the alternative of seven days in jail.

Crowe paid his fine and Blaker elected to take the jail sentence.

Game and Fishery Overseer I. J. Lyons told the magistrate after a conviction had been registered, that the penalty should be at least a $10 fine.

"Why should it be $10?" demanded the Magistrate.

"You have been fining Peterborough people that much; why should outsiders escape?" queried the overseer.

Crowe and Blaker had been arraigned on this charge some weeks ago and the case was adjourned to a special session which Magistrate Langley held in the town hall at Keene at which the evidence was heard and judgment was reserved until this morning.

Today Magistrate Langley reviewed at length his reasons for convicting the accused. He was satisfied, he said, that the two men had been in a canoe at Rice Lake, that they had in their possession, a spear suitable for spearing fish and that they had it in position for immediate use and that their intention had been to spear fish when they were interrupted by the officers. The only feature that had given him trouble was the fact that they were charged with spearing whereas they had not actually done so. However he was satisfied that Section 66 of the Fisheries' Act which included the words "or prepared to violate" gave him authority to find the accused guilty of the offense as amended.

BANDMASTER GILES VISITS PETERBORO'

The visit to Peterborough on May 24 of Bandmaster T. Giles, L.R.A.M., cornet soloist and bandmaster of the Upper Norwood Band of the Salvation Army, London, England, proved to be a great musical treat.

The program consisted of a march and selections by the Temple Band, and four cornet solos by Bandmaster Giles accompanied by the Temple Band. The Saxophone Party rendering two numbers, and the singing by the Male Voice Party together with a vocal selection by the entire band were a delight to all.

Bandsman H. Barton rendered a drum solo on the new Guards' style of drum recently acquired by the Temple Band.

Adjutant N. Warrander was the chairman for the evening.

Another feature of the evening was the conducting of the band in the selection, "Great and Glorious," by Bandmaster Giles.

Bandmaster Giles, L.R.A.M., is associated with the brass instrument section of the London College of Music, London, England, and also holds a responsible position with the British Broadcasting Co. He arrived in Peterborough on Monday evening and was tendered a welcome banquet by the local bandsmen, after which rehearsals were held.

The Temple Band, under Bandmaster R. G. Routly, are to be congratulated in being able to bring such an artist to Peterborough.

Gentlemen—1 Herb Doig, 2 Ben Kerr.

All the children present were made happy with a prize each. W. Wood being in charge of the ice cream and soft drinks.

A delightful lunch was served by the men's committee, convened by H. Doig.

Jack Freeman and Roy Moynes of the Sports committee, kept the gathering busy and in gales of laughter with games, assisted by Mrs. H. Doi g at the piano.

Rev. F. M. Craik and Mrs. Craik were also present, helping to make Victoria Day one of good fellowship for everyone present.

The president, M. Drysdale, very capably assisted the various groups.

BANK CLEARINGS

A decided decrease in the bank clearings for the past week as compared with the same week one year ago was reported today by the Peterborough Clearing House. The past week clearings totalled $490,972 and for the same period a year ago they were $547,983.

ENLARGE COBOURG CAMP

The Full Gospel Pentecostal camp at Cobourg will hold its annual summer meetings two weeks earlier than usual, from July 8 to 24 with Evangelists Harry Bowley of Belleville, Ill., and John W. Follette of New York as the main speakers. Cottages are already being opened for the new season. Rev. George A. Chambers told the Examiner today, and certain enlargements are being made to the camp accommodation. An addition is being built to the kitchen which was found last year to be too small, and a large mission rest home is being provided out of a legacy from the estate of W. L. Draffin of Ottawa. Plans had been considered for a new tabernacle, but for the time being decision has been deferred, although the building may possibly be started this year.

AN OLD WILL

Victoria and Peterborough counties were municipally united when Christopher Robinson made his will on May 15, 1859, appointing as executors Isaac Garbutt and "James Mann the Younger" both of Smith township. He bequeathed the seventeenth lot in the eight concession of the township to Thomas Robinson and his heirs with certain exceptions that provided for other benefactions. The present owner of the farm is William P. Robinson, a grandson of the man whose winding up of his life's affairs is still so clearly recorded in the old will. Accompanying it is a copy of a report by Alex McNeil, auctioneer, of the sale of Christopher Robinson's farm stock and implements on September 23, 1859. Some of the names of the purchasers are those of men of well known Smith township families such as Nathan McIlmoyle, William Stabler, George Fitzgerald, Henry Pearson, James Mann, Stephen Mann and so on.

AIR MAIL TO CHINA.

Most of the letters sent by local Chinese to friends in the Canton area in south China are registered and despatched by air mail at a cost of one dollar for half an ounce. They reach their destination in thirteen days instead of four weeks by boat and train. The mail is carried on the China Clipper out of San Francisco.

INDIAN IS CHARGED.

Joseph Taylor, 22, was charged in police court this morning with having been in possession at Curve Lake on March 17 of thirteen ounces of intoxicating liquor in the form of Marquis white wine. At his request the case was adjourned until June 2 without plea or election. The charge was laid by Corporal Jack Woods of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

TO CONDUCT MISSION.

Two members of the Passionist Order of Toronto will begin a mission at the Church of the Immaculate Conception next Sunday evening. They are Rev. Father Augustine, Superior of the Order, who will be its representative at the National Eucharistic Congress in Quebec, and Rev. Father Canice. The mission will be conducted for two weeks, the first week for the women beginning at high Mass Sunday morning, and for the men during the second week. Both the missionary priests are said to be gifted preachers.

Pleads Not Guilty To Vagrancy

Victor Whitley, who said his home was in Belleville, pleaded not guilty to a charge of vagrancy when arraigned before Magistrate Langley, K.C., in police court this morning and was remanded until Saturday to give the police a chance to make inquiries.

Chief Newhall said that Whitley had been arrested by Sergeant W. E. Wigg early this morning after he had failed to give a satisfactory account of himself.

The youth told Magistrate Langley that he was a machinist and had been working in Oshawa until he was laid off.

"What are you doing here?" asked the Magistrate.

"I took the wrong train, getting on the Ottawa train by mistake," Whitley explained.

He denied he had been prowling around behind buildings, as Chief Newhall had stated.

Threw Bottle In Ocean 8 Years Ago Is Returned From Wake Island

From Toronto comes an interesting story concerning a former Peterborough boy, Frank McIntyre, son of former Mayor A. A. McIntyre.

It seems that on December 19, 1929, Mr. McIntyre, with his wife, were passengers on the C. P. steamship Urangi, out on the Pacific Ocean about midway on their journey from Vancouver to Honolulu.

"You are now," the captain told them, "at the spot in the whole world where you are the farthest away from any land."

Whereupon Mr. McIntyre went below, salvaged an empty bottle with a snap cap, put a business card in the bottle and tossed it into the sea.

For eight years, more or less, the bottle bobbed around in the ocean until May 6 it was found washed ashore on Wake Island, which is something less than midway between Honolulu and Manila.

Postmarked Honolulu May 9, it was waiting on May 20 for Mr. McIntyre's return to his officer from Vancouver with a letter which read as follows:

"This is Wake Island or so the group is called. It is in reality three coral islands, totalling about 800 acres encircling a large lagoon and the whole surrounded by a coral barrier reef. The islands are named Wilke's, Peale and Wake. On Peale the Pan-American airways maintain a base and accommodation for those on the Clipper planes to and from Hong Kong, China and Alameda, Cal."

On May 6 the four of us in a small sailboat crossed the lagoon for a day of beach-combing and observation of the bird and plant life on Wake. On its southern exposure the coral reef is close to the shore and there is a beautiful white coral strand rising high near the water. Mr. Breur found lying on the top of this strand a bottle with its neck broken and inside the bottle your card which is enclosed."

"It would be of interest to us to learn where and when you put the bottle into the ocean."

The letter was signed by four persons.

HASTINGS

ALTAR BOYS ARE BANQUET GUESTS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, May 26.—A group of nineteen altar boys and past altar boys were tendered a banquet in the parish hall last night. Members of the local branch of the Catholic Women's League were hostesses for the annual affair.

Father P. Costello, the pastor, in addressing them, spoke of the many spiritual benefits to be derived from serving on the altar and also impressed on their young minds the necessity of punctuality in attending and serving at mass.

Frank Walsh, a guest of honor, extended an invitation to all boys to visit his farm in a body. The visit may be made shortly in June.

Frank Carroll, principal of Hastings Continuation School, was toastmaster for the banquet. Neil McKenty proposed a toast to Father Costello and Jack Crowley responded. A toast to the parents was proposed by Tim Coughlan, Jr., and was responded to by Vincent Gallivan. A toast to the ladies was proposed by William Faux and James Smith responded. Richard Walsh proposed a toast to the retiring altar boys and Gus Faux responded. Leo Crowley responded to a toast proposed by Phillip MacDonald to the teachers.

Most of the boys' mothers were present, and following the banquet they, and ladies of the Catholic Women's League, sat down to a delightful supper.

FAILING TO STOP COSTS DRIVER $10

Pleading guilty to not having stopped at a stop sign before entering a through street, Benjamin Norris was fined $7.50 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning.

The charge was the aftermath of an accident which occurred Wednesday at the intersection of Aylmer and Simcoe streets. E. C. Ferguson was driving north on Aylmer street and was almost over the intersection when Norris, driving an automobile in a westerly direction failed to stop at the "stop sign" and crashed into Ferguson's truck, overturning it and causing several hundred dollars damage. Neither driver was injured in the crash.

FORTY JEWS LET IN

METZ, France, May 26 (A.P.). — Forty Jewish refugees from Germany and Austria, 12 New York-bound, were allowed to enter France to-day as 60 others were turned back to Germany. Eight hundred others were said to be waiting across the border, unable to leave Germany by way of Luxembourg or Belgium, and pinning their last hope upon France.

Court Of Appeal Reserves Judgment In De Laval Case

Court Reviews Action Of Ontario Municipal Board In Declaring Bylaw Invalid

TORONTO, May 26. — Ontario Municipal Board's action in declarnig invalid a by-law passed by the City of Peterborough giving the De Laval Company there a fixed assessment of $60,000, was reviewed by the Court of Appeal, Osgoode Hall, Wednesday.

The fixed assessment applies only to the general tax rate, and does not affect the school taxes and other rates which are applied to the total assesment of the company.

The case, which involves the constitutional powers of the board, was heard by a full court of five judges —Justices Middleton, Masten, Fisher, Henderson and Gillanders.

Appellants, the De Laval Company, were presented by G. W. Mason, K.C., and F. D. Kerr, K.C. Peterboro; Peterboro City by W. F. Huycke, K.C., and J. R. Corkery, Peterboro; and the Attorney-General by C. R. Magone. The respondent, Hon. G. N. Gordon, KC, Peteboro, appeared in person

Mr. Mason contended that the Municipal Board did not have jurisdiction to quash the by-law, as it had been held that it could not exercise judicial functions. In setting aside the by-law, he said, the board had acted as judges and beyond its powers.

Mr. Huycke adopted Mr. Mason's argument. The city, he said, takes the ground that the by-law is a new by-law and not a renewal, as decided by the board, he said. The terms had been changed from those in the previous by-law and it had been voted on by the duly qualified ratepayers. In answer to Mr. Justice Middleton as to the prohibition against renewing such agreement, Mr. Huycke said the old fixed assessment by-law relating to the company had been ended.

Mr. Corkery contended that the board had arred in finding the agreement was a renewal and therefore invalid. He said the by-law differed from previous measures under which the company was granted a fixed assessment. The amount in the new by-law was higher, he added.

Mr. Gordon stated that the normal assessment would be $220,000. During the first and second 10 years the company paid nothing, he said, and paid $60,000 during the third period.

Mr. Magone said he would argue that if the functions of the Municipal Board were judicial, then the functions performed by the Court of Revision, the county judge and the assessor were also judicial.

Appellants' counsel denied that the board's functions were purely administrative, and quoted the Appellate Court's judgment in the Township of York water case to prove that it had stepped outside its powers and acted as judge.

The court reserved judgment.

HEPBURN BACK AT WORK

ST. THOMAS, Ont., May 26 (CP). —Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario has returned to Toronto after being laid up at his home here with a foot injury. Still suffering a sore foot and ankle, the Premier was forced to return by pressure of administrative business. 200th Anniversary Conversion John Wesley Marked In City

Great Revival Swept England Following Conversion Of Wesley

A special service commemorating the Bi-Centenary of John Wesley's conversion was held in George Street United Church Wednesday night.

Rev. Dr. E. W. Young of St. Andrew's Church was special speaker of the evening, and in introducing him, Rev. M. C. Parr, pastor of George Street, spoke of his association with Dr. Young in London, and of his pleasure in again having the opportunity of working with him in Peterborough.

In his opening remarks Dr. Young told of a visit to the birthplace of John Wesley, who was born in Epworth, Lancashire, about 200 years ago, and of seeing the window from which John Wesley was miraculously rescued from a fire, and of how his mother, feeling that he was saved for a divine purpose, devoted special attention to his education and taught him to read and write from the family bible, at the age of five, thus fanning into flame the fire of purpose in John Wesley's Evangelical mind.

"To understand the life of John Wesley," said Dr. Young, "one must understand something of the conditions under which he lived. Conditions in the 18th century were deplorable; the greater part of the nation was uneducated; the statesmen of the day were foul and immoral, men who laughed at religion, and whose example was followed by the masses of the people."

New Moral Enthusiasm

The speaker told of how John Wesley gathered together a little band of Oxford students, including Charles Wesley and George Whitfield, and of how they were laughed out of the churches until finally George Whitfield took the reins into his own hands, and finding an outdoor spot which formed a huge natural ampitheatre in a section of the coal mining country, spoke to the miners as they came from their work, enthralling them with his tales of the gospel which some of them had never heard. He was soon joined by John Wesley, who was at first dubious about holding such meetings outside the church, and other Oxford students, whose influence soon brought about a new moral enthusiasm, and its power was seen in the disappearance of the profligacy which had disgraced the upper classes, and the foulness which had infested the literature and living conditions of the people. "Many hysterical scenes," said Dr. Young, "took place during these meetings as the people began to understand and regret the error of their ways, but as Charles Wesley's hymns rolled out their cadences, the people ceased their hysteria, and there began a new era of progress and success for the English people. Conditions in the prisons were improved, due to the work of John Howard, fired by Wesley's enthusiasm. William Wilberforce helped to abolish the slave trade; new churches and schools were built, thus creating a new outlook for the people."

When John Wesley went over to Georgia, Dr. Young said, his rigid and unbending religion did not go down very well with the people of the colony at that time; but due to his contact with some simple hearted moravians from Germany, Wesley's heart was touched, and he was able to carry on his work in a more humble and understanding way.

Man of Great Energy

Dr. Young told of the tremendous fire and energy which John Wesley brought to his work, and which was evident in the 233 books and pamphlets which he wrote, and in the fact that he toured Scotland 20 times, Ireland 21; Wales 24; and that his journeys, usually on horseback, averaged 8,000 miles per year.

In his closing remarks, Dr. Young appealed to the men and women of today to bring into their life some of the fire and enthusiasm of John Wesley, pointing out the great need in the present day for a new era.

Assisting in the service were Mrs. A. I. Brown, president of the Women's Missionary Society; Mrs. W. G. Harris, president of the Women's Association; Homer Borland, Superintendent of the Sunday School and Miss Loretta McDougall, president of the Young People's Union.

Several of John Wesley's hymns were sung, and special music was rendered by a male quartette composed of Messrs. E. A. Rowe, Arnold Lillow, W. H. Cunningham and C. S. Thompson.

DUMMER FARMER IS FOUND NOT GUILTY IN TRAFFIC COURT

John S. Kidd of Dummer township was found not guilty in police court Wednesday afternoon of not giving a proper signal when making a left turn with his motor car. Magistrate Langley, K.C., giving judgment after a hearing that took the greater part of the day.

Harold Haig the boy whose car was the other automobile involved in a recent accident on the Lakefield road pleaded guilty to reckless driving and was fined $10 and costs while his chauffeur's license was suspended for thirty days.

Kidd took the witness box in his own behalf after th eafternoon session opened and told his counsel, T. J. Carley, K.C. that before starting to turn into a laneway off the Lakefield road he had looked ahead of his car and then, using the rear vision mirror had looked behind his machine and seeing no traffic approaching in either direction was just beginning to turn when there was the roar of an oncoming car and the sound of a horn that seemed to come almost together. Witness described the subsequent developments winding up with Haig's car overturning in the ditch.

To Mr. McElderry he said that he had not given a signal because he had not seen any other car coming.

The crown attorney pressed as to why he had failed to see the Haig car. "I put it to you" he said "that you did not look into your mirrow at all". Mr. Kidd however replied that he had done so.

In his argument Defense Counsel Carley submitted that there had been no need for Mr. Kidd to give a signal because he had looked both ways and had seen no traffic coming. He argued that it was the rate of speed at which Haig was driving that was responsible for the accident.

Crown Attorney McElderry contended that the evidence showed that Haig had not been exceeding the speed limit. He was permitted to drive at 50 miles and the Crown Attorney submitted that that being so it had been up to Kidd to have given a signal before making a turn. Motorists should be protected against drivers making left turns without giving warning.

Magistrate Langley in dismissing the charge said that he was satisfied that it was the fact that Haig had been driving at an undue and improper rate of speed that had caused the accident. He placed much faith in the evidence of Bert Lockington that he had seen Kidd's car 900 feet from the scene of the accident and that he had watched it for some three or four hundred feet and did not see any other car behind it, indicating that Haig had closed in at high speed afterward. Magistrate Langley said that he felt satisfied that Kidd had reason to believe that a left turn could be made with safety and that it was Haig's excessive speed that had caused the accident.

Staunton Archer Gets Major Award

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 26. — Staunton Archer, formerly of Campbellford, has gained considerable recognition in photography, a hobby which he adopted while attending the University of Toronto and which he later decided to follow as his life's work despite a degree from the School of Practical Science. Mr. Archer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Archer, Booth Street, and is now a leading photographer in Woodstock, Ont. On Saturday last he was notified that he had received one of the twelve major awards at the Premier Boston Photographic Exhibition at which there were over 4,200 entries from people of every country. The title of the subject (a landscape) for which he received the award was "At Innerkep."

Recently Mr. Archer had three of his pictures selected for hanging at the Pittsburg Salon of Photographic Art and again at Edinburgh where competitors from thirteen countries submitted pictures. Mr. Archer was successful in having three of the four prints he submitted accepted.

Remote Control Breeding to Net Dairymen $36 More Per Cow

Expect Alice The Bull To Sire 250 Daughters Instead Of 25 Or 30 By Old System

BELLE MEAD, N.J., May 26—Alice the bull—whose 17 daughters give ample evidence of their milk-giving record of their daddy's unquestioned talents—did his bit for Science yesterday.

Alice and a fellow bull with the high-sounding name of N.J.E.S. Aaggie Beets Career teamed up to play stellar roles in one of the first large-scale programs of artificial breeding in the United States. Some 100 dairymen from Hunterdon, Somerset and Warren counties looked on.

The two star Holsteins participated—by remote control—with 1,050 cows in the day's program which Artificial Breeding Unit No. 1 of the New Jersey Holstein-Friesian Association said should yield $135,000 in increased milk producing for the cattle owners.

With natural breeding no more than 25 to 30 daughters a year could be demanded of Alice—known to intimates by the more impressive cognomen of N.J.E.S. Sir Mutual Ormsby Jewel Alice.

But, as a result of the large-scale experiment Alice should become the father of 250 daughters this year, and their superior milk and butter-fat production records should yield their owners an average gain in annual income of some $36 per cow.

The experiment occurred on the farm of Peter P. Van Nuys, president of the state Holstein body and joint owner with the state experiment station of Alice the bull.

The visiting cows, who had but the slightest grazing acquaintance with Alice and his partner, had all been registered for platonic participation in the program.

NO PLANE DEAL

NEW YORK, May 26 (AP).—Four members of the British Air Ministry mission sailed for England in the Queen Mary today, declaring that no definite agreement on the purchase of planes had been reached. The mission arrived May 9 with the purpose of studying bids to be submitted by manufacturers of two and four-motored bombers. It spent some time in Canada investigating possibility of obtaining planes there.

Jumps Into Canal Saves Friend

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., May 26 (C.P.). — Howard Murphy, St. Catharines, plunged 55 feet into the waters of the Welland Ship Canal below Lock 2 and rescued a fellow canal employee, Louis Fry of Thorold, from drowning. The men were working on a scaffold when one end let go and Ferry was thrown into the water. Murphy, left on the loosened scaffold, climbed to the lock gate, ran along the wall, and plunged into the water. A companion threw him a rope.

The men struggled more than an hour before they were pulled from the water. The lock was being emptied and the water was churning rapidly.

MARMORA

JOSIAH PEARCE TAKEN BY DEATH

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, May 26. — The death occurred in Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday of Josiah W. Pearce, in his 89th year. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Pearce and was born in Havelock and was a resident of Marmora for many years, operating a general store in the village. For about twelve years he was Bursar at the Ontario School for the Deaf at Belleville.

Mr. Pearce was an ex-Warden of Hastings County, and also was the Conservative member for some years for the old North Hastings riding in the Ontario Legislature. He was also the oldest Past Master of Marmora Lodge, A.F. and A.M. 222. He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. F. N. Marett, Marmora.

Upon arrival of the cortege from Belleville on Friday a short service will be held at the home of Mrs. F. N. Marett at 3 p.m. The interment will take place in Marmora Protestant Cemetery, the funeral being under auspices of Marmora Lodge, A.F. and A.M. 222.

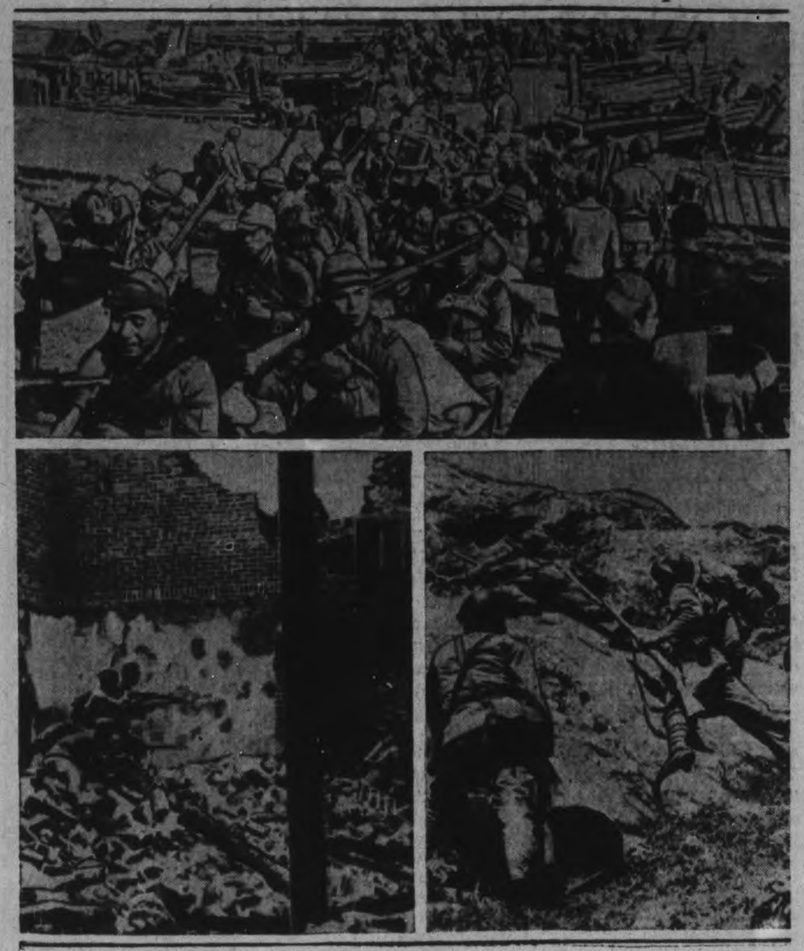
Chinese Put Up Stiff Resistance Against Japs



Met by stubborn Chinese resistance and handicapped by the rocky terrain, the Japanese were forced to pour thousands of reinforcements into Shantung province, in their effort to subjugate the Chinese. Reinforcements are shown, TOP, after being landed from barges on one of the many canals of the province. A surprising defeat was inflicted on the Japanese at Taiershuang during a 13-day battle when the Chinese routed the Nipponese forces. MALTA MAY SEEK ITS PARLIAMENT

VALETTA, March 21.—(CP-Reuters)—Pressure for restoration of parliament in Malta is expected to become overwhelming following a judgment in favor of Lord Strickland, former prime minister of Malta, in his case against the government.

Lord Strickland had challenged the government's power to impose taxation after the suspension of the constitution. He held there should be "no taxation without representation." The case had been before the court of appeal since Dec. 3.

The Malta senate and legislative assembly were dissolved Nov. 2, 1933, after a state of emergency had been declared on the island. The constitution was finally revoked in August 1936 by letters patent which provided for the governance of Malta by an executive council consisting of officials and official nominees.

Lord Strickland's intention in bringing the action was to show that a representative constitution should be restored. The verdict means that it now is open to any person to challenge the recently-imposed increases in taxation on wines and spirits.

An act of the British parliament would appear necessary to legalize the present executive council and ratify legislation passed since the suspension of the constitution.

URGE MORE SPENT ON HUMAN HEALTH LESS ON ANIMALS

OTTAWA, May 26—(CP).—Dull days frequently follow interesting ones in the House of Commons. After Tuesday's lively debate on foreign affairs, the members turned to consideration of Agriculture Department estimates yesterday, and at one time the attendance dropped to 25 of the membership of 245.

Discussion on plans of the department to build up the pure-bred cattle industry of Canada was interrupted briefly by T. L. Church (Con., Toronto-Broadview), who declared the Government should spend more money on human health and less on animals.

To the scattered assembly of members, Agriculture Minister Gardiner presented supplementary items for his department's program during the current fiscal year, but made little progress.

Mark Senn (Con., Haldimand), E. E. Perley (Con., Qu'Appelle), W. E. Rowe (Con., Dufferin-Simcoe), and Opposition Leader Bennett were among those who carried on the discussion with Mr. Gardiner, largely directed to obtaining detailed information of departmental activities.

Mr. Church thought the Agriculture Department was building up unnecessary machinery and carrying on work that was duplicated by the provinces. "We could get along without this department at all," he said. "Let the provinces do it. The Dominion is being governed now by the provinces."

No Compensation for Children

Referring to expenditures for the compensation of farmers losing cattle from certain diseases, Mr. Church said: "If a man loses his children through some fatal disease this parliament does not give a snap of its fingers. There are inspectors even for insects, but none for the 10,000,000 human beings in this country."

"I sometimes think," Mr. Gardiner replied, "it is a good thing human being are not inspected as carefully as we inspect some insects and animals. Some weaknesses probably would be found out if that were done."

Expenditures in his department for health of animals and plants, the minister said, were for the benefit of human beings just as much as were those in the health department. They were directed to providing healthy food for animals.

Asks Better Stock in West

The minister was commended for provisions looking toward betterment of the livestock industry by making pure bred sires available to producers on loan. But there was considerable criticism of methods followed and Mr. Bennett urged that even greater expenditures be made to furnish pure bred stock for the western ranges.

Mr. Bennett indicated also that he would question the minister in detail on administration of relief in the dried out areas, with respect to purchase of feed and fodder, the method of buying and of paying for it. The usual brief Wednesday session was made even shorter by the arrival of Rt. Hon. Sir Lyman Duff, representing the governor general, to give royal assent to a number of bills passed by both houses.

Engine First Canadian Plane To Fly Added To Research Council Museum

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.—The aeronautical museum of the National Research Council soon will outline air developments in Canada since its infancy. Recently the engine of the Silver Dart, the first plane to fly in Canada, was added to the museum.

This was the machine in which J. A. D. McCurdy, pioneer Canadian airman, made his historic flight nearly 30 years ago. The engine was salvaged from an old power boat, to whose use it had long been relegated.

Propellor models carved by the late Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, whose home at Baddeck, N.S., was an early laboratory of aeronautical science have been added to the collection, together with ancient kites which he had made.

Airplane engines of every type made in Canada are exhibited in the National Research Council's museum, together with war-time machines flown by Canadian pilots.

CHAPTER 45

To the other people in the lunchroom on the quiet London street, Barbara was merely a pretty girl in a yellow dress who suddenly seemed to be ill. The proprietress gave her a glass of water, and flew to measure ammonia drops in a spoon.

"I'm quite all right," Barbara answered the kindly inquiries. "It was a shock, that's all. Some unexpected news."

Holding her hands steady, with effort, she picked up the newspaper. No, it had not been a nightmare or a trick of her nerves. She had read that Garry had been kidnaped. In whole sentences and paragraphs the news leaped from the page and swung before her frightened eyes.

A baby had been kidnaped and held for $100,000. She recognized the name of the family as a wealthy and famous one. But what did Garry have to do with that? Had he followed some clue that resulted in his own capture? The story did not say. A ransom note, addressed to the newspaper for which Garry worked, had said that he was being held and had asked another $100,000 for his release. The abductors, being caught up in the business of the holdup game, were going the limit.

The story concluded with a statement that the police and the executives of the paper feared for Garry's life. The child, unable to identify his kidnapers, might be returned but hardly a grown man who had looked upon them, it said. Unless the kidnapers had concealed their identity from the newspaperman, his situation was critical, was the general tone.

Even now, while the lamps shone so steadily and the people ate sandwiches and drank coffee in the little lunchroom, Garry might be fighting for his life, Barbara whispered to herself. She was so far, far away.

The new, strange picture of danger would not come. They were so foreign that she could not grasp them. That last view of Garry, waving a gray felt hat from the pier and smiling at her alone remained.

Small good it did to remind herself that it was Garry who turned away from her that night in the old Ninth street apartment. That apartment and that night were 3,000 miles and a century of time away.

In that first hour of which she knew of Garry Page's danger Barbara longed for someone with whom to talk. If Ray had been there, she would have talked to him. But in all of London, in all of the British Empire, theer was only Wenda who might be interested. Wenda would be amazed, but not sympathetic.

One thing Barbara knew she could do. She could cable Natalie for any news. She sent the cablegram. Four words sufficed "Keep me posted Garry." After that she telephoned the press wire offices but they had no further dispatches.

There was nothing that she could do then but go to her hotel and try to sleep.

Today she had found Garry only to lose him again. Oh no, it couldn't be that! Something would happen. It always did in stories, in the theater, in the movies. Miserably she realized that this was not a fictitious drama acted on a stage or the pages of a book. It was life.

She would wind up her work as fast as she could and sail, that she knew. A day or two more would do it. She had been glad that she was permitted six weeks of absence at first. Then she had wished to lengthen it indefinitely. But now she wanted to go home. Anyway, in another week her original six weeks would be up.

She slept restively. Once she dreamed that Garry was calling her. Another time she was following him through a labyrinth of rooms, never overtaking him. Her head ached when she awakened in the morning, and her eyes were shadowed with circles. She longed for an American shower where the water would come swift and relentlessly and waken the dormant cells of her mind and body. But a warm tub made her feel some better.

She pushed aside the new suit that she had planned to initiate today. Instead, she found an old black dress that she had bought one day in early September, when a boat from Europe had come in. She knotted the green handkerchief, which had been a gift of Garry's, at the throat, as though its fragile silk would support her today.

During the morning she called the steamship office. A boat was leaving that afternoon. She would not have time to pack, get to Southampton and catch it. Besides, she was waiting for Natalie's answer. On the ocean it would be more difficult to hear news of Garry, and the next day or two in London might reveal some. She would wait until the next boat which left two days later.

Late in the afternoon an American at the press wire headquarters called her. She had left her telephone number and a request that she be notified if any word came.

"Miss Kingsley?" From the gravity of the voice she knew the news was not too good.

"Is there any clue?" she asked in a tight, small voice.

"There isn't any doubt but that it's Page the abductors have. He seems to have a play manuscript with him. The maniacs who have him mailed that with a note in Page's own handwriting, to the publisher of his paper. Negotiations are under way to meet the demands of the kidnapers. The cable's brief. I'm awfully sorry."

"Then maybe he'll be released?"

"If he hasn't looked too closely at the faces of the birds who have him! I'll call you if anything turns up.'"

* * *

Garry had seen the faces of his abductors all right. They had had no chance to disguise themseives when they unexpectedly met him. However in the room where he had been spending his time since that meeting he had contact with two of them only.

The whole stiuation seemed to him like a second act in a melodrama. He didn't even know just where he was. After his inadvertent meeting with the four men who were carrying the kidnaped baby, he had been blindfolded, led to an automobile, and taken for a ride. He did not know where the building was located in which he was held captive. However, he judged it was a couple of miles from the spot where he had met the men.

He had been taken to a fairly comfortable bedroom-living room, whose windows were barred, and left. First, he had been searched for weapons. Four days had passed and he was growing restless. He welcomed any events that broke the monotony of the hours. When the men ht upon the idea of asking ransom for him, which followed their discovery of his police card and other identificatoin papers, he approved the idea—silently. At least the world would know he was somewhere.

"What's this?'" one of the two examiners queried picking up the pages of his play.

"Some drivel I was writing. I had a hunch it might be a play."

They left it with him. During the hours that followed he continued to work on it. It was quite remarkable the way that the human mind could function, the clarity and aloofness that it could portray, when it stepped aside from its own living contacts, he mused once in a while. He was doing good work, that he knew. Good work that would be burned probably in order to destroy all evidence.

Now and then he thought of Barbara. He hoped she would be very happy with Ray. If he, Garry Page, struggling young playwright who had hit Broadway, by some quirk of fate, were going to have his curtain rung down, it was much better for everyone concerned that Barbara was in love with Ray, and that Wenda was entirely removed from the scene.

"Hand over the pages, guy," one of them said.

"A lot of them. They'll make a big bonfire," Garry answered.

"Not on your life. This is proof that we've got you here. We're mailing 'em to your office."

They were taking chances! If these men would go to such risks, they were as desperate as he had imagined.

"Then what?" he asked. He had heard the baby crying all day. The day before it had been fretful. Apparently it was in a room next to his.

"If those rich bozos come across, it will be worth the risk. Take a note."

Garry wrote as they dictated: "I am certain my release wil follow if you comply to agreements of the men holding me. Garry Page."

"Wouldn't you like to be really certain?" one of the men asked.

"What about the child?" Garry asked. "Any word from his parents?"

"They are leaving the money at a place we told them to tonight at 12. If it's unmarked money all ones and fives and tens, we're dropping the kid off in another spot two hours later. You might as well know. You won't be telling anyone."

Under the half smile on Garry's face the muscles on his chin and cheeks were taut. Yet he talked with a gay half drawl: "Thanks for telling me. It gives me something to think about."

"Not so dumb, are you, brother?" Garry shrugged. "The cards are stacked against me."

The men closed the door as they went out. They did not lock it. After a while he heard the chugging of a car and knew that some of the group had gone away. He had a premonition that things were going to happen and happen fast.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a young man of barely 22 and I am in love with a girl who is of different nationality, of a different religious faith and six years my senior. My parents tell me that I will make a terrible mistake if I marry her. They beg me to break off with her for at least a year and go with other young ladies with more of my background. Also, they say that they will not help me in any way if I marry this girl, but as she will be willing to continue to work, I think we would be happy. What is your opinion?

TROUBLED.

Answer:

Your parents are entirely right in opposing your marriage to this girl, as there would not be one chance in a thousand that it would turn out happily. The odds are too much against it. Every marriage, even those in which the high contracting parties have the same taste in politics and pies, is full enough of things over which the husband and wife can disagree, and about which they can quarrel and argue without adding to it a difference in nationality and religion.

These things mean nothing to you now. Perhaps it even adds a little piquancy, a little romance for your girl to be of foreign descent, and you can think of nothing more unimportant than that she belongs to one faith and you to another. But it will be a different story after marriage. Then the difference in religion will turn into a holy war, which is the cruelest and the bitterest of all wars and in which, between you, you will slay all peace and happiness and even love itself. Then you will find yourself continually balked, aggravated or outraged by your wife's tastes and habits and opinions that you will resent simply because they are not your ways, habits and opinions.

When people of alien blood marry, it means that one of the other must make a terrible sacrifice in order to adjust himself or herself to the other. And sacrifice is a rickety foundation on which to build a marriage. It is too likely to give way.

Also, there is too much difference in your ages. If you were in your middle thirties, it would not matter for the girl to be six years older than you because then you would be mature and know what qualities you want in a wife. But when you are 22 you are still an unformed boy, while she is a woman who is ages older than you in experience and knowledge of the world.

Your father's advice is wise. Break off this engagement and go about with other girls for a year. Then you will be better fitted to make the most momentous decision of your life. But don't forget that the happiest of marriages are those in which the husband and wife belong to the same class in age, in nationality, in religion, in social standing and intelligence.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a woman of 24. I have been twice married and twice divorced Somehow I cannot seem to make my marriages permanent. Could you please tell me how I can get married and make my marriage last?

LONELY.

Answer:

If you have been twice married at the tender age of 24 you certainly do not need any guide to the altar. You seem to have what it takes and to be an expert at getting your man.

Getting a husband is one thing, but holding one is quite another pair of sleeves, as you have found out. When we make a failure of any undertaking, whether it be marriage or business, it is a good thing to sit down and have a heart-to-heart session with ourselves and try to find out how it happened. And I would suggest this procedure in your case.

Did you get tired first, or did your husband? If you did, then you may safely conclude that you are one of the fickle women who lack the power to be faithful to any one man. Women of this type must always have change, excitement, adventure. They can never settle down to the humdrum monotony of domesticity, so they should never marry.

Perhaps the reason that your two husbands threw up their hands and quit so soon was because you did not make marriage agreeable to them. Maybe you stopped dolling yourself up after marriage and went slouching about in untidy negligees. Perhaps you did not make yourself an interesting companion. Perhaps you were a nagger, or too possessive, or too extravagant. It takes a lot of work and tact on the wife's part to make a man think that she is worth supporting and that marriage is a good investment.

The only suggestion that I can give as to how to make a marriage last is for the wife to make her husband comfortable and contented that he wants to stay put.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—My husband and I have been married for thirty years. All of them, except this last year, were happy for me because I believed in him implicitly, and no man could have been kinder to his wife than he has been to me. Now I have suddenly found out that there is a woman he is in love with and when I confronted him with it he told me that the affair had been going on for twenty years and that he loved her better than anything in the world and would not give her up; that he just lived with me to keep up appearances and that he would gladly get out if I said so. I am a wealthy woman in my own right, so I am not so dependent on him. What shall I do? MRS. A. B.

ANSWER:

What can you do under the circumstances but be big and brave enough to step out of the picture and let your husband have the freedom he has craved so long? There can be no happiness for you in holding him against his will. It would be like clutching a corpse to you after the spirit had fled.

It seems to me it would keep your wound always open and bleeding to have him with you, sitting across the table from you at meals, going through the little ritual of domestic talk, coming home of an evening when you knew that he was doing it under compulsion, that he wanted to be with some one else, that he was tired of you and loved another.

He is too old and has been lost to you too long ever to come back, but you are young enough to make a new life for yourself and I think you will be happier if you do so.

DOROTHY DIX.

TOM THUMB CAN'T BE BIG —EVEN TO A LITTLE ROBIN

"Look!" Hanid exclaimed the other afternoon, as she and her brother, Knarf, were strolling down the road toward Mother Goose town. "There's Tom Thumb!"

"Where is he? I dont even see him!" Knarf said, peernig down the road.

"He isn't there, Knarf. He's sitting on that daisy, on the other side of the fence."

Knarf looked. Sure enough, there was little Tom Thumb, sitting as comfortably as can be on the top of a daisy. You would have thought he were sitting on a chair in his parlor.

"Well," he said when the two shadow children came over to him, "what are you looking at? I'm not a bee, you know."

He looked a little angry.

"Go away," he said.

Hanid smiled. "You're Tom Thumb, aren't you?"

"Yes, that's my name. But I don't like it. I'm going to give myself a new name. I'm going to have people call me Tom Bigfellow. I don't like Thumb. It makes everyone think I'm small.

"But you are small—I mean pretty small."

"You're even smaller than a thumb," said Knarf.

Angrier Now

Knarf shouldn't have said that because it made Tom even angrier than he was before. He instantly leaned over and seized a handful of seeds from a clover growing right next to the daisy and threw them at Knarf. They hit him on the nose.

"Ouch!" said Knarf. But they didn't really hurt him at all. He only pretended they did.

"I'm not afraid of anybody!" Tom said in his loudest voice. "I don't care how big he is!"

At that moment a robin flew by and, noticing that Tom was sitting on the daisy, mistook him for a little bug. The robin immediately swooped down.

"Little bug, I'm going to have you for my breakfast!" the robin said.

"Keep off! cried Tom. He jumped off the daisy and grasped a straw lying on the ground and began defending himself against the hungry bird. But the robin kept coming closer and closer.

Knarf and Hanid looked at each other. They wondered if Tom would get angry if they helped him in his fight against the robin.

NOT IN ANY BOOK

THERE ARE many useful morsels of information about the game which can be picked up at the table, but which you are not likely to find in any book. The principal reason for their absence from standard publications is that they don't come up frequently enough to be of great use in the long run. But the experienced player who spends many sessions with advanced opposition gradually acquires a great store of once-in-a-while instruments, plus mental habits in thinking out situations for himself.

South made a natural response here to North's double of the opening diamond bid by West. It was 1-No Trump, to show that he had pretty good strength and also had diamonds securely locked up. North went to 2-Clubs and South, a bit afraid of hearts, bid 1-Spade to encourage North to show his heart stoppers, if any. North had no heart stoppers, but he didn't like to support spades with three cards and was not enthusiastic about rebidding clubs, so he bid 2-No Trumps, counting on South to stop the hearts. South interpreted the call as indicating heart stops, so went to a No Trump game.

A brilliant natural player in the west decided to lead the heart K, being fortunately ignorant of the fact that no such lead is shown in standard books. When his partner played the five and the four was missing, West led his A and then the little one. Hence five hearts and one diamond set the contract two, a deserved victory for common sense, which is the main thing featured, anyhow, in any sound book.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

Why is it fairly sound bridge for East to open the bidding on this deal in match point duplicate, but terrible to do so in rubber bridge if North and South have a part-score of 40?

ROUNDUP IN PARIS

PARIS, May 25 (A.P.). — The Surete Nationale, rounding up undesirable foreigners before the state visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth on June 28, to-day arrested 23 aliens on charges of theft, forging passports, and violating immigration laws.

PAINTER TO BE HONORED

QUEBEC, May 26 (CP).—Horatio Walker, prominent Canadian painter and native of Listowel, Ont., will received the degree of Ooctor of Arts, Honoris Causa, from Laval University next Tuesday, officials of the institution announced yesterday.

The 80-year-old artist has resided in the parish of Ste. Petronille on the Island of Orleans, near here, for almost half a century.

The Agony Of Eczema

Eczema, or salt rheum, is one of the most torturing of itching skin diseases. The principal cause is bad blood, aided by inactive skin and inflammation. It manifests itself in small, round pimples or blisters which later on break and form crusts or scales, and the intense burning, itching and smarting are almost unbearable.

To eradicate eczema from the system it is necessary to give the blood a thorough cleansing, and for this purpose we would highly recommend Burdock Blood Bitters.

Mrs. Joseph R. Berger, Millbank, Ont., writes:—"Several months ago I was troubled with eczema on my hands. I could not help with the milking my hands were so sore and itching, and could hardly put them in water.

After I had taken two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters I found my hands were healing very quickly. I have never found a remedy to compare with B.B.B. for purifying the blood."

O Canada, the pupils.

God Save the King.

The Ladies' Aid of Bridgenorth United Church painted and redecorated the basement of the church. The ladies are to be credited with a splendid piece of work, voluntarily done by the members of the Aid. They have also purchased seven dozen sets of silver knives, forks, and spoons for the use of the church. A new stairway has also recently been put in by the church Board leading from the basement to the choir loft, making an added improvement and a more comfortable way of reaching the choir loft.

Mr. and Mrs. Len Forsythe and daughter Joyce of Omemee spent Sunday with Mr. Forsythe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Forsythe.

Mrs. William Telford has returned home from Stirling, where she had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Weaver.

I.O.D.E. Chapter Decorates Graves

The ladies of the 57th Regiment Chapter yesterday decorated the graves of 250 returned soldiers in St. Peter's and Little Lake Cemeteries. This custom is usually carried out the day before Empire Day, but due to rain had to be postponed until Wednesday.

The service was conducted by Mrs. R. E. Clarke in front of the chapel where, in a granite base, a flag waves continuously as a memorial to the boys who gave their lives for their country and are buried overseas. As each grave received its tiny flag, the following words were repeated: "In the name of Canada and the Empire, we place this flag on the grave of ..... in rememberance of duty done. May God forever bless and protect our country, our homes and our people."

"Y" Gymnasium Members Rehearse

The gymnasium members who are taking part in the Y.W.C.A. Pageant tomorrow night, which features an unusual and brilliant "Fantasy of the Sea," are rehearsing strenuously, under the skilled direction of Caroline Littlefield, Physical Director.

The costumes this year are lovelier and more colorful than ever before, and a glimpse of them transports one of to a new world under the sea, where sea creatures dance and play; where Sea Gulls wheel and scream; where solemn white-beasted penguins walk stiffly up and down; baby Gold Fish dart about through dancing Sea Weeds, and tiny Scarlet Lobsters dance with Father Neptune. Even the Sailors are there, and join in the Blue Danube Waltz which comforts the little Sand Child who becomes a beautiful Sea Gull.

Better lighting facilities, a larger floor and good seating accommodation will insure a bigger and better production than in any previous year.

Rural Schools Present Fine Program Under Direction of W. R. Potter

A large and appreciative audience listened with enjoyment to the annual concert of the rural schools, presented at the Normal School under the direction of their instructor, W. R. Potter.

The program was varied, contained much color and interest, and though lengthy, did not seem so, with the many examples of youthful talent that have been encouraged and developed in the different schools. Appreciation was expressed to Mr. Potter in this respect by Inspector R. F. Downey at the close of the program, moving a vote of thanks to the instructor, also to the boys and girls for their splendid performance, and to the teachers of the classes. Inspector Leo Copp added a few words in appreciation of the additional training of music in the schools, also.

Words of praise from the principal of the Normal School, Dr. J. A. Bannister, held the assurance that he had not missed one of the annual concerts, which he had thoroughly enjoyed each year, since they were commenced eight years ago.

Thanks to Dr. Bannister for the use of the Assembly Hall at the Normal School, and to all who has assisted in making the concert a success, was expressed by Mr. Potter.

The program was as follows: Chorus by all schools, Numbers 1, 3, 4, 5, 11, Smith; Number 10, Otonabee—"Land of Glad Tomorrows."

If I had good sense I would save this until our own strawberries are here in all their glory, but I made it for Sunday's dinner last week, and it is too good to keep:

Strawberry Mousse.

One pint heavy cream, 2 egg yolks, 1 pint fresh choice strawberries, 1-3 to ½ cup berry sugar, red coloring to make it pinker if you have it on hand.

Beat the cream until it is heavy and will stand without moving, then add the beaten yolks and sugar. Wash and hull the berries, and crush them well, then stir them into the mousse, and add coloring if desired. Pour into tray of mechanical refrigerator and freeze without stirring. The best possible frozen dessert.

Graded CANNED FRUITS and VEGETABLES

THE Canadian housewife may buy canned fruits and vegetables without speculation. Long before the can is opened . . . as soon as she sees it on the grocer's counter . . . she can know exactly the type and quality of the fruit or vegetable inside. The Dominion Government grade mark, printed on the label, is her guide!

All varieties of Canadian canned fruits and vegetables are graded according to standards established by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. There are three grades: "Fancy Quality," which indicates first grade; "Choice Quality," which indicates second grade; and "Standard Quality," which indicates third grade. The correct grade mark is printed on the label of each can . . . so, ask for the quality you want by its grade name; then examine the label on your purchase and be sure the grade mark printed on the can corresponds with the grade you requested.

FANCY QUALITY
First grade; produced from a selection of the best fruit and vegetables available, perfectly matured, free from blemishes, uniform in size and colour; canned at the proper time, so that excellence of flavour and appearance may be preserved.

CHOICE QUALITY
Second grade; consists of fruit and vegetables selected for tenderness and fine flavour. Not as uniform as "Fancy Quality", it allows slight variation in size, colour and maturity.

STANDARD QUALITY
Third grade; prepared from well matured fruit and vegetables of good quality, but not as carefully selected for uniformity of colour or size as "Choice Quality".

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Enquiry Column

Conducted by
Mrs. MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Would you advise me as to what recipe book is the best—if you have a recipe book that you sell I would like to know the price. I read your recipes every week and think they are the best yet. M. McN.

ANSWER: Unfortunately I have not yet published a Cook Book. But it is one of my fond ambitions, which I hope will be fulfilled before long. Two Cook Books that I recommend the The Home Dietitian, by Ella Mae Ives, published by David McKay Co., Washington Square, Philadelphia, Pa., and Everybody's Cook Book, by Isabel Ely Lord, published by Harcourt Brace and Co., New York. Hoping you will find either of these satisfactory and that I can help you again.

QUESTION: If I wrote you when I think of you and need to ask you a question I'd be a weekly correspondent of yours! However here's one on the fly. I have been fingering over my recipes deciding on what cookies to make this morning and ran across the old familiar recipe of ammonia cookies. These used to be one of my favorites 18 years ago when I was first married and learning to cook. I decided on them this morning but not having made them for years and the prices of food products changing I wondered if we couldn't have a more specific recipe for these. Mine says:

Lemon Cookies

(Very llarge recipe) (sent in for correction—Ed.'s mote).

Two cups each butter or shortening, white sugar and sweet milk, 2 eggs, 5 Cents worth baking ammonia, 5 Cents worth oil of lemon. flour to roll out. Dissolve NH3 in Milk.

How much ammonia and lemon would that be I wonder? Anyway in our small village there is no baking ammonia this morning for I took the car and hiked down while the inspiration was upon me.

A long time ago you printed a page of Quick Meal for business girls etc. coming home and having to prepare their food hurriedly. Here is a recipe I have wanted to pass on to that type of meal if you would like it.

Half Hour Pudding

(For quick dessert)

Mix 1-3 cup brown sugar, 1 cup flour sifted with 2 teaspoons baking powder and a pinch of salt. Add 1 cup raisins, ½ cup sweet milk. Mix and put in greased pudding dish. (Sounds funny but there's no shortening in this part.)

Take 2 cups boiling water, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoons butter and ¼ teaspoon nutmeg. Mix together till sugar is melted and pour over batter. Bake 25 minutes in moderate oven. (This is not enough sauce for my family.)

Thanks for your nice reply about my lemon pies months ago—your advice and recipes help mend the difficulties. I believe cornstarch needs the direct flame as you say. . . . . Great page you run, best regards, O. M. D.

ANSWER: The part of your letter that gave me the best laugh I had to delete of course—certainly hope Alberta has a good crop this year and that good times return.

Thanks for your Half Hour Pudding.

Lemon Cookies

One-half dram oil of lemon (1-16 oz.) 1 oz of baking ammonia to each lb. of flour used (this proportion only applies of oil of lemon is used in the recipe to mask the ammonia flavor), 2 cups butter, 2½ cups sugar, 1 pint sweet milk warmed and used for dissolving powdered ammonia, 3 eggs. Mix together and use enough flour to make soft dough. Sorry I cannot be more specific than this but ammonia facts are scarce. Write again.

QUESTION: Here is a cheap stew I make that somebody might like. I cook an onion and a few carrots until partly done and then add sliced raw potatoes, and a pound of hamburger. Hoping you can use it, Mrs. O. S.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter and Stew Recipe.

QUESTION: I am a weekly reader of your cookery page and enjoy it very much.

Would you be so kind as to tell me how to tan skins (furs, etc.). It is for my own use that I want it, I would like it now so I can tan some lambskins. Mrs. H. P.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

Tanning Fur Skins

To tan skins with the hair or wool on first thoroughly wash the skins and remove all fleshy matter from the inner surface; then clean the hair or wool with warm water and soft soap, and rinse well. Mix ¼ lb, common soap and ground alum, and ½ oz. borax. dissolve in hot water, and add sufficient rye meal to make a thick paste, which spread on the flesh side of the skin. Fold it lengthwise, the flesh side in, the skin being quite moist, and let it remain for 10 days or 2 weeks, in an airy and shady place. Then shake out and remove the paste from the surface, and wash and dry all. For a heavy skin a second similar application of salt and alum may be needed. Aterward pull and stretch the skin with the hands and work on the flesh side with a blunt knife.

Hoping these directions please you and that we can help you again.

LITTLE GIRLS WEAR SILKS

New Frocks Are Simple, Smart and Washable

By LISBETH

Above, green washable silk crepe frock with pleats, white collar and cuffs; right, wine silk paper taffeta princess dress printed in small bouquets.

WHAT ARE little girls' dresses made of? Prints in cottons, calico and gingham; organdie, broadcloth, batiste, linen, gabardines, wool, velvet, silk, and all the other materials

But of them all, I venture to say, that silk and velvet are the two favorites. The youngsters like to feel luxurious as well as their grown-up relatives.

The two dresses shown are tailored, simple and in good taste, and both are in silk. The young person at the left is going for buggy ride in a smart green washable silk crepe afternoon dress with pleats down the sides from the straight shoulder yoke with corded edge. A white silk crepe collar and cuffs, bonnet-shaped hat and white gloves complete her neat costume.

Princess Dress

The princess type of dress is popular with the younger generation as well as with its elders. So for a Sunday stroll in the park the little girl at the right is wearing a wine silk paper taffeta princess frock printed with a design of small bouquets.

This little frock has a white collar with a ruffled edge, it buttons down the front, has short puffed sleeves, and is tied with a sash in the back.

The pleated skirt is very, very popular, with women this year, and as it is a perennial favorite with children, it is in higher favor than ever with the younger set. The dirndl or peasant type of dress, also very good for grown women, is another good model for youngsters.

Smocking, and hand embroidery are always very good for children's dresses, too, and these modes of trimming are being used extensively by the grown-ups.

LEARN TO BE GOOD WIVES

In Tokio, Japan, there is a school where girls between the ages of 16 and 18 are taught how to be good wives.

They receive lessons and lectures from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., on household management, dietetics, western and Japanese cooking, dressmaking and embroidery. In addition they receive instruction on the care of babies, the art of being charming, the correct manner of serving a husband, flower arrangement and music.

A.Y.P.A. Banquet Held at St. John's

The A.Y.P.A. and their friends of St. John's Church gathered at their annual banquet in the Parish Hall on Wednesday evening. Following an excellent repast provided by the ladies, the toast to the King was proposed by Gordon Clegg. Miss Gertrude Lemmings proposed a toast to "The Church," the response coming from Canon Robertson, in a pointed plea for realization of the work which the church had to accomplish in this troubled world. The A.Y.P.A. was proposed by W. Howell, followed by a clever response from Miss Aileen Sisson. R. Pitchford introduced the guest speaker, A. R. Kennedy of The Examiner, and a vote of thanks was voiced by Keith Jackson. Mac Gordon delighted the audience with several acceptable vocal numbers. Words of encouragement and advice for the young people came from D. G. H. Melton, and comunity singing was conducted by W. Howell. An intermission followed the dinner, aftre whch a program of dancing was arranged for the guests. Chairman for the evening was Gordon Clegg.

PLANE KILLS SAILOR

TOKYO, May 26 (A.P.).—A sailor sitting on the topmast of a steamship in Nagoya Bay was killed in a freak aviation accident to-day. A passenger plane, with five aboard, struck the mast while taxiing to a landing, knocking the sailor to the deck. The airplane dived into the sea, and all five were saved.

IN MEMORIAM

UDY.—In loving memory of Percy, beloved son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Udy, who departed earthly life May 26, 1936.

Time speeds on, two years have passed
Since death its gloom, its shadows cast
Within our home, where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light, and ever will;
His vacant place there is none to fill.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain,
For up in Heaven we will meet again.
—Father, Mother, and Margaret.

JAMAICA STRIKE PARTIALLY BROKEN

KINGSTON, Jamaica, May 26. — (CP Cable).—A break was seen in the black outlook of Kingston's troubled labor ranks to-day as striking city street-cleaners agreed to return to work and accept a proposal giving them a flat wage of $1.12 daily. Saturday they walked out demanding $7.50 weekly wage.

Although the street-cleaners accepted peace last night, longshoremen and municipal workers remained on strike. The riots so far have taken three lives.

Yesterday three negro spectators of a battle between constabularly and rioters, Stanley Thomas, his mother and his brother were killed. They were shot down when police fired a volley into the mob. Armed police and soldiers patrolled the streets.

As a result, the government has warned all citizens not to assemble in or frequent scenes of civil disturbance.

The British cruiser Ajax, summoned by Governor Sir Edward Denham, was expected to arrive in port to-day.

Meanwhile Alexander Bustamante, accepted as the island's labor leader, languished in jail. Efforts to bail him out were fruitless. He is charged with disorderly conduct, with 70 others arrested during the day.

Saturday, Bustamante urged native longshoremen not to return to their jobs until they received a minimum wage of 25 cents an hour. As the mob fever gained momentum street-cleaners, lamplighters, tram conductors and motormen and other municipal servants were on strike by Monday.

But for the services of volunteer workmen, all municipal departments would have been at a standstill. The volunteers, aided by police and armed guards kept all departments and services in operation except garbage collection.

PREMIER BOASTS OF BRITISH R.A.F.

LONDON, May 26 (AP). — Prime Minister Chamberlain today answered Labor charges of lagging air rearmament with the declaration the Royal Air Force, "if put to the test tomorrow, would prove one of the most formidable fighting machines in the world."

Addressing a packed House of Commons, Mr. Chamberlain rejected the demand of Hugh Dalton, Labor, who led the opposition onslaught, for an independent inquiry into conditions at the Air Ministry and in the aircraft production industry.

"In the Air Force as it stands today," Great Britain has a defence of which "any country might be proud," the Prime Minister said.

Dr. Dalton had charged that "if trouble came tomorrow, British aircraft would be "inferior plane for plane to both German and Italian machines."

He said Great Britain is at least 750 front line planes behind Germany, whose production he placed at 200 to 300 planes a month more than the United Kingdom's.

"British inferiority to German air power is the most grim and unwelcome fact which has come into existence during the past few years," Dr. Dalton said.

"Sometime in 1935 Germany passed us in the air and since then she has been steadily forging ahead.

"The truth is that in the days when Lord Baldwin was Prime Minister, hopes were entertained of reaching within a short time parity with Germany. These hopes no longer are entertained by members of the government."

NUFFIELD KIDNAP SCHEME FIZZLES

OXFORD, England, May 26—(AP) A man, trapped by police in a strange attempt against Viscount Nuffield, was formally charged today with possesion of firearms with intent to endanger life.

The man, whose name was given as John Bruce Thornton, was remanded until Thursday. Police secrecy prevented other details becoming known before the court hearing but it was learned Thornton was arrested last night on his arrival at the Cowley works of the Morris Motor Company where the 60-year-old automobile magnate was working late. Police seized the man before he had a chance to enter Lord Nuffield's office.

A few minutes later the manufacturer entered a room near his office where the factory band was practising and said, "Well, boys, what do you think? Two men just tried to kidnap me?"

Only one man was arrested. Whether another escaped was not divulged.

It was believed Lord Nuffield, one of the richest men in England, received advance threats of the night visit. He is an obvious mark for extortionists because of his wealth and huge gifts. He has given away millions of pounds.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, May 27.

Judging by the lunar directions, this should be a very lively and progressive day, with employment offering opportunity, finances increasing, and much stirring in writings, publicity and promotions. But there is need for caution in handling papers lest there be a loophole for fraud.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves engulfed in a year of conflicting circumstances, with favorable business contacts and pleasant social relations. Powerful friends may play an important part in each association, but at the same time, there are omens of fraud, treachery, and loss through legal entanglements or misrepresentation.

A child born on this day may be particularly versatile and talented, with much shrewdness and sagacity, and certain inclinations toward expediency.

RELIEF SQUATTERS ARE SITTING TIGHT

VANCOUVER, May 26 — (CP). — Seven hundred unemployed single men were "sitting tight" today in the Vancouver post office and the civic art gallery, protesting the British Columbia government's refusal of further relief.

"The government didn't change their policy so we're not changing ours—we're sitting tight," said R. W. Campbell, publicity representative of the Relief Project Workers' Union.

The government offered the men free transportation back to their home provinces but 1,000 jobless answered with a demand for "work—not train raides." On Friday they occupied the two buildings and the Georgia hotel lobby but Saturday night 300 quit the hotel, accepting a city offer of $500.

Those occupying the post office and art gallery yesterday ate sandwiches and coffee obtained by funds solicited by their 300 fellows who made a round of beer parlor customers. Police did not interfere.

Demonstrators sweltered in the art gallery throughout Victoria Day as warm weather sent thousands of city residents to parks and beaches. Post office demonstrators left the building in relays of 100 to exercise in an orderly parade through downtown streets.

LEAGUE SOCIETY OUT FOR $21,000

OTTAWA, May 26—(CP).—Proposal for peace instruction in Canadian schools and universities and establishment of Peace Sunday in churches has been approved by the Canadian League of Nations Society. It was one of a series passed at the organization's 16th national conference.

Winding up a three-day session yesterday, the society passed most of the resolutions before it, re-elected Senator Cairine Wilson of Ottawa president and elected Dr. T. H. Leggett of Ottawa, president of the Canadian Medical Association, chairman of the national executive. It placed a $21,000 budget as this year's objective.

The conference carried a resolution urging the Dominion refuse to recognize the King of Italy as Emperor of Ethiopia but Brig. Gen. Alex Ross, past president of the Canadian Legion, could not concur on behalf of his organization, one of the bodies participating in the national conference. Gen. Ross said the group pressing for the action was too small and did not have the necessary information to judge the question.

Although action was forecast at an earlier meeting, the conference was not called upon to pass judgment on Quebec's padlock law. Hayden Sise of the Montreal section of the Canadian League for Peace and Democracy, amended his padlock laws resolution to delete all reference to Quebec and left it mentioning "Repressive measures" only in general terms. The amended resolution carried unanimously.

QUINTS HAVING LAST SUMMER IN PUBLIC EYE

Guardians Favor Plan Of Giving Sisters Chance To Grow Up Normally

By Orma Tongue
(Canadian Press Correspondent.)

CALLANDER, Ont., May 27 —(CP)—Before the Dionne Quintuplets are five years old—they will be four tomorrow — they may disappear from the front pages, cease to smile from the ads and end their screen careers.

Completion of their fourth year of life has brought renewed consideration among the Quint guardians whether it would be wise to withdraw them from their public and give them a chance to grow up as other youngsters of their age do.

Indications the guardians are leaning toward a policy of sheltering them more than in the past are seen in arrangements for tomorrow's birthday celebration. It will be a quiet affair with the international broadcasts that have marked other birthdays not on the program.

Their screen careers were terminated, for some years at least, recently when Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, their physician, announced they would make no picture after the feature film on which they will start soon is completed.

Decision of their guardians on May 19 to reunite the Quints with their parents, Oliva and Elzire Dionne, and their seven brothers and sisters increased the possibility this will be the last summer visitors will be permitted to watch the children at play. More than 400,000 are expected to see them before fall.

Father To Have More Say

Within the next few months a home will be built near the Dafoe nursery, where the girls now live, to house the whole Dionne family and bring them together for the first

BRITISH OBSERVER ARRIVES IN PRAHA

PRAHA, May 27.—(AP)—The chief of the Central European Department of the British Foreign Office, exploring the possibility of posting observers in the troubled German -Czechoslovak border region, conferred today with the British minister to Czechoslovakia.

Reports of this British expert, William Strang, after visits here and at Berlin, are expected to give Britain a clearer picture of German-Czechoslovak issues and guide British policy.

Mr. Strang arrived last night and started his exploration of the problem with the British minister, B. C. Newton. He arranged for conversations with Foreign Minister Kamil Krofta and other Czechoslovak officials.

En route to Berlin Mr. Strang will visit the Sudeten German region, storm centre of Nazi demands for autonomy and outbursts of violence.

The plan of posting neutral observers in the broder region as "unofficial umpires." German-Czechoslovak friction was still in a formative stage.

Praha Getting Uneasy

The prolonged suspense over a crisis that had waxed and waned for a week was beginning to sandpaper the nerves of this Czechoslovak capital, 12 minutes by air from Germany.

The Czechs living in Praha, fearful that Germany one day may attack to annex this nation's 3,500,000 German minority, cannot travel west, north, south or even due east without soon bumping into Germany.

It is less than 100 miles from Germany right across the middle of Czechoslovakia.

Denies Charges

Declaring he would "welcome particulars" of charges made by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett that agents of the Nazi government were in Canada urging young German-Canadians to form a Nazi party, Erich Windels, ABOVE, chief German consul of Canada, denied any knowledge of the alleged presence of German emissaries in the Dominion.

ROAD CONTRACTS BEING HASTENED TO BEAT TOURISTS

TORONTO, May 27 — (CP). — Road builders who have received Ontaro highway contracts are being prodded into completing work started last fall, it was indicated at the Ontario Department of Hghways today.

R. M. Smith, Deputy Minister of Highways, said that except in one or two instances, road work started last fall was being pushed forward as quickly as possible. Work was started this week on the new entrance route for the middle road into Toronto from Brown's Line, and completion of that part will be pushed as rapidly as possible.

One contractor with several jobs in the Parry Sound and Muskoka areas had been warned, Mr. Smith said, that road work must be done as quickly as possible in order to provided for the summer tourist traffic.

In the Haliburton area, where about $300,000 worth of work is scheduled for this season, one of the contractors has found himself unable to handle the job, Mr. Smith said. Arrangements are being made to sub-let the contract so that work will start as soon as possible.

SHOP-LIFTING

HAMILTON, May 27.—(CP)—Elizabeth Percival, May Percival and Doris Weber, all of Galt, were convicted in juvenile court yesterday on charges of contributing to juvenile delinquency and were remanded for a week for sentence. The charge followed their conviction on shoplifting charges. At that time, it was testified the three women were accompanied by an 11-year-old girl during an expenditure in a local store when goods valued at approximately $100 were found crammed into shopping bags. The merchandise was all identified as the property of the store.

Seized Slot Machines Are Given Back And Town Pays Court Costs

Kingsville, Ont., May 27 (CP)

SLOT MACHINES owned by William "Bull" Fielding of Windsor and seized from stores in this Essex county town two weeks ago by the chief of police will be returned to their owner it was learned today. By an agreement reached between town officials and Fielding, court action started against the town will be dropped and the town wil pay court costs.

In return, Fielding has given understanding he will not put machines back in Kingsville for at least approximately 90 days. Exact time was not settled. The machines were seized from four establishments on instructions of town council. Fielding immediately issued a writ, alleging wrongful seizure and demanding return of his property.

Anticosti Scare Stirs House

Situation in Hand, King Tells Woodsworth, Bennett; Call to Lift Ban on Arms to Spain, Ignored

OTTAWA, May 27 (CP).—War scares flashed through House of Commons debates yesterday as discussion of foreign affairs was revived and the government was told to remove the embargo on arms export to Spain and abolish foreign legations.

But there was no reply from the government on the Spanish situation and instead of abolishing legations Prime Minister Mackenzie King got a vote for $60,000 to open two new legations in Brussels and Holland. One minister will look after both.

Talk ranged over the entire globe and brought from the prime minister the statement that eventually consuls and legations would be established in all countries but the development would be slow.

A feature of the debates was a warning for J. S. Woodsworth (C.C.F. Winnipeg North Centre) and opposition leader Bennett to the government not to let Anticosti Island fall into the hands of German or other foreign owners through the creation of a "dummy" Canadian corporation.

Protests Turgeon.

Mr. Bennett also created something of a stir when he protested against the rumored appointment as Minister to France or Belgium of Mr. Justice W. F. A. Turgeon of the Saskatchewan Supreme Court, who has headed two royal commissions in the last two years—on textiles and wheat marketing.

His appointment would be "an affront to the Canadian people," Mr. Bennett said, because he had not sat on the bench since November, 1935, and had been engaged on political work.

If he appointed Justice Turgeon it would be only in recognition of his ability and judgment, not as a political reward, the Prime Minister said. But no appointments had been made.

Both Mr. Bennett and the Prime Minister agreed that diplomats should contribute to a pension fund if they were to receive retiring allowances. At present they do not, but the Prime Minister said a scheme is being considered.

FRENCH SEND GUNS AS BORDER TOWN RIPPED BY BOMBS

CERBERE, France, May 27.—(AP) — Anti-aircraft guns were wheeled into position today to protect this Franco Spanish frontier town from repetition of last night's air attack by planes unofficially identified as Spanish insurgent bombers.

The Mayor of Cerbere telegraphed Premier Daladier that "the population protests against insufficient measures taken to protect it against Italo-German aviation."

Reassured by arrival of anti-aircraft batteries, the inhabitants of Cerbere came out of hiding. Many of the 2,000 residents had huddled in underground refuges while eight planes bombarded Cerbere's railway terminal.

From Paris, Naval Minister Cesar Campinchi ordered destroyers of the Mediterranean fleet to cruise off Cerbere to help repel any new attack.

(A foreign office spokesman said a "thorough" investigation of the bombing had been ordered and that France would protest vigorously when the nationality of the bombers was determined.)

Village authorities rushed citizens to safety last night in the railroad tunnel several hundred yards long that connects Cerbere with the neighboring Spanish town, Port Bou.

The 41st Raid

Not a bomb struck Port Bou, although for the 41st time it was the objective of insurgent aviators.

Three persons here were wounded by flying glass, windows and doorways of the international railway station were shattered, three houses were destroyed, and a 14-ton mail car was blasted from the tracks.

The squadron dropped 15 bombs before retreating under fire of Spanish government anti-aircraft batteries. French searchlights silhouetted the planes, but French guns were not fired.

French border officials doubted that the bombing of French territory was anything but a "tragic error". But some pointed out that the attack was concentrated about the clearly marked railroad station, which insurgents have claimed to be the source of much equipment for government troops.

Cerbere is the control point of the principal railway linking France and Government Spain.

RUSSIAN FLEET READY

MOSCOW, May 27 (A.P.). — The Communist Party newspaper Pravda reported to-day that Navy Commissar Peter Alexandrovich Smirnoff has urged the Soviet Baltic Fleet to be ready for action in case of an attack on Leningrad.

The tense international situation increased the threat of a Fascist attack on Soviet borders, the Commissar told a Fleet Conference adding the task should be to maintain ships, guns, and warplanes "in militant preparedness."

5 WHALERS DIE FIVE GO INSANE ON LONELY TRIP

Scot Says Ship Madhouse 7 Months in Antarctic Capturing 1,606 Whales

GLACE BAY, N.S., May 27 (C.P.).—Five men died and five others went insane on the whaler New Sevilla during its seven months in Antarctic waters, according to a letter received here from Dit McLellan of New Aberdeen, writing after the ship had arrived back in Scotland.

In his letter McLellan writes in part: "I spent the past seven months on a whaler in the Antarctic. That boat was a madhouse; five men died and five others went insane. We landed 1,606 whales, ranging in length from 50 to 115 feet. We put in 119,000 barrels of oil.

"I received no mail or word from the outside world for four months. We went south as far into the Antarctic as man could go on water and went right to the ice barrier. I cannot possibly explain all that I have seen, but for a man able to write, there was surely material for a wonderful book on this trip from the day we left Halifax until we reached Scotland."

Michael O'Brien, another member of the crew of the New Sevilla, returned to his home in Halifax and told the same story of the voyage aboard the mother-ship of the flotilla of whaling vessels.

BRITISH TEXTILES CLAIMED REVIVING

MONTREAL, May 27 (CP).—The British textile industry shows signs of reviving despite the recession at the start of the year, Frank Nasmith, president of the textile institute, told reporters today.

The cotton industry in Britain, said the chairman of the international textile organization, is offering indirectly from falling prices of raw materials in Africa and India. Unable to get good prices for their products, natives of these countres have suffered from a drop in their purchasing power of British textiles.

A rise in commodity prices in India would remove worries of the Britaish trade over Japanese textile competition, Mr Nasmith added that Japanese textile manufacturers are not as efficient as generally believed. It actually takes 11 Japanese workers to turn out the same volume of production as ten British textile workers, he said.

WILL EXAMINE GUNNING

BELLEVILLE, Ont., May 27 (C.P.). — Gerald Gunning, charged with attempted extortion of money from a bank manager at Tweed, will be sent to Rockwood Sanitarium for 60 days for observation, according to information to-day. Gunning has been in custody since his arrest some five weeks ago. If found not mentally ill he will be brought for trial on the original charge.

Police Use Guns And Gas On Mob Of 3,000

Mayor Blames Fracas Upon Communist Agents; Night Scrap Clears Way for Day Shift After Officers Chase Crowd for Blocks

AKRON, May 27 (AP).—More than 100 policemen, rifles and tear gas guns at hand, forged a ring of peace around the sprawling plants of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company today in the wake of nightlong rioting and sniping in which at least 80 persons were injured.

The disorders, which reached their height at midnight when police wielded nightsticks and loosed tear and nauseating gases into a crowd of 3,000 strike pickets and sympathizers, tapered off hour by hour until at dawn only a few score curious persons remained at the scene.

Police reported several hundred workers of the 6 a.m. shift, which ordinarily includes about 2,000 men, entered the plant without difficulty, in the face of a committee for industrial organization strike call.

One policeman, patrolman Ray Nice, was struck by a shotgun blast, but returned to duty after receiving treatment.

Donald Dixon, 19, was shot and seriously wounded by rifle fire, Lieut. Stephen McGowan said police shot him, about four blocks from the scene of the principal fighting and several hours after the midnight fracas, but added he had not learned the circumstances.

Two other persons were reported shot and slightly wounded, while the other casualties—55 of whom required hospital treatment—suffered head and similar injuries.

Strike Starts It.

The rioting followed the United Rubber Workers' Union announcement of a strike. The Committee for Industrial Organization Union, exclusive bargaining agent for the company's approximately 8,000 employees, said it had "got nowhere" in negotiations over claimed grievances.

While there were recurrent reports authorities had asked for National Guard assistance, Adjutant-General Emil F. Marx of the Ohio National Guard said no troops had been ordered into the city.

The riot started when a crowd, which had started gathering at 10 p.m., pushed in upon policemen at the gate of Goodyear's Plant No. 1.

Immediately police retaliated with their nightsticks and tear gas guns, driving the crowd in two directions, and sending two score persons to hospitals with injuries inflicted by clubs and tear gas shells. Two persons were shot. One or two of the victims were in a serious condition.

The policemen backed the major contingent of the remaining pickets into a street a block away, and held them there. As the morning wore on the crowd diminished to approximately 100. Occasional tear gas shells plummeted into the crowd, and back came the shout:

"Come on, you Mussolini and Hitler."

Goodyear, one of the nation's largest rubber manufacturers, said: "What has happened has not been the result of any refusal to negotiate on the part of Goodyear. Nego-

"SILENT SANDY" FALLS TO EWING IN SEMI-FINAL

TROON, Scotland, May 27 (CP).—Sandy Somerville's gallant challenge for the British amateur golf championship was beaten down when Cecil Ewing of Ireland beat him in a bitterly-fought semi-final match this afternoon by a margin of two up.

Charley Yates of Atlanta, Ga.—home town of the great Bobby Jones—gained the other final bracket by edging out a one up victory over Hector Thomson of Scotland, 1936 British champion, after 19 holes.

Three down at the turn, the dour Thomson fought back to even terms at the 15th, and was one up with one to go. Yates rallied there to win the 18th, then took the 19th and match with a nine-foot putt.

Ewing and the blond young American will meet at 36 holes tomorrow for the crown, relinquished by Bob Sweeny of London and New York, in an early round.

His Best Showing.

For Somerville, making his third bid for the championship, it marked his best showing. In 1933 he reached the sixth round, but in 1935 he went down in the first day's play.

Four holes down after only that many had been played, the six-time Canadian amateur champion and former United States titleholder surged back to square the match at the 13th hole, and even go one up at the next.

However, the burly Ewing, a former west of Ireland champion, forged to the front on the next hole and when Sandy three-putted the 16th—missing a six-foot putt that would have squared—it was the beginning of the end.

Nerves tightened to the breaking point after the hard battle in a west wind and before an often unruly gallery, both Somerville and Ewing fired inaccurately from the tee on the 223-yard 17th and halved in fours.

Fails on Final.

Needing a win on the home hole, a 390-yarder, to keep the match alive, the 35-year-old London, Ont., veteran watched his drive "leak" into a trap. While he was just getting out of the sand in two, Ewing played safely on to the green with his second, putted dead and the match was over.

In meeting defeat, Somerville fired his poorest round of the tourney.

GORDON ELLIS IS ACQUITTED ROBBERY COUNT

Defence Not Called On To Put In Evidence By Magistrate Campbell

Without being called upon to put in any defence, Gordon Ellis, Murray street, was acquitted by Magistrate Campbell in police court this morning of robbing Maurice McCarthy with violence on Louis street on the night of May 14, a charge upon which his brother, Joseph Ellis, has already been committed for trial.

At the conclusion of the crown's evidence Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., who defended Ellis moved for dismissal of the case and Magistrate Campbell declaring that there was nothing in the evidence to prove that Gordon Ellis had been guilty either of robbery or assault, discharged the accused. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

Much of the evidence given by the crown witnesses was the same as was offered in the case against Joseph Ellis. Thomas Lansfield and Joseph Murphy testified to having called the attention of the Ellis brothers to Maurice McCarthy as he lay upon the running board of a car on Louis street and of the two taking the man away and into a laneway after which the two Ellis brothers came out and ran down the street, followed by McCarthy. The latter told of having felt a hand in his pocket and of being hit over the head and then of following the two down the street and of Joseph Ellis coming back and striking him at least three times around the head. McCarthy said that he had $52 and some silver in his pockets and it was gone when he was brought into the police station.

New Witness

A new witness was fourteen-year-old James O'Donnell, Louis street, whose evidence did not throw much new light on the case. He did say however that when McCarthy was being taken down the street by the two Ellis brothers, Gordon Ellis had called his attention to the fact that his wrist watch strap was loose and McCarthy had fixed it.

Another new witness was Ernest Ferguson who swore that he saw

SMALL LOAN BILL SETS 2 P.C. LIMIT

OTTAWA, May 27.— (CP).— A revision of the draft bill for Federal control of companies making small loans is being prepared today by officials of the Finance and Insurance Department of the Federal Government.

The Banking and Commerce committee of the House of Commons decided yesterday to recommend to Parliament that it assert its authority over companies making small loans through its acknowledged control of interest rates. The bill will declare all other charges in connection with small loans to have the nature of interest and thus as inviting Federal control.

Important features of the bill will be:

No loan to be of more than $500.

Fixing of a maximum monthly charge of two per cent on unpad balances.

No loans to be made for more than 15 months and interest on defaulted payments not to exceed one per cent. a month when the loan term limit is reached.

Requiring of a license under the Act of every person making loans at more than 12 per cent. per annum, the Federal limit on interest on regular loans.

Giving to the Governor-in-Council, on the recommendation of the Minister of Finance, power to apply for the winding up of any company making charges in excess of these provided in the Act.

The committee yesterday reversed its previous decision that the maximum monthly rate to be charged on small loans be 2¼ per cent. Finance Minister Dunning said he could not support any bill fixing the maximum higher than two per cent. The committee decided the alternatives were a two per cent bill or no bill at all.

Ontario Tightens Relief Belt Preparing For Dark Days

Plans Check Of Municipal Funds In Effort To Effect Further Savings

TORONTO, May 27 (CP).—The Ontario Government is preparing for the possibility of an even greater burden of relief costs, it was indicated at Queen's Park to-day as Premier Mitchell Hepburn declared that "still more difficult times are coming."

Mr. Hepburn explained he did not want it assumed that he was taking a pessimistic view, but he argued that the government had to face facts and he expressed the belief that Canada was only beginning to feel the repercussions of the business recession in the United States.

"There is good reason to believe that we will have still more difficult times to cope with," the Premier said. A good Western wheat crop with its consequent increase in purchasing power and spurring of industrial activity in this province might alleviate the situation, he suggested, but the government is, nevertheless, preparing to meet darker days.

In order to conserve relief funds as much as possible, the Department of Municipal Affairs is working out a system of closer inspection of relief expenditures in the larger municipalities. Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Municipal Affairs and Public Welfare, refused to confirm reports that investigations were to be made in Toronto, Hamilton and Windsor such as the one now under way in Ottawa.

Estate Of $2,921,350 Left By Root

New York, May 27 (AP)

ELIHU ROOT, former Secretary of State and Secretary of War, left a net estate of $2,921,350, it was shown in an estate tax appraised at $2,624,022. Aside from $223,000 in twelve public bequests, the bulk of the estate goes to three children.

There's Something You Can Do About It

THE PHRASE Mail-It-Away is becoming well known in Peterborough and district. People know without explanation now that it refers to the annual tourist edition of the Examiner. It was announced that it would be ready for distribution on May 28. And it is.

Every subscriber will receive a copy of this feature with the Saturday edition. Mailing the Tourist and Vacation section will be easier this year as it is a complete number in itself, and it makes mailing easier and cheaper. Two cents will carry the illustrated Tourist section.

You will find it handy to place orders with your Carrier Boy. Tell him today how many you will require and he will see that you get them. They can also be secured at the Examiner office for five cents per copy.

It is an easy and convenient way to invite your friends to this great Kawartha summer district. The Examiner has a large mailing list for the distribution of this paper, but there is also afforded opportunity for the fullest co-operation from the public. It is illustrated to a degree never attempted before. We advise placing orders at once.

Argentina Likely To Get Permanent Hold On British Market

TORONTO, May 27 (CP).—Unless farmers improve the quality of their beef cattle Argentina may get a permanent hold on the British market, W. J. Reid, cattle raiser of Montrose Scotland, said to-day.

On tour with 90 fellow members of the Glasgow and West of Scotland Agricultural Discussion Society, Mr. Reid said the party was disappointed with what had been seen of general farming in Canada.

"So far as general farming is concerned," he said, "Although we are a little disappointed we may not have been through the best farming land, what we have seen between here and Montreal leaves the impression Canadian farmers are not producing the quality products they could."

The fact that Canadian beef cattle was inferior in quality to the Argentine stock was not discovered on the tour, Mr. Reid said. "In Scotland and in England they know the Canadian cattle are not as high quality as they could be. Canadian farmers can raise the quality—and ensure a market abroad—by the use of Aberdeen-Angus sires."

"This party hasn't been in Canada's real beef cattle-raising country," said J. M. Fraser, Streetsville cattle raiser. "Quebec and Ontario are primarily daily cattle districts. There are on the western ranges as high quality beef cattle as anywhere else."

Church Would Send Massey To China

Ottawa, May 27.

DENTON MASSEY, tall, good-looking member of the House from Greenwood, was nominated last night for Canada's Minister to China. It was his colleague from Broadview, T. L. Church, who suggested it.

"He was seen talking to two Chinese the other night," volunteered Mr. Church. Mr. Church said Canada's diplomatic service had some "Minister Extraordinary." "Let me tell the House," he added, "that some of those Ministers are really extraordinary."

Mr. Church would abolish all Legations, he said.

Four-Time Bigamist, Hamilton Woman Gets Caught On Cheque Count

Hamilton, May 27 (CP)

PLEADING GUILTY to two charges of false pretences and one charge of bigamy, C. Muir, 37, was remanded a week for sentence on all charges by Magistrate James McKay today. Detective Stanley Gaylard testified that on Jan. 14, the woman had negotiated a cheque for $60 at a downtown store for which she received $33.17 in cash and the balance in merchandise and Jan. 27, had negotiated another cheque on a different bank for $77.98 for which she received $24.65 cash and the balance in merchandise. In the first case, she had ten cents in her account and in the second, eleven cents, the officer said.

On the bigamy count, Detective Gaylard testfied the accused had married John Thomas in Toronto on July 1, 1919. Subsequently she had gone through the forms of marriage with Albert Pagel in Hamilton in 1927; with Joseph Houston, in Flint, Mich., in 1929; with Fred Mortimer, in Hamilton in the same year and with James Muir in Hamilton in September, 193?

JAPS VICTORY CABINET MAPS GREATER DRIVE

New Foreign Minister Promises Real Results, But Is Mum on Details

TOKYO, May 27.— (AP).—Japan's new "quck victory" cabinet, reorganized to include two of her most influential retired generals and a powerful financier in four of the most important posts, held its first session to-day and mapped a more sweeping campaign in China.

Details of the cabinet's policy were not made known. However, General Kazushige Ugaki, who succeeded Koki Hirota as foreign minister, remarked: "I'm going to do something. Wait and see."

Seihin Ikeda, former directing head of the great Mitsui business interests and governor of the Bank of Japan, who succeeded Okinoby Kaya as minister of finance, outlined three policies:

1. Maintenance of the yen at its present value;

2. Maintenance of the Bank of Japan's specie reserve at its present level; and

3. A close study of the possibility of alleviating present rigid import control.

General Sadao Araki, former war minister, who succeeded Marquis Koichi Kido as minister of education, refused an interview, declaring: "You had better write about virtuous wives and faithful sons instead of my poor views."

Hankow Next Goal

It is a foregone conclusion that Hankow, a temporary Chinese capital far in the interior, will be the next Japanese military objective. Troops are being sent to China in the largest numbers since September. It also is known that the army is commandeering commercial trucks.

The appointment of Ikeda and his promise of a study of import restrictions indicated the demands of business for relief from a shortage of raw materials. Import control was established in October to prevent money from flowing abroad. However, exports diminished to an even greater extent. Latest tax surveys shows Japanese business suffered a staggering loss in export trade.

Sources close to the government continued to insist the minister of war, General Hajime Sugiyama, had presented his resignation. Lieut.-General Seishiro Itagaki, one of Japan's commanders in China, was reported favored as his successor, and according to unconfirmed reports already has arrived in Japan.

NEGRO MURDERS CHICAGO WOMAN

CHICAGO, May 27 (AP).—Mrs. Florence Johnson, 34, wife of a city fireman, was raped and beaten to death early today by a negro who entered her South Side apartment through a window. Her body was found on the bedroom floor with a paving brick nearby.

Her sister, Miss Margaret Witten, 28, sleeping in an adjoining room, said she saw the negro scurrying through the hallway and jumped out of the window.

A few minutes later police seized a negro near the building. He identified himself as Thomas Crosby, 18, an automobile washer. Sergt. Harold Fogarty said Crosby's hand bore scratches and his clothing was bloodstained.

Prison For Life.

RALEIGH, N.C., May 27 (AP).—Mann Smith, 15-year-old negro convicted of rape, was to have died in the gas chamber today had not a commutation from Governor Clyde Hoey saved him. The government announced yesterday he had reduced the boy's sentence to life imprisonment. Smith was convicted of ravishing a 13-year-old white girl in McDowell County.

Hitler "Launches" Cheap Car Plant

FALLERSLEBEN, Germany, May 27—(AP).—Chancellor iHtler today laid the cornerstone for a large plant to produce a popular, low-priced automobile.

Three sample cars, four-seaters of different types, were ranged along the platform from which Hitler spoke. The cars each weigh 1,430 pounds and is capable of speeds up to 60 miles an hour. They are powered from the rear by 24-horse-power motors. They were built to sell at 990 marks—$396.

FAMED SCIENTIST DIES

BALTIMORE, May 27 (AP).—Dr. John Jacob Abel, 81, professor emeritus of pharmacology at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, died yesterday. Dr. Abel, famous for research, was credited with two major advances in medical science, the isolation of adresalin and isolaton in crystal form of insulin.

GOOD NEIGHBOR FESTIVAL

NEW YORK, May 27 (CP).—The United States Good Neighbor league yesterday announced a program suggesting a coast-to-coast "Canadian-American good neighbor celebration" in the fall to commemorate 125 years of peace between Canada and the United States. Dr. Charles Selzle, director of the United States league said Canadian leaders wil lbe asked to join in an international committee of 500 to forward the idea.

BREMEN CAPTAIN CALLED TO COURT IN U.S. SPY PROBE

NEW YORK, May 27 (A.P.). — Captain Adolf Ahrens of the German liner Bremen was subpoenaed by Federal agents to appear before a grand jury investigating the activities of foreign spies in the United States. The agents boarded the Bremen as it steamed into New York Harbor. The Government, it was indicated, wanted to talk to Captain Ahrens in connection with his refusal to put Dr. Ignatz Griebl, a United States spy inquiry witness, off his ship at Cherbourg, France, recently in compliance with wire-lessed American requests that he do so.

Dr. Grebl quietly left the United States without a passport shortly before the scheduled beginning of the grand jury's investigation.

TWEED WOMAN INJURED IN CRASH

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, May 27.—Suffering from multiple head lacerations sustained in a motor accident near the R.C.A.F. base on Highway No. 2, Miss Frances Jean Graham, of Tweed, was admitted to Belleville General Hospital late Wednesday afternoon, being in a semi-conscious condition, the result of shock. Dr. G. H. Stobie attended the injured woman at the hospital and Thursday reported Miss Graham had not been as seriously injured as at first reported.

According to reports submitted by Motorcycle Patrolman H. Caldwell, Miss Graham was proceeding easterly when she pulled her car out of the line of traffic and directly in front of an oncoming gasoline truck driven by E. C. Runge, Clifford, Ont. The entire left side of Miss Graham's automobile was demolished while the driver suffered considerable as the result of flying glass. The side of the truck was slightly damaged.

Regarding the matter of charges, Constable Caldwell stated the accident was still under investigation, and no charges had been preferred as yet. The damaged vehicle was towed into a garage at Trenton and Miss Graham taken to the hospital in an ambulance. Her dazed condition and the presence of considerable blood at the scene resulted in numerous erroneous stories being afloat.

GORDON ELLIS

McCarthy and two other men at a laneway and there was some talk of a $10 bill. Ferguson said that one of the men who wore a light sand-colored suit had his hand in McCarthy's pockets.

William Clark, 308 Lewis street, repeated his previous testimony of seeing Joseph Ellis and McCarthy scuffling and of McCarthy being hit a number of times. Gordon Ellis, he said, was standing some distance down the street at the time. He testified that Gordon Ellis was wearing a light suit and his brother a blue or black suit.

Some Distance Away

Fred Griffin, Louis street, gave evidence of McCarthy being struck by Joseph Ellis. Gordon Ellis, he said, was some distance down the street at the time.

Evidence by P. C. Gordon Puffer as to McCarthy's condition when brought into the police station completed the crown's case after which came Mr. Gordon's move for dismissal and acquittal of Ellis by Magistrate Campbell.

In finding the prisoner not guilty Magistrate Campbell said that he was satisfied that there was no evidence that would convince either a grand jury or a petit jury that Gordon Ellis was implicated either in robbery or violence had been adduced.

APSLEY

Mr. T. A. Barton spent the week-end in Norwood.

Miss Paula Rayment of Lasswade has returned home after spending a couple of weeks in Norwood at the home of Mrs. G. A. Barton.

A play put on by the Young People of St. Luke's Church, Peterborough, called "Barbara Makes a Splash," was greatly enjoyed by a large crowd in the Parish Hall, Apsley, on Tuesday, May 24. The proceeds are for St. George's Church, Apsley.

Queen Mary Refuses Gold Key

This striking photograph of Queen Mary was made as the Queen Mother officially opened the new Lynden Hall residence for women at Queen Mary college, South Woodford, Essex. Refusing either a silver or gold key, as she already possesses 400 of these keys as mementoes of similar ceremonies, the Queen performed the opening ceremony with an ordinary key.

INSURANCE MEN HEAR A. J. IRVING

A. J. Irving of Saskatoon, Dominion president of the Life Underwriters' Association, was the speaker at a noon-day lunch at Hooper's under the auspices of the local association of Life Underwriters. Mr. Irving has been visiting local associations across Canada since the 14th of April and will not complete his tour for several weeks.

In his address Mr. Irving referred to the fact that life insurance companies last year had paid out $140,000,000, and since the year 1929 total payments had amounted to $1,120,000,000. That is 80 per cent. greater than all relief money paid out in that period, and the money was there waiting to be claimed according to the figures on the policies and there was not a dollar of defaulted payment. Paying money out that way is of greater benefit to the people than getting it by way of relief, because in the latter case the government has to borrow money and then we are called upon to pay interest rates on the borrowings.

Official figures from the inspector of insurance, stated Mr. Irving, showed that insurance sold in Canada for the first four months of 1938 was seven per cent. greater than in the same period last year, and there was every reason to believe that the increase would continue and become greater."

A Favored District

Speaking to the Examiner after the meeting Mr. Irving said it was difficult for the people in this district to realize exactly what had been taking place in the West.

"Do you notice much difference between Peterborough and your Western cities?" asked the reporter.

"Well, I will put it this way, speaking in terms of beef cattle, you are living in the sirloin district. You may think you have a little hard luck at times but you do not know or realize the full meaning of the word."

"And will the West come back?" was the next question.

"It will," was the answer. "That great country is not through by any means. Right now conditions look as though we would have a crop. The saying in the West is "Give us two crops and we will again be on our feet.'"

INVENTOR OF WHEEL-BARROW

MORE ABOUT—

SILENT SANDY

His card for the par-71 course read 38-39—77.

Advancing through the first five rounds to reach this morning's semi-finals, the taciturn Canuck had been his old steady self. He beat H. W. Hattersley of Australia by two up this morning, but in doing it he actually served notice of what was to come this afternoon. His morning round ran from very hot to cold. His game came completely apart with the start of the semi-final. In dropping the first four holes he shot 6 5 5 5 against a par of 4 4 4 4.

Sandy misjudged his approach to the first green and landed in a trap to the left. He exploded out, 30 feet from the pin, and got a chance to tie when Ewing three-putted, but he missed a five-footer and lost it. At the second he drove into the rough and could not get home against the wind with his second, which landed in the sand.

Another missed putt, this one a four-footer, cost Sandy the third, where Ewing, former West of Ireland champion, got a break when his second shot hit a spectator and bounded back on the fringe of the green. A fine chip put the Irishman three up.

Somerville hit his tee shot at the 180-yard fifth seven feet from the pin for a conceded deuce after having lost four in a row. They matched four on the sixth. Somerville with a 45-foot chip that found the cup and Ewing with an 18-foot putt. Ewing then handed the Canadian the seventh by missing a two-footer. They halved the eighth and ninth, leaving Ewing two up at the turn.

The cards:

Somerville	655 524 434—38
Ewing	544 444 534—37

Laying his man a stymie on the 10th and winning the 13th with a par 4 as Ewing was short in two and missed his six-foot putt, Somerville squared matters. He won the 14th by exploding out of the sand and sinking a 20-footer for a par three, while Ewing, also in the sand, took four. But three-putting Nos. 15 and 16 put Sandy one down again, with only two to go.

Both took bogey fours on the 223-yard 17th. On the big home hole, needing a win to keep the match alive, the Canadian drove into a trap and barely got out with his second. Ewing played the 390-yard hole safely, firing his second on to the green, and when he ran his first putt dead the match was over and Somerville's last chance for the title had been defeated.

The cards:

Somerville	444 435 645-39—77
Ewing	544 544 544-39—76

In the morning round with Hattersley Somerville played erratic golf.

TORONTO BABY DRAWS TICKET

TORONTO, May 27 (CP).—Two-year-old Marlene Wheller of Toronto may be the youngest sweepstakes winner in the Epsom Derby draw.

Marlene had an earache today and wasn't interested when her mother, Mrs. Lucy Wheller, received a cable from Dublin announcing Marlene had drawn Faroe, a long shot, in the draw. She stands to win $2,650 whether Faroe starts or not and $150,000 if the horse wins.

7 Canadians Are Lucky

DUBLIN, May 27 (CP).—Forty-seven Canadians drew horses in the Irish hospital sweepstakes up to lunch time today, two of them on Pasch, the hotest favorite for Wednesday's race at Epsom, England.

These 47 tickets are worth £530 ($2,650) each regardless of whether the horses run or not. Those holding tickets on the winner of the big race will receive £30,000 ($150,000); tickets on the second horse will bring £15,000 ($75,000), and on the third £10,000 ($50,000).

Irish nurses drew the lucky tickets from the whirling drums of chance. The total takings of the sweep were announced as £2,384,059 ($11,920,-295). After deducting expenses and the share which goes to the Irish hospital, the prize fund was £1,458,-079 ($7,290,395).

Drawing of horses continued during the afternoon. Fifty residual prizes of about £200 ($1,000) and 1,500 consolation prizes of £100 ($500) each will be drawn tomorrow.

URGE CANADA ASK FOR CONCESSIONS

HAMILTON, May 27 (C.P.). — If there are to be concessions made in the pending Canadian trade treaty with the United States, Canada should be "asking and not giving concessions," the first foreign trade conference of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce was told today by H. J. Carmichael, vice-president and general manager of General Motors of Canada, Oshawa.

"So far as giving up our preferential markets in the United Kingdom, we should ask why in the light of figures," he added. Mr. Carmichael cited comparative trade volumes and described Empire trade agreements as a "blessing" to Canadians "notwithstanding the fact we haven't done ourselves particularly proud in buying from the Mother Country and other Dominions."

The trade gathering, which has brought leaders of Canadian business to a two-day study conference in the interest of expanding foreign trade, heard Mr. Carmichael and D. H. Gibson of Toronto, director of The Robert Simpson Company, Limited.

Both struck a common chord in stressing a necessity of improving import volumes from those nations which have been Canada's best customers. Need of co-operative national action and unity within the Dominion in order to establish its trading position was emphasized.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, May 27 — (CP). — Fair outside buying steadied Winnipeg wheat futures late to-day after both losses and gain of more than a cent had been posted. Final value were ⅛ higher to ⅝ cent lower, May $1.10½, July .95½, October .79¼ to ⅝.

The session opened with general liquidaton developing on sharply lower Liverpool cables and a private United States southwest winter crop report which forecast production of 820,000,000 bushels, 66,000,000 bushels above the last U.S. Government estimate. Prices sagged 1 to 1¾ cents.

Gradually Winnipeg wheat advanced with Southern buyers purchasing the may future and continental interests and Easterners taking July and October. Intermarket spreading operatons also favored Winnipeg futures.

SMITH TOWNSHIP SUNDAY SCHOOLS HOLD CONVENTION

The annual convention of Smith Township Sunday schools was held at Curve Lake Indian Reserve in the afternoon and Wesley United Church in the evening on Thursday, May 26. There were large numbers present at both sessions.

In the absence of the president, Percy T. Udy, through illness, Ken. Stuart, student pastor at Wesley, conducted the session. Mr. Stuart led the devotions, Mrs. W. Irons read the Scripture, Mrs. Alfred Coppaway led in prayer in native Indian tongue, and Mr. Stuart gave an address of welcome.

The minutes and financial report were read by the secretary-treasurer, Miss Olive Bell, which showed a most successful year. There are eleven Sunday schools enrolled, nine of these responding to the roll call, each giving very encouraging reports.

Rev. Mr. G. F. Kelly of Lakefield introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Miss Nellie M. Lewis of the O.R.E.C., Toronto. The subject of her address was "Teaching the Child About God."

She compared the child to a tree. Just as the tree has unseen root fibres that determine its growth, so there are the unseen fibres of the child's soul, that too often are neglected. The fact was pointed out that many small children even though related to Sunday school, and members of a Christian home, had wrong concepts of God.

This is because older people frequently fail to interpret religion in terms of the child's everyday experience.

Miss Lewis said that in the home the food the child eats, the clothes he wears, the toys with which he plays, the house in which he lives all may be interpreted in terms of God's gifts. All nature too, the seasons as they come and go, the fruits of the field, all are evidences of God's love.

In the Sunday school the teachers should be diligent in developing the prayer life of the child, encouraging the use of grace at meals and regular prayer morning and evening.

The use of simple songs about God's care, within the understanding of the child, was also advocated to teach love and trust. The use of graded lessons was urged as an aid in the developing of right ideas of God.

Taken In Old Indian Custom.

The receiving of the offering was a unique feature of the afternoon session. It was taken in the old Indian custom. A little basket attached to a pole was passed by one Indian among the congregation.

The Indian choir rendered very beautifully two well-known hymns, "I Am Coming Lord," and "Sweet Hour of Prayer," in their native tongue.

After the closing hymn and the Benediction the deelgates all journeyed to Wesley United church, where the Wesley ladies served a very bountiful supper.

After supper Rev. George F. Kelly led outdoor games which were very much enjoyed.

The evening session was opened by devotions from Wesley Sunday school. John Harrison led the devotions which included the Bible reading by Miss Viva Harris; prayer by Mr. Ken Stewart; a duet by Gerald and Chas. Pavey and a choir number by the day school.

Officers Installed.

The report was then given by the Nominating committee, and Rev. C. C. Miller of Bridgenorth, installed the following officers for the coming year: Hon. president, Percy T. Udy of Bridgenorth; president, Chas. E. Moore of Gilmour Baptist; vice-president, J. Harold Lewis, of Fairview United; secretary-treasurer, Olive Bell, of Fairview United; children's supt., Mrs. Bert Easson of Lakehurst; girls' supt., Mrs. Allan B. Mann of Gilmour; boys' supt., Rev. G. F. Kelly of Lakefield United; Young People's supt., Lillian McGregor of Gilmour; adult supt., Ben. A. Nicholls; home dept., John Harrison of Wesley; teacher training, Rev. R. D. Wright of Gilmour ;temperance, Olive Sidey of Bridgenorth; missionary, Opal Preston of Selwyn.

After the offering Miss Nellie Lewis gave another most interesting address on "The Work of the Teacher."

Wesley choir favoured the session with a beautiful anthem.

Lakefield United Sunday school presented thier drama, "The Dust of the Road," which was very much enjoyed.

Rev. R. D. Wright voiced the thoughts of the delegates in sending a letter of appreciation to Mr. Udy for his valuable assistance and also the regret that he was unabel to be present.

The Nominating committee recommended to the convention that each department superintendent prepare a report for next year's convention, also that the executive meet some time in the near future to plan for fall activities .

Last year during the winter Rev. C. C. Miller and Rev. R. D. Wright conducted training classes. These were well attended and proved very helpful and beneficial to those who availed themselves of this opportunity.

The evening session was brought to a close with the Benediction be pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Kelly.

OBITUARY

MRS. (REV.) HUGH BROWN

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, May 27—The funeral took place on Monday afternoon of the late Esther Jane Patterson, wife of Rev. Hugh Brown, who passed away last Friday morning, in her eightieth year.

Mrs. Brown was one of Havelock's oldest and best known citizens. Twice married her first husband was the late Alexander Mathison, one of the original owners of the land upon which Havelock now stands. From that union she is survived by four children, Mrs. J. L. McLean (Annie) and Alex of town; Arthur of Smith Falls; and Andrew of Kirscoty, Alberta.

Besides her husband she is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. Samuel Leeson of town and Mrs. Coukell of High Bridge, New Jersey and an only brother, Mr. William Patterson, of Wilberforce.

The funeral was conducted under the auspices of the Order of the Eastern Star, of which she was a Past Worthy Matron and a valued member. Rev. D. K. Perrie conducted the service at the house at 2 p.m., assisted by Rev. R. E. Lemon, and Rev. S. A. Kemp. Interment took place at Maple Grove Cemetery.

MRS. GEORGE HOLLINGER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, May 27.—The community of Moira was shocked to learn of the passing of one of its most esteemed residents, Mrs. George Hollinger, on Wednesday, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Foster, after one week's illness of pneumonia.

Mrs. Hollinger was born at Ivanhoe and prior to her marriage she was Theresa Metz, only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Metz. For the past fifty-three years, the late Mrs. Hollinger resided at Moira and took an active part in the community welfare. She was a life member of the W.M.S.

Surviving to mourn her loss are her husband and four daughters, Mrs. Blake Ketcheson, Moira; Mrs. Will Shaw, Ivanhoe; Mrs. George Foster, Moira and Mrs. Fred Campbell, of Foxboro; also nine grandchildren and seven great grandchildren. Two brothers also survive, Mr. Gardiner Metz, Holloway, and Mr. Charles Metz of Ivanhoe. A younger brother, Joseph Metz, of Ottawa, predeceased her in February of this year.

MRS. JAMES McNICHOLL,

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, May 27. — Death claimed a former Norwood and highly respected resident in Rochester, N.Y., on May 22 in the person of Mrs. James McNicholl, in her eighty-fifth year.

The late Mrs. McNicholl was the wife of the late James McNicholl, who carried on a blacksmithing business in the early days of the village and was well known throughout the entire community.

The funeral was held on Tuesday following the arrival of the remains on the noon train. Service was held in St. Paul's church and was attended by a large number of friends and acquaintances.

Solmen High Mass was sung by Rev. Father Carroll, Rev. Fathers McCarthy of Douro, J. J. O'Brien of Peterborough, and McNicholl of Weston, were in the sanctuary.

Rev. Father McCarthy, a former pastor of Norwood parish, spoke in high tribute to the Christian and self-sacrificing life of the deceased.

Interment was in St. Paul's cemetery, with Rev. Father McNicholl officiating at the grave.

The pallbearers were Messrs. Richard Hefferman, Neil McNulty, John Weir, Henry McLaughlin, Fred Pearce and Edward Doherty.

NEW MANICURE PENCIL

A manicure pencil shaped like a fountain pen and consisting of a small scraper provided with a slit for the conduction of a skin softening liquid contained in the barrel, was displayed at the fair in Leipzig, Germany.

GOODERHAM LADS FINED FOR PRANK

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, May 27. — The village of Gooderham is minus a "silent policeman," and a couple of young men had to pay dearly for its disappearance. Magistrate Gee held court at that point this week when two of the village "cup-ups" were charged with setting fire to the traffic guide on the village crossroad. The accused denied the charge, but a citizen in giving evidence swore that he saw the two boys wrap bags of inflammable material around the figure so that it blazed up sufficiently for him to see the accused. They were fined $3.00. or five days in jail. "I don't believe your story," said the Magistrate in passing judgment. "It is more than a week since one of our Bishops told the Anglican Synod that one of the crying shames of Canadian life was the ease with which people in court will perjure themselves to win their case. I hope this will be a lesson to you," was the Magistrate's parting admonition.

At the next meeting of Lindsay Town Council the members will have laid before them by the chairman of finance a new ruling in the matter of Police Magistrate office expenses. For some time the County of Victoria has been paying a salary to a court stenographer, the Town of Lindsay paying two-fifths. She has been doing the clerical work in the office of the County Judge as well as in the office of the Police Magistrate in the Town Hall. She has also been sharing in certain court fees. It is understood that in future the Magistrates are to be furnished with clerks who will be paid out of Police Court fines accruing to municipalities. It is claimed by some that under this ruling Lindsay will be saddled with practically the entire cost of court cases, as many cases from the surrounding territory are tried at Lindsay, the municipalities not assuming any reponsibility. The town furnishes the court room, light, heat, police ofifce, and cells, but receives no remuneration.

The Victoria Yacht and Anglers' Association are sending a vigorous protest to Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport, against the lowering of waters in nearby lakes and rivers each winter. The members claim that the lowering of the water through Bobcaygeon, supposedly to keep Healey's Falls on the Trent with sufficient water to produce power is having a seriously detrimental effect on the fishing and trapping in this district.

MOTHER'S TROUBLES VANISH!

Life's so much happier for the whole family — especially the youngsters! —when you change from harsh, bad-tasting, old-fashioned doses to Feen-a-mint, the delicious chewing gum laxative children love to take!
No more coaxing and scolding—no messy, bitter dose to cause tantrums—and, more important still, no heavy bulk to burden delicate digestions. On the contrary, chewing increases the flow of natural mouth fluids that aid digestion. Furthermore, Feen-a-mint's tasteless laxative ingredient acts in the intestine where it should—not in the stomach. Join the modern parents who depend on Feen-a-mint for all the family! It's gentle and trustworthy. Get Feen-a-mint at your druggist's today—and you'll never go back to old-fashioned methods! 44

MOUNT JULIAN

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Wilson recently moved from Burleigh Falls to their new home in this district.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sneith, of Toronto, opened their cottage on Stoney Lake on Thursday.

Mr. William Loney, of Peterborough, spent the holiday with Mr. and Mrs. John McCauley.

Mr. Douglas Hammond, of Peterborough, was a recent guest at Mount Julian.

Mrs. William Inson and daughters Margaret and Irene, of Oshawa, opened Viamede Hotel for the holiday.

Mrs. G. Oxley and son Barney, of Toronto, are at "Devon Lodge," Stoney Lake, for the summer.

The Smiths from Montreal have opened their summer home on Boscobell Island, Stoney Lake, for the season.

The Jeffries have opened their summer home on Stoney Lake for the summer.

Mr. J. Richardson and party of friends from Toronto were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Clink at Rameses for the holiday.

DEER IN STAMFORD

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 27. —(CP)—Mrs. E. S. Cronk thought she was seeing things on her Stamford Township farm when she saw what appeared to be three cows, instead of just her own bossy. On closer inspection she found her cow was accompanied by two deer, contentedly munching grass together. The deer fled as hired men approached.

THIS IS HOW EVERY TIP TOP GARMENT IS HAND-CUT

This picture shows one of over a hundred trained union hand-cutters employed by Tip Top Tailors. With the customer's personal measurements as his guide, and using a tailor's hand-shears, this craftsman is cutting a garment to the individual measurements of the man who ordered it. In 28 years Tip Top has tailored over three million garments—every one separately hand-cut. Because men know that it's the cut of their clothes that counts—that gives them style, fit, appearance—hand-cutting has always been a fundamental Tip Top policy.

They Should Speak Up

Hon. R. B. Bennett made a plain enough statement in the House of Commons about Nazi organizations working in Canada. He said they were directed in their operations from Germany. Their objectives he stated this way:

To establish an important Fascist party in Canada.

To arouse a feeling here against the Jewish people.

To popularize here the Nazi regime in Germany.

To increase German trade in this country.

To weld Canada's 500,000 Germans into a solid Nazi block.

To popularize the idea of Fascism and discredit democratic institutions.

To create such discord among the various groups in this country that it would be impossible to have united action in case of an emergency.

Mr. Bennett's statement had not long been made before it was under fire. Newspapers started asking officers of German organizations in Kitchener if there were any truth in Mr. Bennett's charges. Kitchener is probably the centre of German citizenship in this part of the country. Reading the statements coming from Kitchener it is noticed there is a general denial of the charge, and a claim made that the German societies are non-political. There is also the information that in many of the clubs swastikas and pictures of Hitler are openly displayed. The president of the Deutsche Bund, one of the leading clubs in Kitchener, said he would have to refer to the Montreal office of the club for any statement.

An official of the Concordia Club said there were strong-minded Germans in Kitchener who were pro-Hitler in their views. Such statements as were made in Kitchener prove very little.

Mr. Bennett says he has the assurance of police and special investigators to back his statements. He has been long enough in public life to appreciate the seriousness of the claim he has made, and it cannot be urged that he was prompted by seeking to build his political future as he intends to retire from public life shortly.

It might be well for people of foreign descent living in Canada to realize we have no room in this country for any movement or organization which seeks to attach the feelings or affections of our people to some outside country. We have in years past opened our doors rather wide and a great many people came in here and made a better living than was possible for them in their own countries. We have sought to deal fairly with them, to give them the advantages of a freedom which was wider than they had known elsewhere, to see that they received justice just the same as it was measured out to our own people. We are not naturally a suspicious or a police-ridden people in Canada, so we have paid little attention at times to what those of foreign extraction have been doing.

We would much prefer to find that Mr. Bennett has over-stated the case. It would be highly satisfactory to have adequate assurance that his fears had no reason for existence, but against that we do not believe Mr. Bennett would have made his charges if he had not reason to believe there was truth in them. If those most immediately concerned care to present their case—and they should— then we are certain the Canadian people will be interested in learning what they have to say.

Old Method Prevails

Toronto was given a one-day demonstration of an old habit or custom when a barricade was erected at the southeast corner of Yonge and Carlton street. It would be an inconvenience, and it is not likely any person found pleasure, profit or entertainment in putting the thing in place.

But it had to be done. It is private property and in order to keep those private property rights maintained it is necessary each year to erect that barrier for a period of twenty-four hours.

We have not yet found or adopted or recognized an easier or better way to establish the fact that private property exists, and so the old custom prevails of putting up a fence for one day in a year. It might be arranged that the owner of the place one day in the year might stand on his head for a few moments at a stated hour, or he might stand there and deliver an address or place an axe or a musket on the property. All or any of which would be simpler than the building of a fence one day per year.

Rent $5 Per Month

The London Free Press has an illustrated story about houses with flat roofs. In the vicinity of Wroxeter in the county of Huron there are several of this construction. Oliver Smith who died some years age was a contractor who believed in the flat roof. If there was a slope at all then it tilted toward the centre where a drain carried rain water to a storage tank. Most people have become so used to roofs which come to a peak that they might be inclined to scoff at the Oliver Smith roof, but it is said to give very little trouble.

Most people are interested in a description of houses; they like to hear how much rent has to be paid for them. There is one house in Wroxeter which was built for the late George Spotton, who was a member of parliament for some years as well as the owner of several business colleges. Some years ago he operated one in Peterborough. This house has hardwood flooring and beautiful indoor woodwork. There are eight large rooms and a basement. It has been in existence now for 40 years and looks as good as new. And now for the interesting part: It was sold a short time ago and previous to that had been rented for $5 per month!

Honoring John Wesley

The United Church of Canada has been paying tribute to the memory and work of John Wesley. Three hundred years ago he did his work. The word "amazing" is used when some of the commentators tell of his work and the word is quite right. How closely statistics were kept by John Wesley himself we do not know, but the claim is that in 50 years he travelled 250,000 miles, most of it on horseback; he preached about 42,000 sermons. His followers numbered 100,000, and most of them came from the ranks of the poor and folk who were unlearned.

Religion was at a low ebb when John Wesley started his work. He came into prominence to do something which no other person seemed capable of doing or inclined to bother much about. What's more, Wesley was an organizing genius, and instead of having his converts spend time in argument he turned their attention to the need of testimony. He relied much on having his folk tell others of what they had found in their new faith and that is why his work spread.

We have heard both ministers and laymen express the belief that John Wesley could not have done his great work in this age. Such arguments are based on the contention that people are more highly educated today; they are not so readily turned to the views expounded by a preacher; the forces which work against the success of a great revival of religious feeling are more highly organized today than ever before, and there is a sense of materialism prevalent today which was not present in equal size in the days of John Wesley,

The argument is supplemented by the claim that people are not of one mind today as they were 300 years ago; that religious groups are many times the number known in the days of Wesley and each of these is driving in its own direction. For that reason the appeal of any one man has to be directed to the people of his own denomination and therefore his chances of success are narrowed to that extent.

Against all that form of reasoning is the plain fact that people in the world today by the tens of thousands are not satisfied; they have a deep yearning for something which they know they do not possess; they may subscribe to a form of outward religion but in it they find no joy and from it they are extracting little which is beneficial. Every leader of religious thought or life admits readily enough there is need for a tremendous revival today if the church is to continue. So marking the anniversary of John Wesley and thinking once more on the great place he filled in the life of his generation is not merely a historical review or a sincere acknowledgement of what a man called of God was able to do. It is actually a finger post pointing to the need of the day in which we live. We dare say if John Wesley were living in the year 1938 he would be about his work according to the times as he found them.

Should Welcome a Test

In the papers the other day there was a story about a woman and child being killed because the automobile in which they were riding had defective brakes and they would not work on a steep hill with the result that the car backed down the incline out of control and two lives were snuffed out.

In that accident can be found the reason why police and safety organizations are insistent that every car in use on the road shall be equipped with adequate brakes. It explains why the local police have been carrying on a brake-test for some time, not in the hope of catching motorists with faulty equipment and clapping fines on them, but rather in the desire to contribute to safer driving conditions generally.

The surprising thing about it all is that such a drive should be necessary. The wisdom of not attempting to handle a powerful machine without proper mechanical control of it seems so obvious that it is amazing to find there is a percentage of motorists who resent such a test and who would rather take a chance on driving with improper brakes than going to the trouble of having them tested and the expense of having them repaired.

Running True to Form

The election in Saskatchewan is running true to form. We come to that conclusion because Premier Aberhart has made the statement that financial interests have gathered a fund of from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 to defeat Social Credit in Saskatchewan.

He had met a man in Saskatoon who showed him a telegram which said the big shots were ready to spend money to defeat him. The name of the man was not given, nor were the names of those big interests mentioned. That is why we believe the campaign is running true to form.

We have at one time or another followed a good many political campaigners; been with some of them day after day and night after night. It is difficult to recall a campaign where it was not charged that the other party was flooding the district with money to corrupt the election. The amounts named were always large, but the people who were putting it up were never named, nor was there any instruction given as to where to go in order to receive a portion of this corrupt currency.

We fear Mr. Aberhart is becoming a regular old campaigner instead of a crusader. He has picked up a very old weapon, one which the old parties are dropping because they have found out the people do not believe such silly reports.

NOTE AND COMMENT

As usual when the railway question is to the fore so too is plenty of consideration for the railway vote.

How Vancouver's unemployed hope to help their cause by squatting in public buildings has not been explained in any story that has yet come from the coast.

Mr. McBride says that the textile wage schedule is working satisfactorily. We presume he means in places where textile workers are working.

Algoma had snow on May 24th and we fervently hope that efforts to keep that fact out of tourist advertising will be successful.

Schoolmaster Aberhart may find it difficult to keep his Saskatchewan classes of electors under control—especially when it comes time to mark their ballots.

A number of people in Toronto were asked where they would like to live if they could not live in Canada and not one of them picked Germany or Italy—which carries its own moral.

Mr. Bennett's statement that the Canadian Parliament cannot say whether our shores shall be invaded, our ships and cities bombed because that is for the enemy to say, will take a bit of answering.

It is said there is an understanding between the C. C. F. and Conservatives in Saskatchewan, showing that the lion and the lamb can sometimes lie down together. But afterward it is the lion that gets up.

Lectures in safe driving may be given in Toronto secondary schools next year. That would result in turning corners with mathematical exactitude and speaking to traffic officers with grammatical precision.

Baron Tomii's comment on the Japanese-Chinese war situation have earned the rebukes of the House of Commons for the new Japanese minister. However he has had the satisfaction of making it and that probably will make up for the criticism.

Britain is now considering plans for evacuating people from congested areas in the event of an attack. The grim seriousness with which such programs are being considered shows how serious the situation appears to the eyes of the British authorities.

The town council of Prescott purchased a car of crushed stone from a firm in Hull, Que., but when the stone was inspected it was found to be ten tons light weight. Complaint was made to the railway and a hole was found in the bottom of the car, and through that hole the ten tons of crushed stone must have dribbled out during the trip from Hull to Prescott. The railway company will pay for the loss although the company may realze it has the ten tons of stone distributed along its own property.

WHY?

(By A. B. K.)

¶ Wee Angus has a fishing pole, of string he has a goodly roll, two hooks I think he's got; then after four along with Joe, they gather up their stuff and go, they fish an awful lot.

¶ Wee Angus' pole is just a limb, but it is good enough for him, for nothing more he yearns; then he and Joe dig in the yard, they say it isn't very hard, to find a can of worms.

¶ My neighbor A he fishes too, and all his tackle is brand new, I know it must be good; he's scientific in his way, and he will go and fish all day, and do things like he should.

¶ He understands his fish I know, and says he knows the place to go, just how to pick and choose; he knows the hour they bite the best, and knows from having made his test, the bait he ought to use.

¶ I know he went out yesterday, he must have travelled far away, for he come home quite late; he didn't have much luck he said, and he was talking blue and red, much like a chant of hate.

¶ But Joe and Angus got home quick, they'd used their humble line and stick, their worms weren't nearly done; they had three fish of goodly size, and there was pleasure in their eyes—they'd had a heap of fun.

Leaders Clash During Debates

(From Parliamentary Reports)

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: I never said we had no interest in United Kingdom policies. We have interest in the policies of all countries.

Mr. BENNETT: Then I shall put it in this way, that while the Prime Minister says we have an interest in the policies of all countries, he made it clear that we had no special interest in the policies of the United Kingdom—

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: Not at all.

Mr. BENNETT: —or of the other component parts of the commonwealth of nations, and he developed the idea—

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: May I rise to a point of order?

Mr. BENNETT: Surely.

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: The right hon. leader of the opposition cannot misinterpret what I said and expect me to remain silent.

Mr. BENNETT: I would not expect it and would not want it.

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: I have made no statement of a character that would permit such an inference to be drawn. I have given the house every reason to understand that we have very special cause and every desire to cooperate with all parts of the British Empire and to be interested particularly in matters that pertain to any part of the empire.

Mr. BENNETT: Well I was dealing only with the speech I listened to, not with the observations just made.

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: Hansard will show it.

Mr. BENNETT: Hansard will abundantly clarify any difficulty there may be on that point, for the speech was prepared and typewritten; therefore it cannot be subject to any difficulties of expression. What was said as I took it down, was: Canada is Canada; South Africa is South Africa; Australia is Australia; the United Kingdom is the United Kingdom, and that with respect to the policies of the United Kingdom it was not for us to make representations or in any sense to interfere in their expressions of policy.

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: May I say to my right hon. friend that he entirely missed the point that was being made. I was at the time taking exception to the dominions being lumped together as one and to their policies being regarded as essentially one, to be described in that way. I did not even refer to the United Kingdom. I was pointing out that each dominion of the empire has matters of immediate concern to itself.

Mr. BENNETT: It is so unfortunate that it was not so stated in the speech. I think the Prime Minister should be very grateful to me for having, by not being able to follow him, afforded him an opportunity thus to clarify something that might be regarded as a little, shall we say, cloudy in expression.

❖ ❖ ❖

DON'T INTERRUPT ME!

An hon. MEMBER: You are both wrong.

Mr. FINN: But there will be a sense of responsibility.

An hon. MEMBER: You will both come back.

Mr. FINN: We shall both come back? I want to say that if that is so, I don't want to come back. Open confession is good for the soul. "Ye cannot serve God and mammon." You must either stand for a principle or you must be against it. That was the great thought of Him who died for us all; they could not be for Him and against Him. Therefore there is the great dividing line, as there is on this green carpet, a dividing line between ourselves and the hon. gentlemen who sit opposite, but there is not sufficient room on this side of the house for all who think as we do, therefore some have to sit opposite and cast their lovely shadows on those who are doing their duty as members of the opposition and of the various groups who are intelligently giving themselves to their arduous tasks in the hours when parliament is dealing with these tremendous questions.

The though I should like the Minister of Labour to convey to the Prime Minister and to that sturdy, wonderful man who comes from the province of Quebec, the Minister of Justice (Mr. Lapointe), is that, the steady tide of criticism notwithstanding, his shrewdness, his boldness, are not begotten of something which is not within himself; God and nature endowed him with one thing—

Mr. SPEAKER: Order.

Mr. FINN: Do not speak to me, Mr. Speaker, when I am speaking about God. God and nature endowed him with one lovely quality, and that is justice, as Minister of Justice—justice to all, fairness to everybody, and kindness to the whole of Canada.

Motion agreed to, and the house went into committee of supply, Mr. Sanderson in the chair.

YOUNG PREMIERS.

(Canada's Weekly, London)

THE "DIARIST" in one of the London daily papers claimed on Tuesday for S. M. Bruce, the high commissioner for Australia, the distinction of having been "the youngest premier any part of the British Empire had had since Pitt," as he was only 40 when he became prime minister of Australia in 1923. Canada, however, can beat that. When Sir Richard McBride became premier of British Columbia in 1903, his age was 32 years, six months. Walter Scott, who died a few weeks ago, became Saskatchewan's first premier in 1905 when 38. To come to later times, Mitchell Hepburn, the present premier of Ontario, when he came into office in 1934, was just under 38. So Australians certainly cannot have it their own way.

• Why The Wren Quit Her Home

(Letter to the New York Sun)

SIR: I AM always interested in bird experiences, having had much opportunity to observe more than sixty varieties near my house. Since we allowed an acre to grow wild this number has increased. My porch lamp is an odd piece of early Americana, a globe incrusted with rounds of colored glass, one of which is missing. This small opening is the entrance to her nest which a house wren has built there for seven years. Regularly on April 28 she appears and scolds volubly people or dogs who disturb her at work. This year she has quite a task—to carry out the shells of ten eggs she left there last year. And this is why she left them:

She always goes to bed before the electric light is turned on and it never disturbs her. One evening I tried upsetting her routine, to see what she would do, so I switched the light on before she retired. I was soon to regret this, for she became highly excited, flew in and out the entrance to her home, hid, and peeped out of it in alarm. When she saw me watching she sped away. Then I put out the light but she left the eggs there and never returned till this year. I have heard that birds favor nesting in electric lights and often do their nest repairing when they're turned on.

My wren builds on one side of the electric bulb. This year, for the eighth year, I shall allow her to obscure the light in that quarter but I shall turn it on "according to Hoyle".

• Foreigners Getting Much Land Here

(Brantford Expositor)

THE WARNING uttered here last week by Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, that rural Ontario was passing out of the control of the Anglo-Saxon race and into that of foreign-born or foreign-descended peoples of various stocks, has drawn comment from The London Free Press. That newspaper says editorially, that it has been noting for some time past the changes taking place in Western Ontario in the matter of population trends. Thus, it finds, whereas the peninsula was originally settled largely by English, Scots and Irish settlers, if the present tendency increases, "this old British country" will soon be populated by citizens from Belgium, the Netherlands, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and elsewhere.

"The movement," The Free Press observes, "started in the tobacco and beet sugar districts of Essex and Kent Counties. It is tedious work and Belgians and Hollanders were largely brought in to do the manual labor. Then when the tobacco areas of Elgin, Norfolk and Oxford were opened up, aliens of all kinds were imported, along with tobacco technical experts from the Southern States." The Free Press goes on to suggest that "the old U. E. Loyalist County of Norfolk today probably has a majority of alien population," and adds that "these newcomers are industrious and hard-working. They have made money and are now buying up all the farms."

While statistics, whether relating to birth rates or movements of population or what not, are usually dry and uninteresting, this particular change is one that can be observed visually by a few hours' tour of the areas mentioned. It is not a theorist's wild forecast but something in actual process of accomplishment.

Hon. Mr. Dewan blamed the condition on the declining rural birth rate and the continued movement of people from rural to urban centres. Whatever the explanation, if the trend is not altered the control of large areas will assuredly pass out of the hands of the Anglo-Saxon peoples, as the Minister fears.

The question constitutes a challenge. When The Free Press commented that "these newcomers are industrious and hard-working," it probably intended no innuendo. But the mere fact that "aliens," so called, laboring under the handicaps common to all immigrants from foreign lands, can perform the "tedious work," and make money and buy up farms, constitutes an object lesson that we Anglo-Saxons might study to advantage.

• Figuring Out About The Daylight

(The Timmins Daily Press)

A CITIZEN of Timmins recently was all for having this town adopt daylight saving time.

"Why, you get an hour more daylight than they do down South now," we chided him.

While he agreed that undoubtedly Timmins, being that much closer to the six months of perpetual day of the Arctic circle, did get more sunlight than Southern Ontario he still thought we ought to get more, especially since so many work underground and on shifts that do not permit them to get all the sunlight available.

Others were quite sure that Timmins got a lot more daylight than Southern Ontario, too, but their guesses varied all the way from half an hour to over an hour.

Another man, who once heard that there were three hours more daylight during the summer in this area than in northern Georgia, reckoned that about an hour's more daylight than Toronto, for instance, gets, would be just about right.

To get the real facts a little closer in minutes and seconds, Mr. Wheeler, official weather observer at the Hollinger mine, was called into consultation.

"Why, Toronto gets three minutes less sun in the morning and three less in the evening than Timmins," Mr. Wheeler replied instantly, when interrogated.

Six minutes?

Well, you could have knocked us over with a split second hand.

However, he repeated it and even added the three minutes at the beginning and the end of each day to make it come out to six minutes.

So it looks as if the "daylight savers" hereabouts, if there are many such, have an argument right there when they want to start tampering with the clocks in the summer-time.

WHERE IT BEGAN.

(Ottawa Journal)

APROPOS of this latest outbreak of confiscation and repudiation under Mr. Aberhart in Alberta, it may be well and fair to point out where the thing began.

It didn't begin in Alberta. It began right here in Ontario. It began when the Premier of this province repudiated the power contracts.

Repudiation, like a lot of other things, reproduces itself. Mr. Aberhart had a distinguished precedent for repudiation in Alberta, and it is only just to say that this type of repudiation is not a joint nor tittle worse than the repudiation we had here in Ontario.

One other thing may be said. This: that had the Dominion Government taken its courage in both hands and disallowed Ontario's legislation, it might not now be reaping the crop of trouble in Alberta. After all, it was but human for Mr. Aberhart to argue that if Mr. Hepburn could "get away" with repudiation in Ontario he ought to be able to get away with the same thing in Alberta.

THEY WANTED MEAT.

(Niagara Falls Review)

THE DEATH OF William Childs, head of a great restaurant chain, brings back an interesting experiment in restaurants. He and his brother built up a great organization, which at one time provided fifty million meals a year. A vegetarian himself, Mr. Childs thought it would be a good thing for his hundreds of restaurants to serve only meatless meals, but the public did not respond and declining revenues led to a well remembered proxies fight and the ousting of Mr. Childs as chairman. Apparently, on this side of the Atlantic, vegetarianism has not as many followers as in Europe where vegetarian restaurants are almost commonplace.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

BUT IT CAME TO pass, that when Sanballat heard that we builded the wall, he was wroth, and took great indignation, and mocked the Jews. And he spake before his brethren and the army of Samaria, and said, What do these feeble Jews? will they fortify themselves? will they sacrifice? will they make an end in a day? will they revive the stones out of the heaps of the rubbish which are burned?

Now Tobiah the Ammonite was by him, and he said, even that which they build, if a fox go up, he shall even break down their stone wall.

Hear, O our God; for we are despised: and turn their reproach upon their own head, and give them for a prey in the land of captivity: and cover not their iniquity, and let not their sin be blotted out from before thee: for they have provoked thee to anger before the builders.

So built we the wall; and all the wall was joined together unto the half thereof: for the people had a mind to work.—(Neh. iv: 1-6).

THAT $50,000,000 LOAN.

(Minneapolis Tribune)

THE UNITED STATES treasury floated $50,000,000 in short-term securities at an average interest rate of 33-100 of 1 per cent., some subscribers waiving interest altogether.

This is subject to various interpretations. It might show that times are getting so hard that many investors are concerned only with getting their capital back. Mr. Morgenthau could counter by saying that, despite outcries at the mounting public debt, United States securities are still top-hole.

There is no doubt, however, that if the $50,000,000 had been lent, at six per cent., to someone who though he could increase it by making shoes or ships or sealing wax, the whole country would have cheered.

"THE SLAVE MARKET."

(New York Herald Tribune)

THAT'S AN ugly phrase that was used by Miss Dorothy Height, negro representative of the Y. W. C. A. in Harlem, in her remarks before the youth welfare committee of the city council.

But "slave market" is essentially correct. Miss Height referred to those sites on the curbs on the Grand Concourse at Highbridge Road, the Bronx, and on Prospect avenue, near Prospect Park, Brooklyn, where girls wait and bargain for work with housewives who drive there in automobiles. They are desperate, and will work for pitifully low wages.

Illness, Unnecessary Deaths Cost 600 Million A Year

Health League Urges Education Drive And More Use Of Known Preventatives

OTTAWA, May 27—(CP)—Illness and unnecessary deaths cost Canada more than $600,000,000 a year, the Health League of Canada estimated today as it urged a national health education campaign and more adequate use of known preventive measures.

Approximately two per cent. or 200,000 persons, of Canada's population are constantly ill and unable to work, the League said, although half that illness is preventable. It is estimated 34 per cent. of Canadian deaths are "postponable."

"Science has already developed methods whereby sickness and death rates may be materially reduced, thus saving enormous costs which at present are unnecessarily a burden on the people of Canada," the League said in a submission made before the Rowell Commission.

"The solution of the problem of preventive medicine requires the application of specific methods, for example toxoiding of children, pasteurization of milk, periodic health examination and the building up of adequate machinery in the way of properly staffed departments of health, adequate legislation, full-time health units in rural areas, etc., all such measures require expenditure by the dominion, provinces and municipalities.

Mean Huge Economies

"In the long run such expenditures would result in enormous savings .Steps which should be taken in order that these results may be achieved are not taken because the public are not sufficiently informed."

The League particularly urged re-establishment of the venereal disease control scheme from which the Dominion dropped its support in 1932. The value of Dominion-Provincial co-operation in health matters was adequately shown up to that time but progress had been seriously retarded since. Canada had fallen behind the Scandinavian countries where the fght against venereal disease had been strikingly successful.

While statistics were not readily available with abolition of the special venereal disease division in the Dominion Health Department, the League said more than 500,000 persons had been brought under treatment, in some hospitals, remarkable results being achieved.

A Record Example

In Toronto General Hospital, for example, the percentage of syphilis had dropped from 10.6 to 1.5 per cent of all admissions. Blood tests on 1,000 successive women entering Burnside Maternity Hospital, a division of the Toronto General Hospital, showed only three with a positive reaction to set what was described as probably a world's record —but not necessarily applicable to other Canadian hospitals.

Diphtheria, typhoid fever, tuberculosis, cancer and venereal diseases were outstanding among those which had been proved preventable, the League asserted. Typhoid was one of the most readily preventable diseases, only 14 Canadian soldiers dying of it in four years. But 1,111 died of it in Canada in 1927 and the year average for 1931-35 was 304.

Tuberculosis took 6,597 lives in Canada in 1935, although the fact it was preventable was demonstrated by reduction of the death rate by half in the last 26 years with only imperfect machinery to combat it.

More than 11,000 die of cancer every year, while it is known that superficial cancer is curable if detected early and this type of cancer comprises more than half of all cancer.

Periodic health examinations often showed presence of cancer while there was a good chance of curing it. The same applied to tuberculosis, diabetes and heart disease. The League submitted, however, that such examinations were not a matter for government action but upon "the development of a new attitude towards the organization of medical practice."

WOMAN SUFFERS SHOCK INJURIES

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 27. — A crash which could be heard for several blocks occurred at 10 o'clock last night when two local cars collided at the intersection of Front and Bridge Streets. The car driven by S. L. O'Hara, well-known local veterinary surgeon, was most seriously damaged as the vehicle driven by Ted Cryderman, an employee of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission crashed into the side of him. O'Hara was going east and Cryderman, who was travelling in the opposite direction, endeavored to make a left turn. Each of the drivers apparently thought the other would stop, but neither did and the front end of Cryderman's car crashed into the side of the east-bound car as he completed the turn.. Mrs. O'Hara, who was driving with her husband, suffered from shock and undetermined injuries which necessitated her removal fom the car by a medical doctor, who was immediately called to the scene.

Provincial Constable D. G. Campbell arrived to investigate the accident as a huge crowd of citizens milled around the intersection endeavoring to catch a glimpse of the two cars as they stood locked together on the corner.

MARMORA C.W.L. HONORS MEMBER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, May 27.—The regular monthly meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held on Wednesday evening at the home of the Misses Mary and Hilda Hughes with a good attendance. Miss Gertrude Maloney president, occupied the chair. The meeting opened with prayer led by Rev. Father Agnew after which the president addressed the meeting. Following the business session, Miss Anna V. Foley gave a comic reading which was much enjoyed. Rev. Father Agnew then gave some very interesting instruction. Next on the program came the presentation of a beautiful pearl and gold rosary to Mrs. E. D. O'Connor, past president, Mrs. Elizabeth Deacon making the presentation and the address being read by Miss M. McCarthy.

A ticket was drawn on a blanket donated by the Altar Society and Mary Quinlan, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Quinlan was the winner.

Bingo was then enjoyed for an hour after which a dainty lunch was served by the hostesses and the meeting adjourned.

KEENE Y.P. ENJOY ANNUAL GATHERING

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, May 27. — The Young People held a banquet in the basement of their church on Monday evening. A large crowd gathered at the church where a sumptuous repast was enjoyed.

The program was opened by an old fashioned sing-song directed by Rev. Ferguson and accompanied by his daughter, Dorothy, at the piano. Arthur Elmhirst proposed the toast to the King and also took this opportunity to welcome their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fletcher rendered a pleasing guitar selection, "A Gold Mine in the Sky."

Miss Willena Nelson offered a toast to the "Church" to which Rev. Ferguson replied. The Misses Marybelle Humphries, Agnes Weir, and Dorothy Ferguson sang, "The Glow Worm."

Mrs. Ross McIntyre proposed a toast to the young people, to which Mr. Parr of George Street United church, Peterborough, the guest speaker, responded.

The song "The End of a Perfect Day" was sung by the trio Misses Marybelle Humphries, Agnes Weir, and Dorothy Ferguson.

Rev. Preston of Knox church congratulated the young people on their splendid evening's entertainment.

The evening was closed by the singing of "Blest be the Tie That Binds," followed by Benediction by Mr. Preston.

Boys Are Blamed For Firing Tents

Fire Chief George Gimblett blamed children for lighting three separate fires in tents at Wallace Bros.' midway on Wednesday afternoon. Police are investigating the fires, he said.

Shortly after half-past two on Wednesday afternoon the Fire Department rushed to the midway when an alarm was sent in that a tent was on fire. While firemen were extinguishing that blaze, another broke out in a different part of the grounds. Still another broke out in a third place before they left.

A little later one of the midway workers came upon two small boys at the rear of a cooking tent. He chased them, was unable to catch them, but they dropped a number of matches at the tent, Chief Gimblett said.

CHEERS FOR SALLY

KANSAS CITY, May 27.—(AP)—Sally Rand, fan and bubble dancer, swept down the aisle to address University of Kansas City students. The boys and girls cheered loudly, then broke into a song, "Has Anyone Here Seen Sally?"

"I never," Miss Rand said when quiet was restored "received such a vociferous welcome with my clothes on."

ORILLIA TERRIERS SCORE FIRST VICTORY IN SENIOR LACROSSE

HEAVIER TIGES FALL TO 'PUPS' BY 13-9 SCORE

(By the Canadian Press)
Ontario Lacrosse Association
Senior Standing

	W	L	F	A	Pts
Brampton	2	1	28	29	4
Hamilton	2	1	42	31	4
St. Catharines	1	0	16	12	2
Mimico	1	1	22	17	2
Orillia	1	1	23	25	2
Fergus	1	2	24	26	2
Brantford	0	2	24	30	0

Under way again, Orillia Terriers pointed up the Ontario Lacrosse Association's senior ladder today, though their path to another provincial title seemed harder than in years.

Rallying late, the Terriers scored their first victory of the new schedule last night by downing the strengthened Hamilton Tigers 13-9 after dropping their opening game last week. The loss, Hamilton's first, left every team in the group with at least one defeat.

Brantford In Cellar

At the same time the luckless Brantford club stayed in last place, where it finished last season, by dropping a tense struggle to the Thistles at Fergus. Brantford has yet to win this year.

Fights mingled with speedy play at Orillia, where the Terriers came from behind an 8-7 score at the end of three quarters. In the fourth Ernie Curran of the home team drew a 10-minute penalty for scrapping with Sammy Milne after they had received minors.

Carmen Isaacs of Hamilton, crosschecked at the Orillia goalmouth, lost six teeth. Coach Bucko McDonald filled in for Goalie Teddy Hall, who was penalized for the check.

Tigers built up a 2-1 lead in five minutes, mainly on the work of Bill Isaacs, who scored five times as Tigers played ahead. McDonald sparked the winning rally in the final period and Terriers followed his goal with five quick ones.

Austin Tott's great goaling stopped Brantford's bid for an initial win. Fergus went ahead after 15 seconds and established a five-goal lead in the first quarter. The Indians, paced by the Jamieson brothers, found their stride in the second but never could catch up because of Tott's brilliant crease work.

The winner of tonight's St. Catharines-Mimico match at St. Catharines will step into a first-place tie with Brampton and Hamilton.

Next week's games follow:

Monday, Orillia at Brantford; Tuesday, Fergus at Mimico, St. Catharines at Hamilton; Thursday, Brampton at Orillia; Friday, Brantford at St. Catharines, Mimico at Fergus; Saturday, Orillia at Brampton.

EDMONTON GRADS WHIP CLEVELAND

EDMONTON, May 27—(CP). — Victory over Cleveland Fisher Foods here tomorrow night would complete for Edmonton Grads their second straight-game defence this season of the Underwood international women's basketball trophy they have held since 1923.

Grads whipped Cleveland 53-24 last night in the second game of the best-of-five series. They won the first 61-38 and need only a win tomorrow to repeat the three-straight triumph they scored early this month over Chicago All-Stars.

Cricket Results

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

The first competition of this season was completed last night when the President's side was successful in winning by 51 points. Last year they won by 50 points. In looking over the records we find that out of the 18 games played the President only won 8 and lost 10, yet the total scores were in his favor 255-204. The first five games to report last eve were all in favor of the Vice and he was leading by 24 points and yet when all scores were in he was down 18 points on the night's play. It was a good competition and the boys turned out in goodly numbers.

In more ways than one have the boys hit their mid-season form and we for one have felt the result of this early season condition. One chap says to us "I didn't see any account of that shot of mine that won our game?" . . . Another pulled this one: "Say Pepper, I should get credit for the first Kitty toucher of the season," and then another optimistic bowler pipes up "Bet you two-bits we win the game," and so on it goes . . . Don't forget our mixed this evening at 7.30. It's free.

Lacrosse Match Billed This Eve

Weather permitting, an exhibition lacrosse game will be played tonight at 8.30 in the George St. arena between Brampton intermediates and the Petes. It will be the second local fixture here this year, played under the lights, the locals taking an exhibition victory over Woodbridge a week ago. Arrangements have been made with the midway whereby a passageway for fans will be made to the arena—at present blocked off by the tented show. Both teams will be at full strength and a lively tilt is anticipated. It should draw a big crowd of fans. Bud Fisher will referee again.

Word from Brampton is to the effect that several former seniors will be on the lineup, and also four of last year's good Cheltenham players. The Cheltenham-Inglewood Combines last fall ousted the locals in Ontario semi-finals, but this year have split up with some of the former gang going to Brampton. Red Creighton is still in bed with tonsilitis and Joe Meyette, who shone in the previous contest, will be in the goal for Peterborough once more. Pretty much the same local lineup will take the field tonight for this fixture, and it should be a nip-and-tuck affair between two smart gutted-stick squads.

Cricket Notes

LONDON, May 27.—(CP)—Middlesex won its fourth victory in five starts in the English county cricket championship yesterday, defeating Worcestershire by an innings and 32 runs in a match concluded a day ahead of schedule. In the game at Lord's, Middlesex made 241 runs, the Sauce County being dismissed for totals of 83 and 126.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

UNLESS it comes down cats and dogs this p.m., there will be a lacrosse match pulled off at the George St. arena. At 8.30 under the arcs betwixt Brampton intermediates and ye Petes. A passageway to the gate will be made for fans through the midway show which now blocks the front of the playing field. Folks who go up in the ferris wheel are requested to refrain from taking free peeks down over the fence at the webbed-stick warriors in action. Oh, yeah? Brampton have a couple of ex-seniors and four of the starry Cheltenham players—the gang that eliminated the locals in Ontario semi-finals last year—on their lineup, so they'll be no soft touch—not by a jug and a half full. But the Petes are stronger this year, too, so it shapes up as a nifty tilt ala exhibish. Local lineup will be intact, we expect, with Red Creighton abed over a bit of tonsil trouble.

* * * * * *

THE PETES have practiced this spring till they're sick of the word, but are in the pinkiest of condition. They looked smart a week ago when knocking off the Woodbridge bunch, and they'll hustle the Bramptonites plenty, too. Meantime, officers here have been informed by the O.L.A. that an interlocking group will be lined up for 'em early in June. Probably four teams east of Toronto and four west, each in a separate section. Double schedule in each division and an interlocking single schedule of home and home games. Which would give Peterborough six and four home tilts, or 10 all told—apart from possible playoffs. That would be scrumptious, what?

* * * * * *

ALSO if the weather behaves, the Junior City Baseball League will start its schedule this eve at six in the Exhibition Grounds, P.C.I. playing St. Peter's. We have a hunch Secretary Mike O'Brien named these two to start it off as he didn't know the proper names of the other four entries in the loop! It's a fact, as they have been going under such monickers as "Parnell St. gang" or "Dinny Armstrong's team" or something similar. But a meeting of managers of this circuit will be held there tonight at six bells to straighten this out and make arrangements for the season. Lou LeBarr is umpire this evening. Ban tam series of the City Loop will start later.

* * * * * *

HERE'S THE LINEUP of the Riverview A.C. boxing show, being held on Monday in the lacrosse arena at 8.30 o'clock: Nick Orlando, 135 vs. Young Jackie of Toronto in the main bout, five rounds; Dutch McIlmoyle, 165, vs. Larry Hinds of Toronto in the semi-final, five rounds; Sonny (Joe) Hobbins, 147, vs. Jack Volpie of Toronto in a five-round prelim; and Bill Joiner, 132, vs. Walter Hicks of Toronto in a five-rounder; first named in each case is a Peterborough pugilist. All-local bouts of three rounds each are: Roy Prince, 140, vs. Hal Jones; Mal Packenham, 135, vs. Bert Prince; and a curtain-raiser between 80-pounders, Buddy Redmond and another kid. Red Garner and Bert Crothall, Toronto middles, stage a rasslin' match. The referee is Jim Simpson of Toronto.

* * * * * *

NORM BOWLER tells us that the Toronto amachoor rasslers, who perform on the mitt show here Monday, are acknowledged to be the best showmen of their class in the Queen City. Both Red Garner, at 145, and Bert Crothall, 150, are supposed to be the active rough matmen type that jerks the collective fan spinal column and has the gals and boys in the aisles. As the Riverview A.C. may stage an amateur grapple show in Lindsay a little later, club officers hope these gees will really strut their stuff and help sell the sport around here. It'll give 'em a line on the crowd's reaction and the ability of the Toronto grunters and groaners. We have heard no more for the past month on a proposed pro mat show, run by Jack Corcoran, in Peterborough. Which may be just as well, after all.

* * * * * *

STARTING last night at the Bowl where they left off last fall at Central, the Westclox men softballers—champs in '37—opened the City Softball League with a 13-0 titter over the Motorists. Manager Pat Hayden has a powerful crew lined up again, while Shorty Barrett's bunch got off to a rotten start—but will be lots stronger shortly. Lorne Bateman made his local debut in fine fashion with a six-hit hurling show as he fanned seven and walked none. Had good hitting and fielding support from his buddies. Strickland will twirl better than he did last eve. These teams tangle again at the Bowl on Monday e'en.

* * * * * *

IN THE THREE Church Softball League tussles run off last p.m., George St. squads copped two. The Majors took a senior scrap from All Saints, 13-11, at King Edward; George St. Juveniles beat Park St. at Central, 19-13; and All Saints won a 16-11 victory from George St. Bantams at Prince of Wales. Games tonight: George St. Buzzers vs. Mark Street Seniors at the Oval, umpires from All Sains and Majors; Mark St. Juveniles vs. St. James at King Edward School, umps from George St. and Park St.; Monday tilts are: Murray St. vs. All Saints Seniors at King Edward Park, umps from Knox and Buzzers; All Saints Juveniles vs. George St. at Central, umps from Park and St. James. Tonight ends the first half and Monday ought to see postponed frays caught up. Second half will be drawn up this eve.

* * * * * *

SEPARATE SCHOOL Baseball League opened its schedule yesterday at Riverside Park when St. Peter's dropped a 10-4 decision to Sacred Heart. A right tidy number with the lads playing surprisingly good ball for their ages. Games was run off in a bit better than an hour. These teams tangle again on the same diamond next Tuesday. Immaculate Conception will have two squads ready for play in the near future. This loop has been lined up through the efforts of Jack McCarney and Cec. Wolff—which gives all local lower schools, public and separate, baseball entries. By the way, the Immaculate Conception Softball League is operating again in Armour Field with five teams, Beavers, Tigers, Rovers, Cubs and Giants.

Soccer Notes

Saturday's soccer bill is the opening of the league schedule between the C.C.F. and Canadian General A.A. on King Edward Park. Kick-off at three o'clock prompt. Referee Thomas Foster. Players must be on field promptly to start on time.

Deloro was represented at the meeting of the local association this week, when George Brooks, on behalf of Mr. Tomsley, Smelters executive member, paid the guarantee fee and entry fee to participate in the league games. Perhaps they may enter the cup games later. The Deloro aggregataion are fostering a juvenile team and expect to put on a double header some Saturday afternoon against the local team of juveniles.

The local executive will take up the question of affiliation or associate member at the next meeting. Many interesting discussions were brought before President Jimmy Fleming, O.F.A., who was very keen that Peterborough be affiliated with the parent body. It is evident that his visit has proved beneficial.

Next Tuesday night, Deloro will be here to play the first league game against the Brinton Athletic. Kick-off at 6 o'clock. Referee Thomas Foster. The visitors have promised they will be on the field at the stated hour.

It is rumoured that the Canada Packers may enter a team in the cup games, which will make interesting competition. Of course, we will wait and see.

At the half time period on Victoria Day, Norman Crowe conducted the draw for the prizes given away at the game when A. McKenzie, Lansdowne street, won the coffee percolator as first prize; J. Viteralla, electric clock as second prize and Mrs. J. Jones, Toronto, the electric iron as third prize.

All players' forms must be in the hands of the secretary before participating in any league game the stipulated twenty-four hours so as to comply with the rules.

Brinton soccer team will practise this evening at six o'clock in King Edward Park and all players are requested to attend. The players' forms are now ready.

NEW YORK, May 26 (AP)—Unless the advance sale shows a brisk pick-up today, Ross and Armstrong will be lucky to draw $125,000....St. Louis Browns are warring on gamblers and will not permit runs, hits and errors of games played there posted on score board....Otto Petri, the ex-six-day bike rider, is Max Schmeling's closest friend in this country....

San Francisco Call-Bulletin prints a neat daily feature covering the achievements of the DiMaggio brothers — Joe, Vince and Tom — right up to press time....They tag the thing "DiMaggio Digest"....In one month Pitcher Jim Weaver has been with both clubs that finished last in 1937—Browns and Reds....Giants may be flirting with the skids, but Bill Terry is doing all right, personally....He has been in three nationally read magazines since the season opened.

Joe McCarthy is believed to have made up his mind on Tommy Henrich as Lou Gehrig's successor when and if the Iron Man cracks....Old timers at Devil's Lake, N.D., claim one of the longest ball games on or off the record was played there....Devil's Lake and Fargo teed off at 10 a.m. on July 4, 1908....The two teams took time out for lunch, then went at it again....They still were going strong when the umpire called the game at 6 p.m. with the score tied 1-1 after 27 innings of baseball....Longest game on record in the majors was the 26-inning 1-1 tie Brooklyn and Boston played May 1, 1920.

NEW YORK, May 27 (AP).—Oh, Oh! Looks like the jinx may be hounding Barney Ross again...Last time one of his New York fights was postponed (and it was an 11-day setback) he lost his welterweight crown to Jimmy McLarnin in the same arena he's going to face Henry Armstrong tonight....Mike Jacobs was the only one around the place who refused to get excited... He remembers when he took Ross to Miami to fight Frankie Klick and it snowed on the night of the battle.

Henry Armstrong had agreed to come in at 136 or over and Chairman John J. Phelan of the Boxing Commission didn't intend to be gypped ...First he felt under Henry's arms for extra weights...Then he decided to take a peek at the soles of the negro's feet...Foiled both times, Phelan said: "Let me see between your toes"'...Again it was no dice and Phelan decided Henry's 136¼ pounds were legitimate..."Fooled, weren't you?" cracked Manager Eddie Mead.

Lou Gehrig has worked himself back into clean-up position for the Yanks...Joe Louis pitched camp at Pompton Lake yesterday and will begin training for Schmeling Saturday ..Branch Rickey may put in a bid for Van Mungo (again reported dissatisfied) before he leaves these regions...Jimmy Hagan, dean of road secretaries in the National League, has travelled 497,108 miles with the Phils in the last 16 years.

Southenders Beat St. Peter's 10-4

Sacred Heart defeated St. Peter's 10-4 last evening early in Riverside Park in the first game of the newly-formed Separate School Baseball League. It was a good opening with some nice play shown in a trifle over an hour for the seven frames. The winners took advantage of a couple of long hits and three errors in the fifth and sixth to cop the nod. O'Brien hurled neat ball for the southenders, while Begley in centre for the Saints' shone. The teams:

St. Peter's: O'Toole, c; Lynch, p; Herr, 1b; Royal, 2b; Griffin, 3b; Cravall, ss; Skinner, lf; Pipe, cf; Freeman, rf; Begley, cf.

Sacred Heart: Hartwick, c; O'Brien, p; Willis, 1b; Peters, 2b; Berardi, 3b; Ritchie, ss; Bloom, lf; Shaughnessy, cf; Keating, rf.

ENGLAND BEATS FRANCE

PARIS, May 27 (CP Cable). — England defeated France 4-2 in an international soccer match played here today. The two countries have met nine times since 1923, the Englishmen being successful in all matches except that in 1931, when France won 5-2. Switzerland defeated England 2-1 at Zurich last Saturday, but the tourists made it 6-3 over Germany at Berlin the previous weekend.

Judges Are Named For Mitt Show

Judges have been named for the Riverview A. C. boxing show at the local lacrosse arena next Monday night. They are Wilf Jones and Archie Menzies, experienced in the mitt game. Time-keeper will be Jack Withers, while Jimmy Simpson of Toronto is the referee. There will be four bouts between local and Toronto fighters, three all-local bouts, and an exhibition wrestling match by two Toronto amateurs —making eight bouts in all. It will be the first outdoor fight card staged in Peterborough in many years, and should draw a huge crowd of fans at 8.30 o'clock in the fine setting of the George St. lacrosse field. The new ring will be set under the lights in the centre of the arena.

The two topnotch Toronto leather-pushers in the main and semi-final bouts, of five rounds, have real reputations. Young Jackie has lost but two decisions in his life, one in Toronto and another in Montreal. The colored lightweight will give Orlando a great scrap. Larry Hinds is a tough middleweight, a former wrestler, who has never been kayoed in the ring. A decided crowd-pleaser, he and McIlmoyle threaten to steal the show from the main event pair. Two prelims featuring Joe Hobbins and Bill Joiner against Toronto boys, too, should prove interesting to fight fans.

ALL SAINTS' LOSE TO GEORGE STREET

George Street Majors of the Church Softball League copped a 13-10 decision over All Saints last night at King Edward in a lively struggle. Akers hurled nice ball, and had fair support from the winners. Gatfield hit a homer and he and McClelland shone on the attack. The win puts the Majors in second place in the senior standing. Fisher pitched fair ball for the losers, but had terrible backing in the outfield, Menzies in particular being off form. Hill and S. Seabrooke had homers to lead the losers with the willow. The teams:

All Saints — Livingstone, cf; Rusaw, cf; Platt, 1b; Menzies, rf; Fisher, p; Seabrooke, 3b; Williams, 2b; S. Seabrooke, ss; Alton, c; Hill, lf.

(By The Associated Press).

Red Ruffing, Yankees—Fanned 10 and allowed only seven hits in whipping Tigers 5-1.

Taft Wright and Zeke Bonura, Senators—Former hit homer with bases loaded and Bonura collected three hits, driving in three runs in 12-10 win over Browns.

George Caster, Athletics—Pitched nine-hitter to beat White Sox 4-1.

Jackie Wilson, Red Sox—Handcuffed Indians with five hits for 8-4 victory.

VENETIANS FALL TO COMETS NINE

Comets defeated Venetians last night at the Exhibition Grounds as the Canadian Watercraft Loop softball teams played the third games of their schedules. The score was 25-12. It was a fair game, with good pitching in spots but wobbly fielding and hard hitting at times. Miller went well at bat, but lacked support. The teams:

Venetians: Ducker, c; Gahagan, p; Brow, 1b; Land, 2b; King, ss; Butler, 3b; Thompson, lf; Henwood, cf; Bell, rf.

Comets: Miller, p; Payne, c; Doughty, 1b; Wildman, 2b; R. Stenner, 3b; Kennedy, ss; B. Stenner, rf; Reader, cf; G. Stenner, lf.

The second game saw the Admirals take the Falcons into camp by a 30-13 score, the winners smarting under two recent defeats and coming back strong for this win. Homers by both sides featured the tussle, and despite the big score the pitchers, Richmond and Killenbeck, went well. The teams:

Falcons: Jones, c; Killenbeck, p; Clancy, 1b; Durham, 3b; Curtis, 2b; McQuaide, ss; Dafoe, lf; Ferguson, cf.

Umpire, Roy Ego.

League standing to date:

	P.	W.	L.
Venetians	3	2	1
Comets	3	2	1
Admirals	3	1	2
Falcons	3	1	2

Games next Thursday are: Admirals vs. Comets, and Falcons vs. Venetians.

Cricket Notes

To-morrow (Saturday) the Peterborough Club will travel to Port Hope to play Trinity College School. They meet at the Paragon at 12.30. A punctual start is essential, as Port Hope is on daylight saving time and the match has to be fitted in with the school schedule.

Whitaker's will play Trinity College School Seconds at Nicholls Oval.

SOMERVILLE CARRIES CANADA'S BID INTO SEMI-FINAL ROUND

SANDY DEFEATS AUSTRALIAN 2 UP TO ADVANCE

TROON, Scotland, May 27.—(CP Cable).—Sandy Someville carried Canada's challenge into the semi-final round of the British amateur golf championship to-day, defeating H. W. Hattersley of Australia, two up, in the quarter-finals. The Canadian champion was one down with three to go and played the last holes in one under par.

This afternoon he will play either Cecil Ewing, former West of Ireland champion, or Johnny Stevenson, pride of Troon, for the right to enter the 36-hole fina lto-morrow.

Somerville played erratic but brilliant golf. Over the first nine he struck a remarkable string of three birdies and was one up on the Australian at the turn.

He holed a 60-foot putt for a three at the second hole to square the match after losing the first on a bad chip. He went one down at the four where he took four to get out of a bunker but, starting at the sixth, he holed an eight-foot putt for a birdie, got another birdie at the seventh by sinking a 30-foot chip, and canned an eight-footer at the eighth for a deuce that put him two up. At the ninth he took three from the edge of the green and lost the hole.

The outgoing cards:

Par, out	444 435 435—36
Somerville, out	534 434 324—33
Hattersley out	444 335 434—34

Somerville lost his first nine lead at the 11th when his second was short in the sand. He made the same mistake at the 13th and then missed a five-footer to go one down. He got back even at the short 14th when Hattersley hit a heavy tee shot and needed four to get down but Sandy put himself back in the hole at the 15th by three-putting.

One down and faced with defeat Sandy really turned on the pressure. At the 16th he canned a 30-footer to tie the match with a birdie. He dropped a nine-footer for a three to win the 17th where Hattersley, the pressure getting the better of him, missed a three-footer for a half. Then on the final hole Somerville pitched well up on the pin and got down in two to win the hole and make the margin two up.

The incoming cards:

Somerville	554 535 434—38
Hattersley	544 444 545—39

Hattersley, a dour fighter who limps around the course and looks like a prizefighter, congratulated Sandy and said "That was one of the greatest finishes I ever saw."

Oshawa Miscues Numerous As Hits

OSHAWA, May 27.—"Goose" Osborne's Bowmanville Juniors spoiled Oshawa's opening home game of the O.B.A.A., Lake Shore grouping here last night, when they trounced the locals, 8 to 1.

The Bowmanville team played errorless ball in distinct contrast, while Slemon, on their mound, was invincible, in the pinches. Wetheridge led the winners' attack with four in four, while Roy Pearce was the only Oshawa batter with any success at the plate, garnering three for three.

DE LAVAL WINS 9-8 OVER NATIONALS

The De Laval team went into a three-way tie with the Hawks and Little Harlem by taking an extra innings affair from the Nationals by a 9-8 count in last night's Southend League softball fixture.

The winners overcame a 3-run advantage the Nats garnered in the first frame and drove Rennie, who started for the Nats, to cover in the fourth to take a 6-run lead. The losers, however, scored two in each of the fourth, fifth and seventh innings to force the game into extra stanzas. Three hits and a walk off Wedlock's offerings, who had turned in a neat relief effort up to this point, gave the De Laval the necessary marker. Naish, on the mound for the victors, allowed ten hits while walking three and striking out five, while Rennie and Wedlock for the losers allowed a like number of hits. The former, however, issued 6 walks. Weart had two singles and a double and Abbott a single and a double for the De Laval, Thompson with three hits and McDonald with a triple and double led the Nats' attack. Rennie made a neat catch and poled out the only home run of the game. Abbott and Dallin looked best defensively for the winners.

Lineups:

De Laval: Gatfield, 2b; Pearson, c; Dallin, cf; Weart, ss; Jamieson, 1b; Abbott, lf; Beaumont, rf; Weley, 3b; Naish, p; Wright, rf.

MOTORISTS LOSE SOFTBALL OPENER

Westclox opened the Men's City Softball League before a fair crowd of fans at the Ashburnham Bowl last night with a 13-0 victory over the Motorists. It was the first organized game of men's softball ever played on this diamond. Opening ceremony saw the Mayor pitching, Ald. Stocker catching and Ald. Glover batting. The latter singled down the third base line on the first pitch.

Wielding potent bats behind Bateman's fine flinging, the Clock crew proved too good for Shorty Barrett's gang in the initial encounter of the season and whitewashed their opponents with a big brush. They collected 14 hits off the delivery of Bob Strickland and kicked in with but one error, while Motorists were held to six hits by Lorne Bateman and booted five in the field. Bateman fanned seven and did not issue a walk, whereas Strickland's control was shaky with nine free tickets as he fanned four.

Good Fielding.

Two double plays were pulled off by the losers, Playford to Smith to Dorrington, and Starr to Crowe to Smith. Westclox turned in some snappy field work, also. Catches by Weir, Dormer and O'Leary were features. Ellis led the winners at bat and Bateman hit a triple, none of the losers getting more than one safe blow. The teams:

Westclox — Dormer, 3b; Ellis, 1b; O'Leary, cf; W. Calladine, 2b; Bateman, p; Carleson, c; Gainey, ss; Currie, lf; Watson, rf.

Score by innings:

Westclox ..... 201 340 012—	13	14	1
Motorists .... 000 000 000—	0	6	5

ROSS-ARMSTRONG FIGHT TONIGHT

NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—Providing the rain stops, Barney Ross and Henry Armstrong will keep their postponed 15-round engagement for Barney's welterweight title tonight at Madison Square Garden Bowl.

Promoter Mike Jacobs was forced to declare a 24-hour truce late yesterday, when it became evident the downpour was no trifling affair. But, barring a cloudburst, Mike will get them in the ring this time.

The two fighters were ordered by General John J. Phelan to appear before the boxing commission again today, though why only the General seemed to know, inasmuch as one weigh-in always previously has been deemed sufficient unless a fight is postponed more than 48 hours.

HAWKS WIN TILT

Quakers went down to defeat at the hands of the Hawks by a 4-1 count Wednesday night in a neat Southend Softball League tilt. It was the first fray played on Quakers' diamond. McGregor pitched his second victory for the Birds, while Shine of Quakers lost. He did not get good support. Both sides garnered seven hits, but Hawks cashed in more on opportunities to tally. At the Brinton field tonight, Hawks meet Keene, and a win for the former will give them undisputed possession of first place with three nods and no negatives.

Somerville Carries Canada's Hopes High

Troon, Scotland, is the scene of Sandy Somerville's triumph for British amateur golfing honors as he carries Canada's challenge into the semi-final round of the competition today. The Londoner played erratic but brilliant golf to defeat H. W. Hattersley of Australia in the quarter. Over the first nine he struck a remarkable string of three birdies and was one up on the Australian at the turn. Shown above with Sandy, on the left Hector Thompson of Scotland, who took the crown two years ago but suffered early. Below on the left is Johnny Goodman, one of Uncle Sam's aces and a loser to Somerville and lower right, Robert Sweeney, American-born winner of the event last year.

Ruffing Elbows Champ Yanks Into 5-1 Win Over Detroit

Red Hurls 7-Hit Victory — Senators Take 12-10 Game From The Browns

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP)—In the midst of all those fancy price tags sprinkled through the roster of New York Yankees, the big dividends being paid annually by the bargain counter pick-up, Rufus the Red Ruffing, must warm the cockles of Col. Jake Ruppert's bankroll.

Down through the years, Col. Jake has turned a goodly portion of his brewery profits into the purchase of and salaries for high-priced ivory. There was Babe Ruth and his $80,000 a year, and Lyn Lary, the $100,000 importation that didn't click, and the reported $20,000 paid to Tommy Henrich for his signature only last year, and many more.

But Big Rufus the Red and his right arm came to Yankee Stadium in a player exchange for one Cedric M. Durst. Cedric was down in the lineup as an outfielder—when he got in the lineup. The baseball "Who's Who" never bothered to list him. So you can see that Col. Jake didn't exactly mortgage the family jewels in the deal.

A Valuable Player

Yet, Rufus the Red has proved one of his most profitable pieces of business. In seven years with the Yanks the right hand pitcher has had just one poor season. He was a 20-game winner on the world champion outfits of '36 and '37, and even in 1932, when the club was floundering around, he came up with 16 wins and 11 setbacks. All told, his seven-year New York record shows 118 victories and 76 losses, for a neat, if not gaudy, .608 percentage.

So far this year, he has been the brightest spot in what hasn't been an altogether sunny start for Gehrig and Company's campaign for a third pennant. In 50 innings he has allowed an average of 2.5 runs per game—not all of them earned. He won four of his five starts, and then gave way to the "flu." Yesterday, he got back from the hospital list, took a look at the Yanks' three game losing streak, and, in his first appearance in 17 days, proceeded to pitch them back into the money.

Turns Back Tigers 5-1

Facing the dangerous Detroit Tigers, who only the day before had belted four homers off choice Yankee elbowing, he hurled a seven-hitter, fanned 10 and allowed just three runners to get as far as third base as he posted a 5-1 victory. That win gave the Yanks a .500 mark for their road trip, the best record turned in by any of the eastern clubs on the western swing.

The Yankee victory, coupled with Boston Red Sox's 8-4 triumph over Cleveland Indians, also sliced a considerable margin off the Tribe's American League lead. The Sox came back in the last three innings with seven runs, one of them Jimmy Foxx's 10th homer.

Riding a three-home run barrage, the Senators took a wild 12-10 game from St. Louis Browns. Taft Wright's round-tripper with the bases loaded was the payoff wallop.

The Athletics, given a neat nine-hit pitching effort by George Caster, topped the White Sox 4-1 in the only other game of the day's program. The entire National League schedule was rained out.

All Saints Win From George St.

All Saints' Bantams took a 16-11 Church Softball League win from George Street at Prince of Wales last night, their first nod in four starts. It was the first loss for George Street in three tries. Millar hit a homer, double, and two singles. Lacey, Edgar, and Lacheur each had three hits. Kemp pitched well, but had trouble with his control. Smith's homer and a triple by Greatrix in the sixth were mighty swats. Richardson's fielding featured. The teams:

George Street — Quirt, 3b; Greatrix, 1b; Wellwood, c; Smith, p; McCurrach, lf; Kingdon, rf; Richardson, cf; Powell, ss; Burnham, 2b.

All Saints — Millar, lf; Lacey, 2b; Edgar, rf; Lacheur, c; Reid, ss; Kemp, p; Hotrum, 3b; Blackwell, 1b; Burns, cf.

George St. Wins Over Park Squad

George St. Juveniles beat Park Street 19-13 at Central School last night in a Church League game. An 8 run scoring splurge off Routley in the 7th kept this game from being very one-sided. The George St. team had a 6 run and a 9 run innings to run up a big lead. Some healthy swatting was shown by Hamilton, E. Routley, Parnall and Henry of the Uniteds and Campbell, Martin and J. Ainslie of the Park Street team. This win pushes George St. away upon top with the Baptists in 3rd place.

BLANKET RACE IN MINOR BALL

TORONTO, May 27.—(CP)—The International Baseball League pennant race is geting so close that trying to figure out the tour playoff teams now looks as easy as picking next year's Kentucky Derby winner.

Only 6½ games separated the league-leading Newark Bears from the last place Syracuse Chiefs today, and the way the second division clubs are going, that margin appears in for some whittling.

The Chiefs, the fastest moving club in the circuit currently, bowled over Jersey City Giants 4-2 last night and moved within 3½ games of the fourth place Montreal Royals. The Royals took a 9-6 beating from Rochester in the only other game of the day as the Orioles were rained out in Newark while Buffalo and

CATTLE MARKET HAS ACTIVE WEEK PRICES JUMP 25

TORONTO, May 27.—(CP)—Cattle trade was active and prices 15 to 25 cents higher on killers on Toronto Livestock market this week, the Dominion Livestock Branch reported. Calf prices were steady to strong and hogs improved.

Handyweight steers, good butcher steers and heifers and good cows were especially in demand on the cattle division. Weighty steers ranged from $6 for plain up to $7.35 for good quality with one load of choice 1200-pound steers making $7.50. Comon to medium butcher steers and heifers sold at $5.25 to $6.25, good bringing $6.75 to $7.

Best butcher cows moved up to $5.50 to $5.75 with plain downward to $3.75. Canners and cutters brought $2.30 to $3.50. Good light butcher bulls traded up to $5.25, heavies from $4.75 to $5. Bolognas weer $4.25 to $4.50. Plain fed calves made $6.50 with choice at $8.

A few light stockers of common to medium quality went at $4.50 to $5.50. Milkers and springers were steady at around $70 each for good tested cows.

Exporters shipped only 200 head of cattle but bought several loads for next week when two boats are scheduled.

Veal Tops Go $9

Good veal calves were priced at $8 to $8.50 with tops at $9. Common vealers and drinkers ranged from $4 to $5.

The hog market opened steady at $10.25 to $10.40, advancing to $10.50 under competition from buying for Montreal account. Shippers paid up to $10.65 for a few off-truck bacons. Sows brought $6.25 to $7. Selects were at the usual $1 per head premium.

Some good Ontario feed-lot lambs sold at $10.25 to $10.50 with others as low as $9. A few clipped feed-lot lambs of common to medium quality went at $7 to $7.60. Several loads of plain were unsold. Spring lambs sold mostly by the pound, the best bringing $1 2to $13 a cwt. with common as low as $10. Good light sheep moved at $4.50 to $5.25. Heavy sheep were slow at $3 to $3.50 with culls mostly $2. One load of western feed-lot lambs brought $9.75.

Fresh Troops Sent After Rebels

Fresh troops have been ordered into the province of San Luis Potosi by Mexican President Cardenas, INSET, to subdue the rebels led by General Saturnino Cedillo. Cardenas has issued a proclamation guaranteeing freedom for the rebels if they lay down their arms and return "to a life of honesty." Federal troops are shown above mounting machine guns for defence against possible raids by Cedillo's rebels.

time since Sept 22, 1934, when the quints left their farmhouse birthplace.

Their father is to be given a louder voice in the affairs of Annette, Cecile, Emilie, Marie and Yvonne. This also may be a force tending to withdraw them from their present money-making activities as darlings of the screen and the newspaper picture section.

Among child psychologists there are two schools of thought on the subject. Some believe the girls can never hope to lead normal lives and that they must learn now to stand in the limelight and like it. They reason that if the girls live sheltered lives until they are adolescents the shock of realization they are unusual humans will be damaging.

Others believe their lives should be made as normal as possible for at least several years—that everything that would tell them they are different from other children should be kept from them. They would be taught gradually as they grew older that they had a place in the public's affections and some day must assume their responsibilities.

Sheltering of the children probably would have a damaging effect on the tourist trade they have drawn to Northern Ontario. When they move to their new home the Dafoe nursery will be opened to the public as a sort of a public museum but it would hardly draw the crowds that have come to see the quints in their daily appearances.

Keith Munro business manager of the quints, said today the Dionne home will be built near the Dafoe nursery, which is 2½ miles from Callander. But it will be far from the road and shielded from the curious.

Both leaders also agreed that Canada's diplomatic corps should be a "career service" with high officers filled through promotions.

All external affairs items were passed and a good block of the pensons appropriations voted.

A Plea For The Loyalists

Angus MacInnis (CCF Vancouver East) made a plea on behalf of the Spanish government which he declared was being attacked not only by the Insurgents of Spain but by Germany and Italy.

"To me," Mr. MacInnis said, "our policy in connection with the Spanish situation has been devoid of every semblance of equity, justice, fairnes sor the application of international law.

"All our pratings about peace, all our boasted love for democracy, all our detestation of dictatorships is just so much pipple unless we right-about-face in our attitude toward Spain."

Canada had placed an embargo on export of munitions to Spain while knowing that Germany and Italy were supplying Spanish rebels with arms, but there was no embargo placed on arms to Italy and Germany.

"In the Abyssinian affair this government objected to oil sanctions being imposed against Italy for fear they might lead to reprisals or to war. But the government was not afraid our arms embargo against Spain might lead to war because Spain was a weak nation."

Canada had voted for a League of Nations committee report recognizing there had been foreign intervention in the Spanish war even after its embargo had been imposed. That report had been defeated by the votes of Albania and Portugal, two countries that were acting "merely as stooges" for Italy.

Spain was the European country facing greatest difficulties in the last two years and action of the Canadian Government had "tended to add to those difficulties." He urged that the embargo against Spain be removed.

Pension For Roy.

Debate on the question of pensions for retiring foreign ministers came up when the committee was considering an item providing a pension of $5,000 for Hon. Phillipe Roy, Minister to France, who had reached the retiring age and will be replaced this year. The item passed.

On the item providing for the new legations in Holland and Brussels, Mr. Mackenzie King said the legations would be at the Hague and Brussels with a charge d'affaires at one and the minister at the other, alternately.

Thomas Church (Con., Toronto-Broadview) protested vehemently and declared all Canadian legations should be abolished, leaving the work to British embassies. It was a form of separatism from the British Empire.

When pensions estimates came up Pensions Minister Power said he was doubtful if any new pension legislation would be introduced at the present session but definite decision would be reached in a few days.

Tom Reid (Lib. New Westminster) made a plea that Parliament ask the United Kingdom Parliament to send a Royal Commission to Canada to investigate grievances of Imperial army veterans.

Mr. Power said the Imperial Pensions Ministry had an official in Ottawa to deal with Imperial war veterans. Mr. Reid said there were 200,000 in Canada, 50,000 of them in British Columbia and many were suffering great hardships.

Japan Is Largest Producer Of Drugs For Illicit Traffic Kinsmen Are Told

Canada Done More Than Any Other Nation To Check Illicit Sale

Directly across the Pacific Ocean from British Columbia lies Japan, largest producers of drugs for illicit traffic in the world. In this fact lies a great and grave problem for Canadian narcotics officers. So declared Eric W. Morris, modern history master at Trinity College, Port Hope, in an address entitled "The World's Narcotics Problem," to Kinsmen at the Empress hotel on Thursday evening.

Canada has done more than any other country in the world to check the illicit sale of drugs and their spread through this country to other lands, the speaker said. In spite of the acknowledged fact that Japan is ever seeking greater markets for her drugs, grown in Manchuokuo and northern China and manufactured as a state monopoly, the import of the drugs into Canada is still difficult, he maintained. He said that in Vancouver a seven-ounce can of opium sells for $300 —an indication of just how difficult it is to secure.

After pressure had been brought to bear on France, Turkey, and Bulgaria, successively, great international dope rings moved their headquarters to northern China and Manchuokuo and since 1933 have been producing there almost 90 per cent. of the illicit drugs of the world, he said. Japan has ignored entreaties and pressure by other world nations and is realizing tremendous profits from her production of drugs, the speaker said.

Forced Growth

In parts of China under Japanese control, farmers have been forced, sometimes at the point of the sword, to grow opium. Opium dens have been protected by the militia, with sentries stationed outside them, so that the morale of the Chinese might be broken down more easily, and without interference by Chinese citizens.

Because of Canada's proximity to Japan, she must be ever vigilant in her watch for influx of drugs, Mr. Morris said. To date she has been eminently successful, but relax that rigid enforcement of law for one instant and this country could become flooded with drugs, both for Canadian consumption and as a place of clearing.

He told of the menace of marijuana to the youth of this country. United States and Canadian officials have in the past taken the attitude that if they said anything about the drug, its spread would be more rapid, but now they are changing. Spread of the drug's use has reached such a serious stage that it is almost out of control, the speaker said.

In many ways marijuana is the most dangerous of all drugs. Made of the dried tops and leaves of Indian hemp, it is easily accessible. It grows all over the country, in gardens, has even been raised in flower pots.

While the opium smoker knows what sensations he will experience, the marijuana fiend never can tell. He may develop strong suicidal tendancies, he may find extreme clarity of mind comes to him, he may become violent, and he will probably lose all moral restraint. Any one of a dozen things can happen to the marijuana smoker, the speaker said. He told of instances in the United States where such addicts had suffered complete loss of memory for the time being and had committed atrocious crimes.

Marijuana Sensations

The marijuana smoker loses all time and space sensations. 80 miles an hour may seem a snail's pace to him; a far away building may seem right beside him. He is easily amused; a mere pun will often set him rocking with laughter. He is easily moved to anger. The drug is used chiefly by people under the age of 30 and in many instances by high school students. Other drugs are more often used by older people.

The drug is usually made into cigarettes called "reefers" and is peddled at dance halls and pool rooms at from ten to fifty cents a cigarette, he said. He blamed its extensive use on the tendency of youth to seek a thrill. Now that prohibition is gone and drinking has no longer the illicit fascination it then held, young people often turn to "reefers" to "get a kick," he found.

While the sensations that first accompany the taking of "dope" are pleasant, gradually the after effects become worse and larger and still larger doses are necessary, the speaker related. One-eighth of a grain of morphine is all the initiate needs, but in time he will come to take as much as ten grains—whereas two grains would probably kill a novice—and there are cases on record where addicts have taken as much as 100 grains in one day, he said. Complete mental, moral, and physical breakdown awaits the man who falls victim to the drug.

Drugs and Crime

The most serious aspect of the narcotic traffic is its relation to crime, Mr. Morris said. Once a person becomes a victim ordinary avenues of employment become closed to him and he is reduced to a living by theft. Addiction to drugs brings an increase in the numbers of criminals in the country, and the wholesale debauchery of the nation, he said.

The abuse of drugs is of comparatively recent origin, the speaker stated. Although known in ancient times, drugs were not used extensively and their first real abuse came when they were introduced to China in the eighteenth century from Java and Formosa. "I'm afraid the British have a great deal to answer for because in the middle of the 19th century they shipped great quantities to China from India and defied all attempts of Chinese governors to stop it," he said. That policy was discontinued in 1908 and Great Britain is doing more than any other nation except the United States in the opposite direction, he claimed.

War Spread Use

The Great War with its spread of disease, terror and pain, caused rapid spread of the use of drugs throughout western Europe and America, he said. The United States has suffered more than probably any other nation from drugs, and more than a million and a half dollars is spent daily in their illicit purchase, he said it had been estimated.

Since drugs are sold by huge international rings, operating in half a dozen countries and with immense influence, it has been found impossible to check their spread by national legislation. All the work that has been done since the war toward bringing illicit traffic to a halt has been done by the League of Nations, he said. The legal sale of drugs has been so controlled that nearly all leakage has been stopped and it is now possible to concentrate efforts on the illegale sale, he said. He described the drug supervision by the League of Nations as its greatest accomplishment. "It was handed to the League as an orphan after the war, and it is gratifying to find such success at a time when the League's political significance is waning."

Ross-Armstrong Fight Postponed

NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—The welterweight title fight between Barney Ross, the champion, and Henry Armstrong was postponed until next Tuesday night after Promoter Mike Jacobs received unsatisfactory reports on tonight's weather. It was the second postponement for the bout, originally slated for last night.

TULIP DISPLAY IS MOST SUCCESSFUL

Tulips were featured in the Peterborough Horticultural Society's first floral show of the season displayed in a window of A. Comstock & Sons. The quality of the flowers were of high standard, but the season's uncertain growth probably caused a little decline in the number of entries. Some citizens who were eligible did not take part in the show, but even with that omission the committee was well satisfied with the results.

The results were as follows:

12 Darwin Tulips—1, Bert Lucas, 294 Reid St.; 2, Mrs. Charlton McBride, 16 Manning Ave.

6 Darwins—1, S. T. Harris, 207 Perry St.; 2, H. Freeman, 178 Stewart St.

3 Darwins—1, S. T. Harris; 2, Mrs. Charlton McBride.

FALL PROVES FATAL.

KITCHENER.—Victim of a fall Tuesday in which he fractured his hip, David Klassen, 77, Kitchener, died in hospital yesterday. Mr. Klassen was backing away from an oncoming car when he tripped and fell against the curb.

New City Oiler

Peterborough's streets should glisten with cleanliness this summer and complaints about clouds of dust which rose in the wake of autos will probably come to an end. For on Thursday afternoon the Board of Works' new combination oiler and flusher arrived in the city. Seen standing beside the flusher are Ald. Walter Stocker, Ald. R. M. Glover, and City Engineer R. H. Parsons, who inspected the truck on its arrival. All three said Ald. E. R. Wilson, chairman of the Board of Works should have been present in the picture, but he is a working man, was unable to take time off to be on hand when the truck arrived. The oiler is a tank on a trailer that fasten to the back of the truck, or of any truck.

STREET FLUSHER ARRIVES IN CITY

The city's new street flushing and oiling equipment recently ordered by the council was delivered here last night and tested in operation this morning. It consists of separate flushing and oiling equipment manufactured by the Bickle-Seagrave Company of Woodstock, and a Ford truck, the first of heavy new model to be purchased in Peterborough.

The flusher cost $2,450, the oiler $1,540 and the Ford truck $2,125 with a reduction of five per cent. from the total cost of the Bickle-Seagrave units because they were both bought from the one company. The flusher has a capacity of 1,000 gallons of water and is equipped with a motor and compressed air pump which forces a strong spray of water on to the pavement for cleaning purposes. The oiler will be drawn by any truck the Board of Works may use, and with the approach of warm weather it may be put into commission in the near future.

The street cleaning and oiling apparatus was bought by the Board of Works of which Alderman Wilson is chairman, and represents a major investment of this year in equipment required for cleaning the streets and also an economy in oiling as the Board from now on has its own machine for that service.

It is understood that William Millen will be assigned as operator of the truck-flusher with hours from 3 a.m. until 1 p.m.

THREE NEW COTAGES

Three new cottages are being built at Stoney Lake west of McCracken's Landing.

MAIN STREET SMILES

Main street purred this morning under the genial influence of bland weather that was more acceptable after recent dull days and frosty nights. The sun was in its heaven and all seemed well with the world.

PURCHASED CAFE.

Hum Sam of the Paris Cafe has purchased the Home Lunch from Hum Lee and plans to operate both the upstairs and ground floor restaurants. Hum Sam has been in Peterborough for years and is one of the most widely known restaurant operators.

TULIP TIME TERMINATES

The tulips in Victoria Park passed out of the brief and dissolving floral picture this afternoon. They had passed the peak of their blooming and although Alderman Stocker had hoped they would remain in flower for next week's visit of the Governor-General, their day of glory was ended, and the bulbs were lifted this afternoon.

TAG DAY SATURDAY.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind which is conducting a tag day in Peterborough on Saturday under the organization of a strong local committee has 36 registered cases of blindness in Peterborough area and 70 preventative cases which are receiving treatment under its care. The money which is being collected by the Canadian Federation for the Blind has nothing whatever to do with the tag day being held in the interests of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

HOSTS TO ORPHANS.

The Canadian Legion and J. P. Sullivan, manager of Wallace Bros.' shows are playing hosts on Saturday afternoon to the children of St. Vincent's Orphanage and the Children's Shelter. All the kids are going to the circus, free of charge. They will be treated to free rides on the merry-go-round, the midget autos, the ferris wheel, and all the other machines that bring a sense of luxury and keen delight to youngsters. Ice cream will be free, too.

THE "BESSIE BUTLER" READY.

The "Bessie Butler" is docked at the Lift Lock and has been groomed for the visit of the Governor-General, His Excellency Lord Tweedsmuir next week. Of the three days the Governor-General has planned to spend in this district, Tuesday has been allotted to Peterborough and the Grove School at Lakefield. Wednesday will be spent in a boat trip from the city around to Bridgenorth, and on Thursday the holiday of the Viceroy in the Kawarthas will be resumed from Chemong Lake to Orillia. At the City Hall this morning it was expected that the only persons accompanying His Excellency those two days will be his secretary, A. S. Redfern, Lieut. R. Scott, R.N., A.D.C., and A. L. Killaly, superintendent of the Trent Canal. Final plans will not be definitely decided until Monday, although they are practically complete now.

WOMAN IS CHARGED

An Ashburnham woman was charged before Magistrate Campbell in police court this morning with attempting to commit suicide and was remanded until Monday morning. It is alleged that she turned on the gas at her home.

CAMPBELLFORD COURT.

Magistrate E. A. Gee of Lindsay was on the circuit to-day. His Worship gave judgment in a case in the local police court and then went on to Campbellford, where several cases were to come before him this afternoon.

GROOMING THE PARK.

Victoria Park was being groomed to-day in preparation for the visit of the Governor-General on Tuesday. The bandstand has been painted and the lawns were being manicured this morning.

COMMITTEE IN LAKEFIELD.

The educational committee of the county council was in Lakefield on Thursday afternoon enquiring about certain items of school costs, it was said, which have been mentioned from time to time since the first of the year.

THREE CHILDREN LEFT.

In the obituary of Warren Reid, a pioneer resident of Rawdon township, there were left to mourn the loss besides the widow, whose maiden name was Miss Sarah Cranston, three children, two sons, George Reid, 617 George street, Peterborough and Wilbert of Campbellford, also one daughter, Mrs. James Wiggins of Picton.

HUNDRED SEEK JOB.

One hundred men looking for work were counted the other day on the bank of Deer Lake in Belmont township where the Ontario government has begun construction of a fish hatchery. Some had already been engaged, several others were taken on, but the number of jobs was small compared with the many men who applied.

TORONTO, May 27—(CP)— William G. Yelland, for many years a familiar figure in the Land and Titles Office at Osgoode Hall, celebrated his 80th birthday today.

Mr. Yelland was born at Peterborough and educated at Belleville. He worked with his father in the carriage-making and blacksmithing business before entering the Ontario Civil Service in 1902.

MAGISTRATE GEE ACQUITS HUGHES ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Judgment was given by Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court this morning acquitting Thos. Hughes, North Monaghan, of having been a party to an offence against the Liquor Control Act for which Mrs. Nellie Zimmerman had been convicted.

The case has been before the local court for some time and is the first that has been tried here under that particular section of the Liquor Control Act.

Evidence was heard several weeks ago and Defence Counsel W. J. A. Fair and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry submitted their arguments at that time, after which judgment was reserved.

In a lengthy judgment in which the evidence was reviewed, Magistrate Gee declared that the Crown had not established to his entire satisfaction, that Hughes was the occupant of the house within the meaning of the act. "I wouldn't say that he is as innocent as he looks," said Magistrate Gee, "but there is some doubt as to who was the actual occupant of the place, Hughes or Mrs. Zimmerman and under the circumstances I am going to give him the benefit of the doubt and acquit him."

In discharging the accused, the magistrate warned Hughes not to come before him again on a similar charge.

Nine Sheep Die From Starvation

Allan Cathcart, a farmer living in Cavan Township, was in town this morning for the purpose of paying a fine inflicted on him by Magistrate Campbell at Cobourg on Thursday when he was convicted of cruelty to animals in allowing nine sheep and two lambs to starve to death.

Cathcart was convicted on the evidence of Dr. T. Johnston, Humane Society Inspector and Provincial Constable David Silvester and was fined $10 and costs, the latter being very heavy, running the total up to nearly $40.

CHAPTER 46

Garry suddenly felt his senses awakening. The unreal aspect vanished. He could not escape through the high and narrow barred windows. If he left he would have to fight his way out and he did not have a gun. The police might, or might not pick up the trail.

Maybe, with only two of the group left on guard—he could distinguish the rumble of two voices only—he could give them the bum's rush. Beter to charge two than four. But maybe it would be wiser to see what news the others brought back.

The baby began to cry again. Apparently it had been doped these last few hours. Thank fortune, the infant was alive. The gang might keep their promise in this case.

He heard a car return, a long time later, then the jubilant sound of voices in the next room. The family had complied. The men had their money.

"What about the kid?" someone asked. "Going to return him now?"

"Not on your grandmother's tintype! They'll be waiting for us, three deep in those woods." The ringleader was giving some unexpected information.

"And the newspaper guy?"

"Wait till we get his money. That is, if we don't have to beat it tonight. I brought Tom and Sawdust back. They're watching from the hideaway down the road. If anything dangerous comes up, they'l switch off the lights and we'll beat it in the dark."

"We'll kill the guy first?" another voice asked.

"Give him a shot or two if there's time," another man said hopefully.

The leader didn't approve. "Nix on that. They'd hear the shots. We'll take the guy along and dump him in the river. But say, why not make him work instead of sitting in there, eating our food? I could do with a pot of coffee."

These men were pretty sure that his time was approaching, Garry knew, or they would not be willing to let him see them, face to face. He used to make coffee on hikes, back in college days, so he recollected the measurements and put the pot over the fire. The men had been drinking. Bottles stood around. Thy were not drunk, though. The baby was asleep now, in a corner of the room.

The men had the money. Now and then they began to count it.

"Good many tens," one of them said. "Fives and ones would make a thicker package.

A sudden, tense silence seized the group. The men began to count steadily. Half way through the pile they came to a note. The leader swore as he put it down. "They'll leave the last $20,000 when we leave the baby."

"Sure," a confederate put in. "Didn't I tell you guys they wouldn't trust us? They think we'll get the 50 grand and want some more. It's on the level boys. They know we can kill the brat if the money isn't there. We'd better play ball with them."

Garry served the coffee, returned to his room, tried to read a book. Two of the men went away. He was left with the other two. He felt in his pockets wondering if he had anything that might help him. Again the sense of unreality stole over him.

He laughed grimly at a small envelope in his unusued trousers' watch pocket—overlooked when the men had searched him. A friend of his, a physican, had given him some sleeping powders when he had remarked once that he wasn't sleeping. He had taken them along only to please the man. All this time they had reposed in Garry's tiny pocket. His mind began to function swiftly. There were half a dozen of them and one was enough to put a man to sleep after a reasonable time. Well, then, three should do some pretty fast work.

He came to the door of the room. "Mind if I have a cup of that coffee?"

"What!" The sound was so sharp he knew the nerves of the two guards were on edge. "Oh, no, help yourself."

"How about drinking a toast of death with me?" Garry rambled on. "Dont think I'm fooled. I know I'm about at the end of my time. Go to see my play sometime, if it's produced. You might enjoy it."

"Say, you've got guts!" one of the two men said. He pushed his cup toward Garry. "All right, Buddy, fill her up."

Garry took the two cups back to the stove. Now—if he could just drop in the pills when they were not looking! Suddenly he straightened up, and stood, listening. His eyes were on the window. Instantly the two men were at attention, eyes on the same window. The pills dropped into the cups.

"Just the wind," Garry said. "Excuse me, gentlemen. It does strange and hopeful things to your spine when you're waiting for the Lord Hig Executioner."

"Cut the comedy, brother. You're all right but you don't need to stage no riot."

While the men sipped the coffee, Garry was thinking. The outer door was padlocked. All the windows were small and high and barred. He would have to get the keys from one of the men, unlock that door, and seize the child. After that it would be up to his sense of direction.

To hold his body relaxed, as though his mind fostered no attempt or thought of attempt to escape, was an ordeal that was harder to endure than the days of waiting. At last one of the men nodded. He jerked his head, sat erect.

He swore at the whiskey he had been drinking earlier in the evening. His eyes closed again. The other man put his head down on the table.

Now! Garry counted to 10, slowly, before he started to get the keys. The man moved and mumbled something, but did not waken. It was only a second's work to unlock the door. Then he seized the sleeping child and the blanket in which it was wrapped, switched off the light, and stepped out of the door. He began to run, cautiously though. Any moment he might meet the men who were returning.

Every time a night bird called or an animal ran across the road he waited. He had been walking for a couple of hours when he sighted the river. The lights on the ferry station were out. He gave a great breath of relief as he plunged down the hill. He was not afraid. He wondered if he were some sort of nut! The only downright fear he had had was the moment when he had suggested that his captors join him in a toast.

He heard the sound of a car and lay down in the brush. The infant began to cry. He pulled the blanket over its head. The sound was muffled but it still came. It was probable that the car would be making enough noise to drown it.

* * *

Barabara's answer followed: "Returning immediately Queen Mary."

That night, all the way from New York, Natalie telephoned to Barbara. And Barbara, hearing the voice she knew so well, reflected that Natalie, at least, had money to use as she pleased.

"Barbara darling? the voice sang its way under the ocean.

"Oh, Natalie!" That was a sob.

"Cheer up, Babbs. It's going to be all right. The police have a clue and they plan to rush it through But why are you sailing so soon?"

Barbara was through with pretenses. "Because I want to be near Garry," she answered proudly.

"But Ray?"

"No, no, Natalie, I'm not engaged to him now. I wrote him yesterday. It was all a mistake. You see, I love Garry!"

"You're sure, Barbara? Sure it isn't this danger he's in?"

"Oh, Natalie, of course I'm sure."

"Then they've got to find him so he'll know. They will find him! I know he thought you didn't care that day you sailed. You were rather aloof, after he had gone down to your apartment the night before, called me to locate you, and—"

The metallic tones of the operator were announcing the time was up. Barbara realized that she couldn't expect to carry on a conversation with someone 3,000 miles across the sea. But the hope that had been growing since Wenda had said that it was she, Barbara, whom Garry loved, grew stronger. At the same time the fear that Garry would never know that she still cared, would always care, became more frightening.

She dialed the press offices just before she started for the boat train the next day. "Oh, yes, Miss Kingsley," a man's kindly voice said. "Can you stand a little bad news?"

Tips to Freshen Summer Clothes

Be Well Groomed at Little Cost

Smart, fresh, dainty! That's how Peggy's clothes look! Stiffening a rain-soaked straw hat with beaten egg-white is only one of her secrets for good grooming at little cost.

Her navy organdy frock she keeps crisp with gelatin—a teaspoon to a quart of water.

Her flannel skirt stays snowy with a few drops of household ammonia in the rinse.

Shapely as new are her often-washed pastel sweaters! She bastes them—still damp—to correct size on a Turkish towel.

Occasional wiping with a glycerin-soaked cloth keeps her patent leather accessories glossy and uncracked.

DOROTHY DIX

People Have Less Control Over Their Emotions Now, and Perhaps This Accounts for the Many Husband-Wive Killing Cases That Reach the Courts

One of the strange phenomena of our time is the frequency with which husbands and wives kill each other. It used to be the rarest of crimes, but now it has become so common that we can't pick up a newspaper without reading a gory account of how some man has taken a pot shot at the woman he swore to cherish until death should them part, or how some woman has buried her scissors in the heart of the man she promised to love, honor and obey, or flavored his coffee with oison.

Apparently marriage has become the most hazardous adventure in which any one can engage and only suited to the foolhardy who desire "to live dangerously," as the modern novelists say; which may explain why wedding bells do not ring out as often as they formerly did. The timid and those who want to live to ripe old age are afraid to chance it.

It is an appalling situation and one that can do little to boom the holy estate. For it is not alluring to think that one's mate may be a potential assassin, nor does it add to the peace and restfulness of home to have to wonder when one goes to bed whether one will wake up in this world or the next.

Nor does there seem any sense in all these homicides in these days of easy divorce. It is downright superflous to resort to murder, which is a messy affair any way you do it, in order to get rid of a life partner for whom one has lost one's taste when the same result may be neatly accomplished by the husband alleging in court that Sweetums inflicted cruel and inhuman punishment on him by her cooking, or by the wife swearing that the sufferings that she was called on to endure by reason of Laddie Boy's failure to provide her with Paris frocks and trips to Europe were more than mortal woman could bear.

Of course, it cannot be denied that there are moments when even the most devoted husbands and wives see red, as the defense always claims he or she did in murder trails, when they feel like doing something lethal to their best beloved and who are only saved from crime by the grace of God.

Nor can we deny that many a time when we have seen a poor, downtrodden, browbeaten man meekly suffering his wife's abuse, we have wondered why he did not stop her nagging by choking her. And many and many a time when we have listened to a big, bullying man swear at a cowering, overworked drudge of a wife and berate her because the meat was a turn overdone, or because she had bought a new hat or gone to the movies, we have marveled that he dared to eat another meal that she had cooked, or to go near when she had the carving knife handy. And at such times we have not been surprised that there were so many husband and wife murders, but that there were not more of them.

Behind the husband and wife killings is one fact that we do not often realize—that maybe husbands and wives themselves do not realize—and that is that all married people keep a sort of a running account against each other in their memories. They don't make a major issue of every wrong at the time. They pass it over, and the party of the other part thinks that it has been forgotten and forgiven.

But this not the case. In the husband's mind, and in the wife's mind, the little cruelities, the little injustices, the little humiliations, the little tyrannies, the selfishness, the unkind words, all infinitesmal in themselves, go piling up, added to day by day, until they make an unbearable grievance. Then comes the moment when some little thing—a mere nothing, a word, a gesture, a careless act—breaks the thread of a man's or woman's endurance and he or she avenges insults and the tortures of years with a bullet, or by buying a ticket to Reno, according to their kind.

No other two people in the world can make each other so miserable, or do each other such deadly harm as can a husband and wife. No other two people can hate each other with such consuming hatred. That is why they kill each other. And it is because people have less control now than they used to have that they do it oftener.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

ALL AT once Knarf, the shadow boy, and his sister, Hanid, rushed in and drove the hungry robin away.

"He would have eaten you up," they said to their little friend, Tom Thumb.

The moment the bird was gone Tom, who had been fighting it off with a piece of straw (which he used like a sword) dusted himself and said: "There—I certainly scared that robin, didn't I?"

Knarf and Hanid glanced quickly at each other. They knew by this time that little Tom fancied himself a very brave fellow. They didn't want him to think that they thought he wasn't brave. So Hanid said: "Oh yes — you certainly frightened him. But where do you live, Tom?"

"I live in an enormous, great house," he replied. "Would you care to come and visit me?"

"We would like to very much."

"Your house is far from here, isn't it?" Knarf wanted to know.

No Houses Around

"Not far at all," replied Tom.

"What makes you think it's far from here?"

"Wel," said Knarf, "I don't see any houses around here at all. So I thought it might be far away."

"Humph, your eyesight isn't very good. You ought to wear spectacles. Just come with me and I'll take you to my house. It isn't half a dozen steps away."

With that Tom started walking down a tiny path among the trees.

"Are we near your house now, Tom?" Hanid asked. She noticed "It isn't half a dozen steps away," that the little man had suddenly come to a stop before a little row of fallen acorns.

"Near it? Of course we're near it Here it is."

"You mean those acorns?" Knarf exclaimed in astonishment. "But you said you lived in an enormous, great house."

"Those acorns are enormous and great enough for me. I'm very comfortable." Then Tom went up to the first acorn and rang the door bell. This was a tiny bluebell which stood on its little stalk just outside the door. it made a tinkling little sound.

The next instant the door of each of the acorns opened and out ran a whole crowd of tiny people, none of them the least bit bigger than Tom Thumb himself.

Barclay On Bridge

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

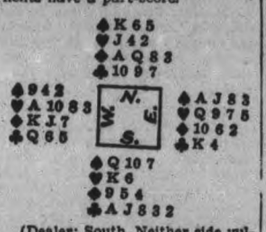
"The Authority on Authorities"

DIFFERENT GAMES

MATCH POINT duplicate and rubber bridge are two different games. Though most bidding and playing situations are treated alike in both, there are plenty of problems which require separate consideration. One of these is opening the bidding in fourth-hand position. If a player has put in a lot of time at duplicate, he must be careful to avoid bringing his newly developed habits back to rubber bridge, especially when the opponents have a part-score.



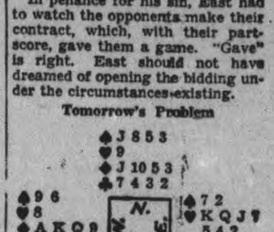
(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

Probably to make it more convincing, the friend who turned in this deal cooked it up a little so that everybody had exactly an average hand, with one card of each denomination. He reported sitting South and having a part-score of forty from the previous deal. In the East was a duplicate enthusiast who had learned that it pays to open an average hand in that spot when most of his cards are in the major suits.

East, following his custom, bid one spade. Knowing him as sometimes bidding very weak hands in the last position, West preferred responding with one no trump rather than two hearts. After North and East passed, South bid two clubs, West two hearts and North three clubs. Recalling that his partner was too weak to bid his two hearts on the first round, East decided to pass this.

In penance for his sin, East had to watch the opponents make their contract, which, with their part-score, gave them a game. "Gave" is right. East should not have dreamed of opening the bidding under the circumstances existing.

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

If West, using four of a suit as a weakness shutout, opens with four diamonds on this deal, how should the rest of the bidding go?

For Saturday, May 28

Sudden and surprising occurrences mark this day, according to mutual and lunar aspects of very interesting planets. These may precipitate singular, unusual, intriguing or mysterious events that may fall with quite unforeseen force, and most probably bring radical change upon the life and its destiny. It is likely that romance and adventure will figure at the present time, with either secrecy or strange conspiracy.

If This Is Your Birthday,

Those whose birthday it is may expect a very eventful and intriguing year, possibly a thrilling one, although secrecy, subtlety and collusion of a very quiet sort dominate such adventures. These may be in the direction of romance, sentiment or spiritual experience, but all may bring sudden change and surprising denouements.

A child born on this day may be ingenious, inventive, original, and independent, with much intellectual as well as spiritual awareness. It may have an adventurous, rich, and intriguing life.

Looking Back On This Date

A day of destiny for Canada! One hundred years ago today (May 27 1938) the Earl of Durham arrived at Quebec as governor-general of British America and special envoy to examine into, and find a remedy for, the political grievances of the Canadas, in both provinces of which recourse had been had to armed rebellion. He came with great promise. He left four months later in despair, his efforts at reconciliation having been thwarted by political and personal enemies at Westminster. But of that we shall hear as the weeks go by. Let us today recall his arrival.

Fred Williams

When Durham was appointed he insisted upon a great show of naval and military backing. Fresh troops were sent to Canada and awaited his arrival at Quebec. The fleet which accompanied him was impressive but took a month to cross the Atlantic, having sailed from England on April 24. The voyage up the gulf was pleasant; Durham had associated with him a brainy entourage, who, without knowing anything of true conditions in Canada, drew up plans, many of which, when tried, proved futile.

Two days elapsed after the arrival at Quebec before Durham made his formal landing with great display, proceeding to the Castle of St. Lewis (as the old Chateau St. Louis was Anglicized). There, on the 18th, he was formally sworn, with much pageantry; salutes were fired from the warships in the stream and by soldiers on the parade and the "great conciliator" issued his first proclamation in which he expressed confidence of support by all classes of the people, promised sympathetic consideration of all proposals for reform, threatened strong measures against all violators of the law or enemies of the crown and empire, and invited free and unreserved communication from all who had complaints and grievances.

As proof of his determination he cleaned out all the existing legislative machinery; the whole executive council was "fired" and replaced by one of his own choosing; and the great adventure was well on its way.

But that very day, Bill Johnson, up in the Thousand islands, burned the steamer Sir Robert Peel, and Durham realized that his was no silk-gloved mission. The next month, however, as a celebration of the coronation of the young queen, Victoria, he extended clemency to most of the political prisoners, deporting such leaders as had remained in Canada, and thus through his conciliation dug the grave for his own recall. Yet today, a century later, we owe to him whatever political liberties we have, and we can well doff our hats to George, Earl of Durham, the first British reformer to grapple with Canada's problems.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK —By R. J. Scott

LABORITES IGNORE "POPULAR FRONT" AND COMMUNISTS

LONDON, May 27 (CP). — The National Executive Committee of the British Labor Party has definitely turned its back upon the so-called "popular front" movement.

In a party manifesto, the executive committee deplores agitation for a new political combination, brands it as a menace to the "unity and independence" of the Labor Party and exhorts its followers to walk alone along the high road which will ultimately lead to victory.

"The membership of the Labor Party deeply values its unity and independence," the manifesto declares. "They regard it as an asset to the nation. They would not sacrifice that independence, even temporarily, unless they were convinced such a sacrifice was the sole condition for the preservation of peace and democracy. We do not believe that condition exists."

Dismissing the proposed alliance as "wholly unsound," the National Committee declared the proposed combination would create more controversy within the ranks of the party than it would remove. It would take the "heart" out of a large number of loyal supporters and be contrary to conference decisions, backed by overwhelming majorities.

The statement declares there is an increasing probability of a Labor victory at the next election. Such victory, however, it adds, would be hindered by the building of an artificial combination, "ineffective and embarrassing to its partners and unlikely to impress the bulk of the electorate."

Shun Communism.

Dealing specifically with the proposed alignment of a consolidated opposition movement, the manifesto flatly rejects a working agreement with the Communists.

"We should regard Communist participation as an electoral liability rather than an asset. They might bring some few thousand votes to the alliance, but it might well drive millions into Mr. Chamberlain's (Prime Minister Chamberlain) camp. Their policy is devoid of any certainty. They are committed rather to manoeuvre than to principle. They would be capable of stabbing us in the back at any time, or of involving us in joint responsibility for their political indiscretions."

While acknowledging a high regard for what is best in rank and file Liberal intentions, the parliamentary Liberal party as a whole is described as "uncertain."

As a final argument, the manifesto points to the "grave risk" of encouraging Fascism if Britain were to pass through critical times under a weak and indecisive government of the "left," never certain of its internal unity.

Government Heads To Open Bridge

ALBANY, N.Y., May 27—(CP). — Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada and President Roosevelt have tentatively accepted invitations to attend the opening of the new $3,000,000 Thousand Island international bridge August 18.

Governor Herbert L. Lehman of New York also has accepted an invitation "provided nothing unforeseen develops."

The bridge will connect Ivy Lea, Ont., and Collins Landing, N.Y., spanning the St. Lawrence River.

NOTED CANADIAN PLAYWRIGHT DIES

NEW YORK, May 27 (CP).—The Dramatists' Guild of New York last night received word of the death in Frankfort-on-the-Main of James Forbes, Canadian-born playwright, who was one of the founders of the Guild.

Born September 2, 1871, at Salem, Ont., he was educated at the College Institute, Galt, Ont., and came to the United States when he was a boy. He was naturalized as an American citizen in 1891.

Although best known for his comedies, "The Chorus Lady" and "The Famous Mrs. Fair," both of which were successes in the first quarter of the century, Forbes also had been an actor, press agent, dramatic critic and theatre manager during the more than half century he was active in the world of the stage.

He lived in New York. Death came to him today in a private clinic at Frankfort-on-the-Main, where he had been taking treatments for a heart ailment. He had planned on spending the summer in Switzerland and had been writing at New York.

WAITING REPORT

TORONTO, May 27 (CP). — Premier Mitchell Hepburn indicated today that any action the Ontario Government may take on legislation concerning mental sanatoriums and control of private mental hospitals will not be decided until the report of Commissioner F. H. Barlow on the Homewood Sanitarium at Guelph is brought down.

Mr. Barlow, special commissioner appointed in the Homewood probe, concluded lengthy hearings at Toronto last week, and his findings will not be available for some time.

Twins Reunited After 27 Years

Ignorant of each other's existence until recently, 27-year-old twin sisters who had never met before, were united in New York through the efforts of cartoonist Robert Ripley. Here the twins, Marjorie Gregg and Shirley Swinn, are pictured with Ripley. The girls were born in Toronto in 1911, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shaw. The mother died in childbirth and the children were separated. One girl was adopted by the Swinn family, the other by Mr. and Mrs. John Gregg of London, Ontario. Both took to nursing for careers. Shirley came to New York seeking a job and her likeness to her sister caused the supervisor at the clinic at which she was employed to tell her she looked like Miss Gregg. With this clue, and Ripley's aid, the girls were brought together.

He will soon wed Loreen Macdonald, 18-year-old daughter of an Ontario tugboat captain.

SOCIAL CREDITORS MAY NOMINATE 45 IN SASKATCHEWAN

REGINA, May 27.—(CP)—The Social Credit party is expected to nominate not more than 45 candidates in the Saskatchewan election June 8 which would place it behind the Liberals in the number of men in the field.

The list of social credit candidates will be announced from Edmonton Monday, it was announced here yesterday by Hon. E. C Manning, Alberta provincial secretary. The final selection will be made by four Alberta cabinet ministers and an Alberta member of parliament—Premier Aberhart, Hon. E. C. Manning, Hon. Solon Low, Hon. Lucien Maynard and E. C. Hansell (SC-Macleod), the executive of the Western Canada Social Credit Association.

With nominations due June 1 and polling June 8, Liberals have 53 candidates for 52 seats in the legislature, two Liberals running in the far-northern riding of Athabaska. The C.C.F. party is not expected to add to its 31 candidates. Conservatives have nominated 25 and there are sufficient independents and minority group men to bring the total number of candidates to 170 by nomination day, counting the social crediters.

At Saskatoon last night, Premier W. J. Patterson expressed indignation at the social credit "invasion of Saskatchewan."

It was a bad precedent in Canadian politics and "we resent this intrusion in our affairs."

If Premier Aberhart had been successful in his monetary experiments, it would not have been necessary for him to invade Saskatchewan, Mr. Patterson said. To him the main issue was that of "retaining confederation in the spirit it was intended" because he could not agree with the Alberta government's stand the provinces were sovereign states.

Denies Interference

In Regina, Hon. E. C. Manning denied there was an attempt on the part of the Alberta government to interfere in Saskatchewan affairs.

"We have troubles enough over yonder in Alberta without coming here," he said, adding that invitations had been sent by Saskatchewan people to representatives of the Alberta Social Credit party. It was part of a movement, which he hoped soon would be Dominion-wide, to get economic security for the people of Canada. The ultimate object of the Social Credit party was to gain public control of money and credit.

At Elrose, in the west-central part of the province, Premier Aberhart said the Dominion governments offer to allow Alberta to operate a bank was of no use because "that puts us under the Bank of Canada and we cannot issue any credit."

"Exchange from one province to another is our difficulty, not currency, he said. One bank in a province would be no better than a credit union.

Flogs Son

Despite the fact she believed her son innocent of the "crime," Mrs. Mary Bradley, administered a whipping to her 16-year-old son, Thomas, on instructions from a New York magistrate. The youth was found guilty of pulling the whistle cord of a subway train and the magistrate sentenced him to jail or a good whipping.

Spring Sunshine Brings Battles And Babies To Zoo

DETROIT, May 27 (CP)—Perhaps it was the ordeal of being stared at by peanut-eating throngs, but opening day of the Detroit zoo brought battles and babies to the animals. The stork made some special deliveries, and other features were a lion brawl, a sick elephant and a rhinoceros fight.

The result was a baby zebra, a baby moose, a baby water buck and four coati-mundis, and a lot of other animals sulking and licking wounds.

The lions started everything. Walking into the open together for the first time this year, the sunshine dazzled them, the crowds stared, and they got in each other's hair. A general brawl started which ended with head keeper Theodore Schroeder wielding a pressure hose. Walter the lion was put in solitary for starting the rumpus, and promptly went into a sulk. He's being treated for a missing hunk of lion flesh from his left flank.

While the lions were having their set-to came cries for help from the rhinoceros exhibit. It seems that Safari, the female, felt kittenish and began poking Johnnie, her mate in a manner he didn't think befitted his dignity.

He endured it for a while, then gouged her with his snouthorn, sending her to a corner moaning in pain. The more he thought of it, the madder he got, so he gave her another thumping for good measure. Now, because Johnnie "done her wrong," they're legally separated until they get used to folks, spring, sunshine, and stuff.

Large Attendance At Hostess Tea

An enjoyable event, which was attended by approximately one hundred and fifty guests, took place on Wednesday from four to six o'clock in the basement of St. Andrew's church, when a "Hostess Tea" was sponsored by the Woman's Association, fair weather and a wide degree of interest ensuring its success.

Lilacs, spirea, and tulips, with other seasonable blossoms transformed the large rooms into a scene of fragrance and beauty, the lighted fire-place on the platform, with the mantel banked with flowers, adding its attraction as another feature of the decorative scheme.

Receiving the incoming guests were Mrs. P. I. Bentley, president of the Association, Mrs. George Locke, Mrs. G. E. Burnham, and Mrs. Rose Edmunds, Mrs. (Rev.) A. L. Sisco and Mrs. H. A. Earle poured tea at a table attractive with cream lace cloth, silver service at each end, the silver basket of lovely pink tulips in the centre being flanked with four tall pink tapers burning in silver holders.

Hostesses were arranged in pairs, each responsible for 12 guests, seated at three small tables, which were daintily laid, and centred with a bud vase of silver or crystal, holding flowers. In all, 35 tables were in use.

Following the service of tea, a brief program was enjoyed, Mrs. Bentley having first extended a warm welcome to the guests, on behalf of the hostess society, and by special request, announcing the thirtieth anniversary of the Senior Men's Bible class to take place on Sunday, May 29, with Rev. Gordon L. Sisco, D.D., General Secretary of the United Church of Canada, as guest speaker. Services at 2.30 and 7.30 p.m.

Contributing to the program were Marie Douglas, who played a piano solo; Mrs. H. W. Johnston and her sister, Miss Eva Hansman, whose vocal duet, "Beautiful Night", was much enjoyed; Jean L. Burnham, who gave as a reading, "Keeping Mother's Birthday", by Stephen Leacock; and Miss Rogers, of Toronto, who sang, "O Take the Dimness of My Soul Away". Miss Phyllis Kidd was the accompanist of the afternoon, and approximately $40 was added to the Association funds as a result of the social gathering.

56th Regiment Chapter I.O.D.E. Meet

The 57th Regiment Chapter I.O.D.E. met in the officers quarters at the Armouries Thursday afternoon with the Regent, Mrs. R. E. Clarke in the chair. The secretary's report was given by Mrs. C. H. Cutmore, and the treasurer's report by Mrs. F. J. Frape. Correspondence was read by Mrs. C. B. Hughes, and included was a letter from The Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League, requesting some type of celebration June 15th of "Magna Charta Week." The object of the Magna Charta week is to remind us of the advantage of the system of government we enjoy.

Reports were given by the different committees. Mrs. R. G. Cottrell for the Flower Committee; Mrs. G. Helson reported fifty-six calls to the hospital; Mrs. W. Howden gave a very satisfactory report of her canvass of citizens for the annual tag day to be held on Saturday, May 28, for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. An interesting reading on Empire Day and its observance was given by Mrs. C. H. McWilliams. Mrs. W. Ashby took the Empire study on New Zealand, which dealt in a very interesting and enlightening way with the discovery of New Zealand and the present government.

An interesting feature of the afternoon was the presentation by the Regent, Mrs. R. E. Clarke, of a very fine picture of His Majesty King George the Sixth, which is to be placed in the Sergeants' Mess, to Sergeant Major F. J. Frape, for which he thanked the members of the I.O.D.E. in a few well chosen words.

Mrs. Leslie Groombridge very kindly presented the Chapter with a large Union Jack to be placed in the Memorial in front of the Chapel at Little Lake Cemetery.

The meeting was closed with God Save The King. Refreshments, in charge of Miss I. Wesley, were later served.

Tag Day Convenors

MISS VIOLET DAVIDSON MRS. RICHARD WHALEN

Miss Davidson and Mrs. Whalen are two convenors who are in charge of the tag day which is to be held in Peterborough on Saturday for the Canadian National Institute of the Blind.

To be Worn At the Waters Edge

Now that spring flowers have faded; the air is warm and the sun is hot, our thoughts naturally turn to summer fun, and our eyes to shop windows temptingly displaying, among other warm weather toggery, things to wear at the waters edge.

We noticed, in Peterborough shops a wide and interesting array of beach clothes. Bathing suits particularly have reached a new era in style and comfort; they take new ways this summer; all kinds of flowers and all kinds of colors flourish on suits that are a thrill to buy and a joy to wear. More and more suits have skirts, and some of the not-so-slim of us heave a sigh of relief. Remember several years ago when one couldn't buy, borrow or steal a bathing suit designed for anything but a perfect 36? Those days are passed, we hope forever!

One suit, knitted in small diamond ridges, with the merest vestige of a skirt, has a pair of white hooks and eyes at the shoulders to hold up the shoe string straps, and it can be had in a glorious sunset purple. Can't you see the hit it would make when worn with yellow cap and beach shoes?

One startling combination, which may be seen in a shop window on George street, is of slipper satin made seaworthy, has a background of wine which is generously sprinkled with gay flowers and a cap to match is swathed 'round the head and tied in a bow. In a window near by, entransing little jersey suits, stitched in such a way that they look only doll size until fitted on, when they immediately become a flattering fit for any figure, have their own waterproof bag of a material which looks like cellophane, but isn't. Another suit is of Peter Pan cotton. We were so delighted with it that we forgot to inquire if it was merely a beach suit, or to be dived through the waves! Devious stripes, a bizarre but happy effect, made a striking suit of rayon jersey. Another suit had a brassiere top and pleated shorts, and for the youngest swimmer, and that means the merest babe these days, were silly little pants which are nothing more than a few square inches of printed satin knitted with Lastex . . . what a long step from the days of cotton bathing suits in navy trimmed with red . . . remember?

Terry cloth capes, plain, striped and figured, are gayer than ever. Imagine the devastating effect of a white terry cloth cape worn over one of the vivid spun rayon suits with horizontal stripes!

House coats, which have reached a tremendous popularity this spring, are going to blossom forth as beach coats pretty soon, and every shop carries an astounding variety.

Bathing costumes include jewelry among their accessories. We noticed a white head necklace to wear with a beach dress, a string of gold metal fish to wear around a sunburned neck; a sea shell bracelet.

A white cotton beach bag, designed to hold everything; beach shoes of red and white cotton; an Indian cotton jacket with Indian Cotton turban to match; a beach dress will full and pleated skirt which buttons primly up the front; and for your head, plaid straw sunbonnets, or the popular-at-the-moment 'kerchief. These are necessities, girls, if you are to be in the race. Last, but certainly by no means least, don't forget your sun glasses, which protect the eyes from glare of windows, mirrors, or the sparkling water itself!

Tennis Dress

For that ever popular game of tennis Barbara McClees is shown wearing a new celanese rayon weave play suit and tennis costume. The weave of the material gives an unusual surface interest of broken checks.

The dress cut on princess lines, with short sleeves, turnover collar and buttoned down the front, is worn over shorts and halter.

Miss McClees is posing during a brief rest in her game in the rolling acres of Monmouth county, Red Bank, N.J., with a background of apple blossoms. The brooch that fastens her collar is a new design—a sombrero hat brooch in transparent red catalin.

Baragar—Blackburn

COE HILL, May 27. — A quiet wedding was solemnized in the United Church at Napanee on Victoria Day, when Bertha Mabel Blackburn became the bride of German Baragar, both of Coe Hill. The Rev. S. L. Osborne of Napanee, a former pastor of Coe Hill United Church, officiated. Their many friends wish them a happy and prosperous life.

HOW YOU CAN Attract MEN

OF course, you have no men friends if you've let yourself become dull, cross, and nervous. Men like lively, peppy girls—girls with plenty of energy to go places and enjoy life.

Don't let love and romance pass you by. Help build up your pep and you, too, should have gay friends.

Here's good advice: Start taking time-proven, reliable Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and note the difference. This famous Compound, made especially for women from wholesome herbs and roots, helps Nature tone up your system and thus soothes jumpy nerves and gives you more pep to really enjoy life.

Tear out this notice NOW as a reminder to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound TO-DAY without fail.

For over 60 years one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" distress from female functional disorders with Pinkham's Compound. Let it help YOU.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Work Not All As Girls Train In House Jobs

OTTAWA, May 27 (CP)—Laughter and merriment fills the large house of the Ottawa Home Service Training Centre on Tuesday evening when boy and girl friends are invited to "open house." One night weekly the girls forget the routine household duties of the centre which trains them for work as domestics under the Dominion-Provincial Youth Training program.

Those not entertaining enjoy the evening out spending part of their weekly allowance of $1 which is supplied by the centre.

There are no signs of unhappiness or loneliness in the centre. In fact many of the girls prefer to stay in Tuesday nights in the companionships of the friendships found since entering the training school.

Tears and a wave of regrets at parting were observed when graduates began leaving to assume their three months' experience in placements arranged by the centre in conjunction with the Employment Service Bureau.

Sunday afternoons the girls arrange buffet suppers. An old wooden table set on wheels, with two open shelves, varnished in a mahogany finish acts as a tea-wagon. It was discovered by the directress in a batch of discarded furniture sent as furnishings to the centre. These Sunday night suppers consist of fruit salad, thin bread and butter and tea. Sundays the routine of the school is arranged to allow every girl to attend church service in the morning or evening. Many spend the afternoon visiting friends and relatives.

Some Party Nights

Theatre tickets donated by the local theatres give the girls added pleasure during their term. Their biggest thrill during the first term was the performance of the "Minto Follies," Ottawa's skating carnival, which they all attended in one of the best boxes.

St. Valentine's Day and St. Patrick's Day were red-letter events for the "trainees." Candle-lit dinner parties with favors were arranged on each occasion and in the evening the girls entertained their friends informally with dancing, games and simple pleasures.

The St. Patrick's Day party brought particular pleasure to all. It was the birthday of the "baby" of the school. This youthful "trainee" had never known family life and had never had a birthday party or a real birthday present other than an absolute necessity.

To greet her on her birthday morning was an exciting tissue paper parcel tied with green ribbons. Inside was a pair of lounging pyjamas, the legs bright green and the top figured in many colors. Tears of joy marked her face as she dashed down to the directress' door and tapped timidly to know if she might come in and thank her benefactress.

Still another surprise awaited her when at dinner she was presented with a large frosted birthday cake made by the girls and marked with 18 green candles. Although the presentation was almost too much for her, she carried it off graciously, asking that the directress be given the first piece of cake.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Never think of yourself as the victim of circumstances. To do so is to make yourself the victim of every adversity that you may encounter. Know that you have the power to change and control circumstances. Exercise that power and soon things will begin to change for the better."

—Efficiency.

Dear Friends:

Here is another quotation which I can agree with one way, and disagree with in other ways. All of us are victims of circumstances at different times in our lives. We can make plans for living which will benefit all in our families, but—if one does not fall in with those plans, then we are the victim of that circumstance.

If work is slack and you are laid off, what power have we to change this? None at all. It used to be that if a man learned a trade, after he had served his apprenticeship, he could count on a job for life, but not now. Another circumstance that cannot be controlled.

We were not all made in the same mold. If we were it would be easier for one to make plans for a good happy life, and the rest to see how they would be the better in following these plans, so that all would work for peace, harmony, and prosperity.

But, as it is now, it seems more like a feast than a famine. And for some, it never is much of a feast, but mostly famine, so that they live and die, knowing nothing but struggle and lack of the means of proper living.

We are all at the mercy, more or less, of the other fellow, of his moods, his selfishness, his greed, and his injustice. But remember, they also are at our mercy too, so that when the things they do influence us, the things we do influence them. None of us escape that.

Look at an apple. There is the outer skin, there is the fruit inside that skin, and there is the core, without which the apple would be no good, and from which the seeds come to make other apples.

We too, have the outer part which we use in our daily living, and the innermost part, the core of our being, from which springs the power to many times alter circumstances.

The seeds are there ready for the planting. But first you must know what you want, you must plant them, and water them with determination to succeed. Letting every wind that blows turn you hither and yon, letting yourself get the idea that you are the victim of something you cannot control, that will never get you anywhere.

Take a good look from every angle at these things, see if somehow you cannot alter them. If you can honestly say you can do nothing, then accept it and make the best of it, knowing that it cannot last.

One of the biggest comforts I have is knowing that things do not last. If they did, some would have all the fun, all the good things all the health, while the rest would be doomed to the bad things, and that would not be fair.

On the other hand, there are many things we could change, but we are too indolent, we will not make the effort. All we do is grumble. We make plans and some will not fit into them, so we give them up, and let ourselves get pessimistic and downcast.

When I look back, I am amazed at the many times I have altered circumstances, and always for the better. Of course, you cannot have the one thing and get the other too, "You cannot have your cake and eat it." There are some things you must give up if you are to get some other things.

But, immediately I feel I am up against a stone wall, I am looking for a way to get over it, or a hole to get through it. Try that yourself, and you will no longer feel that circumstances are beating you, for then you will beat them.

Your Friend.
ROBERTA.

The engagement is announced of Ruby Mabel, only daughter of Mrs. Florence Colmer and the late Richard Colmer, to George Raymond Taylor, Peterborough, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Taylor, Keene, Ont. The wedding to take place on June 18, in Trinity United Church.

Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Harvey, Sherbrooke street, wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Jeanne Eileen, to Eric Orrman Westbye, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Westbye, Dennistoun Avenue. The marriage to take place the latter part of June.

DIED

RYE, W. E. H.—Suddenly at Chilliwack, B.C., W. E. H. Rye (Hugh), on May 18.

DOUGHERTY, Daniel Vincent.—On Thursday, May 26, 1938, at Royal Victoria Hospital, Barrie, after a week's illness, Daniel Vincent Dougherty, resident of Peterborough for 37 years, in his 77th year. Funeral on Saturday, May 28, from the family residence at 574 Aylmer street, at 2 p.m., Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

STAUNTON.—In loving memory of our only daughter and sister, Betty, who went to be with Jesus six years ago today, May 27, 1932, at the age of 8 years.

Not just to-day, but every day
In silence we remember.

—Ever remembered by her Mother, and brothers, Billie and Harvey.

CARDS OF THANKS

Sisters and Brothers of the late James Murphy wish to express ther sincere thanks to all those who in any way assisted in their successful search for their dear brother, the late James Murphy; to the L.O.L. 50, Employees of the Social and Athletic Association of the C.G.E., Rebekah Lodge, Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club, St. John's W.A., friends and neighbors for their many beautiful floral tributes, also those who loaned cars or in any way assisted.

The family of the late William Carman wish to thank the attending doctors and nurses of Nicholls Hospital, also Doctor Carlton of Norwood and friends and neighbors for their kindness or those who assisted in any way during their recent sad bereavement.

30-YEAR TRAFFIC SCHEME MAY COST LONDON BILLIONS

LONDON, May 27—(CP)—A 30-year plan to provide London with a series of new traffic arteries, drawn up by Sir Charles Bressey, engineer and town-planning expert, is under study by municipal and government authorities.

The scheme envisages new through-roads across London and three circular roads to carry traffic around instead of through the most congested areas. Tunnels and viaducts would be used for some of the new routes. A new tunnel under the Thames at Woolwich is proposed. Existing Blackwall and Rothermithe tunnels would be doubled in size.

One of the circular roads would encompass "the city," heart of London's business district, where converging of main roads causes endless traffic jams.

The next one would circle through outer London. It is already partly in existence in the shape of the so-called north circular road and this would be completed with a south circular road. Outside that again Sir Charles proposes an orbital road making a circuit of 125 miles through Hatfield Dartford, Purfleet, Reigate and Egham.

Will Start Some Of It

Leslie Burgin, minister of transport, said the government had taken steps to ensure a start on more urgent proposals contained in the report. Local authorities have been asked to cooperate and the government has promised financial grants to facilitate the work.

Whether the entire scheme will be carried out has yet to be decided. It would cost hundreds of millions of pounds and Sir Charles estimates it would take 30 years to complete.

Piccadilly Circus ,the "heart of the world," would be redesigned as a rectangle, 400 feet by 250 feet. The Victoria embankment, which now extends a distance of approximately one mile from Westminster Bridge to Blackfriars Bridge along the Thames, would extend eastward to the Tower of London and southwest to Putney Bridge.

Parkway roads through outer London, leading to major centres in the country, also are envisaged. They would branch out towards Birmingham, Grantham, Norwich, Brighton and Winchester.

If carried out in full, the scheme would be the biggest project of the kind Britain has ever had. An area of 2,000 square miles is affected, embracing 150 municipal authorities and a population of 9,000,000.

Charge Nazis Plot Roosevelt's Death

WASHINGTON, May 27—(AP).—Representative Dies (Dem.-Texas) advised the house of Representatives today he had information that a member of the German-American Bund, in a speech at one of the main "Nazi" camps in the United States, had advocated assassination of President Roosevelt.

He said there were 32 Nazi camps in the nation which claimed a membership of 480,000, and that he had seen photographs showing men "marching and saluting the Swastika.

LINDSAY

'300-BEAR' ROBERTS ENTERS 68TH YEAR

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, May 27—Tom Roberts, the celebrated bear trapper of Haliburton, celebrated his sixty-seventh birthday at his home, Drag Lake, on Sunday, and many of his friends gathered to extend congratulations. The veteran trapper still covers the two miles of his trap line and back daily and has trapped and captured over three hundred bears between Harburn and Buck Lake. He is in excellent health, his only physical disability being deafness.

A very pleasing function marked the closing of the Boy Scout jamboree on Victoria Day. It was in the form of a banquet staged at the New Royal by members of Lindsay's first Scout Troop, organized 22 years ago in honor of Scout Commissioner John Hornsby of Peterborough. Alderman L. Jordan of the local Scout Association acted as chairman, and Mr. Hornsby was presented with a set of pipes and tobacco pouch on behalf of the old boys. He was also the recipient of a picture of the original Troop of which he was Scout Master, taken in front of the armories twenty-one years ago. Among those present were Assistant Commissioner E. Wolfe and Clare Southern, of the Peterborough Association.

Fenelon Falls has lost one of its best known citizens in the person of the late William Deyman, who passed away in the Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay, He followed tinsmithing for a great many years in the village and took special interest in municipal affairs. He was a member of the Masonic Order and is survived by two brothers.

Czechoslovakia Prepares For War With Germany

Despite assurances from Chancellor Hitler, to the British government, that Germany has no intention of invading Czechoslovakia, tension between the Czechs and the Germans remains high. Various "incidents" have been reported along the Czech-German border and the situation is reported still grave. Members of the Czechoslovakian air force are pictured in the ABOVE radiophoto, standing beside their airplanes on the western Czechoslovakian frontier, ready for instant combat should the differences with Germany lead to war.

BELIEVE QUINTS FROM SINGLE EGG

OTTAWA, May 27 (CP).—New indepedent evidence the Dionne quintuplets developed from a single egg the Royal Society of Canada today was claimed in a paper prepared for by J. W. MacArthur of the University of Toronto. The contention was advanced following examination of the skin ridges—known as the basal phalanges—covering the lower joints of the fingers.

Patterns of the basal phalanges may prove as valuable to scientists and identification experts as the much-used lines of the finger prints and palms, Dr. MacArthur said.

The basal phalanges are found to carry simple patterns and in a practically endless variety. These are easily classified and compared.

They provide a useful method in twin studies. Eighty per cent of these patterns are of the same type in the so-called "identical" twin individuals derived from one fertilized egg but only 43 per cent are similar in fraternal or two-egg twins.

Several sets of identical triplets, the Morolk quadruplets and the Dionnes all show the same marked likeness in these areas as do one-egg twins. No two of the Dionne Quints differ by more than 16 per cent of the patterns, Dr. MacArthur found, while each of them differs from her brothers and sisters by about 54 per cent.

DATE BUREAU NEEDED

TORONTO, May 27—(CP).—Delegates to the 86th annual convention of B'nai B'rith here this weekend are in a fair way to setting up a "date bureau" even before arriving. Rochester delegates, headed by Mort Levy, want dates with a group of 50 Toronto girls. Twenty Rochester girls, members of a B'nai B'rith auxiliary, have ordered dates with Toronto men.

MARIE RUNS LAST IN QUINT SIZES

CALLANDER, Ont., May 27 (CP)—Marie Dionne's title as the diminutive Quint remains unchallenged. Detail measurements of the famous Dionne children, who will be four years old Saturday, today disclosed Marie is smaller in all respects than her sisters.

In glove size, she takes 2½, while the remaining quartet wears threes. For shoes, her fitting is 9A. Cecile and Annette require 9½B, Emilie 9½A, and Yvonne 10B.

The measuring was undertaken to aid n the planning of the youngsters' motion picture wardrobe. About to begin work on their third feature length film, the Quints' place among the best dressed children in the world will be strengthened by togs designed for them by Hollywood experts.

All youngsters take a size 6 sock. From underarm to wrist the typical Quint measures 10½ inches. Circumference of ankle is 6½ inches; circumference of calf, 9 inches; neck to shoulder, three inches; circumference of neck, 9¾ inches; of waist, 21 inches; of thighs 12¾ inches; of chest 22 inches.

AGREED CHARGES RECEIVE BOOST

OTTAWA, May 27—(CP). — The Commons Commitee on Railways proved to be almost solid for the innovation of agreed charges between shippers and railway companies when the test came today during consideration of the transport bill.

During the long hearings protest after protest came from various classes of shippers and carriers against the agreed charges provided for in the bill. Under this provision a railway company could enter into a special agreement with a shipper to give lower rates to meet cut rates by trucks and boats. Protests were based on the claim it was an inovation in railway practice where all freight rates now are uniform and published in freight lists

There were rumors the committee would be widely divided on whether this part of the bill should remain and Transport Minister Howe intimated he would press for its enactment. However today as soon as the committee assembled Hon. H. H. Stevens' (Recon. Kootenay East) brought the issue squarely before the committee by moving the entire portion of the bill dealing with agreed charges be deleted and his motion was defeated 19-2.

Later Mr. Stevens moved motion after motion seeking to make the sections less drastic but these were for the most part defeated. The majority of the committee was determined the experiment of agreed charges should be tried out and voted accordingly.

The minister introduced an amendment to make these agreed charges conform with railway freight rate practices now in use in Canada such as so many cents a 100 pounds or so much a car-load. This was to prevent the practice used in United Kingdom of carriers transporting all goods of a firm at the rate of 4½ per cent. of the cost of the goods. It was carried.

Introduction of agreed charges in Canada would mark an innovation in transportation law in North America.

The committee accepted a motion of L. A. Mutch (Lib., Winnipeg South), that notices of agreements be published 30 days before the Transport Board considers approval of such agreements in public hearings. The notices will be published in The Canada Gazette and in such other publication as the board may direct.

A new sub-section was inserted in the bill providing for posting of agreed charges in railway stations and other public places.

FASCISTS TO QUIT IF FOREIGN RUN

TORONTO, May 27—(CP).—Ontario Fascist groups under leadership of Joseph Farr will "abandon and abolish the entire movement' if proof is given of foreign control of the movement in Canada, Farr said today.

"If those charging that German finances or control or any foreign control are involved in our movement can prove it, we will forthwith abolish it," he said.

Farr said he understood Justice Minister Lapointe had investigations made into fascist organizations in Quebec and Ontario.

"He should make public the result of this investigation in Ontario," Farr said.

Sells Holdings

Half the city of Cardiff, Wales, changed hands, in what is probably the biggest real estate transaction ever made in England, when the Marquis of Bute, ABOVE, sold a major portion of his estate. The sale price was reported to be $100,000,000. Included in the sale are: part of the Cardiff docks, 20,000 houses, 1,000 stores and several neighboring villages.

Dealers are Death on slow sellers

You can't blame them, Mr. Manufacturer. They're in business to move goods not to store them.

3 Men Clung To Boat For One Hour

Inquest Is Held Into Drownings In Otonabee River

A graphic story of a night's horror, of how Charles Joyes, James Murphy, and himself had clung to their overturned boat for an hour, calling in vain for help, and then, cold and frightened, decided to attempt to swim to shore, was told at the coroner's inquest on Friday night into the death of Joyes and Murphy, by Douglas Simmons, 20, survivor of the accident below Bensfort Bridge last Saturday night in which the other two young men were drowned in the Otonabee.

Simmons' moving description of the struggle for life made by the three men when they found themselves floundering in the cold water of the Otonabee River in the thick blackness of a cloudy May night was climaxed by his thrilling story of his own terrifying experience when, after reaching the South Monaghan shore, he became lost in a swamp and struggled for hours to get out.

His evidence was the outstanding feature of the inquiry, but it threw no light upon how the accident occurred. Neither Simmons nor any other witness was able to explain how a sturdy boat, described as capable of carrying six adults in safety, capsized.

Simmons saw no movement on the part of his companions to account for the craft turning over, and he felt no tremor or shock that would

Quints 4 Today Have Ice Cream

CALLANDER, Ont., May 28 (CP).—Orange juice and cod-liver oil at 6.30 o'clock this morning started the Dionne Quintuplets on their fourth birthday, the day their father calls "the most joyful we have known since the Quintuplets were born." Before it is over the quints will have their first taste of ice-cream.

Up soon before the sun and frocked in their extra special party dresses, the quints had breakfast together to start a day that will be marked by a quiet but happy family celebration with a religious note of thankfulness for their almost miraculous survival.

For the Dionne family the day is the happiest since May 28, 1934, when the quints were born, because they know now their long fight to have the children returned to their roof will be finally won before another birthday comes.

Under a recent agreement with the five quint guardians the family will be reunited in one home within a few months.

For the parents of Annette, Cecile, Emilie, Yvonne and Marie it will be a much different birthday from others. The first three birthday celebrations of their famous daughters found them bitterly refusing to take part in festivities they thought should have been family affairs instead of public spectacles. Today they have won. It will be a strictly family affair.

The birthday dinner will be held at the Dafoe nursery with the quints being given ice-cream for the quints being given ice-cream for the Body Is Recovered

WOODSTOCK, N.B., May 28—(CP)—Body of William Hadfield, Milton, Ont., was found in the Meduxnakeeg river yesterday near the spot where he fell from a raft last Thursday. A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury.

One witness was the youth's father, Walter Hadfield, who said he last saw his son alive when the latter left for Belleville, Ont. When he next heard from young Hadfield he was working near here.

Nearly 150 school children from London recently toured Switzerland.

Rains Arrive In Time To Save Europe From Wheat Shortage

Rome, May 28 (AP)

BELATED spring rains have spared Europe from a serious wheat shortage. The International Institute of Agriculture reported today the continent was on the road to a better-than-average harvest.

Europe nevertheless will have to import large quantities of grain, as usual, since it does not produce enough for its own use.

Canoe Capsizes In Hamilton Bay, 2 Boys Drown

HAMILTON, Ont., May 28.—(CP)—Two boys met death in a home-made canoe in Hamilton Bay today, drowning in deep water 50 feet off the rock-strewn shore.

The victims were James Malone, 11, and Dick Kiskon, 13. They were seen to fall out of the clumsy craft by two men driving along the shore. The men hastily put out in a raft and seized one boy as he was going down for the third time. The other body was recovered by dragging within a few minutes, but police, firemen and medical men worked over them with artificial respiration for some hours without success.

The victims were unidentified for some time until all the neighborhood had been canvassed. Resources of every household in the district were put at the disposal of the rescue workers, including hot water bottles and blankets, but they were unable to revive the boys.

The older boy, who had been in the water a very short time, was taken to the General Hospital for further efforts at resuscitation. Constables Charles Stephens and Harry Harrison making a record trip, and stimulants and artificial respiration were again resorted to in a desperate but unsuccessful attempt to revive him.

The boys were pronounced dead two hours after being taken from the water.

Claim Court Gang Silenced Accused

OSHAWA, Ont., May 28.—(CP)—Complaint that members of a gang sat in court and silenced the accused youth was made by Crown Attorney Allin Annis to Magistrate Frank Ebbs yesterday, when a youth accused of a motorcar theft was given a year's suspended sentence.

Two other youths arrested in connection with the same case were previously released in care of their parents. The Crown Attorney declared that since the trio were arrested a week ago Oshawa had been free of car thefts.

The members of the gang that the Crown Attorney said were in court "are as much implicated as the accused," the Crown Attorney said. "I see no reason why he wants to protect them unless it is for fear of what they will do to him if he tells. They will all end up in the reformatory."

A Mother's Worries

This is one of those rare pictures that tells its own story and tells it so completely that words are not necessary. Only because there should be a few lines under a picture to make the layout look right does the Examiner tell that this mother hen hatched a brood of little ducklings. Now she's worried about these orphan children of hers because they're doing things sons and daughters of her never did. She'd like to go out there and help them, but the flesh is weak and anyway, for some strange reason or other these problem children seem to be right at home in that awful water. She thinks she'd better keep a watchful eye on them, however, despite the fact all her coaxing has failed to bring them away from such a dangerous pastime.

Nazi Mystery Man in Canada Keeps Ottawa Worried

German Consulate Denies All Knowledge Gerhardt Boasts Connection With Hitler

OTTAWA, May 28 (CP).—Rumors that a German mystery man, Emil Karl Gerhardt, formerly an instructor at the University of Western Ontario, London, is in Eastern Canada on a secret mission stirred speculation in this capital last night following a controversy in the House of Commons over reports German interests were negotiating for the purchase of Anticosti Island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Comment on Parliament Hill followed words by Conservative leader Bennett in the Commons last night, in which he said: "Hitler's personal representative or a gentleman who at any rate alleges he is, was in this country on Saturday last and in Ottawa on Sunday.

"He stated he had been down to Quebec to see the premier there. Whether or not that is correct, I cannot say. I only know what he said and that Sunday he was here. Whether it was in relation to Anticosti Island or not, I have no means of knowing. But at any rate he has managed to escape publicity here."

The German consulate here denied knowledge of the present whereabouts of a "Karl" Gerhardt and any knowledge of an Emil Gerhadt. The reports, to which the consular statesmen had reference, said Gerhardt was among the German experts who looked over Anticosti Island last year with a view to its exploitation.

Unknown to Germans.

The German Consulate issued this statement:

"This man with the name of Emil Gerhardt described as a doctor and professor is not known to this Consulate-General.

"Karl Gerhardt, a former instructor at the University of Western Ontario, has had no contact whatever with any consular office of

Father Kills Son

GALT, Ont., May 28 (C.P.).—Run over by his father's truck while he was playing unnoticed in long grass, Norman David Despond, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Despond, West River Road, died in hospital to-day without regaining consciousness. No inquest will be held.

Shot Girl To Avoid Disgrace' Lad Freed On Insanity Plea

NEW YORK, May 28—(AP)—Acquitted of murdering the girl he loved, 16-year-old Donald Carroll, Jr., today saw only a psychopathic examination between him and his return to "mom and pop."

Moved by the boys troubled story of how he shot Charlotte Matthiesen 18, "at her request" because she was pregnant and feared disgrace, a jury of middle-aged married men last night returned a verdict of "not guilty because of insanity." They deliberated two hours and 56 minutes.

County Judge Thomas Downs ordered the boy held for mental observation.

Cheering spectators and the jubilant parents of both Donald and Charlotte, who had worked together to save the youth from punishment in a "tragedy of adolescence," hailed the verdict.

The parents met with laughter and tears in the office of Defence Attorney Sydney Rosenthal.

"My prayers are answered," said Donald's mother.

"My girl would like the verdict," said Charlotte's mother, Mrs. Fred Matthiesen. "I want the boy to come to my house again."

Both the state and the prosecution contended the boy is now sane, the defence holding he was temporarily insane when he killed Charlotte last March but failed to complete their suicide pact in his sudden panic to save her.

Linking Two Nations Officially Marked At Site of New Bridge

Sarnia, Ont., May 28.

LINKING of the Canadian and United States over water sections of the Blue Water international bridge was officially marked by ceremonies in Port Huron, Mich., today. This bridge is the Canadian western terminal of the Central Ontario Highway.

Government and municipal executives from both sides of the border gathered for a program which included a procession to the bridge site and a series of brief speeches.

LIFE FOR HIS HAT

MADRAS, India—(CP).—A young man plunged into the Cooum River to recover his hat, blown off by the wind and was drowned.

Sleeps In Fire

TORONTO, May 28 (C.P.). — Harold Kantel, 20, owed his life today to an unknown neighbor who put in a call for the Fire Brigade when fire broke out in Kantel's home.

Kantel was alone in the house, sleeping, when the blaze broke out, and when he finally awoke the fire had gained considerable headway and the place was filled with smoke. The firemen arrived as he awoke, and got him out. Damage amounted to $1,500 to the building and $2,000 to the contents.

Sudetens Meet Hodza In Fresh Parley

PRAHA, May 28 (AP) — The Czechoslovakian government on the eve of municipal elections watched today in fear of new war-breeding border disorders.

Representatives of the Sudeten German party, leaders of most of the 3,500,000 Germans within troubled Czechoslovakia, were received by Premier Milan Hodza for a lengthy consultation.

The Nazi-supported Sudetens were represented by Ernest Kundt and Franz Peters, Sudeten members of parliament.

The consultants agreed to carry out a regular schedule of conversations aimed at reaching a definite solution of minority demands for self-government, particularly in the Sudeten region fringing Czechoslovakia's 1,300-mile frontier facing Germany.

In addition they discussed bringing the border regions, where thousands of Czechoslovakian troops are on duty against any election incidents, back to a normal status.

News that Hodza and the German representatives had met and actually progressed beyond a merely informative stage caused widespread relief in political circles which had seen in the Czechoslovak-German tension the seeds of potential war.

Minimum Wage Near for Clerks

TORONTO, May 28.—(CP)—Hon. M. N. McBride of Brantford, Ontario Minister of Labor, said today that the Ontario Government is planning to establish a minimum wage scale for all retail store workers by the autumn.

The order would cover all retail chain stores, the minister said. Some of these have already been consulted and are cooperating and the minister said he felt that legislation was not necessary as the industry and Labor Board and the Government already had authority under the existing measure.

"We don't intend to stop with retail stores," the Labor Minister added; "but we are determined to move with deliberation so that the minimum wage codes, when set, will have the support of both the employers and their workers in the industries affected. Without the moral force of both the employers and the workers any minimum wage scheme cannot operate as successfully as it should."

Governor Is Host

OTTAWA, May 28 (CP) — Lord Tweedsmuir today will play host to 3,000 guests at his annual garden party on the elm-shaded lawns of government house. A. S. Redfern, secretary to the Governor-General, will announce the guests.

500 Killed, 1,000 Injured As Jap Air Raiders Leave Canton Shambles

Aces End By Machine-Gunning Rescuers After Wrecking Blocks In Effort To Smash Rail Head

HONG KONG, May 28 (AP).—Official estimates counted 500 persons killed and 1,000 injured today in Canton after day-long Japanese air raids on the crowded gateway of south China. City blocks were reduced to ruins by the devastating raids.

The Japanese raiders, flying low over the shattered Wongsha railway station district, were reported to have followed their attacks by machine-gunning rescue workers digging in the ruins for victims.

Forty persons were said to have been killed and 50 injured in the hail of machine-gun bullets.

The Japanese airmen concentrated their projectiles around the Wongsha station of the Yankow-Canton railway line over which men and munitions have poured into central China to fight the Japanese invaders.

Rail Head the Goal

The railway apparently was the principal objective of the attack which spread out to include closely-packed civilian districts. Wongsha was converted into a shambles by four succeeding raids. Then the Japanese airmen turned their attention to the city's central district in the vicinity of Central Park and the Canton mayor office, narrowly missing the city hospital for the poor.

A block of houses was reduced to angled timbers and mortar. The Tungshan residential suburb, formerly the home of Canton's foreign residents, was next with an uncounted shower of deadly bombs.

Thirty Japanese planes roared over the crowded city twice to dump scores of bombs apparently attempting to destroy the terminus of the Hankow-Canton railway, vital transportation line of embattled China.

Rescue workers digging into the ruins soon after the second attack ended found at least 600 dead and injured in 200 houses demolished near Wongsha station on the Hankow line adjacent to Shameen, the International Settlement.

Volunteers were called out during the raid to prevent panic-stricken Chinese refugees from swarming into Shameen for protection.

Fires Break Out.

More than 100 bombs, many of them incendiary, were dropped during the attack. Several fires began in the bombed districts and Chineses crowded to the river bank asked to be admitted to the Settlement. Shameen is an island in the river.

Two hundred British sailors ready to leave for Hankow for relief duty with the Yangtse patrol were unable to proceed because of the bombing of the railway. The raid was believed to be an effort to stop the flow of munitions to the Chinese through Hong Kong.

Ingersoll Mill Head Is Sought Following Fire

INGERSOLL, Ont., May 28.—(CP)—An investigation of a fire that destroyed the Ingersoll Flour Mills, Limited, mill here last January 10 stood adjourned today until June 2 as search continued for George W. Murray, vice-president of the company, scheduled to have testified at the inquiry.

Murray did not respond when his name was called during yesterday's session of the probe, being conducted by W. J. Scott, fire marshal of Ontario. It was learned Murray left his home at 7 a.m. and Marshal Scott said if his failure to appear turned out to be a case of disappearance or of disobedience of a summons a bench warrant would be issued.

The vice-president is a brother of Grant Murray, arrested Thursday on a charge of perjury laid when discrepancies in a statement given authorities and evidence given in the inquiry were disclosed. Grant Murray later was released on bail of $3,000 to appear in court Tuesday.

Visited by Murray

Fred Vyse, a miller, a previous witness, testified yesterday he had had a visit at his home Thursday from George Murray who had inquired to his (Vyse's) condition after his experience on the stand. Under cross-examination, Vyse said he was not a shareholder in the company.

A letter written by George Murray to an insurance company, written Dec. 27, 1937, two weeks before the fire at the mill, was filed as an exhibit. The letter asked if, in the event of a fire, the shareholders would get their money.

It also was brought in evidence that on Jan. 2, 1938, a cheque for $1,400 was issued to George W. Murray as salary, covering a period of 14 weeks. This was an increase to $100 a week. Murray's salary previously was $22 a week.

American Wins British Title In Golf Final 3 and 2

TROON, Scotland, May 28 (A. P.). — Charley Yates of the United States to-day won the British amateur golf championship, beating Cecil Ewing, former champion of Western Ireland, in the 36-hole final three and two.

Three up with four to play, the American lost the 33rd hole to Ewing's eight-foot birdie putt, then sank another eight-footer himself on the 34th to take the match.

One up at the end of the morning 18 holes, in which each shot a four-over-par 75, Yates shot even par for the 16 holes of the afternoon round. He was three up at 2, lost the 28th as he got into trouble the only time on the round, then finished with five pars and a birdie.

At the final hole Yates hit a fine mashie niblick shot to within eight feet of the cup while the giant Irishman was in a trap to the left of the green in three. Ewing marched into the sand, exploded out nine feet away, and knocked the putt into the back of the cup. Then Yates stroked his ball home to win.

New HI-12 Club

WINDSOR, Ont., May 28 (CP)—Another international goodwill link was forged at an impressive ceremony here last night when Canada's first Hi-12 Club officially received its charter and installed officers. International president W. Leroy Hooper, Detroit, presided.

Nearly 200 Master Masons and their ladies were present. A busload of Hi-12 members from Detroit, Highland Park, and other Michigan points came to the city.

Real Sleep Walker

DETROIT, May 28—(CP)—When Paul Bruns, 45, Detroit, walked in his sleep, he fell from a second-storey window, received a fractured skull, fractured arms, and internal injuries. Still sleeping, he got up, walked a block to a parked car, and finished his sleep on the seat. Waking in the morning, he walked back to his apartment, and later went to a hospital where he is recovering.

Insurance For Jobless Believed Unlikely At Present Session

Ottawa, May 28.

THE Government's legislative program this year will not likely include a bill for unemployment insurance, according to an indication from Prime Minister Mackenzie King in the House yesterday.

Asked to detail the legislation which might be expected before the House prorogues, the Prime Minister read a list of bills to come, but made no mention of unemployment insurance.

Body of Man Found

BUFFALO, N.Y., May 28—(AP).—Body of an unidentified man, stabbed 10 times in the neck and abdomen and with clothing cut to shreds, was discovered today in a field here.

Police said the man's skull was fractured and that two iron "fish-plates," used in securing railroad ties, lay near the victim's head. The victim was believed between 45 and 50 years old.

Hard Pushed Rebel Cedillo Takes to Bush

Abandons His Plane In Second Near Call As Hideout Located

SAN LUIS POTOSI, Mexico, May 28—(AP).—Swarthy Rebel Chieftain Saturnino Cedillo was hidden somewhere in the bush eight miles northwest of this state captial to-day, closely pursued by Federal troops after two narrow escapes from capture.

Four followers, who escaped with him by plane from Zeeontle (Mockingbird) Ranch, his hideaway headquarters northeast of Palomas, when surprised yesterday by Federal troops, were reliably though unofficially reported to have been captured.

The soldiers of President Lazaro Cardenas, beating back and forth through the brush-covered hills, said the capture of Cedillo was imminent.

Observers at the scene asserted laconically, "It's about over," and said that with capture of Cedillo his eight-day rebellion would collapse quickly.

His two fast transport planes had fallen into Government hands. One was found abandoned in a cornfield near Estanzuela, eight miles northwest of here.

Leave Clothing Behind

From it Cedillo and four followers had fled, leaving a disarray of handbags and clothing in the cabin and gasoline for six hours flight in its tanks.

The other was captured by Gen. Reynaldo Perez Gallardo, one-time chief of the garrison at Cedillo's estate, Las Palomas, when he surprised the rebel leader in the Kuastica Hills at Zezontle.

General Perez Gallardo's report from Zezontle said the general had seized automobiles, gasoline and 96 aerial bombs of "German manufacture"—two of them so big he had to leave them behind—in addition to the plane.

Actors to Make Strike a Party

HOLLYWOOD, May 28 (AP) — Prominent figures of the Hollywood film colony will take part in a "curbstone cocktail and picketing party" next Friday if plans of striking editorial employees of the Hollywood Citizen-News and their sympathizers work out.

The screen actors, directors and writers guilds are issuing 5,000 invitations to members to attend the party, the strike committee announced today.

The one-hour promenade will be in front of the Citizen-News. A portable cocktail bar will be provided for all joining the picket line, said the strike committee of the Hollywood unit of the American Newspaper Guild.

Several film colony notables already have marched in the picket line in this first newspaper strike in California.

Lad Drunk in Auto Jailed, Car Seized

STRATFORD, Ont., May 28 (C. P.). — William L. Kay, 18, of Cromarty, was sentenced to-day to 21 days in jail on a drunk driving charge and his father's car, the car which accused was driving, was ordered impounded for three months under the new regulations of the Highway Traffic Act. Kay appeared before Magistrate J. A. Makins. He pleaded guilty to the charge of operating a vehicle while intoxicated.

Kay was arrested in Mitchell by Chief Fred Murray after he drove through the Mitchell main street at a high speed and crashed his car into a truck parked in front of an hotel.

The court ruling, impounding the car for the three-month period was the first given out under the regulations of the amended Highway Traffic Act.

Ontario Receiver

OTTAWA, May 28 (CP) — John Bruce of Brechin, Ont., official receiver under the farmers' creditors arrangement act for the county of Muskoka, will also act in that capacity for the County of Ontario, it was announced yesterday.

Nuffield Offers To Spend $15,000,000 On New Airplane Factory

London, May 28 (CP-Havas)

VISCOUNT NUFFIELD, motor-car manufacturer, today was joined by Sir Kingsley Wood, Secretary of State for Air, in requesting the city of Birmingham to sell 130 acres of land to be used for an auxiliary airplane factory.

It was reported £3,000,000 ($15,000,000) would be spent for the land and buildings. The Birmingham city council will meet June 3 to decide whether to sell the land, which it had intended to use for the building of 1,500 houses.

It was understood Lord Nuffield would employ 15,000 workers in the plant, which would be near the Castle Bromwich airdrome. With a large population of specialized workers such as would be needed in the proposed factory, Birmingham already has two auxiliary airplane plants, the Rover and the Austin factories.

Lord Nuffield closed his airplane factory at Birmingham 18 months ago following a dispute with Viscount Swinton, then air secretary.

Open Letter With Three Signatures

EDITOR, EXAMINER: You can consider this an open letter to the citizens of this community and district. Having seen the completed copy of your Mail-It-Away edition we have no hesitation in commending it to the attention of the people.

It is a well-designed and artistic appeal to people anywhere who may not know enough about the Kawartha district to have caused them to become summer visitors. There is persuasion in picture and story in this edition.

We are agreed that The Examiner has gone the whole distance in producing a vacation paper and we can readily see how the benefit of that work is going to be made widespread through the efforts of our people in mailing as many copies of this paper as possible to friends and acquaintances.

This district needs exactly the form of publicity offered in this edition. The pictures are so many that they give an adequate idea of what awaits the summer visitor. Wishing The Examiner every success in this worth-while edition.

Jersey Crowd Forces Flight Of O'Connell

Police Have To Save Montana Democrat As He Tries To Speak

JERSEY CITY, N.J., May 28. — (AP).—Representative Jerry O'Connell, frustrated in a second attempt to speak in Mayor Frank Hague's bailiwick, and recued by police from a fist-swinging pro-Hague crowd, said to-day he would return—"perhaps to make my speech from the witness stand in Federal Court."

The Montana Democrat's wife—nursing bruised legs and skinned knees she said she suffered when knocked down in the cursing crowd's surge upon her husband—declared she'd be at his side when he came back.

Spirited last night into the bailiwick of the vice-chairman of the Democratic National Committee, the bald-headed "Boy Congressman" walked unnoticed along with an ever-swelling procession of Hague cohorts bound for an open-air meeting called to "keep Jerry O'Connell the hell out of here."

Between two lines of closely-formed police, O'Connell walked, still unrecognized, into an athletic field crowd estimated by police at between 10,000 and 15,000. Daniel Casey, Director of Public Safety, said 550 officers were on duty.

Mob Shouts "Kill Him"

When he halted as if to speak—flouting the city's refusal to give him a permit—the shouted encouragements of a handful of supporters, who espied him first, were drowned in a bedlam of curses and shrieks of "kill him," as a thousand Hague supporters rushed him from all sides. Police formed a protective ring and took a lot of punches aimed at him. Police said there were no arrests.

The police battled a way through the crowd for O'Connell and whisked him to the near precinct station in a squad car. Not under arrest, he was held for 15 minutes in a back room with high police officials and then taken in a police car to a railroad station and placed aboard a train for Newark.

Children Carried From Homes

TORONTO, May 28—(CP)—Nineteen persons, including infants, were forced on to the street today by fire breaking out between the walls of two homes on D'Arcy street. Three mothers carried their children to safety when the houses became filled with smoke.

Firemen chopped up the floors to get to the source of the blaze, which had been smouldering for two or three days, and soon extinguished it with small damage. Two hours afterward they were called back to extinguish a second blaze.

Record Early Growth For Fall Rye Crop

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, May 28. — Bruce Buttars, a farmer living one mile east of the village, displayed a sample of fall rye 5 feet 6 inches in height here Thursday. He believes this is extra tall for this season of the year and stated that he has six acres of rye averaging 5½ feet at his farm.

Bears Hold Sway On 'Peg Exchange

WINNIPEG, May 28.—(CP)—Bears, spurred by unusually bright crop prospects in all North American wheat zones, took command of the Winnipeg grain market this week to lower wheat futures 4⅞-7½ cents, largest setback of any week this year.

Prospects for the second largest winter wheat production in United States history and favorable Canadian spring wheat growing weather dominated world prices. All wheat futures in important world markets, except Winnipeg May option, crashed to new seasonal lows. At Chicago a five-year low record was shattered.

After liquidation and stop-loss selling, May future was $1.10½, July 95½ cents and October 79¼-⅝ cents at the close Friday. July crashed 7½ cents to levels under its 1937 low of 97⅝ cents last November, while the October future slumped by the 80-cent mark and was the first future to trade at 78 cents in two years.

Drop in world futures was reflected in quotations asked for wheat C.I.F. Liverpool. Varieties from four exporting countries, United States, Australia, India and Russia were below the dollar mark.

Feature of the week were the 10-cent two-day crash in May wheat and its four-cent comeback just before the close of the second session Thursday.

1,100 of Cedillo's Cohorts Give Up

MEXICO CITY, May 28—(AP)—The government announced today more than 1,100 followers of the rebel leader Saturnino Cedillo had surrendered and that an aerial bombing attack had killed a band of 25 which yesterday derailed an international train carrying American tourists.

Nevertheless, mode Federal troops were ordered into San Luis Potosi, where Cedillo fled his estate and took to the hills for guerilla warfare a week ago today.

A cavalry regiment and a battalion of infantry were sent from adjacent states, bringing to 11,000 the number now pursuing the recalcitrant leader, who opposed Cardenas socialist policies, and whose army of peasants for 10 years gave him the power to rule San Luis Potosi.

None of the passengers was injured aboard the Mexico City-Laredo, Texas, train. The derailment, just outside Jaral de Berriogo 35 miles south of San Luis Potosi, was caused by removal of spikes from two rails.

MORE ABOUT—

Three Men Clung

indicate that the boat had hit a sunken log or some other obstacle in the water. One second he was rowing—the next he was in the water with his two companions and the skiff was upside down.

The finding of the jury was that the two young men came to their death by accidental drowning, and the verdict continued: "From the sworn evidence submitted no blame can be attached to the survivor, Douglas Simmons, and we believe that he did all possible for his comrades, being the last to leave the boat."

To the verdict was attached a rider to the following effect: "We would recommend to the proper authorities where an anchor and lead are used on rented boats, that the robe be fitted with snap and ring or some such device that may be easily detached."

Coroner Dr. Herbert Young presided, and the witnesses were examined by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C.

The jury was composed of M. J. Maher, foreman, L. L. Maguire, Earl Maniece, Joseph Bolton, Cecil Maxwell, Patrick Coursey, Stan. Kerneghan, H. O'Brien, Harry Campbell, Vincent Crowley, Thomas Blanchard and John Freeman.

The same evidence was used in the two inquests, the jury being sworn in twice.

Charles Joyes, Sr., father of Charles Joyes, and Michael Murphy, brother of the other victim, gave identification evidence.

John Michaels, proprietor of the boat livery at Bensfort Bridge, told of the arrival of the three young men at his place on Saturday night and of seeing them rigging up their fishing poles and lines. About 10 o'clock Murphy had come to him and asked him to rent them a boat to go fishing.

Tried to Stop Them.

"I asked them not to go," said the witness. "It was late to go on the river, and they would be keeping me up too late."

"There was no other reason for not wanting them to have a boat?" asked Mr. McElderry.

Michaels replied in the negative. The men, he said, might have had something to drink, but he saw no liquor there and none was put into the boat.

"I thought they were feeling good," said the witness. "They were fooling and joking among themselves, but they got into the boat steadily enough."

Michaels said Simmons took the oars, Murphy sat at the stern of the boat and Joyes between the two men and facing the stern.

Witness described the boat as a new skiff, 14 feet long and 44 inches wide, with a square stern for outboard motor.

"No ordinary use would upset it," he told Mr. McElderry. "It is a very steady and safe boat. It would carry six grown-up men."

Michaels told of the arrival of Simmons at his place after 1 o'clock Sunday morning to tell about the accident.

"He was barefooted, and without hat and sweater, and was nearly frozen. He said the other boys were drowned, but did not know exactly where," Michaels testified. "He told me of having come across the swamp."

As to the latter, the witness said that it was a cat-tail marsh of about 40 acres in extent and he had often shoved a fifteen-foot pole down into it without reaching bottom. The anchor in the boat consisted of a piece of iron weighing 15 or 20 pounds, attached to an 18-foot rope.

Couldn't Explain It.

"Have you any theory to account for the boat turning over?" asked Mr. McElderry.

"I can't see how it could have been upset."

"Do you think the anchor could have had anything to do with it?"

"No," replied the witness. "I have been using similar anchors in my boats for six years and have never had a complaint about them."

Simmons, he said, was half-frozen, exhausted, wet and covered all over with black muck when he arrived at Michaels' place after the accident. Witness had paddled through the swamp and trapped, and shot ducks there, and said that Simmons was the first man he had heard of to go through it on foot.

No Signs of Drinking.

George O'Dette said that he had seen Murphy at Bensfort Bridge before the ill-fated fishing expedition had started out and had spoken to him.

"Could you say as to whether he had been drinking?"

"I didn't notice anything of that nature about him," replied O'Dette.

Witness was present when Joyes' body was recovered and told of finding a silk fishing line twisted around the young man's legs. He could not say whether the fishing pole was still attached because he had cut the line without looking.

Mr. O'Dette said that he knew a good deal about building boats and he and his party had been out in the craft used by the other three just before they had started out.

"It was a good safe boat," said the witness. "There were four of us and we had no trouble. It could possibly upset if one man fell against another and both fell into the water and grabbed the gunwale."

Joseph Jones testified that he had helped to find Joyes' body and that the latter's death was due to drowning. He described the fishing line as wrapped around Joyes' legs seven or eight times, and so tightly that there was not more than three inches' play. There was a plug bait caught in Joyes' trousers.

A Good Safe Boat.

Charles Olavson said he was at Bensfort with Mr. O'Dette and saw the other party going to the boat. He had not noticed anything wrong with them and saw no evidence of drinking. He had been out in the boat the party used just before and said that it was a good safe craft. He had no theory of how it upset.

Vergel Carr and Robert Armour, city firemen, described the finding of Murphy's body on Monday afternoon. He dead man was wearing socks with no shoes, dark trousers and a dark wool sweater, when his body was recovered.

Provincial Constable David Silvester told of being notified by telephone of the accident and of seeing Joyes' body soon after it was found. Death was due to drowning, he said.

Survivor's Story.

Douglas Simmons said he and Joyes and Murphy went to Bensfort between 9 and 10 o'clock at night to go fishing. During that Saturday afternoon he had three bottles of beer and had one drink of wine after the party had arrived at Bensfort, the wine being drunk at the car. He thought the other had had about the same.

"I was quite capable of rowing a boat," he told Mr. McElderry, adding that he had not put any liquor into the boat and had seen none put in.

Simmons described the start of the expedition with himself rowing, Murphy at the stern and Joyes sitting between them with his back to the witness. As they were going down the river Murphy said something about having his sinker too far from his plug, and that was about all that was said. After they had gone about three-quarters of a mile the boat suddenly upset.

"The first thing I knew the boat rolled over and I was in the river," said the witness.

Simmons said that he could not say whether the others had been fishing on the way down the river or not. He did not notice a movement on the part of either of them.

Can you account for the boat capsizing?

"I couldn't begin to tell you how it upset," was the reply. "I felt no tremor or jar before it happened."

Called For Help

Simmons said that when the three found themselves in the water they scrambled for the boat and held on, at the same time calling for help. Murphy and Joyes had come up with their fishing rods in their hands and they held on to them for some time, finally throwing them away. The three had clung to the boat for at least an hour but their calls for help were apparently unheard. They tried to swim with the boat, but the anchor was holding it and none of them had a knife with which to cut the rope. They talked the situation over and at last decided to try to swim to land. It was impossible to see the shore on either side except for the top of the trees and they thought the south side was nearer and made up their minds to strike for it, all three figuring they could make it.

"I was scared," said the witness, "and hesitated for a moment before leaving the boat. Then I struck out after the others, who had started out first. They were swimming about ten feet apart and I caught up to them. We asked each other how we were doing and I passed the other two. Soon after I took in several mouthfuls of water and began to tire because of the weight of my sweater, so I rolled over on my back and took the sweater off. The shore looked as far away as ever and I decided the best thing to do was not to look at it again but to swim as hard as I could. When my feet finally hit bottom I could hear Joyes talking behind me and I called out several times but got no answer."

Witness described his struggle in the swamp. "I thought I would never get out," he said. "When I would reach for something it would disappear. Several times I plunged in up to my neck. There was no going back however once I was into it and I kept on until at last I reached solid ground."

Asked as to the cause of the boat upsetting Simmons said: "I haven't the slightest conception of why it turned over."

"Was there any discord among you boys?" asked Foreman Maher.

"None whatever."

Charles Joyes, Sr., asked whether it was possible that Simmons instead of going through the swamp had really made his way along the shore to Michaels place, and Simmons and Michaels were recalled, the former repeating his story of going through the marsh and Michaels stating that the survivor must have gone through it.

That completed the evidence and the jury retired to come back half an hour later with its verdict.

Markets Ease Off To Set New Lows

TORONTO, May 28 —(CP)— A dribble of selling throughout the week in a thin buying market helped stock prices on their downward way and new lows for the month were posted by all index groupings.

Industrial share prices on Canadian exchanges are again below the bottom range of 1937 and only about 10 points, as measured by the Toronto Exchange index, above the 1938 lows recorded on March 31. Mining shares are still holding about 40 per cent of the April recovery.

The persistent and fairly heavy selling of some of the base metal stocks, especially International Nickel, helps to keep traders for the rise in a state of nerves.

Having its chief commercial market in the United States, Nickel would naturally be affected by the current depression across the line and another bearish factor is the drop of the price of copper to a new low since 1935.

International Nickel closed yesterday at $42.25, off $3.50 in the week. Consolidated Mining and Smelting posted a net decline of $5.25 but on much smaller trading. Hudson Bay declined $2.25 and Noranda $1.75.

The set-back for the golds affected chiefly the medium-price issues while the seniors maintained a firm front. Dome, Hollinger and Lake Shore have minor net gains. Out-standing weak spots in the list were Kerr-Addison, Little Long lac, MacLeod-Cockshutt, Moneta, O'Brien and Pamour.

OBITUARY

EDITH ALEXANDRIA MURPHY.

Miss Edith Alexandria Murphy, head of the English department in the Academic division of Peterborough Collegiate, died at her home at 379 Stewart street, on Friday after a lengthy illness.

A teacher here since 1921, Miss Murphy was given a year's leave of absence last year because of ill health. She received her education in Arnprior and Almonte High Schools and at Queen's University. She graduated from Queen's with honors in 1911, and from the Faculty of Education in 1912. In the year 1921 she joined the staff of the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational school as director of English in the Commercial Department. Before that time she had taught in the High schools of Havelock, Newburgh, Arthur and Omemee, being principal in the last mentioned school. Her work in English in the Commercial Department here was so outstanding that in June, 1936, on retirement of Mr. F. J. A. Morris as head of the English department in the Academic school, Miss Murphy was promoted to his post.

Those whose good fortune it was to spend part of their student days in her classes will always remember her skill as a teacher, her helpfulness as a friend, her deep interest in their work and welfare, and the flashes of humour which sped the hour of her class. She loved her work and took the deepest interest in her teaching, giving to it unstinted and unsparing thought and preparation. She gave to her pupils the best powers of her mind and heart.

Miss Murphy will be sorely missed by her colleagues and her many friends, as she entered with zest into both her work and her play, and had an unselfish, happy and merry spirit which was a comfort and joy to all who knew her.

She was born in Carleton county, daughter of Mrs. Murphy and the late Alexander Murphy; one sister, Mrs. O. D. Skelton of Ottawa, and one brother, Dr. H. H. Murphy, of Victoria, B.C.

The funeral will be held on Monday morning at 10 o'clock from St. John's Anglican church, Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson officiating. Interment will be made at Packenham cemetery.

SAMUEL KILLEN.

A life-long resident of this district, Samual Killen, 295 Murray street, died here on Friday night. He was 62 years old, and had been ill for some time.

Born in Ennismore, he had lived there all his life until December, 1937, when he moved to this city. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Killen. Mr. Killen was a councillor and reeve of Ennismore for many years, and was a well known and highly respected citizen. He was a member of St. Martin's church, at Ennismore.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Frank Maloney of Peterborough and Mrs. Leo Crough of Saskatchewan; and four brothers, Richard of Peterborough, Patrick of Chicago, William and Harold of Ennismore.

The funeral will be held on Monday morning at 9 o'clock from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Maloney, 148 Park street north, to St. Martin's church for Requiem Mass at 10 a.m. Interment will be made at St. Martin's cemetery in Ennismore.

MISS SARAH GRAY

The death of Miss Sarah Gray occurred on Friday at her residence at 443 Mark street following an illness that lasted a considerable time.

She was born in Garden Hill, Ontario, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Gray, and came to Peterborough some 19 years ago. She was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian church. One sister, Mrs. D. McGreggor of Barrie, survives.

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Funeral home of A. Comstock and Sons, 305 Water street, Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's church, officiating. Interment will be made at Little Lake Cemetery.

JOHN EDWARD WALTON.

John Edward Walton, a native of Smith township and a resident of this district for 45 years, died at Nicholls Hospital on Friday after an illness that lasted only two weeks. He was in his 76th year.

He was born in Smith, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hall Walton and had lived in North Dakota for about 30 years before returning to this district. He retired about 15 years ago after farming most of his life. He was a member of Murray Street Baptist Church.

Surviving are one brother, George S. Walton of Peterborough; and two sisters, Mrs. Arthur Jones and Miss Mary Walton, both of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence at 506 Park Hill Road, Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, of Murray Street Baptist church, officiating. Interment will be made at Little Lake Cemetery.

Coldsprings Sunday School Marks 50th Anniversary

Coldsprings Union Sunday School in Otonabee township will commemorate on Sunday May 29 the fiftieth anniversary of its first religious service, and its congregation will recall with affection and tribute the Christian contribution and the practical home missionary zeal of its founders, Miss Linday Kennedy and Miss Lizzie Welsh.

These two young ladies of half a century ago were daughters of the Coldsprings community nearly two miles south of the city at the junction of the roads leading to the bridges across the river, the one at Wallace Point and the other Bensfort. At that time even as at present the neighborhood was partly rural in its aspect and partly urban. It was on the southern fringe of the city. Automobiles were unthought of, carriages were rare, and the outer suburban sections seemed more remote from organized affairs than were the more distant central areas of the townships. Farmers had their buggies and sleighs, but the other working people beyond the town had no means of getting to a place of worship except on foot. Coldsprings fifty years ago was in some respects a neglected neighborhood.

In these circumstances, two young ladies conceived the idea of forming a union Sunday School for the children and other young people. Miss Linda Kennedy had received her early religious training at Charlotte Street Methodist Church, and Miss Lizzie Welsh at St. John's Anglican Church. They canvassed the elders of the neighborhood, were assured of their support, and proceeded to organize.

Met In School House

The first service was held in the public school house, No. 16 Otonabee, on May 28, 1888, and the Coldsprings Union Sunday School thereby came into being and from the outset began to fulfill the needs for which it was formed. R. A. Ward, public school teacher, who was a member of Murray Street Baptist Church, was the first Superintendent, and H. D. Kennedy the first secretary-treasurer. They guided the school for three years, and with the devoted co-operation of other Christian workers in that section they laid the foundation on which the school has steadily expanded, becoming eventually a religious centre not only for the young people but also for adults.

Mr. Ward was succeeded by W. M. Matchett, both as public school teacher and Superintendent of the Sunday School. He was followed by H. P. Kennedy who directed its affairs until his removal to Toronto when his place was taken for two years by his father, Dawson Kennedy. In 1899 Miss Laura Bennett was appointed Superintendent, continuing in office until illness in 1937 terminated her long and successful administration. Miss Bennett also taught a class for forty-nine years, and during her leadership the school outgrew the accommodation of the public school building.

With only ten dollars in its treasury but with a great fund of faith and confidence, the executive in 1907 built its own hall and since then has gradually added all equipment necessary for a Sunday School. It is now self-supporting and maintains a colporteur in India through the Upper Canada Bible Society. Briefly, that is the history of Coldsprings Union Sunday School and its contribution to the religious life of a large section of the northwestern area of Otonabee township.

127 Members Today

The Sunday School today has one hundred and twenty-seven members, and the present Superintendent is C. F. Kitney, who was assistant Superintendent for thirty-five years. Its original founders have long since passed from the community. Miss Kennedy has passed on to her eternal reward, and Miss Welsh is married and residing in Toronto. Its success was largely due to the foresight of its founders and their faith in God, and also to the sustained support of an active band of workers.

The anniversary service Sunday afternoon will begin at 2.45 o'clock. Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church will assist in the service, and the address will be given by Rev. George S. Easton of Trinity United Church.

Maintaining Personal Efficiency

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 29 is Daniel 1:8-16, 19, 20 and I. Corinthians 9:24-27, the Golden Text being I. Cor. 9:25, "Every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things.")

"IF YOU DRIVE, don't drink; if you drink, don't drive," is a slogan to which no reasonable person can object. Driving an automobile in modern traffic is so hazardous to oneself and to those with him and about him that it requires the maintenance of the highest possible degree of efficiency.

Purpose of Heart.

The young man Daniel points us to the surest way of maintaining such personal habits of life as will be conducive to temperance and its consequent personal efficiency: "Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the portion of the king's meat, nor with the wine which he drank." It was an inner and voluntary restraint which Daniel put upon himself, a strong inner purpose of heart which made him master of, rather than slave to, his environment. Back of this purpose of heart was a deep religious desire to be all that his God would have Daniel be, and he was willing to suffer self-denial to live up to the best of which he was capable for the sake of the God whose name Daniel carried about as a part of his own name.

"As Do the Romans."

"When in Rome, do as do the Romans" was in no sense the policy of Daniel and his associates. They were away from home with no home restraints to respect. They were slaves with no reputations at stake, yet they did not yield to the temptation to let down in their manner of life. Their religion and morals were in no sense dictated by the changes of geography or social position. "Everybody is doing it" was no reason for Daniel to do it. He had the courage to be himself though he stood alone, a slave against the mighty. "Prove thy servants ten days" and at the end of the trial period of simple living "their countenances appeared fairer . . . than all the children which did eat the portion of the king's meat." The temperate, self-disciplined life is a life of no regrets.

"Temperate in All Things."

We take care of our automobiles because it costs money to replace them. We are willing to pay an extra price for gas and oil that will do them no injury. But how careless we are of the more delicate and valuable and irreplaceable machinery of our bodies. How reckless we are in punishing this human machine with our intemperance in eating and drinking, working and playing and countless other forms of self-abuse and disregard of our physical health and that of our children after us. Is discipline reasonable in training to be an athlete and unreasonable in training to be a good mechanic or practitioner or parent? Is the crown we seek so contemptible as to be worth no striving or exercising of self-control? Paul said, "I buffet my body and bring it into bondage." Who is boss in the house of your bodily life? Are you master of your body, or are you its slave?

Pass Resolution Social Subjects

The following resolutions on social subjects were approved by the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church at its recent meeting in Toronto:

The Lord's Day.

Changing social conditions call for careful study and clear thinking as to what is involved in Sabbath observance. One thing is obvious that the Church, while avoiding extreme forms of sabbatarianism must zealously guard the weekly rest day from all attempts to make it a day of mere pleasure-seeking or money-making. In addition our own people should be urged to use it, not only as a day of rest, but for purposes of worship, meditation and the cultivation of the spiritual life.

Gambling.

The prevalence of gambling practices in a variety of forms and the agitation for legalized sweepstakes demonstrate the need of plain and faithful teaching from the pulpit on this subject. Gambling in all its forms is anti-social and unethical. It cultivates and panders to the acquisitive spirit, the root cause of most of the social and economic evils of our time. It is also a denial of the fundamental principles of our Christian faith—the Cross. Gambling in stocks, in land, and in commodities is a menace to the well-being of the people and should be avoided by all followers of Christ. As advocates of gambling are seeking justification in the fact that certain churches and philanthropic organizations use some of these methods for securing funds, it is of the greatest importance that all our congregations abstain from even the appearance of evil on this line. Our people should be urged not only to abstain personally from participation in raffles, lotteries, etc., but also to discourage their use in community life.

Drink.

Consumption of liquor (within the last decade) has vastly increased in Canada; likewise the number of those who indulge. The toll of accidents upon our highways, in which liquor is a factor, is steadily mounting. Arrests for drunkenness have increased. These facts bear witness to the failure of our present methods of controlling this traffic. Homes are being invaded by this evil and new temptations placed in the way of our youth. The situation calls for vigorous action on the church's part in educating our people, old and young, as to the evils of intemperance, urging the practices of total abstinence and the creation of an informed public opinion on the subject.

Social Security.

Widespread unemployment, the inadequacy of relief allowances and the consequent suffering and frustration imposed upon large numbers of our people, call for earnest study of social conditions, and outspoken denunciation of all phases of community life that constitute a denial of Christian principles. It is to be noted that in some areas there seems to be a determined effort to reduce allowances already according to medical testimony below the level of healthy subsistence. This means that insufficiently nourished children will be compelled to pay for this deficiency in diseased and weakened bodies. If the church is to be true to her Master and follow His example, she must be the friend of the poor, the underprivileged and the disinherited.

A National Message

By the late Rev. W. Pascoe Goard, LL.D., F.R.G.S., F.R.E.S.

Next to the Gospel, which brings to us the good news of salvation, is the Law of the Lord, which deals with individual and national ethics and government, that is, our present life here and now.

The health, wealth and happiness of peoples and nations are profoundly affected by the system of law under which they live. So the choice of the system of law is vital. For the first time in history, the nations seem inclined to exercise that choice. There are systems of law competing with each other in the world to-day. For ages they have been in aperation side by side. The Moslem law has fallen with the fall of the Turkish Empire. The civil law was buttressed by the continental Empires. It was their inheritance from the parent Empire of Rome. The Common Law is the inheritance of the Anglo-Saxon race, and is carried by them wherever they go, and established in all countries which fall to them to govern.

The excellence of British rule, when compared with the other nations, is due in part to the fact that the British themselves are ruled by the principles of the Common Law; abolishing privilege of class, and holding every person innocent until he is proved guilty.

The law consists of two great divisions: the ecclesiastical and the national law.

The Ecclesiastical Law is expressed in ordinances. These are never imposed upon the subject races of the Empire, but are offered as a boon; they are offered by the Church, not by the Government. They were established in the Wilderness (circa) 1496-1456 B.C., and ran until the dawn of the Christian dispensation.

The change from the Mosaic to the Christian ordinances is recorded in the Epistle to the Hebrews. It will so continue until our Lord returns.

The national law is expressed in Commandments, Statutes and Judgments as given in the Pentateuch, and shall so stand forever for they express the eternal Law of Righteousness.

The Commandments are the codified expression of basic principles. There are ten commandments and together they underlie all life and conduct. Nothing need be added and nothing can be taken away without destroying their universality.

Disregard the commandments or the law expressed in them and the life of man or nation will and must collapse. Build in harmony with them and life and character will be established and endure. There never can be a wrong done by sweeping away another system and establishing the system of the Common Law among any people, for the Law of the Lord is righteous.

Cathedral Musings

Many people have wondered why Jesus disclaimed any personal credit for His work, and why He even objected to being termed "good." His attitude in this respect is, of course, fully understood by those who have studied the application and use of the occult forces, but is not, by any means, understood by those who have not done so. Man's "goodness" is purely relative to the Supreme Goodness of God. So, no matter how "good" a man may be in the eyes of his fellows, the most that can truthfully be said is that such a man is less evil than others. Also, man, as man, can of himself do nothing, or be anything, in fact. His "goodness" or "badness" depends upon the degree his consciousness is in harmony with God, but whatever goodness he has, is of God and not of his lower self. All that man can hope to do is to direct the Divine forces that flow through him. At his highest, he is but a channel, an instrument to be used. To use a crude analogy, it is somewhat like tuning in a radio set. The electrical impulses do not originate in the set, but in the station to which the instrument is tuned. All that the set does is to make them manifest as speech or music. So with us, the highest we can do is to make God manifest in and through us, both now and for ever. In this respect is the Master our great example. In His humanity He was but man, but in His unity with the Father, a unity to which He bade us all aspire, He was indeed the Son of God. The "greater things," that we shall do, are yet hidden in the womb of time, and although some ingenious souls point with materialistic satisfaction to the accomplishments of this civilization, we may rest assured that these "greater things" are things of the Spirit of God, and not, decidedly not, of this material world. That they are largely, yet hidden is entirely our own fault, for we ever persist in selling our birth-right for a mess of pottage and so reject our inheritance. While it is very true that the Kingdom of God is not of this world, yet a grasp of the fundamental truth that man's origin and true nature are both spiritual and not of this world, and emphatically not of the outer man, would undoubtedly help him to pattern and prepare himself for his true life in God by awakening the Divine Consciousness that is hidden within him.

Biblical Thoughts For the Shut-Ins

By Rev. E. R. James, Toronto

THE SEEING EYE.

Therefore that disciple whom Jesus loved saith unto Peter: It is the Lord.—St. John 21, 7.

Apparently the Gospel according to St. John was finished, completed with the great confession of St. Thomas: "My Lord and my God." "These are written that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God and that believing ye might have life through His Name."

This chapter is an after thought. Apparently a misunderstanding about the beloved disciple was abroad that he should not die; that the Lord would return in his life-time. To correct this we have this beautiful story of His manifestation of Himself to the seven on the Sea of Tiberias. It is full of lovely thoughts for those who have the eyes to see.

Would you like an epitaph for your beloved? Think of this—"When the morning was come Jesus stood on the shore." To the dying Christian the morning of the new life breaks as he passes out of this vale of sorrows. It is his birthday. The Master Himself stands to greet him on the everlasting shore. Thanks be unto God.

"That night they caught nothing." It was so ordered by His will. It was a preparation for the joy of the morning. On the shore stands a fisherman enquiring: "Children, have ye any meat?" He expects a negative answer. They obey his suggestion and they catch a multitude of great fishes. For the third time in this Gospel the beloved disciple tells us what he said: "Rabbi, where dwellest Thou?"; "Lord, who is it?" With the answer he writes the dramatic words: "It was night." Much has passed since that first enquiry. Now he is sure. "It is the Lord," he exclaims to Simon Peter. It is the Son of God, the Saviour. It is the risen Lord.

How truthful the Gospel writers are. They are not afraid to say that He was not recognized at once. After His resurrection He is living in the spiritual world. He is changed. He appears in another form. To Mary Magdalene He appears as the gardener; to the two disciples on the walk to Emmaus He is a stranger; to the seven on the lake He is a fisherman like themselves who knows and sees from his position on the shore.

But the outstanding fact is that He loves His brethren. Like Moses, "He loved His people." He longed for their society. "He is the same yesterday, today and for ever." He loves you. He does not love your sin, your carelessness, your indifference. He is bone of your bone, flesh of your flesh. He is drawing near to you to change your character, to make you like Himself that men may see Him through you.

It is extremely important to remember that Our Lord through His miracles never created anything. He changed the water into wine; but the servants filled the water pots with water. The fishermen had to follow His instructions and cast the net on the right side of the ship. The Lord Jesus asks for our co-operation. He is anxious to teach us that apart from Him we can do nothing.

"Jesus then cometh and taketh bread and giveth them and fish likewise." It was a sacrament, an outward and visible sign of their future work and success. "From henceforth ye shall catch men." "He giveth them the fish likewise."

It is interesting to remember that the Greek word for fish gripped the mind and imagination of the early Christians so that they formed an anagram out of the world, being interpreted: "Jesus Christ, Son of God, Saviour." This interpretation was known only to those initiated into the Church. It was a secret word and sign, which only Christians knew and interpreted. Christianity for nearly three hundred years was an illegal religion, it was an unlicensed Society. Men and women belonging to it were in constant danger of martyrdom. Strangely enough history repeats itself today in Germany and Russia. Only those who take the oath to Hitler will be free of persecution.

The great lesson for you is when you have passed through some great crisis or sickness and have recovered have you the eyes to see the Great Giver of the blessing? The skillful doctors, the excellent nursing all helped. But behind them do you say with deep thankfulness: "It is the Lord?"

Lord, open mine eyes that I may see.

—Rev. Edward R. James.

Sermon Series For St. Paul's

On several Sunday evenings until the summer exodus, the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr will preach a series of sermons, based on the contrasts presented in the parables of our Lord, on the general theme: Life's modern highways. There is no doubt that there are many factors in present-day conditions mitigating against the best interests of the people as far as living the best life is concerned. The recovery of a sense of balance can only be found in a vital religious faith; and to assist in this worthy aim is the intention of these addresses. The first subject will be "The Way of Conflict," next Sunday evening, and the service will last one hour.

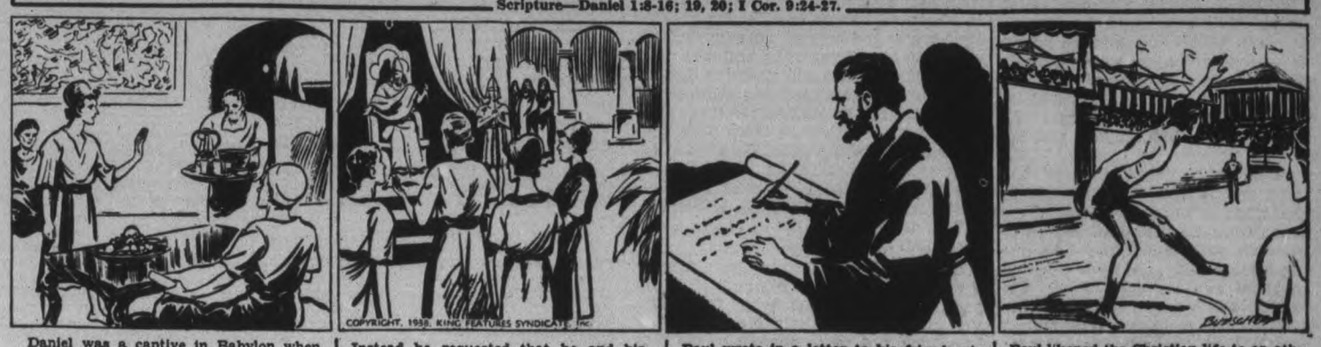
Maintaining Personal Efficiency — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Daniel 1:8-16; 19, 20; I Cor. 9:24-27.



Daniel was a captive in Babylon when the overseer of the king's slaves brought food and wines, which Daniel's religion forbade eating. "Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself."

Instead he requested that he and his companions be given other food. "Let them give us pulse to eat and water to drink." On this simple diet they fared much better than did the others.

Paul wrote in a letter to his friends at Corinth advising them to live temperately in all things: "I buffet my body, and bring it into bondage," said Paul, as he urged self-control in personal habits.

Paul likened the Christian life to an athlete's training. "Every man that striveth in the games exerciseth self-control." Eternal life is worth the same control. (GOLDEN TEXT—I Cor. 9:25.)

Anticosti In The News

Hard enough to pass a day now without a new plot or a new measure of mystery. Today it is the island of Anticosti in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The House of Commons was informed that interests which desired to purchase the place for the pulp wood on it were actually Germans. And that of course is different.

No person bothered much about Anticosti for a long time. Children at school were made to draw a little mark on their maps to show where it was, but it meant nothing to them. Meant nothing either to adults. It used to belong to a man who made a fortune out of chocolate, and he created quite an estate of his own, but afterward tired of it, and sold it to a paper company. Since then it has changed hands two or three times and now belongs to the Consolidated Paper Co.

In the ordinary course of events the Consolidated could sell it as they desired so to do. But the island does occupy a strategic position. It could dominate the entrance to the St. Lawrence. Much better we think for the Dominion government to reach out its long arm and gather this island to itself. The hurdle in the path is that it comes under the jurisdiction of Quebec, but that should not be allowed to stand in the way. Much better to have a place like that tied up tight to our Dominion government, then if there were any guns placed there we would know they were our own.

He Built a Home

Some person has been adding up figures again and drawing comparisons. That is how we happened to read that house building in Canada under the Home Improvement Plan had declined 46 per cent. when compared with the same four months of last year.

Building a house or building anything else depends a good deal on how people feel, and how they feel depends in turn on what is going on in their own little world and in the larger one outside of their particular sphere.

We believe people are more inclined to build houses when they feel secure, and when they have come to the conclusion that things in general have settled down on a fair enough basis. When things are somewhat muddled then it is easy enough for a person to persuade himself that he should not build a house or anything else.

And when people are not building houses they are looking for some other place to put their surplus money. There was a man in this office day before yesterday and he was talking about this matter—building a house. His experience is interesting:

"I built a house because I wanted a place in which to live, and the other reason was because I found I was making too many foolish moves otherwise with my cash. I figured if I had a house I could at least see where my money had gone and I could make good use of the place by living in it. In the year 1933 things were a good deal worse than they are today, and if I had listened to the advice of a number of my friends I never would have built a house.

"I suppose if I were a good financier I should put down the cost price of the house and lot and charge myself five or six per cent. on that amount to find where I stand. But I did not do that. I think I got good value from all the men who had anything to do with building my place. The house has not disappeared; no person has skipped out with the funds and the slumps in the market have not caused me to worry about having to dig up more money to put into it. According to my simple way of reckoning money matters I am paying $180 a year in taxes and that is $15 a month. I used to pay $45 per month. I can do what I like to the place and it has not decreased in value."

No doubt other people have had experience somewhat the same. There is something to be said for the plan of building a home in which to live in order to make sure that the owner will at least be able to see where his money has gone. This particular home owner refused to take all the advice offered to show why he should not build a home. He went ahead in a dull year and got what he wanted. And he has never regretted it.

Problem of a Young Man

Dr. Sidney E. Smith, vice-chancellor of Manitoba University, made an address in Toronto in which he reminded young Canadians that while jobs were not easily secured, the problems they faced today were no greater than those met by their fathers and grandfathers who hacked out homes in Canada's pioneer days.

We are moved to doubt whether that is correct, and it is difficult enough to compare what a young man is facing today with what his grandfather had to contend with years ago. They had one thing in common—grandfather possibly did not find life an easy thing and neither does the young man of today.

The difference in their surroundings was chiefly that the grandfather was not out looking for a job; he had one right before him, and he had to attend to it. When he took up land he had burned all the bridges behind him and he had to see it through because there was no place else for him to go and nothing else for him to do.

The young man of today knows he has to make his way by selling his ability to work, and the trouble is he can find too few purchasers. He is depending on some person else to give him a job, and his grandfather of pioneer days was not doing that.

We believe that as a people we are at a disadvantage that way. We have heard men say that if they were out of what they were doing they would not know what else to try. It may be that is why the first thing our young people think about is getting a job. To illustrate this point: We think at the moment of a number of people from other lands who are in Canada now—Greeks, Syrians, Jews, many Italians, and Chinese. Many of them—in fact nearly all of them—did not know our language when they arrived.But for the most part they do not seek jobs; their aim is to get into business on their own account. There are plenty of places where they are well to the front in the clothing manufacturing business, in restaurants, laundries, fruit trade and so on. They seem to have the instinct of buying and selling born in them or drilled or forced into them. Whichever way it is they possess it in much larger degree than the folk in this country, and many of these people have had to make their start on what we call a shoe string. We do not suggest that any great number of our young people should or could start in business for themselves, but there is at least something in the situation which is well worth thinking about.

Our Mental Hospitals

The sixth annual report of the Mental Hospitals Division of the Ontario Department of Health contains a good deal of information, but much of it is not encouraging principally because it is shown that our hospital population is on the increase. Taking only a few of the years for which figures are provided, the population of mental hospitals is shown.

1919	7,482	1931	10,930
1923	8,775	1934	12,883
1927	9,708

In only one year since 1919 has there been a decrease registered. There may be sufficient reason for the widespread difference of occurrence in various districts of patients who are granted admission to our mental hospitals. The rate per 100,000 of population is given:

Algoma	631	Leeds	462
Grenville	531	Northumberland	476
Lennox-Addington	520	Middlesex	455
Victoria	511	Muskoka	452
Nippissing	485	Prescott	445

Some of the counties showing a much lower rate of registration are given:

Cochrane	175	Sudbury	241
Kenora	195	Essex	245
Halton	220	Peterborough	264

Without having the benefit of well-informed explanation it would be difficult enough to try and state why Algoma for instance should have mental patients at the rate of 631 per 100,000 of population while Cochrane should have but 175.

Taking the population of mental hospitals by occupation the greatest frequency is found in the class of those who "had no occupation," and they account for 22.4 per cent. of all first admissions. Those listed as housewives make up 20.7 per cent. Of laborers there were 14.6 per cent., so those three classifications include over 56 per cent. of all admissions made to mental hospitals. Professional men made up 3.5 per cent., those of commercial pursuits numbered 8.2 per cent., while agriculture contributed 8.5 per cent. of the total.

There is also evidence apart from this report that there are a number of people in this province who would be in mental hospitals if there were room for them. Enlargements are frequently made and the space provided is all in use, also there are families which prefer to keep a mental case under home supervision rather than turn to an institution. Whether we are making any progress at all in getting at the cause of the increase we do not know, but our belief is we are not.

There's Something Wrong

Members of the Fish and Game Association and other citizens interested in conservation of Ontario's resources of game and fish must feel sometimes like throwing up the job in despair as they notice the attitude of our courts toward this question. When youths are fined $10, with the alternative of ten days in jail for gaffing a few suckers and then a couple of Indians, caught on Rice Lake in the lunge spawning season equipped with a spear, allowed to get off with $5 fines or a seven-day jail sentence, the whole system seems to be out of joint with common sense.

In this district the all-important fish is the maskinonge. He is the magnet that brings the bulk of our summer visitors into the Kawarthas and the plain fact is that unless something is done to keep the maskinonge from being wiped out, it will not be long before this splendid variety of fish is as completely vanished as the wild pigeon. We cannot afford to be lenient with poachers who kill spawning lunge because they are hastening the day when the Kawarthas will be added to the list of places where these fish no longer exist.

Leniency is not fair to the offenders themselves. For the most part they depend upon the tourist dollar for a considerable part of their income and if they have not sense enough to see that they are only hurting themselves by taking fish out of season the law should step in and protect them against their own folly instead of patting them on the back.

In any event there is something wrong when the gaffing of a few suckers rates in court circles as apparently a more serious offence than an illegal expedition against maskinonge. Here the schedule seems to run $10 or 10 days for taking suckers—$5 or seven days for going after lunge out of season.

The Farmer Takes the Risk

The price of wheat is down on the Chicago markets. Down to the extent of being 46 cents lower than it was at this time last year. As far as Canada is concerned our wheat crop is not harvested until late summer, but wheat is a world crop and each month sees it coming from some quarter of the globe.

In the southwest section of United States they are cutting and threshing wheat now. The wheat is reported as being all right, but there is a great deal of it and that is why the price is going down.

In our own Canadian West the prospects are better for a wheat crop than they have been in years. We do not know whether we will have a great crop or not because a good many things may happen between now and harvest. But if we do have a great crop the price will be lower.

It is interesting to try and find the reasons for that drop. A bushel of wheat will make just as much flour and bread this year as it did last year. As a sustaining unit wheat is as good one year as another. The nations of Europe and the big buyers are always in the wheat market far in advance of their day-to-day needs and if they think there is going to be a shortage they will place orders not because they want to particularly but because they are afraid not to do so. They are actually bidding for wheat and it becomes a seller's market. But when it is clear from world reports that there is going to be a great crop then it is known there will be no shortage; it is not necessary to buy so far in advance, and wheat buyers the world over can drop back on what we might call a hand-to-mouth method of doing their dealing. Nations who require a reserve stock as a precautionary war policy are in the same position. They have reason to believe they can secure all the wheat they need if and when they need it.

That is one place where the farmer who produces wheat gets caught. If there is a crop failure and thousands of farmers are reduced to the point of standing in the relief line then the price of the wheat they have not produced goes up, and it does not mean a thing to them apart from the fact that it runs up the price of bread which they have less money to pay for. In that way it is a cold and rather clammy fact that the agony of the wheat producers is one of the chief factors in shoving up the price of wheat. When there is a great crop over which all the people should rejoice there is also a great drop in price. And the people who are asked to accept all the risks in this business are the farmers who grow the wheat.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Canada Overgoverned" reads a heading in a Toronto newspaper and somehow we have an idea we have read something like that before.

They were talking in the special Senate railway committee about the forgotten man. That must be the fellow who used to ride on the trains.

Toronto paper is going to teach the fundamentals of piano playing and we expect the opposition will come back with free lessons in the "Big Apple" and the "Susie Q".

T. L. Church says more attention is being paid to the health of animals and plants than of human beings. The Toronto man says a lot of things and many of them hit the centre of the target.

Sandy Somerville, Canadian golfer, got to the last four in the British amateur championship before being eliminated and it is safe to predict that at that stage he held the record for saying the least during the competition.

LEARNING

(By A. R. K.)

¶ I thought I'd make some cash somehow, and so I bought a skinny cow, and she gave skinny milk; but I'd put fat upon her frame, and make of her a fancy dame, she'd look as fine as silk.

¶ And when I got her nice and round, I knew a buyer could be found, and I would sell her then; I'd make a profit wide and high, I'd let hard times go stepping by, and march with noted men.

¶ And so I bought my skinny cow, I don't know how she lived or how, she didn't look too bright; but for my skinny cow I'll say, when I forked down alfalfa hay, she showed an appetite.

¶ Her powers of eating too were real, when I dished out a pan of meal, she licked the feed box dry; she seemed to lose her dismal look, and everything I fed she took, I think she winked her eye.

¶ Each day I think she gained three pound, she started looking nice and round, at feed she'd never balk; and when it came on toward the fall, she scarce could enter in her stall, and she could hardly walk.

¶ Before I sold that cow she died, I got two dollars for the hide which wasn't much to clutch; the vet came in to see my cow, he told me plain and hard just how—I'd fed three times too much.

Mr. Finn Balked Against Rules

(From Parliamentary Debates)

Mr. R. E. FINN (Halifax): I desire under this order and under the rules of the house— the rule has now been changed—to present a petition signed by 1,500 fishermen along the coast of Nova Scotia in the county of Halifax. In invoking the rule in reference to presenting petitions I desire to present the names of the petitioners, living in these fishing villages from Ecum Secum to Hubbards. I do not desire to take up the time of the house, because the business of the house should be proceeded with; may I therefore, with the indulgence of the house, without reading the names, have them become a part of the record when the petition is laid upon the table? If that meets with the approval of the Prime Minister (Mr. Mackenzie King), the leader of the opposition (Mr. BENNETT), the leaders of other groups in the house, and hon. members generally, I am content to do it in that way.

Some hon. MEMBERS: Read it.

Mr. FINN: "We, the undersigned—

Mr. SPEAKER: I think the hon. member should present his petition, and when it is presented it will be considered and he may then move, if he wishes, that it be read by the clerk at the table.

Mr. FINN: I do not propose that. I am well within the rules of the house in presenting this petition under this order. I have a perfect right to invoke the rule in order that I may read the names of these 1,500 people. But I do not propose to do that; all I ask is that the names become a part of the record in Hansard when the petition is laid on the table of the house.

Mr. SPEAKER: It will be in order for the hon. member to lay his petition on the table of the house.

Mr. FINN: With the understanding that it becomes a part of the record.

Some hon. MEMBERS: No.

Mr. FINN: Then I shall invoke the rule and read the names. Hon. members must take one horn of the dilemma or the other.

Mr. SPEAKER: I do not think it is the practice to read a petition in that way. Petitions are generally presented at the table to the clerk of the house. The other day the hon. member for Comox-Alberni (Mr. Neill) moved that a petition be read, but it was a short petition—

Mr. FINN: I do not think the length or shortness of the petition alters the rule. I desired not to keep the house from getting on with its business. If the house is agreeable under the rule that these names shall become a part of the record in Hansard I am content.

Mr. THORSON: What rule?

Mr. FINN: I am speaking under motions. I am not going to be crossfired at by hon. members on this side of the house. It is all very well for them, living inland among the oats and the hay and barley. If the hon. member is not able to look up the rule for himself I am not his clerk.

Right Hon. W. L. MACKENZIE KING (Prime Minister): May I draw the attention of my hon. friend to the rule—paragraph 7 under standing order 68:

On the next day following the presentation of the petition the clerk of the house shall lay upon the table the report of the clerk of petitions upon the petitions presented and such report shall be pointed in the votes and proceedings of that day. Every petition so reported upon, not containing matter in breach of the privileges of this house and which, according to the rules or practice of this house, can be received, shall then be deemed to be permitted to be read and received.

In the first instance the petition should be merely presented. After it has been examined and a report has been made upon it, is the time when it will be known if the petition may be read and received.

Mr. BENNETT: It is presented first without comment.

Mr. FINN: If that is the stand of the right hon. Prime Minister (Mr. Mackenzie King), I am content.

Some hon. MEMBERS: Order.

Mr. SPEAKER: Order.

Mr. FINN: Has the assembly, this parliament, this House of Commons become accustomed to some rules other than the rules of the house? It is too bad that I seem to be in conflict with you, Mr. SPEAKER, so often. It is not my desire, but this is a very important matter to the people of my county.

Mr. SPEAKER: Order. I have already explained to the hon. member how petitions are presented.

BIG BEN.

(B. B. C. Listener, London)

APRIL 10 WAS Big Ben's 80th birthday. Speaking of the great bell, A. A. Hughes, master of the London Bell Foundry which has been making bells ever since 1570, said: "Big Ben weighs roughly 13½ tons. If you were to come along to my foundry I could show you hanging on a wall the original moulding strickle which shaped the clay mould for Big Ben. On it is chalked his exact weight—thirteen tons, ten hundredweight, three quarters, fifteen pounds—just about four times the weight of a fullgrown elephant. The actual casting of Big Ben took just under half-an-hour. But, of course, there were months of preparation beforehand. No one could ever make Big Ben again. We could make a bell as big and of the same note— which is 'E'—but we couldn't give him his individual quality of tone. You may like him or dislike him, but you must admit that his note is unmistakable."

A REALLY CRAZY QUILT.

(Victoria Times)

AN ENERGETIC woman in Chicago who made a quilt out of scraps of celebrities' wearing apparel has refused the offers of a number of museums, explaining that the quilt was made for her grand-daughter, Agnes.

What proportion of the world's celebrity population is represented may be suggested by the fact that the quilt took more than six years to make, and holds some 10,000,000 stitches.

Patches have been contributed by celebrities in all walks and callings, not excluding royalty and highly-placed dignitaries in many countries.

• Slipping And They Can't Help It

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE, prominent newspaperman of Kansas, warned the "sheltered middle class" that it must do something about unemployment "if we are to save our own hides and our American democracy."

Mr. White was speaking at a luncheon of the National Association of Harvard Clubs at Chicago and he hinted that it was possible a crisis might arise in the affairs of the country when the nation could no longer borrow to feed the unemployed and the hungry. He said that the middle class boasted that it elected the governors and controlled the machine guns in time of trouble. He continued: "This is a democracy and votes do count, and as our own middle class majority wears down by hard times, some of us who are sitting here at these felicitous luncheons across the country certainly will be on the other side of the barricades."

It is difficult to get moderately comfortable people to ponder that thought, but it is a fact that the wearing down process of high taxation and bad business has already transferred many heretofore prosperous individuals to the "other side of the barricades" and that process is likely to continue, even at an accelerated pace with the failure of the country to come around to normal economic activity. The unfortunate fact is that even those who realize that they are slipping can do little about it. They are the victims of the bad situation that prevails all over the world, which is largely blamed on our governments that have simply run ahead of the wind until the ship is in proximity to treacherous breakers.

There is no denying the fact that there has been frightfully faulty leadership, producing one senseless crisis after another. Looking all the circumstances in the face, it cannot be discerned that there is legitimate justification for the chaotic economic conditions that deprive many worthy people of the opportunity to work and make a living. The middle class or no other class has been specifically responsible for the collapse. They thought they were doing the best they could when they elected governments and entrusted them with their public business. If it comes to pass that those who today are able to support themselves become unable to do that, it will be a further indictment of the kind of administration in vogue. We may expect that at least the existing type of democracy will be displaced and we cannot be sure that what succeeds it will be any better.

England's "Keep Fit" movement is being attacked as un-English.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

THUS SAITH the Lord God: Woe unto the foolish prophets, that follow their own spirit, and have seen nothing! . . . They have seen vanity and lying divination, saying, The Lord saith: and the Lord hath not sent them: and they have made others to hope that they would confirm the word. Have ye not seen a vain vision, and have ye not spoken a lying divination, whereas ye say, The Lord saith it; albeit I have not spoken.

Therefore thus saith the Lord God: Because ye have spoken vanity, and seen lies, therfore, behold, I am against you, saith the Lord God. And mine hands shall be upon the prophets that see vanity, and that divine lies: they shall not be in the assembly of my people, neither shall they be written in the writing of the house of Israel, neither shall they enter into the land of Israel; and ye shall know that I am the Lord God.—Ezek. xiii, 3, 6-9.

To The Editor

IMPERIAL VETERANS

Editor Examiner:

Sir: I wish to thank you for the letter you published at my request some time previously and I ask the favor of another space in your journal on behalf of Imperial ex-Servicemen and women.

The Imperial Veterans have taken a forward march since my last letter and have been granted a Charter by the Dominion Government and are now the "British Imperial Comrades Association".

Mr. John Tinling of St. Thomas, will visit Peterborough, on June 1, and will address a meeting in a room kindly placed at our disposal by the Legion Hall authorities, eight o'clock in the evening for the meeting. Mr. Tinling will be in the City from four-thirty in the afternoon, his visit is to form a branch in this part of the Province.

Those who notice my letter please pass the information on to others interested so we can make a good meeting and show some appreciation to Mr. Tinling and others who work without remuneration on our behalf.

Yours very sincerely,
JAMES W. STONE.

ROMANCE DIES.

(News Report)

GENERAL SIR IAN HAMILTON confessed at the end of his speech at the Pen Club dinner in London that his heart no longer contained amusing things like lace handkerchiefs, dance programmes, and faded flowers.

"It is too full of anxiety at seeing how, with every wild speech in Parliament, pulpit, and newspaper, the dread spectre of war draws a step nearer to the day when simple, kindly folk made to like one another will begin to cut one another's throats. The old South African War veterans will be the worst sufferers, and after them the British Legionaries."

Sir Ian, in more cheerful mood, paid this tribute to Henry Nevinson, who presided: — "I hail him as a knight errant who has carried his fountain pen as far to the front on many a desperate battle as any soldier has carried his sword."

HOT DOG BUSINESS.

(Windsor Star)

MOST PEOPLE, when they stop at a hot-dog stand and make a purchase never appreciate that they are contributing to big business. Mr. J. W. Collins, retiring New Zealand Trade Commissioner to Canada, corrects this wrong impression.

Canada, he states, is New Zealand's best customer for hot-dog casings, having purchased more than $1,000,000 worth of them last year. This places the trade definitely in the class of big business.

So, in the future, if you are inclined to criticize "big business", remember that you are attacking the savory hot-dog industry!

Ottawa Supports Campaign to End Syphilis Scourge

OTTAWA, May 28 (CP)—Start of a general drive toward the eradication of syphilis will be made this year in a small way with the distribution of $50,000 among the provinces for purchase of the most expensive of the drugs used in its treatment.

Health Minister Power made this announcement in the House of Commons yesterday during consideration of his estimates and in reply to a strong appeal from Dr. J. P. Howden (Lib. St. Boniface) who declared the disease to be curable.

The serum would be distributed during 1938-39 on the basis of population combined with treatments given in the various provinces during 1936, last year for which figures were available.

Treatments by provinces for 1936 were reported as follows: Prince Edward Island 809, Nova Scotia 7,904, New Brunswick 16,024, Quebec 112,161, Ontario 92,656, Manitoba 12,800, Saskatchewan 10,414, Alberta 26,070 and British Columbia 16,907.

Many stages of health activity were covered in the discussion yesterday and the entire estimate and supplementaries for health were adopted.

Full Control Of Bank

Parliament has still a heavy legislative program ahead of it before the present session ends according to Prime Minister Mackenzie King's statement in the House yesterday. The major measure to come is that by which the government proposes to acquire complete ownership of the Bank of Canada.

Dealing with other measures Mr. King said: "I do not wish to be held strictl yto account in respect of the measures I am now indicating that they include everything that will be brought down but so far as I can see there may be some legislation growing out of the reports of committees of the House and out of the reports of the royal committees that have been recently tabled, also of course in connection with the budget.

"Apart from these possible measures there will be legislation introduced with respect to low-cost and low-rental housing and to authorize loans to municipalities for self-liquidating projects; a Canadian National Railways finance and guarantee act; amendments to the national parks act, the judges act and the high commissioner's act, and possible amendments to the department of national revenue act and one or two other statutes."

Small Grant Protected

Debate on syphilis came on the item providing the annual $5,000 grant to the health league of Canada. Many members objected to the smallness of this vote in view of the good being done by the league. It was credited with almost complete eradication of diphtheria in many large centres.

Dr. J. J. McCann (Lib. Renfrew North) said the $5,000 grant was merely a "flea-bite" to what should be spent in this direction.

Mrs. Martha Black (Con. Yukon) recalled the concentrated and successful efforts to keep men fit and well during the war and wondered why the government was willing to spend so much to keep men fit for killing and would spend so little to make them fit for citizenship and peace.

If more money were spent in preventive medicine less would be required in after years for curative medicine, said Dr. J. J. McCann (Lib. Renfrew South). This fact should be impressed on all those who had to do with public health matters and the formation of public opinion.

Health League Lauded.

He commended the activities of the Health League of Canada. Grants to voluntary agencies should be made in order to stimulate them and carry them along until their activities became large enough to warrant their being taken over by the Government. He endorsed a proposed grant of $5,000 to the Health League, and hoped that by another year the grant would be increased or a venereal disease branch established in the Department.

The Government was this year returning to the system of assisting the provinces in combatting venereal diseases, said Health Minister Power. It was not being done by grants in aid as some provinces did not wish grants.

The assistance would take the form of providing "arsenicals" the most expensive drug and the one most generally useful in the treatment of syphilis. Last year in all Canada $63,000 had been spent on this drug and this year the Government proposed to spend $50,000. This amount would be distributed between the provinces on the basis of the number of syphilitic treatments. In 1936 there were 296,480 such treatments in Canada.

Prevention and Cure.

The Federal Government would be interested mainly in finding means of prevention while the provinces, although always interested in prevention would be engaged mainly on the curative end of the campaign.

In 1919 and just previous there had been a fear in Canada and in other countries that,as a result of the war an dthe exposure of so many soldiers to infection that syphilis would spread to an almost unlimited degree throughout the civilian population.

"I am happy both as a Minister of Health and as a soldier, to be able to say that throughout the war the health of soldiers was better than that of the civilian population," the Minister said. Only 12,000 out of 600,000 Canadian soldiers contracted syphilis.

Communists Rule Minneapolis City 'Peg Truckers Told

WINNIPEG, May 28 (CP).—Floyd L. Taylor of Minneapolis, organizer of an independent truck drivers' association, placed an empty holster on the table when he addressed the Employers' Association of Manitoba in annual meeting Friday.

"When I came to Winnipeg it was the first time in seven months that I didn't need a gun on me," Taylor said. "This is the first meeting at which I haven't had anywhere from five to twelve armed men in the audience to prevent any assassination."

Taylor claimed "Communist gangs prowl the streets of Minneapolis," and that Communists boast the State holds more of their number than any other. "They took the Governor of the State down to New York and made him lead the Young Communist parade. There isn't a laborer or even a preacher in Minneapolis who dares make one move unless he's paid tribute to them.

Murders Common.

"There are more murders in Minneapolis today than in any other place of its size in the world," he went on. "The last seven victims were all people who had inside information on the activities of our Communists...My home is floodlighted and a man with a sawed-off shotgun stands on guard by the truck all night because I refused to pay tribute to the North Central District Drivers' Association. A squad car takes my children back and forth to school...

"On January 22 I took nine men, beaten beyond recognition, scarred for life, whom the gangsters had dragged out from behind their trucks, kicked in their teeth and gouged out their eyes, down to the Mayor's office. He said: 'I'm sorry, but I can't do anything about it.'

"We're about to fall unless we can get enough men to put the law into force, and, if we fall, God help you fellows. I'm not talking about Spain, but a little spot down the road, near home."

YATES SECURES ONE-UP LEAD OVER EWING IN BRITISH GOLF

Trouble in Back Nine Spells Trouble for Irish Golfer

American Plays a Steady Game To British Amateur Final

TROON, Scotland, May 28.—(AP).—As his opponent got into trouble on the back nine, Charley Yates of the United States steadied down today to gain a one-up lead over Cecil Ewing, former West of Ireland champion, at the end of the first 18 holes of their 36-hole final for the British amateur golf championship.

One down with three holes to go, Yates pulled even at the long 16th, where he got a par while the big Irishman needed five to get home, and took the lead for the first time at the short 17th, where Ewing was trapped off the tee.

The Irishman, who started the match the underdog at odds of 2 to 1, missed a great chance to pull even on the home green. In the rough again with his drive, he laid a fine mashie shot within nine feet of the cup. Yates, 40 feet short with his second, rolled the putt lead, but Ewing missed his nine-footer by a hair and knocked Yates' ball away.

Ewing was one up at the nine-hole mark, it being the first time his United States' opponent had been on the short-end of the outgoing nine since the tournament started.

The big Irishman's early golf was superb, going out in a par 36.

Yates Pulls Even.

Ewing went two up on the 10th but Yates pulled even by taking the 12th and 14th as the Irishman went off line for the first time of the match. He regained his control to take the 15th, but Yates finished brilliantly to go in front the first time.

The County Sligo golfer came up through the tough quarter—the second—where were grouped the cream of the American Walker Cup team, Johnny Goodman, the U.S. amateur titleholder, Francis Ouimet, whom Ewing defeated, and others. He capped the advance by putting out C. Ross Somerville, Canadian titleholder and once American champion, two up in yesterday's semi-final.

The cards:

Par, out	444	435	435	—36
Yates Out	454	535	434	—37
Ewing	444	445	434	—36
Par in	444	344	534	—35—71
Yates in	544	435	534	—37—74
Ewing	445	444	644	—39—75

Yates leads, one up.

Keene Beats Hawks In Southend Game

Scoring eight runs in the first two frames, the flashy Keene outfit took a 10-7 win last night over the Hawks at the Brinton field to stop the Birdmen's winning streak. The victors took kindly to Elliott's offerings to get nine hits for eight runs early. However, the Hawks drove Fleming to cover in the fifth—after McCarthy's early lead—as they got five runs before Woods came to the rescue. McGregor relieved Elliott and also did nice relief tossing. J. Gall, Renwick and Fletcher led the visitors on the attack with three hits apiece, and Calladine topped the Hawks with two safe blows. Busby and McGregor went well defensively for the losers, as Fletcher and McFarlane pulled in neat grabs for Keene. Teams:

BY A. WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well Mac, we got the lid pried off the local ball season this week in spite of the fact that football weather was handed out for Victoria Day when the Oshawa GM-men and our lads tangled here in the 1st game of the season. They beat us 2 to 0 and you kin judge from the score, neighbors, that it was a right smart ball game, especially considering the chilly breezes what floated into the ball yard. Their Mister Turner held our talent to 4 safe blows and no runs and as they aint been a way discovered yet of winning ball games without scoring, we didn't put that opener in the bag. But at that our hitting wasn't so anaemic as it looks on paper on account of the lads standing in there and hitting a lot of balls and yet getting nothing out of it. Our Mister Deadey, new ball hawk in the middle pasture, smote 3 on the nose and didn't get a safety and our new first sacker Mister Cliff Cadd hadn't any better luck with 2 he picked nicely.

A Queer Game

It was a queer game in I way. The Oshawa outfielders pretty near win the day for their club, especially Mister Peg Hurst, by their fielding and yet them bozos was outa position practically all through the battle. Right field was left wide open and Mister Hurst played such a deep left field that he looked like he was starting out for the liftlock any time. The Petes however couldn't neither line hits down the first base line or drop short ones into left and so the wide open spaces left by the Oshawa gardeners didn't mean a thing, instead of meaning the ball game as they quite likely would if the same thing was tried again.

Boys Look Good

Our boys done so nice fielding, Mister Kitchen pitched good enough ball to of win a ordinary game and this new third sacker Mister Doll looked and acted like a real smart ball player both defensively and up there with a Kouisville in his clutches. The Murphy gang showed enough to convince the fans they oughta be a lotta good ball here this summer.

So far as the big show is concerned Mac, about the only thing of interest is Mister Lefty Grove has win his 8th straight since my last. For an old bird of 38 that is a mark to be shot at especially when you remember Mister Grove pitched every inning of all them eight games and right now the ivy-covered southpaw is the boss pitcher of both leagues.

They is a lesson there to young ball players, not only to learn how to take care of themselves so they kin earn big money for years but also to get smart for it is smartness that is giving Mister Grove his string of wins. He can't blow them past the hitters like he used to but he can make them go after bad balls and pitch to their weakness.

Well Mac, enough is sufficient so let's call the whole thing off.

Sportfully Yours,

A Wise Cracker.

HASTINGS

Three Bowlers Receive Honor

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, May 28. — Three local men were mad honorary life members of Hastings Lawn Bowling Club at a meeting on Thursday night. The men are Alexander Wilson, Frank Runnels, and Taylor Huycke. They have been members of the local club for many years.

In the bowling schedule for the local league, Wednesday evenings have been left open for jitney tournaments with neighboring towns. All scheduled games will commence at 7.30 p.m.

The club house proposal discussed at two previous meetings has become a reality. Members were dubious as to whether sufficient members would join to finance the building, but several new members have joined.

Following are the rinks for the coming season:

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

THOSE Toronto pugs at the fistic show here Monday eve in the lacrosse arena may get a big surprise at the ability of the local boys. The Riverview A.C. leather-pushers have been training hard and look right classy in practice. And the four Queen City scrappers will have to hustle every minute of the five-round bouts they're in to hold their own. Nick Orlando, local lightweight (who hails from Montreal), faces a smart dude in Young Jackie, colored Toronto mittster, but don't think Jackie isn't facing a tough hombre, too! Nick is out for bigger fights and his timing in the gym is beautiful to watch. He is a clever boxer, in excellent shape, very fast and packs a wallop good enough to knock a circus pug—like early this week—out of the ring. He's better than when he fought Bev. Carter.

* * * * * * *

DUTCH McILMOYLE and Larry Hinds ought to about steal the show in their semi-final slaughter. Both are 165-pound maulers who swing from their heels from start to finish and are decided crowd-pleasers. Look for a kayo in this fray. Joe (Sonny) Hobbins hopes to put away Jack Volpie of Toronto and he is certainly rugged enough if he can park a set of fives on his rival's whiskers. Bill Joiner, too, will crowd Wallie Hicks of Toronto like a gigolo around an heiress at a dawnce. This will be the first ring appearance of Hal Jones, Roy Prince and Bert Prince. The bout between Roy and Hal promises to be a highlight on the card.

* * * * * * *

YEAH, we really expect to see a lively dish of the sour science under the arcs and stars come Monday in the gloaming. This club has put on two topnotch bouts to date, and big crowds have yelled throughout, and they promise to put on a biggah and bettah one this time. They're certainly sparing no trouble or expense to get the best of opponents—and don't sell the home pugilists short either. We have some nice ring talent here right now, and the local rosin shufflers will swap rights and lefts with merry abandon with any amachoor fighter. Nothing like a darned good battle to give onlookers the old lift in spirits, and when you get half a dozen or so nifty scraps on one card—well, folks, you've really got something!

ST. THOMAS SCRIBE tells of a Washington report whereby one H. E. Orefice of Hartford invented Patent No. 084,775—the upholstered baseball base! Says he: "To his lab went Mr. Orefice and from it soon emerged the world's first cushioned baseball base. It can be anchored securely to the ground so that no comfort-loving fan will swipe it for use as a pillow at home. This upholstered base is square, soft, springy and of a texture soothing to the human frame. It is designed to make stumbling over first a pleasure, bouncing into second a joy, skidding onto third a dream, and sliding home a positive delight. Yes, sir, Mr. Orefice HAS something!" We agree and yet some of the Petes seem to get caught napping now off the hard bases at Riverside—and heaven knows what they'd do on downy pillows....

COACH BILL JACKSON'S P.C.I. gang started the Junior City Baseball League season in fine fashion last night at the Ex. with a 14-0 win over St. Peter's. Their heaver, Foster, pitched no-hit, no-run ball in the short struggle, fanning 14 out of 15 men who faced him! A dandy performance on the slab. It only went five innings and teams are urged to be ready to start at six in future. Monday at six at the Ex., Pirates play the Tigers. There are six entries, listed with managers: Pirates, J. Bennett; Tigers, W. Morley; Greyhounds, W. Coursey; St. Peter's, J. Corkery; Cubs, D. Armstrong; and P.C.I., W. Jackson. No entry fee but each team supplies a ball a game and must submit list of players with date of births to the secretary before playing the first tilt. Loop may or may not affiliate with the O.B.A.—not yet, anyway.

OVER AT THE BOWL yestiddy in the gloamin', the Supremes of Lindsay and the C.G.E.-ers of our own Electric City battled to a 9-all draw in a Girls' Softball League fixture. A pretty fair tilt with the fans and fannettes having plenty to yodel about. Jean Corley pitched nice ball and her buddies lived up to advance notice as being a strong team in this circuit. A. Doughty and Marilyn McCarthy split hurling duties betwixt 'em for C.G.E. and both went well, especially Marilyn. Her speed had the Scugog squadron hitters worried. The Electrics showed a whale of a lot of improvement over their showing against Westclox earlier in the week. The hitting of E. Craig, E. Graham, M. Mackey and M. Campbell were clouting features in this fray. And the fielding of Dint Lees, D. Sexsmith, Nora Lee and M. McCarthy were defensive highlights. The teams were in good shape.

MUST HAVE BEEN some 700 cash customers—the only kind they count at the gate, ignoring the crashers—at the lacrosse exhibition last twilight. And a right rousing struggle it was with the locals taking a 13-5 win over the Brampton intermediates. The gutted-stick warriors must be stealing a page from the pro rasslers' book the way they roughed up Referee Bud Fisher near the finish. He halted one fight which saw Westonfelt, Jerry Creighton and Clevely mixed up and found half his shirt was ripped off. Bud would give you the shirt off his back, but he doesn't like having ya take it in one yank! A minute later Chute and Rock mixed with fists swinging, and Rock slapped ye poor ref across the puss before they were banished. Bud is now wondering if he resembles a punching bag, or if this refereeing racket is really worth while. Candidly speaking we don't think it is.

* * * * * * *

THE PETES played a beautiful passing game and really looked ready for a big season. They had the combination down good and were covering up. As well as showing a lot of speed and fight, and not missing too many shots when in scoring position. Brampton muffed a lot of shots but put up a good game — though a little outclassed. Crowe, King, Worthy, E. Creighton, Bowen and Meyette were all outstanding for the Petes in this fray, and the rest of the squad were close behind. Crowe was the most effective man in close. Just to add a bit of criticism now, before the group schedule starts, we'd suggest that Westonfelt keep his temper more in check, that several of the boys take a look before passing or shooting, and that some of the good scorers, like Crowe for instance, pass in close when they are too well covered.

King Edward Wins From King George

King Edward School senior baseball team of the School Ball Loop copped a 15-2 victory over King George last night. Three big frames in the seven-inning struggle gave the southend squad the nod, scoring six in the first, five in the fourth and four more in the fifth. The East City gang got their only runs in the third heat on three walks, an error and a hit. Some neat flinging was shown by Smith of the winners who fanned 10, walked three, and gave up but six hits. He had good hitting and fielding support from his mates. The teams:

Hastings Clerks Swamp Elgin 18-3

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, May 28.— The Clerks swamped Elgin 18 to 3 to tie the Outlaws for first place in the Hastings Softball League. The defeat also sent Elgin deepr into the cellar. The game was tied at 3-all at the end of the fifth, but a 7-run rally in the sixth along with 8 more in the seventh left the decision beyond doubt.

The Clerks scored one run in the first inning and another in the fourth. Elgin bunched 4 hits to score 2 and tie the game in the fourth. The Clerks scored again in the fifth, but J. Preston's long homer to right evened the count for Elgin.

The Clerks hit their stride in the sixth when they scored seven times. They continued in the seventh and scored 8 more. In this inning Tape and G. Gibson hit homers, with Wilson and Faux hitting triples.

Tape and Crate of the Clerks, each with 3 hits in 6 times up led the hitters. G. Gibson pitched a nice game for the Clerks, as he limited Elgin to 9 hits, while striking out 3 and walking 2. The Elgin pitcher, J. Richardson, was the victim of a 16-hit assault by the Clerks. He struck out 2 and passed 1.

On Monday evening the Outlaws play Elgin.

The teams:

Elgin — J. Richardson, p; E. Preston, 2b; J. Preston, c; G. Richardson, 3b; M. Scott, 1b; R. Scott, cf, 3b; Fleming, lf; Grady, rf; B. Scott, ss, and Stinson, cf.

Clerks — Tape, 2b; Crate, cf; L. Gibson, lf; Downs, ss; G. Gibson, p; Faux, 3b; Blackburn, rf; Gillespie, c; Wilson, 1b, and Stevenson, lf.

Lindsay Girls And C.G.E. Tie

Lindsay and C.G.E. girls battled to a 9-all tie at the Bowl last night in a seven-inning Ladies' Softball League fixture before a good crowd of fans. Trailing going into the seventh, the Electrics tied it up in the final frame. It was a neat tussle with some good softball shown by both squads. The game will be replayed at a later date.

Jean Corley and A. Doughty were the opposing mound artists. The Lindsay lass held C.G.E. to eight hits as she fanned six and issued four walks. A. Doughty pitched fair ball but gave way in the fifth to Marilyn McCarthy. The former fanned two and walked three while allowing nine hits in her sojourn. Marilyn looked good in the time she pitched, striking out five, giving two free tickets and but one hit. Errors were frequent and costly on both sides.

E. Craig led the locals in distant clouting with a pair of three-baggers, and E. Graham got two singles. M. Mackey of Lindsay hit a triple and single, as M. Campbell clouted out three singles. Neat fielding was shown by Dint Lees and D. Sexsmith of the Scugog squad, and Nora Lee and Marilyn McCarthy of the homesters. The teams:

Lindsay: F. Mark, ss; W. Mackey, rf; D. Botting, 1b; E. Campbell, c; L. Ashmore, 2b; D. Lees, cf; M. Campbell, 3b; D. Sexsmith, lf; J. Corley, p.

C.G.E.: P. Bigelow, 1b; E. Graham, ss; M. McCarthy, cf, p; A. Doughty, p, cf; G. Mann, 2b; E. Foster, rf; E. Craig, lf; N. Lee, 3b; B. Lee, 3b; A. DeCarlo, c; I. McCrank.

Foster of P.C.I. Hurls No-Hitter

In the opening game of the Junior City Baseball League last night at the Exhibition Grounds, the P.C.I. crew took a 14-0 win over St. Peter's before about a hundred fans. Foster hurled no-hit, no-run ball in a fine flinging performance as he fanned 14 men out of 15 to face him in the five-inning tilt. The game was called for darkness. Al Ithe Coegians hit the bal lwell, but had no fielding to do, with such excellent slab work. Next game will be Monday at six p.m. in the Ex. between Pirates and Tigers.

Mark St. Juveniles Are Easy Winners

Mark St. Juveniles ran up a near-record Church Softball League score last evening with their 35-6 victory over St. James. Pounding out five homers, two triples, a pair of doubles and 14 singles, the East City squad raked Roberts hard from start to finish to roll up the count. The losers also booted the ball with abandon whereas Mark St. got good hurling, hard hitting and tidy fielding in the one-sided count. It was a case of the winners doing everything right and the losers being decidedly off in all departments for this tussle. The victors' heaver, Eason, fanned four and walked six, while Roberts walked four and struck none out. The teams

BEEF TAKES MUTTON

RICHMOND, England — (CP). — Scott Read, 252-pound hotel proprietor, won the 56-mile rowing race against 210-pound Gordon Killie, by three minutes. The trip took four days; the winner receiving a leg of mutton.

Mark St. Seniors Beat George St.

Mark St. Seniors nosed out a 10-9 nod over George St. Buzzers in a nifty Church Softball League struggle last night. It was their fifth win in a row. Craig started on their mound but was relieved by Hunter in the sixth, the latter finishing strong. Hawkes drove in the winning run in the eighth. Brady got three hits and Mitchell three, one a homer. Mgr. Parnall started to pitch for Buzzers but seven runs in two frames decided him to stick to the infield job at second. Rennie went well as a relief tosser to blank his rivals till the seventh. Ash and Kingston led the hitters. The teams:

Public Favor Follows Pasch

EPSOM, England, May 28 (C.P.). —Ten favorites only have won the Derby in the past 30 years, but Pasch, a colt who has run but two races in his life is a strong public choice who will go to the post weighted with general confidence when the classic is run for the 159th time over the rolling Surrey Downs on June 1.

Twenty-three other candidates for the big race rate little better than 10 to 1. They represent the great stables of the land and approach perfection in breeding.

Pasch is magnificently bred. His sire, Blanford, stood for four of the last nine Derby winners—Bahram, Windsor Lad, Blenheim, and Trigo. His dam is Pasca, herself by the Derby winner Manna, who in turn was by Fifinella, another winner of the classic. Others, to, have a pedigree as equally imposing.

Pasch stands at the shor odds of 2 to 1 as a two-year-old he was prevented from racing by an injury. This year he won one minor race and then triumphed in the Two Thousand Guineas, the first of three classics open to colts.

Gordon Richards, greatest of modern English jockeys, will be in the saddle.

700 Fans See Petes Win Second Game

Locals Keep Up Fast Pace In Close Lacrosse Struggle

Last night's exhibition lacrosse match at the George Street Arena before a fair-sized gathering of fans saw the intermediate Brampton outfit drop a 13-5 decision to the Petes in a hectic fray that had the 700 customers yelling all through. While the visitors were outplayed, they made it a real battle in the heavy-hitting contest and only the grand teamplay and first-rate covering of players by the homsters gave them the edge.

The tilt was enlivened by a couple of exciting fist fights in the fourth frame, with the referee getting the worst of both. Westonfelt and Clevely tangled with Jerry Creighton joining in and two fights ensued at the time before the trio was gated—the referee meantime having his sweater ripped off his back. A minute later Chute and Rock tangled in a fight and the latter slapped the referee before this pair got the gate. There were but seven players and the goalies on the field as play resumed.

King, Crowe, Worthy, E. Creighton and Bowen were all outstanding for the homesters with the rest of the gang close behind. Rock and Clevely were the best of the Brampton gang, with Burrows doing some four-star relief goal-tending. Several of the others looked extra good, to, and the whole team turned in a nice effort against smart opposition.

Petes Start It.

The Petes scored early when Magee took Crowe's pass to sink it. Worthy's goal was not allowed, being in the crease. King got the next one from G. Creighton. Brampton counted when Rock rushed all through alone. Crowe got a pass from E. Creighton for another and then Crowe tick-handled in by himself. Westonfelt drew the only penalty in a nifty frame for slashing. In the second, E. Creihgton made a nice counter on Magee's aid and Buster Whitton fooled the goalie right afterward. Pammett was penalized and both Rock and Chute got the gate for slashing in a bit of bad temper. It was a tight, close-checking frame, with the local passing well but checked hard.

The last half opened with Burrows in goal for Brampton, and play rougher as the Petes checked closely. Brampton got two early, Clevely getting both in smart style. King took a pass from Westonfelt to tally and Bowen got Chute's assist for one. Crowe scored alone and then assisted Magee in a counter. Dundas and H. Harris were chased for roughing it with hard bodying. Brampton missed many chances in the fourth with poor sniping. Burrows shone in goal for them as Peterborough pressed. Magee, aided by Crowe and J. Creighton, counted first and then E. Creighton pulled a dandy rush alone. Stapleton's low shot beat Mayette—who was playing another fine game in goal for the locals—and Clevely got another a minute later close in to wind up the Brampton scoring. There were plenty of penalties in this heat between rough play and fighting. Crowe got the last local counter on a nice try just before the gong. The teams:

Brampton — Goal, Harris; defence, Stapleton and Rock; centre, Clarke; wings, Nixon and Lynn; rover, G. Garbutt; alternates, Forrest, C. Garbutt, Hore, Clevely, Salosky, Payne, Greasdale, Burrows, G. Harris, Ewells, H. Harris, and Arthurs.

Peterborough — Goal, Mayette; defence, Chute and Miller; centre, Magee; wings, Crowe and E. Creighton; rover, Westonfelt; alternates, Dallin, Dundas, Worthy, Whitton, King, Sloan, Bowen, G. Creighton, and Pammett.

Referee—Bud Fisher.

Vernon Kennedy Wins 7th Game For the Tigers

NEW YORK, May 28 (CP)—Jimmy Dykes bit his big black cigar clean in half, threw both ends out past first base, and mumbled to himself: "I'll get that Cochrane guy yet, even if I have to kidnap his saxophone."

Vernon Kennedy, the pitcher Jimmy "cast off" last winter, had just stopped Dykes' Chicago White Sox with six hits for his seventh straight win. And over in the victorious Detroit Tigers' dugout, Mickey Cochrane, Dykes' pal and all-American goat-getter, might have been snickering up his sleeve.

It was just adding insult to injury — pouring salt in Jimmy's wounds. Here he not only had to sit around and watch Gerry Walker's antics, but he had to take Cochrane's ribbing over the very deal for which everybody was slapping him on the back at Christmas time. It was too much.

Started Last Winter

The story starts of course, in the days when Mickey and Jimmy, teammates for years on the Athletics, were traded to the Tigers and White Sox, repectively. Each became manager of his new club, and since then each has been trying to get the other's goat.

Last December, Jimmy engineered a player swap by which his Sox gave up Pitcher Kennedy, Outfielder Dixie Walker and Infielder Tony Piet to Mickey's Tigers. In return, Outfielder Gerry Walker, Third-baseman Marv Owen and Rookie Catcher Mike Tresh came to the White Sox from Detroit.

Immediately Detroit fandom was up in arms. While Jimmy was getting congratulations all over the place for getting the best of his No. 1 needler the Detroit faithful threatened Mickey with boycotts, sit-down strikes, and everything up to meeting him in a dark alley some night.

Came this season and the developments of its first six weeks, and so far Cochrane has done the gloating. Gerry Walker is hitting a mere .286 and Marv Owen .274 for the White Sox. While Dixie Walker, who had been called "brittle," has played in 31 of the Tigers' 32 games and has compiled a respectable .309 average.

His 7th Straight

The big thorn in Jimmy's side, however, has been Kennedy. All Vernon has done so far is win seven straight, and he has yet to taste defeat. When he whipped the Sox yesterday, pitching Detroit to a 5-2 victory with the aid of Hank Greenberg's 11th homer, a terrific 440-foot smash, Jimmy was fit to be tied.

The victory boosted the Tigers into sixth place in the American League over the White Sox. It was the only junior circuit game that got by Old Man Weather.

In the National League, two contests escaped the rain. Bill Lee pitched a six-hit shutout, his second in two weeks, and Gabby Hartnett hammered a three-run homer to hand the Chicago Cubs a 5-0 win over Pittsburgh's revamped, but not improved, Pirates. The victory boosted the Cubs to within two games of the league-leading New York Giants.

Cincinnati entertained the first night game of the season with fireworks, a band concert, and a classy pitchers' battle between the Reds and St. Louis Cardinals. Johnny Vandermeer and the Reds finally bested Fiddler McGee 2-1 in 10 innings, the winning run coming across on doubles by Spud Davis and Harry Craft. Vandermeer hurled a five-hitter and fanned ten.

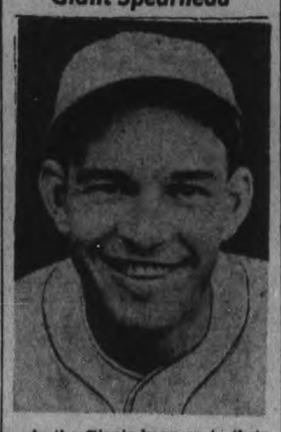
Hollywood, Calif.—Tony Chavez, 136¼, Albuquerque, stopped Jimmy Garrison, 136, Kansas City (7).

Giant Spearhead



As the Giants hang on to their lead in the National League they can give a large share of thanks to Mel Ott, veteran slugger, who guards third base since his switch there from the outfield last year. Mel is producing his annual crop of home runs and has been first or second in the league run-batting-in dept. all season.

Red Wings Hard On Newark Heels In Minor League

ROCHESTER, May 28 (CP)—Rochester Red Wings, who have been moving at a rapid pace the past few weeks, are hard on the heels of the league-leading Newark Bears today and a good share of the credit belongs to Rookie Sam Narron.

The 25-year-old catcher, who came up from Asheville of the Piedmont League, has been powdering the ball at a .407 clip in the Red Wings' drive from seventh to second place in less than three weeks.

Narron cracked out four hits in six tries last night when the Wings trounced Buffalo Bisons 9-3 and moved within 2½ games of the idle Bears who were rained out of their game with Baltimore Orioles. The Montreal-Toronto game was moved up to make a Sunday doubleheader.

Syracuse Chiefs took their third straight victory by defeating Jersey City Giants 10-5. The Chiefs scored five runs on two hits in the third inning and that meant the ball game as Ted Kleinhans settled down to hold the Jerseys scoreless after the second inning.

Yesterday's Stars

(By the Associated Press.)

Bill Lee and Gabby Hartnett, Cubs — Lee blanked Pirates with six hits and Hartnett clouted a homer and two singles in 5-0 victory.

Hank Greenberg, Tigers—Walloped 440-foot homer and two singles in 5-2 win over White Sox.

Johnny Vander Meer, Reds. — Limited Cardinals to five hits and fanned 10 in 2-1 ten-inning triumph in first night game.

Admiral Faces Hard Test In Suburban

NEW YORK, May 28 (A.P.). — Packing the heaviest weight of his three years of racing, Samuel B. Riddle's War Admiral goes to the post in the $25,000 Suburban Handicap to-day in a test that may be even more severe than his cancelled match race against Seabiscuit might have been.

Th Admiral was given 132 pounds to carry over the 1¼ mile of the Suburban. That's two pounds more than he ever has had before in a race.

Jerome H. Luchheim's Pompoon which chased the triple-crown winner home in most of his important races last year, is expected to furnish most of the opposition. In at 128 pounds Pompoon may give the Admiral a real run for his money.

First Mill Was Erected Nearly 120 Years Ago

Growth of Peterborouh has been with the Canadian General Electric, whose present site is midway between two early travel routes which place according to legend a fierce and memorable battle was fought, the Hurons and Algonquins having driven the Iroquois back across Lake Ontario.

INDIANS and early pioneers once blazed forest trails through Peterborough.

Early history of the district shows that the site of the Canadian General Electric Company plant was mid-way between the two early travel routes — the river and the highway to Lake Ontario. At this point, according to legend, a fierce and memorable battle was fought, the Hurons and Algonquins having driven the Iroquois Indians back across Lake Ontario.

Nearly 120 years ago the first mill in Peterborough was constructed by Adam Scott using the outfall of the creek into the Otonabee. It was a primitive structure, about 18' x 24' with a pair of grinding stones and an upright saw. Standing about 6'4" in height and weighing about 260 lbs. Scott was of real old pioneer stock. In March 1821, it is recorded, Scott tramped the 30 miles to Smith's Creek (now Port Hope) through the snow carrying on his shoulders the 250 lb. iron crank of his mill which was in need of repair.

Organized In 1892.

The first mill was only about one mile from the present plant of Canadian General Electric Company which was organized on July 15, 1892. The enterprise out of which C.G.E. developed had its inception on December 27, 1888, when the late Senator Nicholls gathered together a group of prominent Toronto citizens "to inquire into the feasibility of establishing in Toronto an electric plant to supply light and power, by means of underground wires." The immediate parent company was the Toronto Electrical Supply & Construction Company, incorporated on February 11, 1891, which was an outgrowth of the previously formed syndicate.

At the time of the formation of the Company, the capital assets consisted solely of land and buildings at Peterborough, and leased branch offices at Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Today, in the comparably short space of 50 years, Canadian General Electric is Canada's largest electrical company. It has six factories — the largest at Peterborough, manufactures rotating machinery, control equipment, switchgear, instruments, wire and cable, induction voltage regulators and refrigerators —Davenport Works at Toronto — where transformers of all sizes and types are built—electric steam generators as well as all plate and tank work for other factories of the company; Ward Street Works, Toronto—wiring devices, panelboards, ranges. Edison Lamp Works, Toronto—all types of Edison Mazda Lamps; a factory at Montreal, Que. of Canadian Allis-Chalmers Ltd., a subsidiary company, where hydraulic equipment pumps, Textrope drives and mining machinery are built and the Architectural Bronze and Iron Works at Toronto, another subsidiary company, where ornamental metals of all kinds, steel windows, ornamental street lighting standards and similar products are fabricated.

The company has 25 branch offices located at Vancouver, Victoria, Nelson, Kelowna, Calgary, Edmonton, Regina, Saskatoon, Winnipeg, Fort William, New Liskeard, London, Windsor, Hamilton, Toronto, Peterborough, Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec, Halifax, St. John and Sydney. In normal times the number of employees is in the neighbourhood of 5,000.

Test Department.

At Peterborough and Davenport Works a Test course is maintained to train men for positions with the company. Over 450 men, a large proportion of whom are college graduates, have passed through the "Test" and it is significant to note that over a third of this number are still with the organization.

A considerable number of C.G.E. contracts, particularly for large apparatus such as generators, transformers, etc. are not completed until the equipment is in operation. To install these machines after manufacture, Canadian General Electric Company Limited maintains a staff of highly trained construction men.

Another service of note is the Lighting Service Department, an organization of illuminating engineers who design lighting installations for such requirements as airports, parks, athletic fields, floodlighting of building exteriors, electric fountains, church, office and factory building interiors.

Canadian General Electric Company Limited not only controls the Canadian rights to all patents and designs of the General Electric Company of the United States, but maintains its own design and engineering departments at each factory, and is therefore in a favorable position to supply electrical equipment to meet every requirement of industry in Canada.

In addition the company shares the knowledge gained through the intensive investigation continually being carried on in the research laboratories of the General Electric Co.

Supplementing this work, each C. G. E. factory maintains its own laboratory and testing department, where studies are constantly being made to insure the highest quality of the products manufactured.

The progress and enterprise of this historical company has been allied very closely with the progress of the city itself during the last half century.

Early Transportation.

Contrasting the Peterborough of today with the Peterborough of other days C. A. Henderson, local librarian, points out that early transportation followed the river and lakes during the summer, and blazed trails through the forest during the winter. After 1800 and until the construction of a rough wagon road to Port Hope, all access to Peterborough was from the South or "Front" as it was called. Passengers and freight were brought from Kingston or York by sail boat to Cobourg and from there by wagon to Gore's Landing on Rice Lake, being then taken across the Lake into the Otonabee by skiffs or scows to the landing at the foot of the rapids in what is now the City of Peterborough. When the coach line was established between Montreal and Toronto in pre-railway days, a coach was operated from Peterborough to Port Hope to connect with the main line of coaches.

"With the advent of steam," Mr. Henderson states, "the land and water route from Cobourg to Peterborough became much busier, and in 1833, the first steam boat lines were established as a connection on this route. The steam boat 'Pemadash' operated from Gore's Landing to Peterborough, connecting with the stage and freight wagon from Cobourg. At Peterborough a wagon road ran over the old portage from Peterborough to Chemong Lake where it connected with a steamer 'Sturgeon' operating from Bridgenorth on Chemong, Buckhorn and Pigeon Lakes to Bobcaygeon Falls. Another method of transportation was the use of the fast-running portion of the river from Lakefield to Peterborough to bring down the logs and timber, cut on the shores of the upper lakes, for use in the lumber mills at Peterborough. Around 1853 square timber in cribs was floated down the rapids and slides and transferred to boat or train at Peterborough. French-Canadians handled most of these cribs following the methods previously employed around the Ottawa and its tributaries."

Mr. Henderson's records show that about this time beginnings were made on what is now the Trent Valley Canal system, small locks were constructed at various points on the upper lakes, culminating in the building of the world-famous Lift Locks at Peterborough in 1904.

First Railway In 1854.

"The railway era in the Peterborough region" he declared "began in 1854 with the building of the Cobourg-Peterborough and Marmora Railway from Cobourg to Peterborough crossing Rice Lake on a long bridge built on piles and cribs. The ice conditions, however, were more than the builders had reckoned with and during the next two winter the bridge was badly pushed out of position and despite attempts to reconstruct the bridge, the railway gradually fell into disuse and finally ceased to run to Peterborough in 1863. A parallel project had also been mooted for some time by interests in Port Hope and Peterborough and in 1858 the Midland Railway was constructed from Port Hope to Peterborough and is now part of the C.N.R. Another railway line to connect Peterborough with the Lake Ontario ports was under consideration for some years and was finally opened in 1880 as the Grand Junction Railway from Belleville to Peterborough, which is now operated as part of the C.N.R.

"Finally the C.P.R. running their main line through from Smith's Falls to Toronto constructed their line through Peterborough as the Ontario and Quebec Railway, and Peterborough now had full service east and west as well as north and south."

Mr. Henderson also produced records which reveal that Peterough was from pioneer times a very attractive site for industries which could be operated from water power. The first mill built by Adam Scott supplied the settlers' needs for several years. With the advent of the immigrants from the British Isles the Government constructed a larger mill which was later sold to local men who operated it for many years. Mills were later constructed on both sides of the river for grinding grain and manufacturing lumber, and also for operating tanneries and distilleries, etc.

Steam power was first used in 1846, a steam engine for use in Mowry's Foundry being obtained from Helm's in Cobourg. Other industries which found steam power more adaptable to use than the water power were gradually established in the growing town. Attempts were made at generating illuminating gas and in 1870 a plant was successfully operated which lighted the central portion of the town for some 23 years.

First Telephone In 1881.

The citizens and industries of Peterborough were early users of the telephone and in 1881 the first telephone exchange was established with 23 subscribers. The uses of electricity were first displayed to the people of Peterborough in 1884 when a demonstrating plant was operated with 17 lights.

The growing city soon felt the need of modern transportation and in 1893 an agreement was made between the C.G.E. and the city to operate an electric street railway. In the same years the city experienced the change from gas illumination by electricity and street lights were erected consisting of 60 lights of 2000 candle power and 15 lights of 1200 candle power.

Electricity up to this time was generated by steam engine, but in 1897 the first hydro electric plant was established on the river where now there are several plants along the stretch between Peterborough and Lakefield.

The street railway was abandoned some years ago in favor of bus transportation, and steam boat traffic on the river has almost disappeared, but other forms of transportation have increased steadily and the use of electricity for power and lighting has grown along with the steady growth of the C. G. E. Works.

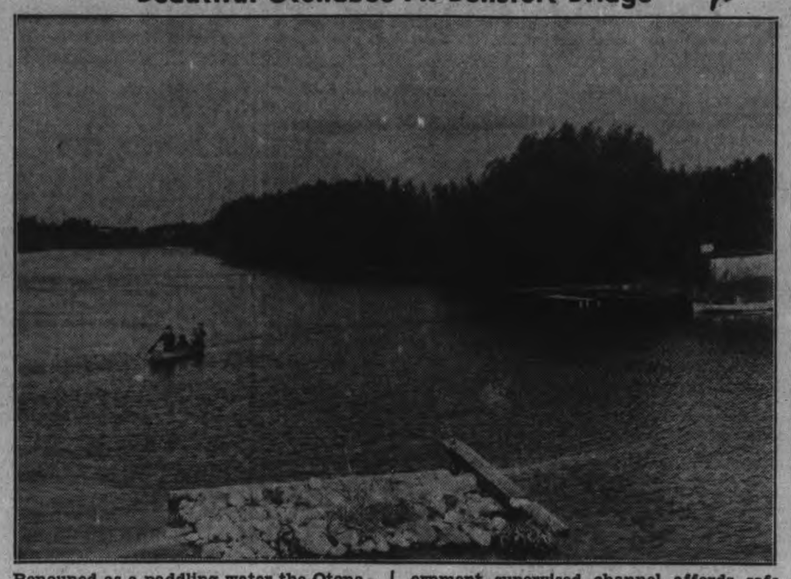
Beautiful Otonabee At Bensfort Bridge



Renounced as a paddling water the Otonabee amounds in each and every bay with the fighting fish that delight every tourist's heart—muskies bass and pickerel. The government supervised channel affords safe yachting for the big luxury craft and its expensive rice beds resound to the quacking of growing ducks that bring a host of hunters in the fall. 250 Varieties Of Gladioli Awaiting You PROBABLY Herb Cardwell hasn't planted one million gladioli at his home at Wallace Point this Spring, but that round number in seven figures is a rough estimate based on the amount of work that was involved.

His home overlooking the Otonabee River is at the north end of the Cardwell tourist camp and row of summer cottages, the vista from the wide and wire enclosed verandah extending over perhaps half a mile of the river. It is a charming prospect, greatly enhanced during the summer month by the many flowers in the adjoining gardens.

Mr. Cardwell's expansive interests have centred in recent years in the culture of gladioli. He has just completed planting 250 different varieties of which 130 are registered and named, the others being merely numbered varieties that have not yet been established. Mr. Cardwell has propagated them himself, and they are invarious stages of development from tiny seedlings to full sized corms. Most of the summer visitors to Wallace Point are unaware of the Cardwell gardens three or four hundred yards up the river on the north side of the road, and when they are in flower at midsummer and into September they are probably open to the public, especially those who are interested in gladioli.

Tastes Fluctuate

Mr. Cardwell sells thousands of bulbs in the later winter and early spring months, most of their distribution being directed through sale and retail channels. His business also includes the sale of thousands of spikes of "glads" in Peterborough and elsewhere, florists depending upon his large supply for their summer requirements. Mr. Cardwell told the Examiner the other day that he has to discard almost thirty to forty varieties every year, this constant change indicating the fluctuating tastes of the publice and especially the horticulturists who specialize in gladioli.

Growing "glads" is an interesting occupation and it also demands a great deal of work, from the preparation of the ground, the treatment fo the bulbs against disease, their storage in drawers and bins for the separate varieties, their register in stock books, finally their sale, and eventually the coming of a new planting season. Mr. Cardwell has had a great deal of success at flower shows, including the Peterborough Exhibition, and he has also kept his bulbs free of disease, an important factor in commercial expansion of the business. His hope is to develop an outstanding variety from his 130 numbered seedlings.

Sunday Services Week-End Feature

SIX of the eight cottages at W. H. Pearson's summer resort, "Bay View," on Deer Bay, were occupied for the entire month of August in 1937 by ministers and their families from the United States. One of them was the Rev. Boice Atwell of Beaver Falls, Pennsylvania, one was from New Jersey and others from Ohio.

"During the last fifteen years we have had some outstanding clergymen as our guests," Mr. Pearson recently informed the Examiner. "Sunday evening services are always a feature of our weekends. The rotunda or central living room is crowded by the people who are holidaying with us."

WHEN LUNGE WERE CHEAP.

Older residents of Peterborough can recall the days when lunge used to be peddled from house to house, and you could buy one for twenty-five cents big enough for the average family's dinner. That was in the period before the American tourists discovered the Kawartha Lakes. Muskies could be bought at your door step for two cents a pound, and they were sent to Toronto in barrel lots.

HOME ON WHEELS

Tourist trailers made their first appearance in significant numbers in the Kawartha area in 1936. Touring authorities anticipate a greatly-increased number of such homes-on-wheels will move through the district this season.

Peterborough Is the Home Of the Famous Canoe

The Peterborough Canoe is found in most countries in the world and constantly bobs up in pages of fiction. The canoe as is known today orginated in Peterborough, for it was here that the idea of building a wooden boat copied in style after the birch-bark craft of the Indians was first brought forward and acted upon.

PETERBOROUGH, the gateway to the Kawartha Lakes is also known the world over as the home of the famous Peterborough canoe, a craft that has been used in many countries around the globe and constantly bobs up too in the pages of fiction, especially in stories dealing with the gerat-out-doors.

The Peterborough Canoe Company has for many years manufactured this type of small boat and done so successfully that the quality of Peterborough-made boats has become recognized everywhere. It is interesting to note that the canoe as we know it today originated in Peterborough for it was here that the idea of building a wooden boat copied in style after the birchbark craft of the Indian was first brought forward and acted upon. Before its advent the birch canoe and the dugout, a boat made by hollowing out a log, were the only canoes on the rivers of Canada and it can be imagined that the new craft with its graceful lines, its ability to stand up and the ease with which it could be handled in expert hands soon attained a widespread popularity that it obtains today.

Jonathan Stephenson was the inventor of the Peterborough canoe. He it was who first saw the possibility of making a copy in wood of the Indian birchbark craft and his theory proved so obviously practical that it revolutionized the small boat business and gave Peterborough an industry that has carried the name of this city from one end of the world to the other.

Began in 1897

The Peterborough Canoe Company was launched by the late Col. Rogers in 1897 and has been in continuous operation ever since. At one time it was just one of a number of concerns engaged in the manufacture of canoes along the lines suggested by Stephenson's invention but the passage of time has seen most of these other firms disappear from the field leaving the Peterborough Canoe Company with its fine craftsmanship and its intimated knowledge of the smallboat industry, alone to supply the world with Peterborough canoes and othre small craft. While these firms have gone however the best of their work can still be reproduced for the Peterborough Canoe Company has retained all the plans and models of those earlier builders and can on demand turn out one of the styles of bygone days.

Recently several Peterborough canoes were shipped to Rhodesia in South Africa where they are to be used for commercial purposes. Another has been ordered by an American traveller who intends to make a 10,000-mile journey in the Peterborough-made boat. There is nothing particularly new in such orders for Peterborough canoes have been sent all over the world. One may find them on the Thames in old England or on the waters of South African or South American rivers. They are known down under in Australia and many other distant parts of the globe.

Opened Up North

Here in Canada of course the Peterborough canoe has been one of the outstanding factors in opening up the pioneer districts for until the advent of the airplane, the canoe and the dog team were the only agencies of transportation in the northland. There were Peterborough canoes in the gold rush to the Klondike; in Peterborough canoes travelled the fur-trader, the explorer and the missionary on the rivers of the far north; the surveyors who laid out the routet of Canadian trans-continental railways found Peterborough canoes of invaluable assistance. The popular craft is still to be found everywhere where there is open water in the northland although some of the romance associated with it has disappeared by reason of the fact that the splash of the paddle has in many cases given way to the hum of the outboard motor.

The Peterborough Canoe Company still manufactures all types and sizes of canoes from the small single craft to the Big Hudson Bay freighters and the war canoes manned by crews for racing purposes but the operations of the plant have expanded and widened with the years until now they include every style and kind of small crafts and a good many vessels that could scarcely be described as small. Naturally the company has been one of the pioneers in turning out boats of a nature to be driven by outboard motors and the tourist who visits any water resort in Canada is likely to find a Peterborough outboard motorboat wherever he goes.

Craft intended for inboard use are also turned out in numbers and the company's products include sailing dinghies, rowboats of all kinds, the flat-bottomed punts and about everything that could be listed in the category of small boats.

In the manufacture of all these there is a uniform excellence of production, that comes only from many years of experience in the industry and from a craftsmanship that has been handed down from one generation to another.

CHEQUE PROVES BLESSING IN TIME OF NEED

On Tuesday we received a letter from a young woman who is in domestic service in an Ontario city. She acknowledged the cheque for insurance policy No. 368,243 on the life of her sister and said:

"This policy was a wonderful asset. My sister and I work in private homes. Mary always kept her insurance paid but saved little otherwise. Having no home she was taken to the hospital and was sick for three weeks. There were doctors, special nurses, and finally burial expenses. Had it not been for her insurance I would have been in debt for a long time. Now her debts are paid and I have some money to make me feel independent in my lonely hours."

It is to those receiving modest incomes that insurance often means so much. In the case stated above it meant the difference between independence and a lengthy financial burden.

When choosing your life insurance company consider the 68 year record of this Canadian "mutual" company. Any of our representatives, or Head Office will be glad to assist you in selecting the right type of policy.

Killed in Fall

BRANTFORD. — Falling from a ladder while at work on the Bank of Toronto building at Paris, near here, George Miller was killed. Crown Attorney F. E. D. Wallace of Brantford decided no inquest necessary. He is survived by his widow and two children.

Boy is Missing

KINGSTON. — Fearing for his safety, Provincial and local police are searching for a 14-year-old boy believed to have been carried away by thieves who stole a motor car belonging to Mrs. Bryan Hawley of Sharbot Lake, 40 miles north of here.

Kiwanians Hold Inter-Club Supper Meeting

Kiwanians had one of the largest turnouts in months when they held an inter-club supper meeting at the Empress hotel on Friday evening. Guests included Oshawa and Lindsay clubs, who were warmly welcomed by L. J. Pettit, president of the Peterborough club.

Seevnty-five per cent. of the entire membership of the Oshawa club was present, it was reported, and there was a strong deputation from Lindsay. It was generally conceded to be one of the most successful and enthusiastic inter-club meetings that the Peterborough Kiwanis club has yet sponsored. Another guest of the evening was Ivan Moore, district governor of Kiwanis, who brought greetings to the three clubs from the Kiwanis International.

Following the dinner the entertainment was in the hands of the Oshawa club, and Peterborough President Pettit turned the meeting over to Bert Coulter, president of the Oshawa club. Lou Beaton was in charge of entertainment from that time on. Chief entertainer was Walter Pearce of Oshawa with his "amateur Charlie McCarthy," who had Kiwanians roaring with laughter.

The necessity of Canada developing a strong sense of nationalism, yet maintaining her allegiance to the British Empire, was the subject of the address of the evening, given by Rev. W. H. Smith of Port Perry.

Nothing To Be Deplored

"Nationalism is the only way of true internationalism; it cannot come otherwise,' 'the speaker maintained. He said that the renewal of "crass nationalism" is not so much a thing to be deplored as is generally believed. The Jews at the time of Jesus were strongly nationalistic in spirit and realized they could not achieve greatness without that intensity of national feeling, and even without a country to call their own they have maintained that spirit, he said.

No country before Canada ever reached nationhood without waging war for her rights, he pointed out. He said she had blazed the way for the British Commonwealth of Nations and that Australia, Africa, even Ireland, owes much of her ability to reach nationhood without war, to Canada's initiative.

The founders of Canadian nationhood were suspected by their friends and opposed by their enemies, because both feared they were attempting to destroy British unity, he said. Even Gladstone had thought independence for Canada meant a complete breaking off of Anglo-Canadian relations. But once the step was taken it did not justify any such fears.

The cosmopolitan spirit of this land, where unity is held greater than diversity, is one of Canada's greatest heritages, he said. She shares such an outlook with only one other country in the world—United States. He praised the spirit of "bonne entente" that has grown up between French and English speaking peoples.

No Man Penalized

In this land no man is penalized because of his birth in any other country, he claimed. Because only the Indian and the Eskimo are native Canadians, no other can lay claim to a prime right to the title, he said. The only man against whom prejudice should be shown, in his opinion, was the man who cannot subscribe to British principles and institutions. Such a person should not be considered a Canadian, not because he was born in a foreign land, but because he cannot live up to the high requirements of citizenship in this land. He deplored the growth of fascism in Eastern Canada.

He hoped for a time when a man's Christianity may be the criterion, rather than his national affiliation. When loyalty to Christianity is the rule rather than loyalty to one's race, then "we shall be truer citizens."

"There are some who say that long after Canada's achievements in the Great War are forgotten, her achievements in international relations will be remembered by the world," the speaker said. He paid glowing tribute to the spirit of friendship and cooperation that exists between Canada and the United States. "In this land we have made an experiment that may serve at some future date as an example to war-torn Europe," he said.

Is Awarded Shield

WARREN GAMBLE

Three times winner of Grand Championship Shield at Boys' Hobby Show, who on Friday night was given permanent possession of the shield when championships were presented.

Warren Gamble 3rd Time Winner Is Given Shield

Warren Gamble, three times winner of the grand championship, was awarded permanent possession of the shield at the annual presentation banquet of the Boys' Hobby Show held in the Y.M.C.A.. last night. Other departmental championship awards were made to the following boys who were the most proficient in the hobby departments in which they entered: Len Thomas, stamps and coins; Miscellaneous, Mac Powell; Photography, Hugh Kenner; Radio, Don McPherson; Mechanical Models, Joe DeChatigny; Leathercraft, Frank Patterson; Model Aircraft, Mac Powell; Mechanical Drawing, D. Sellon; Soap Sculpture, Jim Hawthorne; Manual Training, Ray Titherington; Swimming, Ted Clarke; Chess, Emile Armstrong; Ping Pong, Fred Garner; Checkers, Leonard Wall; Captain of the Intermediate Basketball Team, Sam Rogow; Captain of the Junior Basketball Team, Bill Gardiner; Music, John Flagler.

Winners of the special prizes offered by the Western Clock Company, Quaker Oats and R. L. Dobbin were: Sam and Ralph Rogow, B. Ferguson, Don McPherson, Ted Clarke, Eric Taylor, Don Flett, Adrian Langhorne and Emile Armstrong.

Retiring President Stuart Laing and Treasurer Harry Vass were heartily congratulated upon the success of the show. Mr. N. C. Munro was presented with a token of appreciation from the directors for the excellent work he did in his department of special exhibits, Mr. A. Hope's exhibit was outstanding.

John Flagler, boy singer, and winner of the championship of the music department, delighted the gathering with two vocal selections.

The newly elected officers for the next annual Hobby Show were: Gerald Fitzgerald, president; Ken Gillespie, vice-president; Joe Cook, Secretary; and Wilton Hillier, Treasurer.

Jackson Park With Its Sighing Pines

Beautiful woodsy spot at the city's edge with shaded trails and bathing pool in the cool clean waters of the creek that ripples through its borders make this one of the most popular sites in the country side for the picnicker. Here the Kiwanians have their summer camp for underprivileged children and hundreds of these kiddies get their annual holiday outing.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

By an Examiner Reporter.

MOTORCYCLE BURNS.

A motorcycle ridden by C. Heard, R.R. 4, took fire Friday afternoon as the cyclist started up his machine in front of the J. K. Hughes establishment and in a moment the flames were shooting high. A call to the fire department brought a squad who extinguished the fire quickly with chemicals. The machine was badly damaged.

PLANTED TREE QUOTAS

The county council is going to make some appropriate recognition of the work the twelve rural schools whose pupils have fulfilled their promised plans of planting hardwood trees in front of their school premises. The planting has been completed, and is one of the minor projects mentioned early this year in the reforestation committee's effort to stimulate interest in the conserving of trees and planting of new ones.

MORE OLD PICTURES.

In the window of the Simpson store on George street are displayed seven more historical pictures to be added to the T. H. G. Denne collection of old Peterborough pictures. Included are pictures of Peterborough's first tennis club, taken on the old Ashburnham grounds, the old Chemong Park hotel, a county council picnic, 57 years ago, the residence of Police Magistrate Hatton and the first street car to be operated in Peterborough. They are finished in the same fine style as the other Denne pictures.

ASKS PUPILS TO ATTEND.

Dr. H. R. H. Kenner requests that pupils of the third and fourth forms of the Collegiate and Vocational Institute shall be present at the school at 9 o'clock on Monday morning. The purpose is to attend the funeral service of the late Miss Edith Murphy of the teaching staff. The scholars of the third and fourth form have no examinations on Monday, and for that reason would otherwise not be present. For that reason the principal desires them to be notified that their presence is requested.

MEETING AT KEENE

Larger administrative areas for rural school boards will be discussed at a public meeting to be held in Keene Monday night under the sponsorship of the Otonabee township council. The main speakers will be V. K. Greer, Chief Inspector of Public Schools, and Dr. J. B. McDougal, assistant Chief Inspector. Reeve W. A. Anderson told the Examiner the council considered the people of the township should have an oportunity of hearing the Department of Education's regulations which afford increased grants for school sections which unite their boards. The general advantages of composite boards will be reviewed.

Tories Choosing 82 Delegates

TORONTO, May 28—(C). — The Ontario Conservative Association met here to-day to select 82 delegates-at-large from Ontario to the coming Dominion convention of the party at Ottawa.

The number of delegates to be chosen by the Provincial Association is additional to the delegates chosen by the various constituency parties.

Names of the delegates will not be announced after the meeting, but the list will be forwarded to Ottawa.

Invitation Extended to Citizens To Join In Welcome To Governor

An invitation to all citizens of the city and county of Peterborough to join fully in the civic welcome to be tendered Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, on the occasion of his official visit here on Tuesday, May 31, was extended today by Mayor James Hamilton.

"Peterborough's deep loyalty to the King and Empire is well known," stated Mayor Hamilton. "This is an opportunity, which I am confident our citizens will not miss, to join together to express a warm welcome to Lord Tweedsmuir, representative of the King and Empire ties in Canada.

"Careful plans for the reception of the Vice-Regal party have been worked out during the past month by a committee of citizens under the direction of Alderman Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., and I know that so far as the city official is concerned the program is one in which we can all take pride. However, we must all join together to do our part if the visit of the Governor-General is to be as significant as I hope it will prove to be.

"Confederation Square will be the scene of Lord Tweedsmuir's reception at 3.15 Standard Time on Tuesday afternoon. This will be one of the high-lights of the visit since then the citizens who present themselves will be introduced to the Governor-General. I hope that citizens in large numbers will attend this reception.

"The officers and men of the Prince of Wales Rangers are naturally taking a leading part in the program for the day. When Lord Tweedsmuir arrives he will be received at the station by an official party and will inspect the guard of honor furnished by the regiment. He will then be paraded to the War Memorial at Confederation Square, where he will place a wreath in memory of Peterborough's dead heroes.

"The Governor-General's party will then motor to Lakefield and Grove School where a program has been arranged. Early in the afternoon he will return to Peterborough and at Confederation Square will be tendered an official welcome on behalf of the city and county of Peterborough.

"School children will have an opportunity to welcome the Governor-General during the motor drive which will precede the reception," stated the Mayor.

"I hope that merchants will decorate their stores with flags and bunting, and that citizens will dress-up their homes with flags. The Governor-General, I know, is interested in making an extended motor drive around the city, and I hope that citizens will take a little special care to have lawns and shrubbery neat for his inspection.

"I am proud of Peterborough, and I know that I am going to be doubly proud of this city and its citizens on Tuesday when I have the pleasure of showing the city to Lord Tweedsmuir and of introducing its citizens to the King's representative."

Too Much Makeup

MELBOURNE, Australia, May 28 (CP-Reuters).—Disapproval of girls going to mass or receiving holy communion with lipstick on their lips is voiced by Rev. J. Lanigan. While administering the sacraments, Father Lanigan said, his fingers have become smeared with lipstick and he has been forced to leave the alter and wash his hands.

"How girls can appear in public with faces looking like their is beyond me," he added. "Quite a number of girls come in late for Mass because they spend too much time making up."

A Bigger Armory

OTTAWA, May 28—(CP). — Department of National Defence last night announced award of contracts for construction of an addition to the armory at Rimouski, Que., and of a single dormitory at the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals depot, Barriefield, Ont.

The successful bidders were the Frontenac Construction Company Limited for the Barriefield job, at $57,279, and Alphonse Bellavance, Rimouski, at $22,895 for the Rimouksi construction.

Practical Joker Fakes Telegram On Irish 'Sweep"

A MAN who watched a fortune slip through his fingers on Thursday, is today contemplating ruefully on the queer quirk in a person's makeup that makes him play practical jokes on unsuspecting victims.

This man, who works at the Peterborough Canoe Company, bought a ticket on the Irish Sweepstakes, and happened to tell some of his fellow workers about it. One of them was of that strange species, the practical joker, and when the draw was made in Ireland on Thursday, he was at top form.

Securing a cable form, he typed out a message to his victim, informing him that he had drawn a horse. He got a boy to deliver the message and watched with glee as the victim read the message. The happy man's shouts drowned the joker's chuckles. Not until much later in the day did the worker learn that his fortune was ill fortune.

Song No. 7 Taboo For W.C.T.U.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Maq 28. (CP).—"Now we're all going to join in singing No. 7 in our song book," the master of ceremonies said yesterday to delegates to the Welland county convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

The delegates rustled the pages of their books, then gasped.

The song was: "There is a Tavern in the town."

CHAPTER 47

"WHAT IS the bad news?" Barbara asked the newspaper man who had been summoned to the telephone when she called the press offices in London.

"It may be good, you know. You never can tell about these things. Last night two of the crooks were caught as they attempted to pass a dummy instead of the millionaire baby in return for the remainder of the money. The third degree broke them after several hours and they took the police to the hideout, but it was empty. These two men swore that the captives were all right when they left. They say that they were just hired by a gang to act as agents."

"Maybe Garry escaped," Barbara said.

"Maybe he did," the man answered so gently that Barbara knew he was trying to be very kind.

"Well, thank you for everything. I'm sailing this evening."

She was nearly dressed, and her luggage had been taken downstairs, when her telephone rang again. It was a frightening sound these days. She answered in a low voice, holding tight to her courage. It was the house desk calling.

"Miss Kingsley, there is a person from one of the newspapers who would like to see you."

"Thank you, I'm coming down at once."

Barbara was wearing the new suit to-day, the green hat and a gray blouse. She carried her fur coat, gray gloves and a green bag.

"You wished to see me?" she asked the tall young man whom the clerk at the desk pointed out to her.

"Oh, yes. Miss Kingsley?" His eyes were searching her face, as though he did not believe her words.

"But you are very pretty, you know," he said, with such a disarming smile that Barbara could not be provoked. "Not what I expected, not at all!"

"I don't quite understand why you should expect anything," she said.

"Lets sit down. He motioned to some gilt covered chairs in the orfolding doors. "I want a story or at least a few quotes to use in a feature on this American kidnapping. You know Garry Page, I gather?"

"What is your newspaper connection?" Barbara asked.

He named the paper. It was a small paper that catered to news of Americans. "Miss Ayer, as you no doubt know, is prostrate at the kidnapping of Mr. Page. She had been engaged to marry him and due to a quarrel had walked out of his life and his play."

At the sheer impudence and daring that would capitalize on anything, even tragedy, Barbara gaped. Her eyes froze into two minute gray lakes of ice. She stood up.

"Im sorry—there isnt anything I could possibly say to you."

"Miss Ayer said that you used to be a friend of Mr. Page's and no doubt would wish to express some sympathy and fear."

The boy was clean cut and honest looking. Because so many of her friends belonged to the fraternity of newspaper men, and she herself was one of the circle, Barbara felt a kinship with him. Wenda was taking him for a ride on the merry-go-round and he didn't even hear the calliope.

During her years of association with newspaper men—Peter first, then Garry and Ray—Barbara had felt a sincere respect for the manner in which they demanded absolute proof of the authenticity of their facts. However, when a woman said something for publication, which would be enclosed in her own quotes, there was little any reporter could do about it. Moreover, once upon a time, in another world, Wenda had been engaged to marry Garry.

The closeness that she had felt to Garry these past days began to sway and move outward. She would not let it go! Wenda was something which had happened long ago. Hadn't Garry said that he loved her—Barbara? Hadn't he hunted for her, come to the ship and watched until it turned seaward.

Ah, if she had known then that she might never see him again! She had thought she would learn to be so casual, so gay, if ever their paths crossed—

"Garry Page is a splendid friend of mine," Barbara told the waiting reporter. "Now I must go."

"What about a picture? We took one of Miss Ayer."

"I'm not an actress." The reporter could not get the double meaning. "No one could care about a picture of a girl who merely knew a man." She smiled. "Besides I don't seem to suit Miss Ayer's description."

The cab was waiting for her. She stepped into it. All the way to Victoria station, all the way to Southampton on the boat train, she longed for the moment when she would be on the boat. She stared at the English gardens, where grass was turning green, and early colors flamed against old stone walls and hedges, as the train passed through the lovely landscape, but she did not see them. Her thoughts were far ahead, boarding a ship.

There was none of the excitement of the former crossing. It seemed to Barbara that a certain resolute grimness marked the faces of the passengers. She wondered if she interpreted others' emotions in the light of her own, or if all of life had grown frightening for everyone.

Yet the music was as gay in the ballroom that night, and the people suddenly were as happy. She did not go into the lounges after dinner. She climbed to the highest deck and stood, leaning against a funnel, watching the fog dissolve and the moon shine out, clear and cold and white. The sea was rough and the dark waves seemed to break into a million shining diamonds as they reached their crest.

She tried not to think about Garry's danger. Out here, in the vast immensity of sea and sky and space, she could send a prayer winging skyward, with strange confidence that it would be answered. "Deliver him safely, please God," she prayed.

She slept better than night than she had done for several nights and in the morning started out to take a long hike around the deck. When you were very tired you slept, and when you slept you didn't think. She had been tired last night and she would be even more tired tonight.

But the worry and the fear went with her. She could almost see them, two shadows, following her. She was coming back to her own room when a steward stopped her.

"A radiogram for you, Miss," he said.

The fingers that took the thin envelope were cold and trembling. She went into her own stateroom, closed the door, and lighted a lamp by the desk. In a moment she would know if the future would be filled with love and beauty and happiness, or if it would be forever empty.

She closed her eyes and breathed a prayer that she might be brave enough to face it, whatever came. Then with hands that she held steady through force of will, she opened the envelope.

There were only two words in the message. "Garry safe."

Suddenly the boat was singing, winging its way to America, and the music that drifted from the lounge was lilting with gladness.

She put her head down, on the desk, and began to cry. All the pent up anxiety and fear and hurt of many months were in those sobs. When the storm abated, she looked up. Relief and happiness were flooding her like water flowing down the mountain streams. She felt clean and revived.

She did not know how Garry had escaped, nor did she even wonder in those first minutes. It was enough to know that she would see him, hear him, touch him. Sometimes, when people had suffered much, she knew, they dropped old sorrows and loves and visions. Yet even that did not frighten her. Love that was love would bear all things, believe all things, endure all things, yes, even hope all things!

Several times that day she had approached a radio, hoping for a news broadcast, only to come away both disappointed and relieved, because there had been nothing. No longer afraid, she again settled herself to listen.

The few terse sentences in which the commentator explained that Garry had doped the coffee for his two captors, taken the child and fled during the time that the other two kidnapers were being apprehended and questioned, were interrupted by static, yet to Barbara the radio never had held words that were so golden.

Suddenly she wondered how she would approach Garry. After all, she couldn't very well go up to him, and say: "I've never stopped loving you and I've heard you love me, too." And yet, why couldn't she?

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Not long ago I read a brilliant article in a magazine in which the writer, Helen Van Pelt Wilson, said: "I expect to break the news to my daughter very early that this is a man's world, made for them and run by them. Women who early recognize this fact and gracefully accept it save themselves a lot of trouble and get places in the end." What do you think of that?

BOB.

Answer:

I think it is true. Man got the bulge on woman at the start. He was made first. By the time woman got here he had pre-empted pretty much everything worth having, and he has kept the initial advantages thus gained ever since.

Men, take them by and large, are bigger and have more physical strength than women. They think, at any rate, that they may have better brains, and indubitably there are more men geniuses than there are women, and men have achieved many triumphs of which no women would be capable. They made the laws that govern society and adopted the conventions which are easy on themselves and hard on women. They have copped the best jobs, monopolized most of the pleasures and perquisites, and made it a man's world. About the only field they have left open for women's exclusive use are the maternity hospitals.

There isn't a thing that women have to do that isn't harder for them to do than it is for men, just by reason of their being women. It is harder for a girl to get married than it is for a boy, because the girl has to sit pretty and suck her thumbs until some lad goes by and notices her, whereas he can go out and hunt up a wife if he wants one. If she marries, she is ten times as much married to her husband as he is to her. She has to do most of the adjusting, and most of the gum-shoeing around prejudices and ways and whims if the marriage is to be a success. She has to give up her name and take his, and sink her individuality into his.

If she goes into business, she has to be twice as capable, do twice as much work and accept a lower wage than a man would get to hold down the job. And if she is a professional woman, she has to give up her career for which she has spent years of study and thousands of dollars if she wants to be a good wife and mother.

There you are. Men are not to blame for the handicaps under which women labor. Things were just made that way. And so as it is impossible for women to compete with men on an even plane, I agree with Mrs. Wilson that it is wise for women to accept the fact and co-operate with them instead of becoming their rivals. At any rate, I am certain that women are most successful when they stick to their own work, the work for which they have an inherited aptitude handed down to them by countless generations of their foremothers, than when they try to unsurp men's jobs, just as thy are more beautiful in soft, gay, feminine apparel than they are in pants.

The best woman stevedore cannot lift as heavy load as a poor man stevedore could. And the best that women have given to the commercial world are their feminine qualities. "Our invaluable Miss Jones" in many an office is invaluable because she has the housewifely instincts that make her keep her files orderly and know where to put her hands on paper in the dark, and a memory for trival things that somehow become important.

Most of the women who have made money have been dressmakers or milliners, sales women or hotelkeepers, not blacksmiths or steeple jacks. And millions of other women have found full, useful and rich lives in marrying and making homes and rearing children. So while it is true that this is a man's world, women get a pretty good share of it, after all. And they get most when they work with men instead of in opposition to them.

• • • • • •

DEAR DOROTHY DIX— I am 19 years old, engaged to a man of 35, whom I love with all my heart and he seems devoted to me. We get along beautifully, are very congenial and everything would be fine and dandy, except for one thing. He is a widower and the staple of his conversation is his first wife. He is always telling me of the wonderful times they have together; that she always did as he asked; how beautifully she sang; how gracefully she walked, how interestingly she talked, and he says that he "hopes" that we will get along together as nicely as he and she did. This upsets and hurts me so that after one of these scenes with his wife's spirit I cry myself to sleep. He would misunderstand my feelings if I were to come right out and tell him how I feel, but I must do something. What?

MISS R. S. Y.

Answer:

This is the time for handing the gentleman a solar plexus blow with the plain truth. Tell him exactly how you feel about having his first wife always thrown in your teeth, and that if he is going to spend the remainder of his life descanting on her perfections, that he will have to get some other listener. You are fed up with it and through definitely.

It is a strange thing that a man who has enough intelligence to be out of a feeble-minded institution doesn't know that there is no other woman in the world alive or dead, of whom a woman is so jealous as she is of her husband's first wife. It is gall and wormwood to know that she wasn't his first love; that she didn't sit at the first table, and that all that he can give her is warmed over affection and rehashed romance. And you would thing that common humanity would keep him from rubbing it in by forever dragging No. 1 into the conversation and eulogizing her virtues for the benefit of No 2.

However, plenty of men do this. If you are going to marry one who is given to holding postmortems over your predecessor, you will be wise to put a stop to it before marriage. Otherwise, you will have to listen to it for years—and years and years.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am 25 and am fearful of being an old maid. Rather than be a spinster, would you advise me to marry a man whom I do not love just for the sake of being married? If I did so, would love come after marriage?

MARGARET.

Answer:

I certainly should not. Marrying just to be marrying is the most disastrous business a woman ever engages in. Don't try it. Anyway, what's the matter with being an old maid? Look around you and you will see that a lot of the happies, jolliest, most independent women are girl bachelors. Love seldom comes after marriage. If a man hasn't the qualities that attract you before marriage, he will not have them after marriage. . . . . DOROTHY DIX.

Daughter will look like a little princess in this crisp cotton dress. It is made of dimity—soft bright red, dotted in snowy white, that's dainty, yet serviceable. Sheer white organdie ruffling outlines the demure square neck and edges the tiny puffed sleeves. Matching pantees make it such a complete outfit. With the same pattern, mummy can make a buttoned-down-the-front princess dress of sturdy cotton percale in a solid color or one of those popular peasant prints. Contrast the Peter Pan collar in plain white or color. It's just the easiest dress to sew for it cuts in one-piece from neck to hem. The low price affords an opportunity to run up half dozen to keep her spic and span.

Style No. 2083 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. Size 4 requires 2¼ yards of 35-inch material with 1¼ yards of ruffling for dress and pantee.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

Knarf and Hanid, the shadows with the turned-about names, rubbed their eyes in astonishment. Out of each of the little acorns came all the little people, not one of them the least bit larger than Tom Thumb himself.

The little people clustered around the two shadow children crying: "Look at the giants! Look at the giants!"

"We're just ordinary folks," Hanid said. "We're not giants at all. We just seem to be big because you are so little."

But the little people—the Tom Thumbs—didn't think they ought to be called little. "We're the ones who are the right size and you're the giants."

"But never mind," Tom Thumb said. "You couldn't help it because you grew so big. It wasn't your fault. our mother and father fed you too much. And now come into my house. There's going to be a party."

"Look at the Giants"

"A party!" Hanid exclaimed joyfully.

Birthday Party

"A birthday party," Tom Thumb said. "Peg Cloverseed is just 10 years old today."

"I'm Peg Cloverseed,' said a tiny little girl. "I hope you'll enjoy my party," she said with a smile.

"Presents! Presents!" a little voice now started shouting. "No one can go to the birthday party without presents! Have you a present for little Peg!" the voice asked Knarf and Hanid.

"But where can we get a present?" Hanid asked.

"You'll have to find a present. Just look about until you find one."

So Knarf ran off. He was gone just a mniute and, when he returned, he had a present with him. It was a tiny bicycle made of two daisy blossoms with blades of grass bound around the outside of the pedals (those were the wheels), and a stalk of wheat (that was the crossbars and the handlebars). The pedals were made of two thorns from a rose bush.

And you can't imagine how happy Peg Cloverseed was when she saw it!

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, May 29.

Sunday's horoscope is a very important one, with powerful culminations in the affairs, both business and private. A devastating influence may change the entire career calling for a complete orientation in environs and objectives.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of thrilling events. These may cause sudden rearrangement of the life interests, environs, and contacts in which very powerful friends seem to have a part.

A child born on this day, born under the very powerful sidereal influences of a total solar eclipse, will be difficult to interpret in its reactions to life and destiny, although it may be of sound and noble character and magnanimous impulses.

For Monday, May 30.

Monday's astrological forecast is for extremely lively general conditions with probably major upsets, upheavals and commotion. This combination may be rather exciting on the surface but attended by hidden or peculiar situations at the source. These may be disturbing, distressing or intriguing.

Those whose birthday it is face a very intriguing, surprising and mysterious year, with subtle and hidden things at the core perplexing, but with much excitement and commotion. Strange persons and influences may work against you, but faithful friends, prudence and probably spiritual honesty may sidetrack disaster.

A child born on this day may have a profound, subtle and studious nature, with marked tendencies to explore the unknown, occult and mysterious. It may be original in thought, plots, and ideas, and might be a success as a writer of peculiar adventures or "mystery" fiction.

"The Authority on Authorities"

SHOWING HIS TEMPER

WHEN A brilliant player happens to be temperamental as well, fireworks may be put on dispay. The same mental capacities which steer him to soundness most of the time can go haywire and result in all manner of bizarre bids and plays. Even the presence of kibitzers does not necessarily act as a deterrent, but may prove a temptation to such an artistic type.

(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

West opened this deal with a pre-emptive bid of 4-Diamonds, which East properly passed, knowing his partner was showing a hand worthless except at diamonds and also was overbidding about two tricks to shut out the opponents. South bid 4-No Trumps, meaning this in the conventional and artificial sense employed by many players to force a take-out into some other suit, since a double of a pre-empt is used by them as intended to penalize the bid. North thought South meant his bid literally, however, so passed, which infuriated South.

When West led the diamond K, South decided to get fancy. He discarded the spade A on that trick, next the K on the diamond Q and the spade Q on the diamond A. West then refused to lead into dummy's good diamond J, switching instead to the heart 8, won by the A. South saw that he had to win two finesses in clubs, so needed two entries to dummy. His only chance for these was first to finesse the spade 8, which worked. After cashing the diamond J and finessing the club 10, he overtook the spade 10 with the J, cashed two more spades, won another club finesse, then took in the A and 5 of clubs.

• • •

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

How would you play this deal for 5-Diamonds after West leads the club 10?

Collegiate Notes

EMPIRE DAY.

Empire Day was observed in P.C.I.'s morning assembly with an address by Bill Davidson, and the singing of the National Anthem.

Davidson told the story of the meaning of Empire Day, why it is observed, and outlined the general history and expansion of the Empire from the time of Alfred the Great's first British navy, through the reign of Her Late Majesty Queen Victoria up to the present time. In closing his address, Davidson quoted from a recent speech by Stanley Baldwin, one-time prime minister of England.

CHURCH PARADE.

About one hundred and fifty officers and cadets paraded to St. John's Anglican Church. The corps was honored to have parade with them Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, the principal of P.C.I. and honorary colonel of the battalion.

PRESENTATIONS.

A group of about fifteen students of P.C.I. were given their school letter and crest this week. The presentations were made by Mr. Wesley Brown. Among those to receive crests were the elected executive of the Students' Council; Miss Mary McPherson, captain of girls' basketball team, and the team; Miss Merrill Smith, pianist; Miss Edna Borland, and Ronald Dick, both of the Echoes staff, and the Senior boys' basketball team.

The two boys' basketball teams were presented with the crests for winning the C.O.S.S.A. championships of their respective groups.

OBERVATION PLATFORM.

Tuesday was a holiday and gave the Middle and Upper School students a chance to prepare for exams. . . . It is understood Bill Davidson is going to preside over a class in oratory and gymnastics next fall. . . The baseball schedule opened on Friday night. The following players compose the team: B. Parnell, B. King, B. Moorhead, H. Cutting, D. Millen, N. Foster, E. Ward, D. Collins; D. Rose, A. King, D. Morrow, J. Craig, K. Mowry, G. Smith, and P. Turner. . . Practise was held this week at Riverside. . . It is rumored that there may be a one-day cadet camp and general field day some Saturday soon. . . . Middle and Upper School classes will be resumed on June 1, and will continue until 14, when the departmental exams begin. . . . Nels Foster is turning in a nice job of pitching this year. . . . The team would appreciate seeing a few of the students down to see the games. . . . A little encouragement helps, and it doesn't cost a cent.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

Our free mixed tournament last night (Friday) was not as favorably attended as we expected, but nevertheless those that did come out seemed to enjoy it all the way through. Conditions for bowling were greatly improved over the other two nights and with a little warm weather we will be well away for the season. On Monday, May 30 the men's schedule commences and on Tuesday, May 31, the ladies' section gets underway.

Now that all the members have received their schedule books we hope they will read them carefully as it carries a complete program of the season's games.

Last night's winners:

Mrs. P. Moore, M. Hickey, P. Moore, Dr. Allen, (first linen table sets and china tea set).

Mrs. J. Cullen, C. McMillan, Mrs. W. Zeihr and F. Brain (second, water sets).

Mrs. H. Wilson, H. Beatty, Mrs. Delon, H Freman (third, bowl measures).

Pioneer Nurse Dies

CALGARY, May 28 (CP) — Miss Harriet A. Boyes, pioneer Alberta nurse who to oldtimers was known as the "Florence Nightingale of the West," died in hospital here Thursday. Born in Hamilton, Ont., Miss Boyes came west to Pincher Creek in 1901 and for years was the only graduate nurse in the pioneer country of the foothills.

Baron Is Rebuked

Baron Shu Tomii, newly appointed Japanese ambassador to Canada, was rebuked by Premier Mackenzie King in the House of Commons for remarks, made during a newspaper interview in Niagara Falls, concerning China. Baron Tomii was quoted as having predicted an early defeat for China in its present struggle with Japan.

Five-Round Bouts In Mitt Program

Four five-round and three three-round bouts make up up almost 70 minutes of boxing—barring knockouts—at the Riverview A.C. mitt show at 8.30 Monday night next in the George St. lacrosse arena. The main event, semi-final and two prelims feature local boxers against Toronto pugs in scraps of five two-minute rounds. In addition there will be an exhibition of amateur wrestling by two Toronto middies in one fall or 30 minutes. The show, under the lights, in the outdoor arena should run about two hours. Norm Bowler is promoter and Harry Low the matchmaker. Judges are Wilf Jones and Archie Menzies, with Jack Withers the timer. Referee is Jimmy Simpson of Toronto.

Main bout features Nick Orlando, 135, vs. Young Jackie, Toronto. Dutch McIlmoyle, 165, tackles Larry Hinds of Toronto in the semi-final. Joe Hobbins, 147, meets Jack Volpie of Toronto in a prelim, and Bill Joiner, 132, faces Walter Hicks of Toronto in another. Roy Prince, 140, and Hal Jones are locals in a bout; with Mal Packenham, 135, fighting Bert Prince in another local session. Buddy Redmond, 80, lifts the curtain against Joe Berardi. Wrestlers are Red Garner and Bert Crothall.

The Examiner Puts On Its New Dress Today

In honour of its Annual Vacation Edition, The Examiner comes out today in its new dress. It's only a month ago that the two latest Linotypes, Numbers 30 and 31 were erected in the shop — the first to arrive in Canada. Since then they have been gradually working in their 60,000 parts and their 16,200 new type dyes. Today's edition is evidence of what they can do.

Every line, with the exception of 11 words in Sections 1, 2 and 3 of the Vacation Edition is "key-board" composition. This means that readers and advertisers alike have the advantage of fresh new type in every word. No letter is used the second time.

And in the regular edition, The Examiner has gone fully "streamlined". Artists, technicians and scientists have been redesigning type and methods of setting to make it quicker to read and more pleasing to the eye. The result is "stream-lining". We feel sure that all our readers will agree that this modern treatment is a very real improvement.

Cheerful Workers Bible Class Meeting

Mrs. H. H. May, Lansdowne street, west, lent her pretty home last night to the Cheerful Workers' Bible Class of St. James' United Sunday School for their May meeting. The rooms were gaily decorated with lilacs and other spring flowers, and the class members and friends welcomed by Mrs. R. Payne.

After a brief business session, in charge of the president, a most entertaining program arranged and presided over by Mrs. Henry Turner was successfully carried out.

Two clever contests tested the biblical and geographical knowledge of the sixty class members. The first won by Mrs. Payne and her partner, Mrs. Littlefair and the Canadian towns and cities were solved by Mesdames W. Atkinson and W. A. Wood, while a large box of candy was the gift of the class to Mrs. T. Glover, one of their members, who leaves in June for a visit with friends in England.

"The golden wedding anniversary" a realistic bit of amateur acting was greatly enjoyed as played by Mesdames Littlefair, Payne, Moynes, Miss Hazel Palmer and Harold May and created much amusement.

A sing-song in groups of English, Scotch, etc. was a hit, as were the violin and piano solos, contributed by Henry and Cyril Robinson.

The vocal solo "Thy will be done" by Hazel Palmer and the duet "Beautiful City of Light" by Mesdames Hepburn and Pomeroy, with Mrs. Coombs accompanying for all were a very special treat. Another solo was "Love's Old Sweet Dream" sweetly sung by Mrs. W. A. Wood.

Interspersing the musical numbers, and in keeping with them were the beautiful readings "Unawares" by Jean Hammond and "An old man in a Scotch Church" by Gladys Langton.

Mrs. Copping and Mrs. McConkey convenors of refreshments dispensed delicious viands. While all enjoyed a social hour.

The thanks of the class were voiced to Mrs. May, as hostess, and to the artists providing the program, by Mrs. Littlefair and Mrs. Langford, after an especially fine meeting.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"The delay man, the 'wait until later' chap, is always in hot water. He carries a hundred postponed duties on the calendar of next week or next month, and as a result, he is always trying to catch up, but he never does." —Van Ambrugh.

Dear Friends:

How do you like a putter-offer? Never does it seem quite the time to do the things expected of him, he'll do them later, what's your hurry, why get all hot and bothered about it, and what a mess they can make of things.

Then, when the mess arrives and must be taken care of, the next excuse is, "I didn't think." Why don't they think? It is every one's duty to think, that is what brains are for. Although with some, it seems their head is only a place to hang a hat on.

What a cause of irritation the "wait until later" one can be. Never can they be depended on for doing the thing now, no matter how important it might be. What a lot of bother they are to themselves as well as others, for never is their work finished, and how often they tie up the work of others too by this habit of putting off.

Naturally, it is a habit that is contracted early in youth, and it is more easily curable in youth. My sisters and I did it with my young brother whose slogan seemed to be wait awhile. We all ganged up on him so that when he asked one of us to do something for him in a hurry, we would each say "wait awhile."

At first he was angry, but soon he saw the humour of it, and was quick at doing the thing he was asked to do. The same treatment could be given to an adult, for I have found with human nature that a dose of their own medicine makes a good cure.

They have got into the habit of thinking along certain lines, and when you do to them as they do to you, they understand quicker and learn faster. Reasoning does no good, for they simply accuse you of picking on them.

Punishing doesn't help, for they think you are making a mountain out of a molehill. Of course, you have to watch you don't get into the same habit yourself, when you keep putting them off until they learn. But, if you have been annoyed intensely by this habit in another, you will be less likely to develop the habit yourself.

One thing is sure, those who have contracted this habit are going to be big losers unless they can rid themselves of it. I knew a boy who lost his mother, simply because she had asked him to fix one of the cellar steps, and he said he would do it later. But when "later" came it was too much later, for the step gave way and killed his Mother.

Not all the lessons are so drastic as this, and one wonders why they do not learn how much they are missing by this habit of putting off. Who wants to wait until later for a thing that should be done now? Who would care to have people of this kind working for them? One would never be sure if the thing were done or not.

So, if this is one of your besetting sins, get rid of it and feel the utter freedom of doing a thing when it ought to be done. If you don't it will tangle your feet and hold you back, it will cost you the loss of jobs, of friends, of a reputation for dependability.

Generally too, when a person "waits awhile" he has to hurry so to get it done in time, that it is only half done. You begin to squander time, and Franklin tells us this of time: "Dost thou love life? Then do not squander time, for that is the stuff that life is made of."

So, do not spoil your life by being a putter-offer, but get busy and do the things you should do. That way happiness lies.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Branch Notes

ST. LUKE'S BRANCH.

St. Luke's A.Y.P.A. wound up their first half of the year with a rousing meeting attended by one of the largest turnout of members in some time. As it was Ascension Day, the first part of the program was appropriate for the occasion, and was in charge of Mrs. Curtis and Miss I. Bell. The second half was in charge of Art Sayers and Ralph Mason, and took the form of a scavenger hunt. The members were divided into groups, and had to get things anywhere from green onions to baby carriages. What a conglomeration of stuff. Jack Davis' group won the prize.

The branch put on their play in Apsley on May 24 to a full house. All proceeds were given to St. George's Church, the members of the cast giving their time and talent gratis.

We are planning to have ball games during the summer, and next Thursday night will be the start. We would like to see both girls and boys at King George School grounds at 7 p.m. We will have fun anyway.

Members are reminded of the monthly corporate communion on Sunday, May 29, at 8 a.m. Please make an effort to be present, as the Archbishop of the Diocese is expected to be at this service.

Y.W.C.A. Pageant Delights Brock St. Audience

A happy audience clapped their hearty enthusiasm as the brilliant, clever Pageant presented by the gymnasium classes of the Y.W.C.A. Friday night, held in the Summer Gardens, Brock Street, under the skilled supervision of Miss Caroline Littlefield, physical director, came to its close.

Each year the citizens of Peterborough look forward to this annual pageant which the Y.W.C.A. plans, and which demonstrates to the public the splendid training which is available to young people. Each year surpasses the last in clever artistry; lovely costumes and finished performance.

Tiny tots, in white tops and brief shorts, paraded on the stage in the lead of the March Processional, followed by the older girls, keeping step in a military parade which led them off the stage in single file.

Mayor J. Hamilton made the formal opening with a few words of appreciation for the work which is being carried on by the Y.W.C.A. of Peterborough, and congratulated Miss Littlefield for her part in the building up of healthy bodies and minds of young people.

Rhythmic Exercises "for flexibility; circulation; head poise; waist, shoulders, hands, feet, leg development and correct breathing" were smartly demonstrated by the Business and Senior School Girls' Classes, followed by the Babies' "Hit and Miss" Exercises. This feature provided much fun for the audience, as the babies marched on the stage carrying dumb-bells. They went through their exercises to the music of nursery rhymes quite unconscious of any spectators, and though rather "hit and miss" as to time, marched off quite proud of themselves!

Club Swinging.

A special group of girls demonstrated Club Swinging exercises, which had been specially requested. The entire number was executed with perfect timing, and precision. Skipping movements (a skip a day keeps the doctor away) presented by the Junior Gym Class, were gracefully done. Rhythmic exercises by the Intermediate and Senior Gym Group "for hips, thighs, back balance, stretching spine and body control" was the next movement, concluding with Senior Stunt Gymnastics.

The Wand Swing and Stretch, by the Intermediate Business Girls, was a splendid "toning up" exercise. Medau Eurhythmics, which are silver ball exercises to develop grace and strength; adapted from the Medau School of Eurhythmics, Berlin, Germany, were very graceful, and exceptionally effective, the girls wearing the "Y" blue in short tunics.

Fantasy of the Sea.

The second part of the program was the "Fantasy of the Sea," story and Choregraphy by Caroline F. Littlefield, and was inspired by the words of Tennyson, "High over the full-toned sea; hither, come, hither and frolic and play; we will sing to you all the way; and merrily, merrily carol the gales; and the spangle dances in bight and bay."

The little sand-children play happily on the sea-shore searching for star-fish and sea-shells, wearing bewitching bathing suits and sunbonnets, and digging sand with their little spades to fill the gaily-patterned pails. One dreamy child wanders away (Jean Millard) and lulled by the murmuring of the waves becomes sleepy. Suddenly Father Neptune, (Jessie Pattison) King of the Seas, appears. He is attired in flowing robes of green, which appear to be damp with spray; in his hand is a forked spear, and his beard is long and grey. He tells the frightened little Sand Child that he will show her the wonders of his Kingdom of the deep, and calls the Sea Maidens (Senior Ballet) Spirits of the wind and waves, to comfort the child.

The Solemn Penquins (Junior Tap) waddle in to shore, and are so amusing in their funny little dance. The dear little Oysters, (Junior Gym) just awakened from their bed, proudly show their lovely little pearls. So pretty they are, pink pearls peeping out of yellow and green sea shells. Then the See-Weed Maidens (Business Girls) great cronies of the oysters....maybe they are attracted by the pearls, dance for glee....and well they might, for they are wearing trailing, glistening sea weeds in shades of green, a dark red, deep yellow and rose, and their green slippers tap out a square dance number, to the great delight of the audience. Next come the Baby Seal Anemones, who invite the Sand Child to play hide and go seek with the Oysters. They are lovely little blossoms, long petals of yellow falling over little suits of mauve; wistaria over rose; green over silver, and the tiniest baby of them all (Ann Gray) in pink leaves, who has had the audience at her feet all evening, continues to unconsciously hold the spotlight as she does her pretty dancing on bare tip toes! And how ....Ho! Ho! The Lobsters (Senior Taps), just escaped from the lobster pot; such tricky creatures and inclined to be rather snobbish, (these costumes are most clever, and their shiny red backs, striped with green, are of red oilcloth; which also makes the tricky caps and long "claws") are followed by the school of Baby Gold Fish (Babies Gym), such bewitching little fellows with scales of yellow and gold, and little tales and finns that wave merrily when they dance with the King of the Gold fishes, who wear an elaborate costume of yellow with lovely brown fins. They coax the Sand Child to follow them to the strange little coves and caverns under the sea, here they find the jolly Jack Tars (Intermediate School Girls) who have been spying around "Davey Jones Locker" and teasing the Sea Maidens. In their sailor costumes they dance a merry horn pipe, and little lost sand child joins in, and quite over-shadows the sailor boys with her clever interpretation.

Designed Costumes

The costumes were designed by Miss Caroline Littlefield and Mrs. W. R. Blackwell, and were made up by groups from Trinity Church, St. Paul's, St. John's, George Street, Murray Street Baptist and St. Andrew's Church.

During the program, Miss Littlefield was presented with gifts and lovely baskets of flowers, brought to the stage by some of the wee tots, and bashfully proffered, for which they received a kiss from their beloved instructor! Flowers were also presented to Mrs. E. M. Foster, orchestra leader, and Mrs. J. Quinlan, pianist. The ushers were members of the Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E.

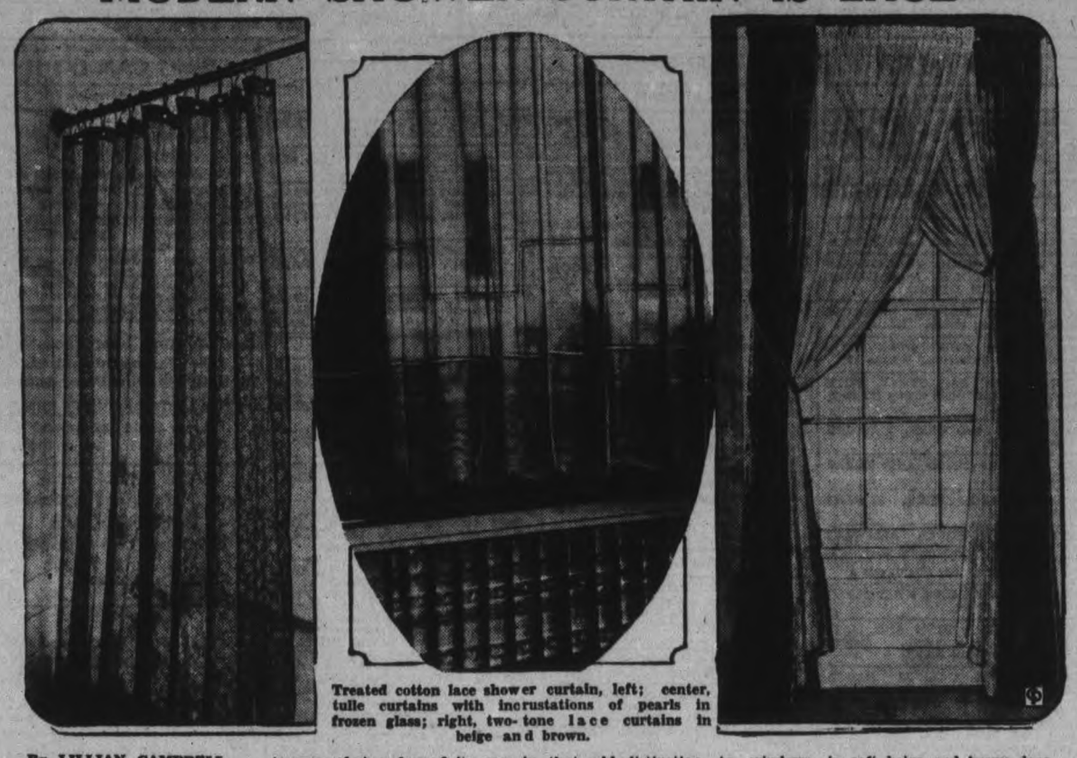
SOLD COW WITH FALSE TAIL

For selling a cow with a false tail, a cattle dealer was sent to prison for three days in Melnik, Bohemia, a hawker having bought the animal and was leading it home when the tail fell off.

MODERN SHOWER CURTAIN IS LACE



Treated cotton lace shower curtain, left; center, tulle curtains with incrustations of pearls in frozen glass; right, two-tone lace curtains in beige and brown.

By LILLIAN CAMPBELL

THE VOGUE for interior decorations invariably follows or goes hand in hand with fashion trends.

Because lace is so high in fashion favor, then, the interior decoration designers are doing new and interesting things with lace in the home.

Lace is being used for upholstery, draperies and lamp shades, to name but a few of its uses in the up-to-the-minute home.

Lace for the shower curtain in the bathroom seems a bit paradoxical, but at our left you see shower curtains that are actually made of cotton lace, which has been treated for water repellancy. It is you see, perfectly practical as well as charming and different.

In the center of the picture tulle is used as the medium for curtains that add distinction to windows. Tulle hangs and drapes effectively, and these curtains, designed by Lucien Rollin of Paris, are incrusted with pearls in frozen glass.

Two-Tone Curtains

Two-tone curtains look like curtains and draperies, at the window at the right. They are carried out in two colors of lace so that they allow for contrast or harmony. The curtains shown are in soft beige and brown lace.

Lampshades of lace are posed over crepe, the lace usually is a floral motif, half sheer and half solid, and the pattern is brought into sharp relief when the lamp is lighted. This type of lamp is appropriate for the boudoir, living room or study.

A solid fabric type of lace is used to upholster a chair. It is made of rayon and wool yarns.

Rotary Carnival On June 9 and 10

Preparations are well under way for the annual oRtary carnival, always one of the biggest events of the summer season.

This year, with several new features, the carnival will be held on June 9 and 10 and for the first time since then the market square will not be the scene of this gala affair. Instead it will be staged at beautiful Riverside Park where it is expected that it will be more successful than ever. The colorfully decorated booths and stalls in such a delightful setting should make this year's carnival the most picturesque the Rotarians have yet presented.

Peterborough citizens take a peculiar interest in the Rotary carnival and that is not surprising in view of the fact that it is now generally realized that every cent raised by the Rotary Club by this means is devoted to social service and community work. The public knows that when it assists the Rotarians financially it is assisting some crippled child or under-privileged boy and that is why there is always such a generous support for the annual carnival. The club's record in the matter of caring for crippled children has sold itself to the citizens generally and they are ready always to lend what financial support they can to the club's work.

This year the Rotarians are again offering a fine automobile to some lucky person and the sale of tickets for this splendid prize is reported as very brisk. The financial success of the whole affair isinterwoven in to this car proposition and citizens who buy tickets not only have a chance to win the automobile or one of the whole affair is interwoven inhave the satisfaction of knowing that their contribution will be used to give some crippled child better opportunity in life—in other words when they take a chance they give a chance.

Nazi Minelayer Sinks Off Kiel

BERLIN, May 28 (AP)—The sinking of the German minelayer Triton, with four of her crew missing, was announced today at Kiel, the German navy's great base.

The cause and locality of the sinking were not disclosed.

Three aviators were killed when a new mail plane making test flights crashed near the island of Langeroog, off Germany's North Sea coast.

Higher Fire Losses

TORONTO, May 28—(CP).—Four large conflagrations accounted for an increase in fire losses in week ending May 24 to a total of $252,300, compared with $92,200 in the same week of last year, according to the weekly report of the Monetary Times today. Fire losses in Canada from Jan. 1 to May 24, totalled $7,096,275 against $6,445,300 in the same period of 1937.

Canadian Legion Notes

A chield's amang ye takin' notes, and faith, he'll print them. Burns. The painting bee is nearly over, and the card room has been greatly improved and will be ready for use next week. The executive and members greatly appreciate the kindness of Comrade G. Coleman of Coleman Bros. for the gift of brushes, of Comrade Bob Matchett of Higgins Hardware for the gift of Kalsomine, and C. A. Salmonsen of the C.G.E. for the gift of the paint. To the painters, Comrades R. G. Long, P. Golds, E. Renouf, J. Mitchell, A. E. Miller and R. Mitchell the executive also extend their thanks.

A new rail has been placed around the front lawns and thanks is due to Comrades E. G. Hardie, W. Gracie and A. T. Garner. The whole place has been brightened up considerably.

All ex-service men are reminded of the visit of His Excellency the Governor General to the city on Tuesday next May 31st. The parade will fall in at the Legion Hall at 2.45 a.m. to march to Confederation Square to be reviewed by His Excellency.

The members are also reminded of the Legion picnic to take place on Saturday, July 9, to Art Nokes' cottage at Hiawatha. The charge will be 25c for each family to take care of transportation for those that have no car. There will be sports and games both for adults and children. The hour of leaving will be announced later.

All members are requested to take particular notice of the card they will receive announcing the next monthly meeting as it will also contain another important announcement.

The barn yard golf course will be in operation next week so that those who care for the sport can come along.

Doesn't Like Music Shoots Girl

CHICAGO, May 28 (AP)—Nicholas Szaklenski, 35, didn't like the music coming from the radio. When he suggested the program be changed, Miss Adeline Leskanes, 16, objected. That enraged Szaklenski, a boarder at the Leskanes home. He left the living room last night, reappeared with a pistol and seriously wounded Miss Leskanes. Then he went to his own room where police later found him dead, a bullet wound in the head.

Zinc Sulphate Test Costs Rats Sense of Smell

OTTAWA, May 28—(CP).—Rats given a few drops of zinc sulphate solution—similar to the means used in Ontario last summer to combat the infantile paralysis epidemic — lost their sense of smell, the Royal Society of Canada was informed today in a paper prepared by Dr. Carl G. Smith of the University of Toronto Anatomy Department and tabled by Dr. E. Horne Craigie of the University of Toronto Biological Department.

The zinc sulphate was introduced into the nasal cavities of the rates and destroyed the senory lining of these cavities.

It was found th edamaged lining was eventually replaced by a layer from the which the sensory cells are absent and a permanent loss of the olfactory nerve fibres and atophy of the regions of the brain where their end was brought about, resulting in loss of smell.

Dr. Smith's experiments were confined to rats and have not been applied specifically to humans pending completion of data for treatment of infantile paralysis being collected by the Ontario Department of Health. A detailed study of the zinc sulphate remedy has been made by the Department, but the findings have not been made public.

Many Factors to Consider.

There was no mention in the paper of the zinc sulphate treatment given thousands of Ontario children last summer. One high medical authority said informally a large number of factors had to be taken into consideration in estimating whether the zinc sulphate had the same effect on them.

While he said there had been a temporary loss of smell on the part of the children, he added it must be remembered the rat's nasal cavity is much smaller than a human's, and if the solution was put in the rat's nose it might fill the cavity, whereas it could be blown out of a human's nasal cavity. Relative strength of the two solutions had to be considered also.

An inherited disease has been found to be a frequent cause of death in human infants, Dr. Madge Thurlow Macklin of London, Ont., reported. The condition called erythroblastosis fetelis is marked by occurrence in the blood of an unusual number of the colorless nucleated cells from the bone marrow which normally would form the red blood cells.

"This disease has been stated to be a more potent cause of infant mortality than syphilis," she contended. "It is suggested here that not only is the condition responsible for a high death-rate among live-born infants, but for the deaths of many fetuses at varying stages of development as well; so that many miscarriages, premature and still-births are caused by it."

The disease is inherited. Approximately half the children of a family in which the defect has appeared will be affected.

Run Down—Tired Out Only Weighed 96 lbs.

Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills are what weak, nervous, run down men and women need to help make them strong and well again.

They are a well balanced tonic for the treatment of those whose nerves are shattered, and for those feelings of faintness, weakness and dizziness caused by an overworked, run down constitution, or whose health is not up to par.

They help to infuse new life and energy into depressed, health shattered men and women who have come to think there is no relief for them.

Mrs. P. Broughton, Fenwick, Ont., writes:—"I was so run down and tired out all the time I did not care whether my housework was done or not.

I only weighed 96 pounds, but after taking three boxes of Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills I now weigh 122 pounds, and do my own work for eight in the family.

I only wish I had started taking H. & N. Pills a year ago."

Put up by The T. Milburn Co., Ltd.

Well Known Book To Be Reviewed

The well-known book, "The Choice Before Us," recently published by Dr. E. Stanley Jones, will be reviewed in St. Andrew's Church on next Sunday night.

Dr. Stanley Jones, born in Maryland, has become known all over the world. Translated into almost every language, his words have reached the hearts of millions. He has been a missionary for many years, and is acquainted with the ideas of India, China and Japan. He has led groups of students in these countries, and has mingled freely with people of non-Christian religions, and of no religion at all. At one time he refused the offer of a bishopric in his own church. Probably no man in the Christian Church of to-day is exerting a greater spiritual influence. He has spoken in several of the cities of Canada on his furloughs, and has always made a deep impression.

In "The Choice Before Us," Dr. Jones shows us the stark realities of the present world situation. He deals with Fascism, Nazism, Communism and shows their fatal defects. He advocates Christianity as the ultimate solution of the needs of human society.

In the first chapter he quotes an eminent ecclesiastic as follows: "It is curious to observe how through a wise and beneficent arrangement of providence men thus do the greatest service to the public when they are thinking of nothing but their own gain." The entire book is the refutation of this pagan thesis which unfortunately has such a hold upon the Christian mind today. He has made a real contribution to our knowledge of the various "isms" which challenge our religion, and a destructions influence in the world.

Off To Newfoundland

TORONTO, May 28—(CP). — A home-made craft with a small engine chugged out of Toronto Bay to-day carrying Phillip Osmond and his three sons and a daughter on the first lap of their voyage to Newfoundland, Osmond's original home.

Osmond intends to return and start where he left off, building schooners and fishing in the island colony. His boat, the Lydia F., has no masts or sails, but Osmond hopes to build and fit masts en route.

MORE ABOUT—

Nazi Mystery

Germany in Canada since 1936. As far as we can ascertain he was naturalized early in 1938. We don't know where he is now. In these circumstances it is quite unlikely he is connected with any Anticosti deal."

It was learned from a reliable source that Gerhardt now reported to be a newspaperman with Hitler's newspaper was on the train from Quebec to Montreal on Sunday afternoon.

He got off the train in Montreal, but told The Canadian Press informant who had met him in Europe, that he planned to visit Ottawa. He was secretive concerning his business in Canada, but intimated he was not connected with the Anticosti negotiations.

Gerhardt said he accompanied Hitler on the German Chancellor's recent spectacular visit to Rome, and for more than a year had been closely associated with the Nazi chief.

The informant said that the German's Christian names were Emil and Karl, and that he used them both, even when instructor at Western University.

Consulate officials emphasized that they had never heard of an "Emil Gerhardt," and if such a person, who was reported so close to Hitler, arrived in Canada the Consulate would be informed. They said the Montreal Consul had not heard of him either.

Bump Kills Indians

FORT FRANCES, Ont., May 28—(CP)—Inquest in the death of Neta McGinnis, 104, said to be the oldest Indian in northwestern Ontario, has been set for Monday, May 30.

McGinnis, struck by an automobile May 17, near Emo, Ont., 20 miles west of here, regained consciousness two days later and asked for his pipe and tobacco.

A fractured skull and fractured arm, however, proved too much for the hardy Indian, councillor of the Manitou band for more than 45 years. He died in hospital here during the week-end.

Rains on Prairie Hit Grasshoppers

EDMONTON, May 28 — (CP). — Rains and cool weather across the Alberta plains have transformed a threatened increase in the grasshopper plague into a probable reduction of the infested area.

Dominion government entomologists at end of last year said their annual survey of the grasshopper infestation of the province shows about six million more acres would be infested this year, an increase of 25 per cent but the rain and cool weather came to the farmers' rescue. Grasshoppers just hatched can not withstand cold, rainy weather, which is always welcomed by farmers around the end of May, the hatching period.

Areas of severe infestation would be less and the average degree of infestation throughout the province would be less than last year, said Alberta government officials.

Alberta government, however, prepared for a stern battle against grasshoppers to protect one of the most promising crops in years.

"Rains and cool weather have changed the picture in Alberta," said O. S. Longman, Alberta field crops commission. "It is difficult to determine until active hatching begins whether the outbreak will be as great as predicted but evidence we have gathered so far would indicate the fight will not need to be as great as we expected earlier.

"Supervisors are in the field setting up poison stations and ready to co-operate with municipalities and individual farmers in fighting the grasshopper menace."

Mother And Baby Are Run Down

TORONTO, May 28 (CP).—Police today searched for a hit-and-run driver who backed his car into a woman carrying an 18-months-old baby. The victim, Mrs. James King, was cut and bruised and the baby was cut on the chin and bruised on the leg. Mrs. King said the driver stopped to look at her lying on the roadway, laughed and then sped from the scene.

She was struck as she stepped into the roadway to board a street car. She gave police a license number but police found the number belonging to a man who satisfied them he was not at the scene.

British Ship Reported Sunk By Insurgent Planes

The British freighter, Thorpe Hall, was bombed and sunk by two Spanish insurgent airplanes from Majorca, while anchored off Valencia harbor, according to an announcement by the Spanish government. The crew of the ship was rescued, an officer and one sailor being wounded. Two of four bombs struck the freighter to send her to the bottom.

B.C. Sit-Downers Given Support

VANCOUVER, May 28—(CP). — Nearly a score of speakers, including churchmen, an alderman, a former Mayor and leaders of civic and youth organizations told an open-air meeting here last night they would "stay solidly behind" the 700 unemployed occupying two Vancouver buildings in their demand for work and wages project.

A crowd of 4,000 gathered at the Powell Street Athletic Grounds in the heart of Vancouver's Japanese section, roared approval as speaker after speaker voiced sympathy with Canada's unemployed and urged backing of the sit-downers who occupied the Central Post Office and Civic Art Gallery last Friday.

"They are now ready to have a showdown with the Government to see if this ridiculous performance—camps in the winter and job-hunting in the summer—is to go on year after year," Alderman Helena Gutteridge said.

"A fight to the finish in this city," said Rev. R. N. Matheson of Collingwood United Church, and urged support of the men with food and clothing.

Louis D. Taylor, many times Mayor of Vancouver, said the Government could find money for defences, but none to save lives. There was no reason why the men should not have work.

Robber Remanded

TORONTO, May 28 (CP).—Pleading guilty of robbery and attempted robbery at hosiery stores here, Robert Finnie, 22, today was remanded for sentence until June 2.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Hart, clerk in a hosiery store, told of the attempt to hold up the store recently when she talked the would-be bandit out of it. The bandit had paid her $1 for a pair of hosiery and then demanded the money in the cash register, but didn't get any. The girl induced him to sign a slip in order to get back his dollar, and going by the name on the slip the police arrested Finnie.

Rain Pelts Circus 20 Of 21 Days

NEW YORK, May 28—(CP).—So much rain has followed the Cole Brothers - Clyde Beatty Circus, scheduled to show at St. Thomas, Ont., to-day, with consequent loss of business, that the American Federation of Actors has agreed to let the owners cut workers salaries. The circus is slated to call at Brantford tomorrow.

Ralph Whitehead, executive secretary of the Federation, announcing the signing of the agreement, said to-day, the circus, one of the largest on the continent, has experienced 20 rain storms in its first 21 playing dates. The agreement provides that as soon as business improves, negotiations to restore salary cuts would be opened immediately.

Find Abducted Peter Levine Victim of Murder On Shore of Long Island

Boy's Body Minus Head, Bound With Wire Washes Up On Beach To End 3-Month Frantic Search

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y., May 30 (AP).—Long search for kidnapped 12-year-old Peter Levine—a search of three tragic months during which one clue after another came to nothing—ended last night in the discovery of the boy's headless body on the shore of Long Island Sound.

Ransom notes had been found and answered; Murray Levine, the father, had publicly offered to pay $30,000.

There was no conclusive answer from the abductors, and the case of missing Peter Levine had been all but forgotten until, just after dusk last night, a woman telephoned the police: "There's a body out here!"

They found, then, what was left of Peter Levine—a wire bound torso only, the head gone, the hands and feet gone, and only a patched-sleeved sweater, a red windbreaker and a shirt, with the name "Peter Levine" stitched in it, to make the identification certain. The body had come ashore on an estate bordering the Sound not far from the boy's home.

Slain Body Tossed in Sound.

Dr. Amos O. Squire, Westchester County medical examiner, said it would be almost impossible to tell just what caused Peter's death—knife, blow, or drawning—but added that his preliminary examination indicated the boy had been slain and his body tossed into the Sound.

Dr. Squire and his assitants took every possibility into account. Dr. Robert Lateiner, assistant city physician of New Rochelle, said one of the first medical tests ordered was to see whether poison might have been a factor in death. Toxic tracers, he pointed out, might last in a body indefinitely.

"This is a clear case of murder," said District Attorney Walter Ferris.

High-rankng agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation went to work immediately, with J. Edgar Hoover, its chief, who was in New York, taking charge of the investigation.

Father Hard Hit.

Murray Levine, Peter's father, a New York lawyer who had put aside everything in his vain search for the boy and had appealed in every manner to the abductors to "make contact," scarcely was able to talk.

In the boy's trouser pocket were found a jack-knife and a toy airplane.

The medical examiners were unable to tell without further examination whether Peter's head was cut off by the abductors or a boat striking the body had caused the mutilation.

The most substantial clue to the whole crime, inconclusive as it was, was the coil of copper wire with

Ontario to Block New Falls Bridge

TORONTO, May 30 (CP).—Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario said today the government is determined to block construction of a new Niagara Falls bridge by the International Railway Company, owners of the Falls View Bridge which collapsed during ice jams last winter.

The Premier said that the International Railway Company "is heading into a storm" if it persists with plans to rebuild the structure. The Ontario government plans to build its own bridge in co-operation with the State of New York.

"The day of privately-owned bridges is past," said Premier Hepburn. "We have the authority from Ottawa to build a bridge and a similar bill is making good progress in the United States Congress. In the meantime we have legislation to prevent these plans for a privately-owned bridge, and if that legislation will not do the trick we will pass legislation that will. We can easily enact any legislation that is necessary to prevent the rebuilding of that structure."

2nd Czech Vote Goes Nazi, Only One Clash

PRAHA, May 30—(AP).—The progress of peace parleys this week may determine the chances of effective compromise between the German and Czechoslovakian elements of this post-war republic.

The second of three Sunday municipal elections yesterday showed, as did those last week, that 80 to 95 per cent of the vote in German communities solidly behind Konrad Henlein, Sudeten German "Fuehrer." Czech communities among the 2,740 where elections were held followed a trend to the left.

It was taken for granted the third and final election, on June 12, would confirm the results of the first two,

Race Car Crash Kills Onlooker

SPEEDWAY, Indianapolis, May 30 (AP) — Everett Spence, Terre Haute, Ind., a spectator, was killed today when a wheel from a crashing race car flew off the track in the 500 miles automobile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway.

The wheel flew off the car driven by Emil Andres, Chicago, whose mount crashed into the lower retaining wall on the southeast turn as he was speeding on his 112th mile. Andres, rushed to a hospital, suffered a broken nose and a possible brain concussion.

Spence was 33 years old. He was dead when he reached the hospital.

At 200 miles, Floyd Roberts, Van Nuys, California, had snatched the lead from Jimmy Snyder, Chicago, when Snyder stopped at the pit to change tires and take on gas. Roberts had covered the distance in 1:40:57.20 to average 118:867, which smashed all track records for the distance. Kelly Petillo, Los Angeles, was second and Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis, third.

Ontario Ceases Further Airport Grants

Grant To Toronto Will End It Says Hepburn

TORONTO, May 30.— (CP).—(CP).— Premier Mitchell Hepburn announced to-day the Ontario government will make no further grants towards airports anywhere in the province. "We will pay our commitment to Toronto and that ends it," the Premier said.

After a flight over the Malton site, 12 miles northwest of Toronto, where Toronto's new airport is being constructed, the Premier said he still thought the choice of that site was a blunder. "It is in the wrong place and in a section towards which the city is not growing," he said. "Furthermore it takes too long to reach the city from there."

The Premier last week said he thought the city of Toronto should have approved a site about halfway between Toronto and Hamilton, possibly at Oakville, where an airport would serve both cities.

Petes to Enter Senior O.R.F.U. Next Season

Peterborough will enter a rugby team in the Senior O.R.F.U. this autumun, H. A. Cranfield, president of the local Orfuns Football Club, informed The Examiner late this afternoon. The team will be grouped with the C.N.R. club of Montreal, Balmy Beach of Toronto, and the Sarnia Imps. A definite decision, following more than a week of planning among the various interested parties, was arrived at today.

The local club operated last year in Intermediate O.R.F.U. ranks, won the grouping, eliminated Trenton Fliers and Toronto, but lost out in Provincial finals to Dundas. The squad will be bolstered considerably for the senior campaign this fall. Civic officials, manufacturers and prominent sportsmen here are actively interested in the new project.

Lord Tweedsmuir Arrives In City 11 A.M. On Tuesday

All arrangements have been completed for the reception of Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, when he visits this city on Tuesday.

At 11 o'clock in the morning he will be met at the C.P.R. station by the reception committee, headed by Mayor James Hamilton. His Excellency will inspect the guard of honor from the Prince of Wales Rangers, and will proceed up George Street to the War Memorial, where he will place a wreath.

At the conclusion of that ceremony he will continue to Lakefield, where he will visit the Grove School, returning to Peterborough at 12.30 noon.

In the afternoon he will leave his private car at 3 o'clock and proceed by way of George Street to Lansdowne Street, to Monaghan Road, to Weller Street. At this point he will pass by the pupils at the Prince of Wales School. He will continue from Weller Street to Park Street, to Hunter Street, to Water Street, to McDonnel Street. Here he will be seen by school children at Victoria Park.

From McDonnel Street he will proceed to Confederation Square, where he will review ex-service men, boy scouts, and girls guides. Mayor James Hamilton will present the city's address, and His Excellency will speak in reply.

From Confederation Square he will continue to Aylmer Street, to Charlotte Street, to Rubidge Street, to the Canadian General Electric Company. An inspection of the huge plant will end the tour.

Prankish Bear Visits Bobcaygeon Scares Whole Countryside

Lindsay, Ont., May 30 (CP)

A BIG BLACK BEAR, minus the usual respect that bruin shows to humans, is the target of a wide hunt north of the village of Bobcaygeon. An organized bear-hunt yesterday failed to trap him and farmers have their rifles loading awaiting his return.

The bear has been chasing livestock and altogether acting too aggressively to please residents. On Friday he jumped out of the bushes and crossed the road a few feet in front of Miss Jean Junkin, a school teacher, and Saturday the bear followed John Patterson along the furrow he was ploughing and approached uncomfortably near before the farmer chased him away with shouts and arm-waving.

Saturday S. Dick and his daughter, working in their garden, found the bear a curious spectator and their dog chased bruin, who gave a number of sheep and lambs the fright of their lives as he dashed around before returning to the woods.

Probe of Whole Power Deal Is Macaulay's Demand

Tory Leader Balks At Conant Suggestion Of Sticking To 1937 Contracts

TORONTO, May 30 (CP)—Leopold Macaulay, Conservative leader in the Ontario Legislature, demanded today of a special House committee named to investigate contracts signed by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission that investigation proceed "into the whole background of these contracts."

As the committee opened its sitting in the Legislature buildings, Attorney - General Gordon Conant, chairman, said "unless we tackle this job with some orderly manner of procedure we might conceivably be here for six months."

"First let us investigate the charges made by Mr. Macaulay and confine ourselves to the 1937 contracts," Mr. Conant suggested.

Mr. Macaulay said: "I want to go into the whole question. I said that this government abandoned its back-to-Niagara policy on the eve of the 1937 election and I want to go into the whole background of these contracts to show that."

Sees Macaulay's View.

"I can see my honorable friend's point of view," said Major James Clark, Liberal, Windsor-Sandwich. "In a nutshell, his charge was that the Prime Minister secretly made an agreement with Beauharnois while he was still publicly talking

Bilingual Claim Stirs Orangemen

OTTAWA, May 30 (CP) — A sharply-worded reply to the Quebec submission of the French language congress was made before the Rowell Commission today by Orangemen of Ontario.

Particular protest was levelled at the suggestion Canada was a bilingual country and should be officially recognized as such from coast to coast. The Orange presentation also complained against restriction of civil liberties in Quebec, against the "increasing use" of French on Canadian Broadcasting Corporation programs, the Quebec annulment of marriages, separate schools and some other matters of long-standing controversy.

"The Orange order's ideals are well known and it is not necessary to restate them but we do feel that this important body of British Protestants should enter its protest against the threat delivered before your commission recently by a cleric of the Roman Catholic church in Quebec," said the submission of the legislation committee of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario West.

"When they suggest that there will be no peace or harmony in Canada until the French language and their own religion is officially recognized from the Atlantic to the Pacific, it calls for stern opposition and this association of Orangemen respectfully resists the claim of those who would seek further to disintegrate and separate the people of this Dominion.

"We deplore such statement and the attitude of those who seek to force their religion and language upon others who have constitutional rights in this country. Recent declarations from leaders in political and religious life in Quebec and that a revolution would be acceptable and would be supported, is dangerous propaganda and can only have the effect of increasing resentment throughout Canada."

Britain Works To Avoid Air Massacre

LONDON, May 30—(CP Cable).—British experts are working out an international plan to prohibit the massacre of civilians from the air. Technical details are now being carefully considered.

"What is desired," Prime Minister Chamberlain informed the House of Commons to-day, "is an international agreement. The matter gives rise to very great difficulties. What we are trying to do is to get a proposition in such form that it will have a chance of success."

Morgan Jones, Labor, suggested an international conference should be called to discuss the proposals and itself prepare a scheme.

"From the practical point of view," Mr. Chamberlain replied, "it would be advantageous if we could find some workable scheme. That is what we are trying to do. Then we shall be in a position to invite other governments to consider it."

Labor Asks Questions

The Labor opposition restlessly bombarded the government with questions. Arthur Henderson and George Strauss raised the air bombardment of Alicante.

"The British government," the Prime Minister returned, "have on more than one occasion expressed to both sides in Spain their profound concern at the intensification of aerial bombardment, resulting in serious loss of life among the civilian population, and have drawn attention to the universally accepted principle that aerial bombardment of military objectives is alone permissible.

George Lansbury, former Labor leader, asked if the Prime Minister considered that "either side in Spain or China should take notice of protests against this sort of warfare, seeing that Britain and all the great powers are feverisly struggling against the civilian population if war breaks out."

"I do not accept that view," Mr. Chamberlain warmly replied.

500 Planes Yearly From New Plant

LONDON, May 30 (CP-Havas).—Aircraft factories being constructed by Viscount Nuffield at Birmingham will be able to produce 500 modern fighting planes annually, the Daily Mail said today.

The automobile magnate's plans call for production of big combat planes of the latest type equipped with Rolls Royce motors, the newspaper said. It added the factory would be ready to start production in record time and would employ a minimum of 15,000 workers.

The Daily Express predicted that the British air mission returning from the United States and Canada today would report it is impossible to count on rapid delivery of a large number of modern planes from the United States.

Mishaps Claim Nine Lives Over Week-end

5 Are Water Victims, Four Others Die In Car Crashes

TORONTO, May 30 (CP).—Warm weather and bright skies drew another army to Ontario's highways and resorts during the weekend, and as the tourist season gained momentum nine sudden deaths were added to the province's toll for the year.

Five died by drowning and four as a result of motor accidents, though two of the automobile mishap victims were killed within city limits.

James Malone, 11, and Nick Kiskon, 13, died together in Hamilton Bay Saturday when they fell from a makeshift canoe. Rescuers gave up attempts at resuscitation two hours after the bodies were taken from the water.

Margaret Kirby, 24, of Peterborough, drowned in a pond near Marmora on Saturday afternoon.

Jerry Leslie, 29, of Toronto, died in Lake Scugog, 20 miles north-west of Oshawa, when he slipped from the grasp of a companion who was trying to aid him back to their boat. Gordon Hart of Toronto said he and Leslie dived from their boat to swim and Leslie became tired when the craft drifted away. Hart made a desperate effort to bring him to the surface, but could not get a firm grip.

Attempts to revive Harold Hargreaves, formerly of London, Ont., failed after his body was taken from Mimico Creek in Toronto's suburbs on Sunday. A youth cycling by the spot heard a splash and waded into the water to recover the body. Hargreaves was believed to have been staying in Toronto.

Run Over By Father's Truck.

Norman David Despond, three, was killed when struck by his father's motor truck as he played in long grass at Galt. There will be no inquest.

Mrs. Amy Halder, 56, was killed by an automobile as she attempted to cross a busy Toronto street Saturday night. Witnesses corroborated the story of Alexander Robertson, 16, that he swerved sharply in trying to avoid the woman.

Mrs. Josephine Davis, 43, of Aldershot, was killed last night when struck by a car after alighting from a bus near Hamilton. Witnesses said she became confused by traffic and the driver, Herbert C. Henry of Hamilton, was not held by police.

Walter Gillies of Kitchener died in hospital of injuries received last Tuesday when the car in which he was riding struck a pole and overturned on a highway near the city.

She Made a Mistake

BROCKVILLE, Ont., May 30 (C. P.). — An Orchard Street resident politely declined the offer when a small boy and girl knocked at her door offering tulips for sale. She said she had tulips of her own in the garden. But she hadn't. When she went into the garden a few minutes later she found they were gone.

Grabbed In Bed, Girl's Yell Saves Her, Wakens College

TORONTO, May 30 (CP.)—A man who entered Havergal College for Girls in North York Township, just outside the city limits, and, according to police, tried to seize a girl student, was being sought today.

Toronto police answered a call from the college last night and were informed that the girl was asleep in her bedroom when a man grabbed her by the throat. Her screams aroused other girls while the girl herself beat off her attacker. He fled from the building.

"The girl told me that she was not molested," said Constable John Harrison of the North York police. "They told me that the man made no attempt to harm her."

The officer found marks on the ground at the foot on an eavestrough piping which indicated the man climbed the piping to break through the window. The girl, who is 14, awoke to find the man staring at her from the foot of the bed.

The girl described the intruder as short, dark, partially bald and with a heavy growth of beard.

Last Minute News Flashes

TORONTO, May 30.—(CP).— T. Stewart Lyon, former chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, expressed the opinion before a Legislative committee today that a weir constructed last year at the Canadian Niagara Power Company plant had increased the flow of ice into the forebay of the Ontario Power Company plant. Mr. Lyon referred to ice damage to the Ontario Power Company plant below Niagara Falls during the disastrous ice-jam of February which also caused the collapse of Falls View bridge.

MANCHESTER, Ky. — Eight members of the Bob Thompson family were reported to have drowned early today when a cloudburst washed their cabin down a creek in this mountain area. Thompson, a miner, and his eldest son were reported to have escaped.

Millar Stork Derby Ends, 4 Toronto Mothers Given $100,000 Each

Winners Buy Mrs. Kenny, Mrs. Clarke Off At $12,500 Apiece To End Dispute; Victors Split Another $75,000 Later

TORONTO, May 30 (CP).—Fortunes of $100,000 were deposited today to the bank accounts of four Toronto mothers who finished the fantastic Charles Vance Millar stork derby in a dead heat.

Executors announced formally this afternoon that litigation surrounding disposal of the Millar estate, bequeathed to the Toronto mother registering most children in the 10 years following Millar's death, had been terminated.

The announcement said: "The executors have made a distribution from funds on hand, having distributed the sum of $100,000 for the account of each of the mothers entitled to share in the residuary estate as determind in the judgment of Mr. Justice Middleton.

"The four mothers entitled to participate were declared to be Mrs. Lucky Alice Timleck, Mrs. Kathleen Ellen Nagle, Mrs. Annie Katherine Smith and Mrs. Isabel Mary MacLean.

Appeals Abandoned

"The executors have secured releases from Mrs. Lillian Kenny and Mrs. Pauline Mae Clarke whereby they abandon and forego all claims to participate in the residuary estate of the deceased."

The announcement corrected earlier statements that $75,000 initial payments were made to the four winners, each of whom registered nine births in the specified period which ended October 31, 1936.

Two Holdouts Paid Off.

Mrs. Kenny and Mrs. Clarke, whose claims to legal share in the $500,000 estate were disallowed in the Ontario Supreme Court by Mr. Justice W. E. Middleton, each received $12,500 today. It was understood the winning mothers agreed to make the payments on condition Mrs. Kenny and Mrs. Clarke dropped their court appeal.

When liquidation of the estate is completed, a further $75,000 will be split among the four winners.

2 Men Escape Death in Gas Tank Explosion

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 30.—Two men miraculously escaped death when an explosion wrecked a row of gas pumps in this town at 11.25 on Saturday night. The cause of the explosion was unknown but the muffled report which could be heard for a quarter of a mile sent flames shooting thirty feet in the air outside of the garage and service station operated by Cassan Brothers, George street.

A call had been put in to a distributor for a supply of gas for over Sunday and Earl Craighead manager of the British American service tanks drove over with a tank load of gas which he delivered in one of the new type trucks that had been put into service in this district little over a month ago. Craighead was standing at the back of the truck with his hand on the safety valve as the explosion occurred and he immediately stepped back releasing the pressure and turning off the supply which was filling the underground tanks. The pumps themselves flank the curb and the opening to the storage tanks is situated on the sidewalk just outside the garage door. The explosion was thought to have come from one of the two electrically driven pumps which was completely shattered.

Ernest Archer a mechanic employed at the garage was standing on the sidewalk between the pumps and the garage at the time and although he was not more than four feet away was uncertain as to where the first flash of fire came from. Craighead's first thought on shutting off the supply of gas to the tank was to remove the truck from in front of the garage as its huge tank still contained from 25 to 50 gasoline still spouted from the sertank was enveloped in flames as both of the visual glass jars on top of a large double pump burst and spilled their flaming contents over the truck. He hesitated only a moment, ran around the truck when

Test For Movie Extras Nearly Costs 185 Their Lives

Hermosa Beach, Cal., May 30.

LIFEGUARDS RESCUED 185 movie extras who became exhausted trying to swim with their clothes on to qualify for minor roles in a gambling ship picture here today.

More than 500 took the test, which was to swim one-fourth mile around the pier. Four guards in two dories and thirty others on surf boards picked up the men and women who became exhausted. In the film a gambling barge will be set aflame and sunk, with 300 patrons jumping into the water.

Hunt The Robert Peel

BROCKVILLE, Ont., May 30 (C. P.). — One hundred years ago last night, the steamer Sir Robert Peel was boarded at her dock here by an armed gang led by "Admiral" Bill Johnston, leader of a pirate gang of the Thousand Isles. Passengers were driven ashore, the steamer was pillaged, and set adrift in flames. Divers lately have been trying to reach the hull, sunk in 75 feet of water.

Negroes Accuse Each Other

CHICAGO, May 30.—(AP).—Calm and stoical, two manacled negroes stood yesterday in the bedroom where Florence Johnson, 34, wife of a city fireman, was bludgeoned to death with a brick, and accused each other of the actual slaying.

They were Robert Nixon and Earl Hicks, both 19, who Assistant State's Attorney John Boyle said, admitted breaking into the Johnson home last Friday to burglarize the place.

Boyle said Nixon had confessed the brick slaying of Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle, a night club hostess in her hotel room two years ago, and would be questioned again about the killing of Miss Anna Kuchta, a student nurse, raped and bludgeoned to death in her room in the Chicago hospital last August.

Warrants also have been issued in Los Angeles charging Nixon with the slaying April 4, 1937, of Mrs. Edna Worden and her daughter, Marguerite, 12.

Snyder Leads Car Classic at 300

SPEEDWAY, INDIANAPOLIS, May 30 (AP).—Breaking all speedway records, Jimmy Snyder, former Chicago milkman, had regained the lead at 300 miles of the 500-mile automobile race today. One spectator was killed by a wheel which fell off a crashing racer.

Snyder, in front for the first 150 miles, only to lose the lead to Lloyd Robertson, Van Nuys, Calif., because of a stop for oil and tire change, roared over the bricks at 117.627 miles an hour in covering the 300 miles in 2:33:01.60.

Roberts was second, about five seconds back, and Ronny Householder, Van Nuys, Calif., third. Louis Meyer, Huntington Park, Calif., the only three-time winner of the classic, was fourth, 2½ miles back.

Canadian Missionaries Stick To Job Despite 10 Bombings In 18 Days

Hankow, China, May 30 (AP)

CANADIAN missionaries, stationed at Kaifeng, Honan province, are determined to remain whatever happens, according to delayed dispatches reaching here today.

The central China town has been bombed 10 times in 18 days, but none of the 55 foreign residents has been hurt and no foreign property has been damaged.

Artillery fire can be heard from the northeast where the Chinese are struggling to break the tide of the Japanese westward advance.

Among the missionaries there are Miss May Watts, of St. Catharines, Ont., secretary-treasurer of the Mission of the Church of England in Canada, Mrs. F. M. Simmons, Stirling, Ont., Miss Grace Gibbard, London, Ont., Miss M. Searle, Winnipeg, and Miss L. M. Racey, Winnipeg.

Gerhard Denies Tie With Hitler

MONTREAL, May 30—(CP)—Karl Rudolf Gerhard of Montreal made it plain to newspapermen here last night he was not the "personal representative" of Chancellor Hitler mentioned last week in a House of Commons debate on reports German interests were negotiating for the purchase of the island of Anticosti in the St. Lawrence gulf.

During the debate, Conservative Leader Bennett said: "Hitler's personal representative, or a gentleman who at any rate alleges he is, was in this country on Saturday last and in Ottawa on Sunday." Later it was rumored a man named "Dr. Emil Karl Gerhardt" was in Canada on a secret mission from Germany.

Mr. Gerhard, a former instructor at the University of Western Ontario, was inclined to describe as a "joke" the information given to newspapermen in Ottawa to the effect that a man named "Dr. Emil Karl Gerhardt" had been working in Canada in behalf of the German dictator.

But Mr. Gerhard said he was anxious to make it clear that he has no association with the "Dr. Emil Karl Gerhardt," also described as a farmer instructor at the Ontario University.

"I was an instructor at the University of Western Ontario," said Mr. Gerhard, "but I am neither a personal representative of Chancellor Hitler, nor an expert for Anticosti (Island) and have nothing to do with any German affair or consulate." Mr. Gerhard also denied "any statements published in last week's newspapers" about his association with Chancellor Hitler.

"I am not a doctor or a professor, nor have I any connection whatsoever with any Dr. Emil Gerhardt. I am a Canadian citizen and have lived in Canada for the past eight years."

Butter and Eggs Are Both Firmer

In sympathy with Toronto prices butter and eggs were both firmer on the Saturday market, and the fluctuating potato quotations were also stronger.

Butter ranged over a five cent margin from 25 to 30 cents and eggs were in light supply at 23 to 25 cents. Yearling chickens were quoted at 23 to 25 cents and broilers were comparatively few at 30 to 34 cents. It was a sellers' market in those three lines, but the supply of greenhouse plants and early garden vegetables was so plentiful that producers shaded some of their prices. Onions and rhubarb were three bunches for 10 cents, and asparagus five bunches for twenty-five cents. Just as an indication of the competition in greenhouse plants Cecil Bellamy of Colborne was in with a truck load of plants, having driven 60 miles to reach the Peterborough market and he expects to be back again. Parker of Hastings was another of the district visitors, but he is regarded as a regular at this season. Tomatoes, cabbages, asters and so on were steady in price at two boxes for twenty-five cents.

White winter potatoes were 70 cents a bag, but some of the certified varieties sold at 75 cents to $1.00, a gain over the previous week.

Several displays of Lake Ontario fish quoted salmon trout at 20 cents a pound, pike at two pounds for a quarter, eel two pounds for a quarter and carp ten cents a pound for those who wanted them.

Accused Of Slaying

Accused of the love pact slaying of Charlotte Mathieson, 16-year-old Donald Carroll, ABOVE, is pictured as he appeared in court at Long Island City. The parents of the slain girl are assisting the boy in his fight for life. The slaying, according to the story told the police, was a result of a suicide pact, but after Donald fired the fatal shot into Miss Mathieson's body she begged him not to take his own life.

Slight Decline In Cheese Price

CAMPBELLFORD, May 30. — Nineteen factories boarded cheese on the Campbellford Board on Saturday and all sold at 14 5-16 cents, which was 2-16 off last week's price. A total of 112 white and 356 colored were offered by the factories to the seven buyers, who were present.

The factories boarded as follows: Beaver, 11c; Brae, 17c; Crow Bay, 28w; Daisy D, 50c; Empire, 32c; Hoard's, 53w; Killarney, 16c; Kimberly, 22w; Menie, 34c; Prince of Wales, 21c; Rylstone, 18c; Stanwood, 16c; Selwyn, 29c; Trent Bridge, 14c; Trent Valley, 20c; Warminster, 28c; Woodland, 9w; Young's Point, 17c; Cedar Creek, 33c.

The secretary, S. A. Maguire, read a communication from the former president, T. Bradon, thanking the Board for their kind resolution as expressed in the letter from the secretary thanking him for his work during his term of office. He also wished his successor, H. R. Wood, success during the coming year. A request from the Oakdale factory, expressing their desire to be excluded from the board this year in lieu of the fact they were making twins and triplets, a special type of cheese which could be sold to better advantage of the board. It was stated that the make from the particular factory was small. President H. R. Wood told the board the request would have to be made in writing and would then be given consideration by the executive.

Motors 207 Miles To Visit Family

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELFLORD, May 30.—Motoring a distance of 207 miles to visit her only granddaughter was the feat of Mrs. Mary Anne Watson of Meaford who came to Campbellford for the second time in her life on Saturday after travelling the distance with her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Abercrombie and other friends of Meaford. Mrs. Watson will celebrate her 89th birthday on Tuesday and despite her years she maintains a keen and active interest in life and has the full use of all her faculties. She is able to read, knit and do all the household tasks that are usually left to much younger women, and only last fall she was able to actually go into the fields with the men and helped pitch hay onto the wagons.

Mrs. Watson's husband died little more than a year ago at the age of 91 and she maintained a justifiable pride in the two small great granddaughters who were on hand to greet her when she arrived on Saturday. Having looked forward to this reunion for many weeks she stated it was her intention to remain in town until Monday and then return again to Meaford, the place where she was born nearly 90 years ago, on Monday.

Plane, 4 Aboard Hunted Off B.C.

VANCOUVER, May 30 (C.P.). — Search was pressed by water and by air to-day for a big Fairchild seaplane carrying four persons, missing since Friday on a flight from Vancouver to Zeballos on Vancouver Island's west coast.

Pilot Len Waagen took the Ginger Cote Airways plane off on its scheduled two-and-a-half-hour flight to the mining town. His three passengers were Mrs. George Nicholson, wife of the Deputy Mining Recorder and Postmaster at Zeballos, Charles R. Rumsey, Toronto mining engineer, and H. Boys of Stevenson, B. C.

Four Vancouver planes and a United States coastguard amphibian from Port Angeles, Wash., scoured the Gulf of Georgia, separating Vancouver Island from the mainland, and the heavily timbered, lake-dotted island itself.

Chief of Police John Cameron of Zeballos led a speedboat party nosing into bays and inlets along the coast, believing the giant yellow craft might have been forced down by poor visibility and dwindling fuel supplies.

Heard Faltering Engines.

The Canadian Government wireless operator at Nootka Point, 20 miles south of Zeballos, reported a plane "with faltering engines," had been heard there on Friday during heavy fog. It appeared to be heading out over the Pacific Ocean. Ships along the coast were asked by wireless to keep watch for the aircraft.

Two parties of Indians at Hesquiat, 35 miles south of Zeballos, reported they sighted a yellow plane about noon on Friday flying high in misty weather.

The search began on Saturday morning with Ralph Oakes in another G.C.A. plane and Norval E. (Molly) Small, superintendent of Canadian Airways, piloting the search planes. Geinger Coots, head of the company, flew from interior Prince George to join the hunt yesterday. A Royal Canadian Air Force plane from Jericho Beach Air Station was the fourth Vancouver search plane.

Major Nicholson flew with Cootes as observer in the search for his wife and the others.

Probe Whole

about a Back-to-Niagara policy. The resolution providing for this inquiry went away beyond the original charges. I think the Premier should be commended for his attitude."

Major Clark denied there had been "ulterior motive" in adjournment of the inquiry until to-day.

"It was physical impossibility to prepare the material necessary for a wide-open inquiry any sooner," he said. He thought the committee would deal with the Macaulay charges and the question of power reserves and resources at the same time.

First witness called was John Dibblee, assistant chief engineer of the Hydro Commission. Mr. Dibblee read a prepared statement, saying there had been some modification of the requirements of the resolution passed by the Legislature. These had been agreed upon by Mr. Macaulay and Major Clark.

"Some things may have been omitted owing to the number of people working on the preparation, but a painstaking search has been made," he said, referring to exhibits and records to be produced.

Four filing cases of documents were filed as exhibits. Mr. Dibblee said they contained information regarding contracts with Quebec power companies, data on the preparation to cancel original contracts, negotiations prior to cancellation in 1935 and negotiations leading to renewal.

Not The True Position.

T. Stewart Lyon, former chairman of the Commission and the next witness, charged reports compiled by the Commission between 1930 and 1934 misrepresented Hydro's true position.

The former Commission, he said, improperly included more than 100,000 horsepower in its statement of "firm power" needs when that amount was being exported to New York States.

"If the figures had been properly reported, the public would have known there was no justification for the Quebec contracts," Mr. Lyon declared.

"Do you suggest they were false statements?" inquired Mr. Conant.

"I don't say they were deliberately false, but they were incorrect," he replied.

Mr. Lyon said he accepted the chairmanship of the Commission in 1934 "with the idea of correcting mistakes made by the previous government."

During the 1934 Ontario election campaign Mr. Lyon said he wrote editorials for the Toronto Globe.

"You had formed a strong opinion that the previous government had erred in making the Quebec contracts?" asked Mr. Macaulay. Mr. Lyon agreed he had.

"Is it fair to say that you and Mr. Hepburn were partners in a strong pre-election campaign of back-to-Niagara?"

"There was no co-operation between us in that sense. Mr. Hepburn spoke independently of my writings and I wrote independently of his speeches."

Calls New Pastor

OSHAWA, Ont., May 30 (C.P.)—Congregation of St. Andrew's United Church extended a call on Sunday to Rev. George Telford, minister of St. Paul's United Church, Fredericton. If he accepts he will replace Rev. Andrew D. Robb, forced to resign because of ill-health.

Drew The Map

'Rod' Cameron (below), whose unique picture map of the Kawartha-Trent River-Haliburton vacation area appeared on the back page of the "Roto" section of Saturday's vacation number, Mr. Cameron's fine work has received praise from many people who have studied the map.

Rotarians Hear Rev. R. T. F. Brain

A scholarly and most informative study of the significance of Fascism by Rev. R. T. F. Brain of St. John's Church feature the weekly luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club today.

Mr. Brain declared that the basis of Fascism was a union between the capitalists and military class who used a confused middle class to strengthen their forces and said that Fascism was a last desperate display of force by a dying social system. In that respect it was like the dying warrior who made one final show of strength before the end came.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian W. R. Morris and the thanks of the club for the most interesting address were voiced by Rotarian A. L. Killaly.

Rotarian J. H. Seels, manager of the Rotary carnival made an appeal to the members to put fresh drive and enthusiasm into the sale of carnival tickets pointing out that the carnival will be held on Thursday and Friday of next week and that much depends upon the number of tickets sold.

President Dutton announced that on June 20 when the club will be the guests of Gilmour Memorial Church at a supper the ladies will be invited to be present. The entertainment committee was instructed to prepare a program for the occasion.

New directors of the club will meet this week for the purpose of electing officers and arranging committees.

Among the guests today were: Rotarian Edward Byers, president-elect of the Kenora Rotary Club; Dr. McDougall of the Ontario Department of Education, and B. K. Greer, chief inspector of schools for the province.

OBITUARY

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

A former well known resident of this district passed away at Detroit, Mich. on Saturday in the person of Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson, aged 74 years. Mrs. Thompson who was formerly Elizabeth Pearson was born in Smith township and lived for a long time in Peterborough, although she had been a resident of Detroit for over 25 years.

Surviving are five brothers, Silas Pearson, Lakefield, Nathaniel of Hall's Bridge, Harry of Smith and Harvey and Samuel of Peterborough.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence of her brother, Harvey of 238 Dublin street with interment in the Lakefield Cemetery. Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe will officiate.

WILLIAM H. FLETCHER

William H. Fletcher, resident of Keene for the past 30 years, died at Christie Street Hospital this morning (Monday) after a lingering illness. He was 43 years old.

Born in Oxfordshire, England, he came to this country when a boy, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Fletcher, who still reside at Keene. He joined the 21st Battalion in the early part of the Great War, but due to an illness which he contracted while still in Canada, he never served overseas. It was this ailment, inflammatory rheumatism, which contributed to his death today. He was a member of the Keene A.F. & A.M., and of the Madoc I.O.O.F., as well as of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir. Mr. Fletcher worked in Madoc and Peterborough for some time. He was a member of Keene United Church.

Surviving besides his parents, are his wife, formerly Lottie Wedlock of Peterborough; one daughter, Maureen, at home; two sisters, Mrs. A. Rennie of Keene, and Mrs. J. Tunstall of Kingston; and three brothers, John of Vancouver, and Alfred and Wilfred of Keene.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from Keene United Church, Rev. Mr. Kennedy of Madoc United Church officiating. Interment will be made at Keene Cemetery.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle, 4,100; calves, 1,250; hogs, 1,600; sheep and lambs, 900.

Good to choice weighty steers sold at $7 to $7.50, with a few plain as low as $6. Good to choice butcher steers and heifers traded at $6.75 to $7.25, common downward to $5.50. Good cows were $5.25 to $5.50 for best grades. Canners and cutters were steady at $2.50 to $3.50.

Trade was slow on bulls with a weaker tendency evident. Fed calves brought $7.50 to $8.25 for good to choice, with plain downward to $6.50.

Good to choice veal calves were priced at $8 to $8.50, with one top at $9. Common vealers ranged down to $5. A few grassers and drinkers brought $3.50 to $4.50.

Previous close on off-truck bacon hogs was $10.50 to $10.60.

Good spring lambs ranged from $12.50 to $13, common selling as low as $9. Good light sheep were $4.50 to $5, heavies $3 to $3.50, and culls downward to $2. A few good feed-lot lambs brought $9.50.

ONTARIO HOGS

TORONTO, May 30 — (CP). — A 15-cent gain, third advance within a week, brought prices of dressed-weight bacon hogs at Barrie to $13.75, top price at reporting markets to-day. Only other price change was a gain of 10 cents for Brantford liveweights.

Liveweights.—Hull, $10; London, $10; Peterborough, $10.15; Stratford, $10; Chatham, $10; Brantford, $10.25.

Dressedweights. — Barrie, $13.75; Hulls, $13.70; London, $13.35; Peterborough, $13.40; Stratford, $13.35; Chatham, $13.65.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, May 30 — (CP). — New seasonal lows were recorded for July and October Winnipeg wheat futures to-day in irregular dealings that featured strength in the May option which soared the five-cent limit. Final quotations were 4¾ higher to 2¼ lower, May $1.12⅛b. July 88¾ to ¾; October 73⅞ cents.

All wheat futures scored opening gains but flurries of liquidation carried the May future 2¾ cents lower. July 1⅞ lower and October ½ lower.

At mid-session offerings thinned. Minor overseas and Southern purchases lifted that option almost five cents from its low point.

Closing of United States markets in observance of Memorial Day dampered dealings here.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Sharbot Lake Lad Is Found

KINGSTON, Ont., May 30.—(CP)—Missing from his home at Sharbot Lake since May 24, 15-year-old Wilbert Jarvis was found by police at the home of a relative in Kingston over the week-end.

When the boy disappeared a car owned by his employer, Mrs. Byron Hawley, was also found missing and it was thought that some men had taken the car and carried the boy away.

The lad however was said to have told police he took the car himself. The car was found the following day at Collins Bay and was returned to Sharbot Lake.

The boy said he had been in Kingston all week and that no one was with him when he left Sharbot Lake. He will be returned there.

Mrs. E. Wand Is New President District W.C.T.U.

The Northumberland and Peterborough county W.C.T.U. met in annual convention in the Baptist Church, Cobourg on Friday in three sessions.

Peterborough union conducted the morning devotional service, Mrs. Harold Rehill, president, presided, Mrs. J. H. Rowe giving the scripture reading from Daniel, and Mrs. W. Boorman leading in prayer.

The Rev. T. J. Harris, pastor of the convention church welcomed the ladies emphasizing the importance of the temperance cause and assuring the convention of his co-operation in prayer during the day.

Committees Appointed.

Appointment of committees was the first order of business, the committee on resolutions named being Mesdames Helson, Wesley and Nichols, while the courtesy committee included Mesdames Rowe and Ames.

The decision of the executive committee to dispense with the services of a field secretary this year was upheld by the convention.

The provincial superintendent of soldiers and sailors made a plea for a superintendent in that department, which resulted in a decision to have unions write letters to, and visit soldiers in hospitals and in their homes, and to appoint a county superintendent of prison and jail work.

Greetings were received and read by Mrs. Throop from the provincial president, Mrs. Wright, who exhorted the ladies to "Be strong and of good courage," Mrs. Throop, county president, also announced and urged attendance at the training school for leaders, August 9 to 12, at Willard Hall, Toronto.

President's Valedictory

The president's valedictory address began with a poem urging "prayer and faith." She recalled the outstanding events of the year just closing. The world's W.C.T.U. convention at Washington, followed by our national one at Belleville and the death of our Dominion president, Mrs. Ward, while shortly we will celebrate the W.C.T.U.'s 100th anniversary. She sketched the unsatisfactory working out of so-called government control and beverage rooms, which have resulted in having mothers and girls victims of alcohol, as well as fathers and sons.

The result of the election of officers was as follows: President, Mrs. E. Wand, Peterborough; 1st vice, Mrs. M. E. Nichols, Cobourg; 2nd vice, Mrs. Gordon Mann, Peterborough; recording secretary, Mrs. J. H. Bennett, Cobourg; corresponding secretary, Mrs. T. J. Buck, Norwood; treasurer, Mrs. W. W. Yale, Lakefield; "Y" secretary, Mrs. R. D. Wright, Peterborough; L.T.L. secretary, Miss Ada Lander, Plainville.

Superintendents

Evangelistic and Christian Stewardship—Mrs. B. W. Manning, 238 Murray street, Peterborough.

Anti-Narcotics and Med. Temperance—Mrs. G. Lacey, Cambourne, Ont.

Canadianization and Citizenship—Mrs. E. E. Lord, 172 Dalhousie street, Peterborough.

Medal Contests—Mrs. H. Rehill, 222 Dalhousie street, Peterborough.

Press—Mrs. E. J. Wagar, 105 Lock street, Peterborough.

Publicity and Social—Mrs. M F. Ames, Plainville, Ont.

Scientific Temperance Instruction in Day Schools—Mrs. A. J. Throop, Burnham street, Peterborough.

Travellers' Aid and Representative—Mrs. Fred Earle, Cobourg, Ont.

Temperance in Sunday Schools—Miss L. McGregor, R.R. No. 4, Peterborough.

World and Canadian Missionary Work—Mrs. Lander, Coldsprings, Ont.

Prison and Jail Work—Mrs. W. Boorman, 243 McDonnel street, Peterborough.

Soldier and Sailors—Mrs. Luxton, Cobourg, Ont.

Press Secretary — Mrs. R. D. Wright, R.R. No. 4, Peterborough, Ont.

Mrs. Climo led in the noontide prayer and an impressive memorial service for the one W.C.T.U. deceased member of this year, Mrs. Frank Westington, Plainville, was conducted by Mrs. T. J. Buck and a white flower was placed in a tiny vase by Mrs. Nichols in remembrance.

The resolutions to be sent to Mrs. A. L. Phipps, convenor of plan of work, included: first, our protest at war materials being sent to Japan; second, a suggestion that the report form questions be simplified, and third, that more story material for children be provided.

The courtesy committee, after extending appreciation and thanks to the pastor of the church, Rev. F. J. Haire, the ladies of the church for delicious meals and the singers for beautiful duets, added the name of our retiring president, Mrs. A. J. Throop, for her six years of good service as president, now ending, while Mrs. R. D. Wright followed with a prepared address and Mrs. T. M. Wesley presented a flower bowl of lovely flowers from the members of the convention. Mrs. Throop was taken by surprise, as "service" not material reward, was ever her goal.

The evening session was devoted to the work of the young people, when prizes were awarded the various contestants in temperance poster making, scrap books and essays, and the results of scientific temperance contests, which had proved most successful.

35 Candidates Are Confirmed By Bishop Beverley at St. John's.

A class of twenty-four girls and eleven boys, ABOVE, were confirmed in St. John's Anglican church on Sunday by Rt. Rev. Bishop Beverley suffragan bishop of the diocese of Toronto. The candidates were presented by Canon W. P. Robertson, rector and Rev. R. T. F. Brain, the assistant.

Prisoner To Continue Life of Crime Until Government Redeems Its Debt

"I WAS DRIVEN to crime and I intend to keep on in a life of crime until the government redeems its debt to me," was the unusual statement made in police court Saturday morning by Gordon Taylor, after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a bicycle from John Bowen. Taylor declared that the Ontario government has owed him $250 for years.

The bicycle was stolen here on Friday and Taylor was arrested in Oshawa and brought back here Friday night by officers William Piercey and W. A. Clark.

Arrainged before Magistrate Langley, K.C., Taylor pleaded guilty and when asked if he had anything to say replied that he had a lot. Then he proceeded to tell how as a boy he had been committed to the Victoria Industrial School where he had been placed out with farmers. He declared that although the farmers sent the money he earned in this way to the school he had never received any of it.

"What you want to do is to see a lawyer and get after the money," said the Magistrate. "If you have any evidence to work on."

"Anyway," he said to the prisoner, "what has this got to do with the John Bowen's bicycle? John never did anything to you, did he?"

Taylor admitted that he had not but he repeated that the provincial government owed him $250 and he was going to remain a criminal until he got it.

He was remanded until Wednesday for sentence.

June Busy Month For the Farmers In Peterboro' Area

Every other day next month seems to be booked for some or other kind of rural meeting with an excursion to Guelph probably being the feature of the whole series.

For instance, the Clydesdale breeders of Peterborough and Durham counties are meeting at the Exhibition Park Wednesday June 1 for a field day during the afternoon, and everybody who is interested in horses is expected to be there.

On Thursday, June 2, the district association of agricultural fairs is meeting at Oshawa. Tom Brown, president of the Peterborough Exhibition, and Frank Paterson, representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, are both planning to make the trip, and it is expected that representatives will be present from all the fair boards in the district including Millbrook, Lindsay, Lakefield, Norwood, Roseneath, Kinmount and Apsley.

On Monday, June 6th, the beekeepers of Central Ontario are going to have a field day of their own on the farm of W. J. Telford at Chemong. They have quite a program prepared for the day.

Tuesday, June 7, a group of junior farmers will clash in a judging competition at the Exhibition Park. They proposed it themselves and appointed James Moore, Harold Donaldson and Eddie O'Toole to assume the duty of lining up cattle horses and swine for judging. The boys are charging 25 cents entree fee which will be pooled to buy prizes. Frank Paterson is arranging for judges. The boys are meeting again tonight to give the program some finishing touches. This is an oportunity for the boys to sharpen up their judging experience, and it is hoped that every boy in the district will register for this "judging workout."

Then on Wednesday, June 8, the Holstein breeders of Central Ontario are assembling at the Exhibition Park here for probably the largest event of its kind the county has so far recorded.

Finally to add another event to the rural diary, E. A. Summers, agricultural representatives in Durham, has an annual field day for all the young farmers of the county. The program includes baseball games and other athletic events with a dance at night.

Before Committee

Ousted chairman of the Tennesssee Valley Authority, Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, is shown as he appeared before a congressional investigating committee at Washington. He charged the two other directors of the T.V.A. with "dishonest administration." The T.V.A. is one of the biggest of the Roosevelt new deal projects.

Do You Suffer From Headaches?

Headache is a source of great suffering and often leads to serious derangements of health.

Headache is nearly always symptomatic of some diseased condition, rather than a disease itself, but in most cases comes from a disordered stomach, or poor circulation of the blood, and the cause must be removed before relief can be had.

Burdock Blood Bitters helps remove the cause of headache by acting on different organs of the body to regulate, strengthen and purify the system.

MRS. ARTHUR J. WILLIAMS, Lac Ste. Anne, Alta., writes:—"I suffered for years with dizzy headaches, and sometimes they were so bad I could not get any sleep.

My neighbour told me about Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking several bottles my headaches had disappeared.

My husband was troubled with pimples on his face, causing him great discomfort when shaving, but after he had taken two bottles of B.B.B. he got rid of the pimples."

Scouts and Guides To Plant Gardens

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 30.—Boy Scouts and Girl Guides will form a colorful procession next Saturday afternoon to take part in a flower planting ceremony at the Campbellford Cenotaph where four separate plots have been set aside by A. H. McKeel, head of the local committee, for this purpose. It is planned to have the two groups meet at the library where they will, with the bugle band under the direction of Walter Lowe, march to the Cenotaph for the ceremony. The Girl Guides, under the direction of their Captain Grace Payne, will place flowers in the small plots at the north and south end of the monument and the Scouts have been allotted the space surrounding the bird baths. It is expected that civic officials will take part in the ceremony during the early part of the afternoon.

With The Boy Scouts

Attention, Cubs and Scouts.—On Tuesday, May 31, all scouts and cubs will be excused school in the afternoon to attend the parade and inspection by His Excellency Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor General of Canada. All boys are expected to be on parade in the fullest uniforms they have. The scouts and cubs will meet in a body at the corner of George and Brock streets not later than 2.50 p.m. to move off at 3 p.m. to march to the Armouries.

Every leader possible is asked to be on hand to assist the commissioner in handling the groups.

St. John's scouts and cubs will meet in the parish hall at 2.30 p.m. Other groups will act according to instructions from their leaders. Let us put our best in this parade and show His Excellency the manner of boy Peterborough is proud to put before him.

At All Saints on Friday the troop enjoyed a fine game of scout law baseball. At the court of honor several items of interest were discussed and notice was given about Tuesday's parade.

On Saturday Omar Shaughnessy, Frank Gosselin and Don Corrin assisted in the tag day for the blind. P.L. Jack Welsh passed his engineer's badge.

The mother's auxiliary of the Sacred Heart group will hold a meeting in the Sacred Heart headquarters, at 7.30 p.m. Tuesday, May 31.

The St. John's cub pack accepted Bill Patterson, into the parade circle, being fully invested as a tenderfoot. During the instruction period many tests were passed, the following boys completing all tests for the first star badge: Bob Brand, Piers Gray and Douglas Dodson. During the evening another member of the pack said good-bye to his friends, as he met the scout trail through the medium of a going-up ceremony, being accepted into the scouts by Scouter Fred Ford.

Cub Leaders, Attention.—The final meeting of the cub leaders' training course will be held on Wednesday evening, June 1, at 7.45 p.m. All leaders are requested to attend and bring in their note-books.

On Thursday, June 9, the Scouters' Club will hold their last meeting of the season and a social evening will be held at which everyone attending is asked to bring along a cup and saucer to be left behind as equipment for the new headquarters. It is hoped that all officers will leave this date open and make this a real evening. We also need two flags for the new headquarters: a 6-ft. Jack and a 6-ft. Canadian Ensign.

Jack Patterson and Clayton Selkirk were invested into the brotherhood of scouts at St. John's troop meeting on Friday night. We wish these boys, good scouting.

You have been warned.—Don't use your axe with one foot on the log. Axes have been known to slip and toes are lost.—The Skipper.

Cole Circus Is Coming June 7

Hark ye, kiddies and listen to this; a circus is coming to town, or to be exact, the Great Cole Brothers Circus, with 1,400 people.

The big show, one of the largest in the world, will exhibit here, afternoon and night, on Tuesday, June 7th, at Exhibition Park.

Heading the long list of thrilling circus stars are the great Clyde Beatty, the world's most famous animal trainer; Miss Dorothy Herbert, beautiful and unequalled equestrienne of rare daring and audacity; and "The Great Florenzo," the world's latest and greatest sensation, who was imported this year from Europe by The Cole Brothers Circus with his spectacular, somersaulting automobile.

The number one advertising car with thirty-five billposters, lithographers, and bannermen aboard, arrived early to-day to bill "the finest show on earth," the big show is known. All over the city and surrounding country, the flamboyant posters went up announcing the wonders to be seen under the huge big top.

Other famous features dot the long program this year. Among these will be the famous Zavatta Troupe of bareback marvels; the famous Flying Harolds and the Peerless Illingtons, and dozens upon dozens of other featured acts and displays from among the 400 men and women arenic stars listed under the Great Cole Brothers banners.

Innumerable educated, and trained hores displays; a maze of aerial acts, groups of wild animal numbers, whole families in acrobatic displays, a congress of nationally known clowns, four herds of performing elephants in one gigantic assemblage, and "La Seville," gorgeous pageant in song which climaxes in an elaborate display of fireworks, are outstanding features.

Performances will be given at 2 and 8 p.m., with the gates opening one hour in advance, allowing time for leisurely inspection of the famous Cole Brothers' menagerie, the largest on tour in the world.

Will Be An Experiment

Premier King announces that the Bank of Canada will be nationalized. That is, the Government will buy in the 100,000 shares of stock now held by individuals throughout the country. Shares will be taken in at the average price for 1938 which will be around $58. It is stated there will be no changes made in the policy and management of the bank.

Under present plans a minority of directors is elected by the shareholders, but under the new plan these will be replaced by others appointed by the Government as existing terms of office expire. And it is entirely possible that when a Liberal government is in office those appointed will be Liberals, and if a Conservative government is in power then the directors named or needed will be Conservatives.

We read in reports from Ottawa that "so far as possible the bank will be removed from political control, although its policies will naturally be subject to the policies of the Government of the day." And there is something about the sound of that which we do not like.

The Bank of Canada was started in the days when Hon. R. B. Bennett was Prime Minister. He has admitted several times in the House of Commons that the reason why he did not nationalize the bank at its inception was because he found too much political pressure. Mr. Bennett has been frank in his admission and has stated plainly that he was subjected to all manner of persuasion from political friends who wanted for themselves or their relatives positions in the new institution.

Whether the Mackenzie King government can succeed in keeping the Bank of Canada free of political influence is something which that government will have to prove. It is not something which can be taken for granted. That is said in no spirit of carping criticism but because we have not in this country demonstrated our special fitness to properly manage businesses which are owned by the public. In Ontario we have our great Hydro Electric enterprise and in turn the political parties have not hesitated to make full use of it to advance their own interests. In the larger field we have the C. N. R. and it is not free to operate as the managers of the road might desire. Today members of parliament are afraid of the railway question and to that extent the railway situation is controlling parliament instead of parliament controlling the railway situation.

Knowing these things one cannot possibly join in acclaiming Government control of the Bank of Canada. If the politicians will keep their hands off the thing it should be possible to operate it successfully, but the big question is—will they?

You Can Do Your Part

In case you have not attended to it, the Examiner suggests that you send copies of its Tourist and Vacation number to your friends. It is a very simple and direct method of calling their attention to this district.

As a rule we are inclined to leave the promotion of tourist business to some central organization, and when such an organization shows evidence of activity perhaps we may take it for granted that all is being done that needs doing. Then if the tourist trade for the season is not what we expected it should be we probably blame this central organization.

By sending out a few copies of this Mail-It-Away edition you can be doing something about it yourself. You can be an organization of one, the president and the board of directors all combined.

Apart from that it is an opportunity to let your friends no matter where they are know a good deal about the district in which you live. We believe the Examiner's edition will tell them more than you would care to sit down and write about it. Your carrier boy will bring them to you or you can secure them at the Examiner office.

On Being a Doctor

Faculty of Medicine a the University of Toronto is tightening regulations. In 1939 a first year student who fails in any one subject will be plucked, and we read that the ruling is designed to increase the efficiency of classroom and clinical instruction as much as reducing the number of graduates.

Officials of the Ontario Medical Association say the medical profession is not yet overcrowded, although they qualify that by admitting the point of saturation has been reached in the larger centres where the tendency is to specialize. The general medical practitioner should still be able to find a field in which to work.

There are 4,280 practicing physicians in Ontario, and if all the prospective patients were allocated in equal lots there would be 784 for each physician. Another estimate has it that 2 per cent. of the population is sick, so that would mean that each physician would have but 15 persons on his list, and that of course does not look particularly attractive. In 1932 and 1933 there were doctors who had to go on relief, but there is no record at present of a doctor in Ontario being in that class. It is explained that some of them in communities which had been hard hit by unemployment were suffering a sharp decline in their income. The recognition of medical relief has meant a good deal in some cases. The tendency to limit the number of students in medical courses is on the increase. Toronto cannot well place such a limit because it is a provincial university, but we learn that 100 is about all that can be handled efficiently. Limitations have been previously placed both at Queen's and Western.

Have to Fight For It

News which comes from points in Saskatchewan and the south-western sections of United States makes it plain enough that farmers have to fight in order to stand a chance of getting a crop. If the weather is such that their grain will grow then they have to be on hand to deal with the grasshoppers. In Texas, New Mexico, Kansas and adjoining territory reports say that farmers and ranchers have just about 14 days in which to win or lose their battle as the grasshoppers are hatching now. They come out earlier than they do in our Canadian West. The method is to poison them before they have reached the stage of growth where they can take to the wing. Once that happens nothing can stop them, and experts are certain they can fly as much as 100 miles in a day.

Entomolygists in Western Canada have identified 80 varieties of grasshoppers, but admit that 90 per cent. of the damage is done by only two. They state the area of infestation in the West appears to be less than last year, but add there will be grasshoppers farther North in Saskatchewan, invading land which was formerly free of them. One advantage is that many of the hoppers have been killed by drought in previous years. They died because there was nothing for them to eat. There is also this advantage this year—newer and better and cheaper methods for killing grasshoppers by poisoned bait have been brought into use, and the means of covering large areas in short time have been perfected. But it is a battle in every sense of the word. If the farmers do not kill the grasshoppers then the grasshoppers will kill the crops. Getting a crop in that area is not merely a matter of putting grain in the soil and then waiting for it to ripen for harvesting. Even with favorable weather it is correct to say the farmers have to get out and fight for the right to keep their own crops.

Why He Said Little

R. A. Pyne, superintendent of Motive Power and Car Department of the C. P. R. western lines, was a witness before the committee of the Senate seeking information on the railway situation. He was asked a number of questions about the practical results of a system of unification, and he was certain that some of the existing shops in the West would be closed. There are at present six major shops, but Mr. Pyne was certain three of them would do all the work required.

Senator Copp put this question: "Would you like to tell us which ones would be closed?"

The answer was this: "No. There is a political atmosphere which might make it impossible for me to go home."

Mr. Pyne did mention one shop at Ogden, Alberta, which had a capacity for handling 25 locomotives a month, but only 12 are being taken care of there. So it is at about half capacity. But Mr. Pyne was not saying very much about the general plan of closing railway shops, and we believe the man was telling the truth when he said there was a political atmosphere around which made it inadvisable for one to say too much. By that we mean if a shop were closed in a certain political riding then the member for that riding would find it difficult—perhaps impossible—to get elected again. He would have to face the charge of having allowed the shop to be closed.

When He Was Hard Up

Never before have we heard of Claude J. St. Denis, but he has been making his way into the columns of newspapers recently. This way: He is 63 years of age; health is not good and he suffers from a heart condition; in 1935 he was discharged from an automobile plant in Lansing, Mich., since which time he has not had a home. Early in the year he was sent to the county infirmary for treatment by welfare officials, and that would indicate he had been seeking or receiving relief. On April 15 Claude J. St. Denis walked out and no person has seen or heard of him since. He has a son and two sisters living, but apparently there was no door open to him when he was down on his luck financially and with health broken.

All that of course would never have caused the name of Claude J. St. Denis to have appeared in the newspapers. A law firm in Montreal is now searching for him because his sister has died and left him a fortune of $2,000,000. So he is news now. People want to find him; he's what they call an heir and a wealthy man and he will not have to depend on charity or receive treatment in an infirmary. He can pay now for everything he needs and a good deal more.

Perhaps one might be well advised to say the case is likely to have a happy ending and leave it that way. But there is the cold fact to be faced that when Claude J. St. Denis was down and out he had to take his bumps alone. His sisters, one of whom was wealthy, and his son were not hastening to see how he was getting along. When he was fired from an auto plant he was probably old and weak, and it appears he had few resources as they were quickly dissipated. It may be fine to know he can inherit a couple of millions if he can be located. It would have been better to have had it recorded that his folk were willing to look after him when he was alone and desperately hard up.

No Surprise In It

For 17 years the birth rate in Canada has been declining continuously. Not at any time has there been a change to the other direction. In 1921 our birth-rate per 1,000 of population was 29.4, and in the year 1936, the last period for which statistics have been completed, it was 20. In spite of our declining birth rate the population is increasing, but the increase is accounted for by immigration.

People who have lived in the rural districts know without depending on statistics from Ottawa that there are fewer children in many sections today than there were 40 years ago. The old Tenth Concession is just about the same as any other concession or sideline. It is not at all difficult to think of the homes along that road and to recall the number of young people who used to live there. In the house nearly across the road there were Dougal, Angus, Archie and Roderick, and there were Mary, Annie, Tena, Jessie and Nellie. In the house to the west about 200 yeards away there were James, Ronald, Hugh and Gregor, Peter and Malcolm. One could go in almost any direction and find four or five children in the home. What the birth rate actually was in that section we do not know. People there did not bother much about statistics.

Today the Tenth Concession is not populous. It is actually part of a highway and many people pass there who do not belong to the community at all. Years ago folk had a pretty good idea of the ownership of every buggy or wagon which went by. In the two homes we mentioned as having had six and nine children there are but two in the one place, and the other farm is used for pasture and part of it is worked by a neighbor. We noticed where the school house down the road was mentioned in an inspector's report some time ago as one which it might be advisable to close as there were not enough children going there now to warrant keeping a teacher.

In cities today a family of four children is considered a large one. We can think of many homes where there is one child, of others where there are two and of some where there are none at all. It comes as no surprise to have the officials at Ottawa announce the birth rate is declining. It means that we are a new nation here, and in our early stages of growth and development we are depending on the outside world if we desire to show an increase in population.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Canada is to send envoys to all the important countries in the world. We will be unable however to give them a cruiser escort.

Export trade is said to be vital to industry but on the other hand a brisk home market does not do any particular harm.

Mr. Pouliot says civil servants have no respect for Parliamentary institutions. The same charge might also be applied at times to members of parliament.

Medical students are to be rejected henceforth at the University if they fail in a single subject. It is evidently to be a case of getting to be a doctor the hard way from now on.

Canada's defense minister says this country might spend more on defense, if only to guard its neutrality. Cheering from Quebec over this ministerial statement seems to be well under control.

PEACE

(By A. R. K.)

¶ The nations of the world want peace, they long for days when wars will cease, they say that every one; they long to see their people dwell, on height of land or shady dell, where chores are easy done.

¶ They long for peace that's what they say, they strive for it in every way, for peace they'd all say thanks; but next day on I read of them, and learn where their high ranking men, have bought two dozen tanks.

¶ Their statesmen speak so all can hear, they hope the day for peace is near, it's time to plant the corn; and then I read how peace has stalled, ten thousand more have just been called, to don the uniform.

¶ They long for peace once more I read, intent on only kindly deed, or some sweet minded trip; I'd like quite well to think that's so, until I read they up and go, and build a battleship.

¶ I read another plea for peace, of longings that all strife may cease, men won't have riddled frames; fresh hope seems kindled new in me, until next day I turn and see, they'd bought a thousand planes.

¶ I wonder what it's all about, one day there's hope, the next day doubt, long time it's been that way; the thought drills in me now and then, that peace-speaking sort of men—don't mean just what they say.

$5,000 Pension Is Under Debate

(From Parliamentary Reports)

Mr. THOMPSON: What was Mr. Roy's annual salary while he was minister to France?

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: $12,000.

Mr. BENNETT: And living and automobile allowances.

Mr. THOMPSON: Then I must register a protest against payment of the amount indicated in the vote. I protest against the payment of these moneys to a man who has been drawing during that time $12,000 a year.

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: Just in the years he was minister.

Mr. THOMPSON: Drawing $12,000 a year during the years he was minister he should have saved enough to look after himself for the rest of his life. I farmed during my lifetime; I worked hard and saved. Had I not saved something for my old age I would have to go to the poor house. That is all there would be ahead of me. I am decidedly opposed to pensions being paid by the government to people who have not contributed towards them. This pension is to be paid by the already over-burdened taxpayers of Canada. It appears that $5,000 per year is to be given to a man who since 1909—

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: I should have said 1911.

Mr. THOMPSON:—a man who since 1911 has been drawing $12,000 a year and allowances.

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: He has not been drawing $12,000 since 1911; he drew that amount in the last ten years.

Mr. THOMPSON: And that makes $120,000. What were his allowances?

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: I understand they were $13,000 a year.

Mr. THOMPSON: His allowance amounted to $13,000 a year and his salary to $12,000. If you go out into the country and tell the people that a man who has been drawing $12,000 salary and $13,000 allowances for the past ten years is to be given $5,000 a year for the rest of his life you know what will be said about it. I would ask that the item be struck out altogether.

Mr. DUPUIS: What are his annual expenditures due to his functions?

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: I believe if I were to go into detail it would be found that his expenditures took up most of, if not in some years more than his salary and allowances.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: Since I have tried to get some answer to the question as to how the sum was arrived at, perhaps I might be permitted more or less to endorse the view just expressed. I have nothing whatever to say personally against Mr. Roy or his service to the country; I want that clearly understood. Further than that I know there are many people in one way or another connected with the government service whose salaries seem very high in comparison with those of ordinary Canadians. I recognize that. At the same time I do not see any way of bringing the matter to the attention of the house other than by taking it up on a particular instance of this kind. That is the reason I speak at this time. If any one else were involved I would proceed in the same manner.

When I think of the niggardly allowances we give to people on old age pensions, when I think of $20 a month in some provinces being cut down to $15, and when I consider the large numbers of people who today are striving desperately to maintain themselves and to educate their children on very small means, I feel the country is not in a position to give salaries, large allowances or large annuities to any one group, even though that group may be associated with the government. After all, those of us who as members of the House of Commons, or of the civil service, or who serve the country in some other capacity, are drawing public funds must remember that those sums are paid by the ordinary people.

WATCHING THE CLOCK

The CHAIRMAN: I must inform the hon. member for Broadview (Mr. Church) that he has spoken forty minutes.

Mr. CHURCH: I was just referring—

The CHAIRMAN: The hon. member can proceed only by unanimous consent.

Mr. CHURCH: The hon. member for Greenwood (Mr. Massey) was given forty minutes more. I have not quite finished, and I have never asked for any such privilege before. As a matter of fact, I think I have been speaking for only thirty minutes, but I shall take another opportunity. It is all right; I am not objecting to your ruling, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. BENNETT: I suggest that the hon. member be allowed to speak a bit further, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. MACKENZIE: Hear, hear.

Mr. CHURCH: I shall not break any of the rules of the house. I do not want any favours.

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: It is not a favour. It is a right.

Mr. BENNETT: You are not breaking any rules. I have spoken in between. Go on.

THE WRONG WORD.

(West Point Pointer)

LAST YEAR the Columbia program committee invited Dr. Angell of Yale as a speaker at one of the weekly chapels. He traveled down from New Haven entirely without a text for his speech. He got off at Grand Central, and was still unprepared. He took a taxicab up to the Heights and still had no idea of what he would say. Walking up the chapel steps he quite suddenly saw a sign on the door: PUSH. That would be his topic; he would speak about the value of aggressiveness in life, of gentle force in the world.

Upon the platform he began to speak: "The text for my speech is not drawn from the Bible, or from any great philosophy; rather from a sign on the chapel door naming the chief asset that a person may have." His entire audience twisted their heads and saw inscribed on that chapel door the word: PULL.

MEAN?

"I insured my voice," announced the great singer, "for $5,000."

"Oh!" replied his rival. "And what have you done with the money?"

• Vienna Has Had Two Months Of It

(New York Times)

VIENNA IS, in fact, just beginning very slowly to emerge from two months of an organized, cold-blooded terrorism unprecedented in modern times. This is not to say that the terrorism is over; by no means. It has merely been taken as far as possible out of the public view because of the world reaction it was creating.

In prisons and S. A. barracks and commandeered quarters wellbred men and women are still being compelled to scrub floors, wash dishes and clean the boots of Storm Troopers. Elderly professors and former commercial magnates are still forced to do "physical jerks" until they fall from exhaustion. But it is all being done within walls through which it cannot be seen.

Moreover, the number of prominent victims is greatly decreased because most of them are either in prison or have fled. The humbler and the less conspicuous are now the sufferers.

But throughout the two long months of the terror the sadistic indulgences—for the practices were nothing less—were open and brazen. Their scenes were the public squares, the principal streets and, above all, the Prater. Vienna's beautiful park, which became notorious for the orgiastic "circuses" held there by Storm Troopers.

It was cold-blooded and disciplined license, which increased the terror it inspired. One of the cruelest sights in Vienna to those who understood its import was that of Storm Troopers, in perfect formation, marching from their barracks through the streets in the mornings to those "circuses" in the Prater.

The full story of this Vienna terror has never been written. All its details may probably never be known. No foreign correspondent in Vienna could send out all he knew and remain there, and a correspondent's duty is to remain at his post as long as possible. The utmost that could be done was to outline the general tendencies and report the few authenticated instances, and the correspondents did their best. An intelligent public was expected to read between the lines.

In the matter of actual physical ill-treatment there is no doubt that so far it is the Jews who have suffered far beyond anything experienced by other victims. It has been a common practice for squads of Storm Troopers to make the rounds of cafes, order all Jews to stand up, and then march them out to kneel in the gutter and scrub off the pavements the emblems of the Fatherland Front that the old regime had left painted there.

When the supply of painted emblems gave out—which was speedily—the Storm Troopers daubed new ones on the pavements over-night to "find work for the Jews" next day.

• Conditions In Nationalist Spain

EDITOR EXAMINER: Sir: In an editorial in the Wednesday issue of your paper, you painted a rather gruesome picture of conditions in Nationalist Spain. Did it ever occur to you that; if things were as bad as you described them, General Franco would be showing very bad judgment in inviting tourists from other countries to inspect the conquered territory? Certainly the government of Barcelona would not want impartial eye-witnesses to see what is happening, and what has happened in that city or in Valencia.

I am not altogether blaming you for seeing things as you do, for, up to a short time ago, the Associated Press had been led astray by Loyalist propaganda. But in recent months prominent non-Catholic correspondents who have visited those portions of the country which have been conquered by Franco, have expressed their admiration at the wonderful transformation which has taken place. They found the government functioning smoothly, no war-time prices for food, such as we experienced even here in Canada, and work and good wages for all.

This is especially true of Malaga, Seville and Bilbao, where before all was anarchy. Among these correspondents I might mention Colonel Campbell Turner a member of the United States Diplomatic Service, and Mr. Elleny Sedwick, editor of the Atlantic Monthly, who after a tour of the country wrote; "I was amazed at conditions in White Spain. Of all the countries I saw in Europe it was the most prosperous. Everything was well ordered and everyone seemed contented. The administration seemed perfect and you would hardly know there was a war going on until you got near the front lines. If food was ever plentiful anywhere it is there. The sacrifices these Spaniards are making on behalf of their country are such as in times of peace could not occur outside of Utopia".

The Examiner, a few evenings ago carried a news item to the effect that half a million pilgrims visited a religious shrine in Portugal to thank God for the deliverance of their country from communism. Are you aware that not many years ago Portugal was in a worse condition than Spain found herself in 1935? Penrier Salagar brought peace and order out of chaos there. Franco hopes to accomplish the same in Spain.

One other word. The British Government now refers to Franco's forces as "The Nationalists" and the Prime Minister has defended its action on the floor of the house. Would it not be a patriotic gesture to drop the word "Rebels" and follow the precedent set by the Mother of Parliaments?

• Seem To Have Dogs In Montreal

(Letter in Montreal Star)

SIR,—Your correspondent, "Mother of 6 on Dole" may not expect to receive any part of the money now spent on Montreal's Dog Population, but she certainly started something, or rather, revived something, for there has always been strong agitation over the dog question in this city.

Laws have been passed from time to time as needed, to protect dog-loving citizens who don't own dogs—the kind of citizen who respects other people's feelings and sensibilities—and if these laws were observed by, or enforced against, the nervy or careless dog owner, there would be no complaints.

As an example of the mentality of a certain type of dog owner I quote from a letter in The Star of Monday, "$250,000 is a very small price for dog owners to pay for the enjoyment they get," and again from the same letter I quote, "Dog owners will give up all other luxuries before their dog, because he affords more real pleasure to them," and again he says, "Don't begrudge us our pleasure" and signs himself, "The Leash and Collar Club." What a lot of enjoyment and pleasure this fellow has. He is probably the man whom I know, who, when safely away from his own door, unleashes his dog and lets him play about in every lawn or yard he passes, bespoiling the grass and nosing about the shrubbery without regard to the law, or is he or she, one of those who puts his dog from his motor car to the sidewalk, there to befoul every step the pedestrian takes? Or is the great pleasure derived from taking the dog into grocery stores, also against the law, or is his main pleasure having his dog yap at other people, or frightening school children? It all depends on the viewpoint and the viewpoint of the average dog owner appears to be that he and his dog are in a separate class above the law. There are a lot of dogs in Montreal that need training and their owners are equally in need of training in many respects.

It is said there are 1,300 dogs in Westmount alone. Many of these are running loose and the habits of some of them are disgusting to the eye. They are as bad for children as filthy pictures.

One Star correspondent says, "You just can't separate a man from his dog." How much we wish that were true. If dog owners would keep their dogs to themselves, real dog lovers would not complain. C. F. K.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

NOW IT CAME to pass, when Sanballat, and Tobiah, and Geshem the Arabian, and the rest of our enemies, heard that I had builded the wall, and that there was no breach left therein; (though at that time I had not set up the doors upon the gates;) that Sanballat and Geshem sent unto me, saying, Come, let us meet together in some one of the villages in the plain of Ono. But they thought to do me mischief.

And I sent messengers unto them, saying, I am doing a great work, so that I cannot come down: why should the work cease, whilst I leave it, and come down to you? Yet they sent unto me four times after this sort; and I answered them after the same manner.

Then sent Sanballat his servant unto me in like manner the fifth time with an open letter in his hand; wherein was written, It is reported among the heathen, and Gashmu saith it, that thou and the Jews think to rebel: for which cause thou buildest the wall, that thou mayest be their king, according to these words.

And thou hast also appointed prophets to preach of thee at Jerusalem, saying, There is a king in Judah: and now shall it be reported to the king according to these words. Come now therefore, and let us take counsel together.

Then I sent unto him, saying, There are no such things done as thou sayest, but thou feignest them out of thine own heart. For they all made us afraid, saying, Their hands shall be weakened from the work, that it be not done. Now therefore, O God, strengthen my hands.—Neh. vi, 1-9.

A MOTHER IN TENNIS.

(London Daily Express)

"I'M JUST AN old-fashioned mother now. No trousers for me at my age," said 29-year-old Mrs. Bobbie Heine-Miller, one of this year's favorites for the Wimbledon championship, when I accompanied South Africa's team of tennis girls on a shopping tour of West End stores.

She explained: "I played in skirts the last time I was at Wimbledon nine years ago, and skirts are good enough for me still. My kiddies are not going to have their 'little old lady' running around in trousers on the centre court on what is my last trip."

"It's a shame," said the babes of the team. Olive Craze, Sheil Peircey, each 19 and boyishly slim. "She looks such a darling in trousers."

48 Years Since Vice-Regal Party Visited Lakefield

Lord Stanley Of Preston Was Honored Guest Of Village In September, 1890

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, May 30.—When His Excellency the Governor-General visits Lakefield tomorrow (Tuesday), May 31, it will be the second time in the history of the village that Lakefield has been honored by an official visit from the Governor-General of Canada.

Not since the year 1890, when His Excellency Lord Stanley of Preston, then Governor-General, accompanied by Lady Stanley, were honored guests of the municipality, have Lakefield's residents been honored by the presence in their midst of Canada's highest representative of the King.

Only the older residents of Lakefield recall this visit, which took place on September 25, 1890, almost forty-eight years ago.

A quaint account of the occasion is recorded in the September 26, 1890, edition of "The Lakefield Chronicle" (predecessor to "The Lakefield News"), which was published by G. A. Milner. The copy was loaned to the Examiner by W. H. Casement, Lakefield. This copy, which has lain among Mr. Casement's documents for almost half a century, is highly treasured by him, since at the time of this vice-regal visit in 1890, Mr. Casement had the distinction of being both Reeve of Lakefield and Warden of Peterborough County, and delivered addresses to the Governor-General in both these capacities. This year Mr. Casement celebrated his eighty-fourth birthday, and enjoys the distinction of being Canada's oldest postmaster.

Making Canal Journey.

To quote the Lakefield Chronicle (September 26, 1890):

"When it became known that His Excellency was making the trip over the route of the Trent Valley Canal and would pass through Lakefield, Reeve Casement took steps to ascertain if in address would be received by Lord Stanley. The reply being favorable, the citizens went to work in dead earnest to give a fitting reception and one that would do credit to the village.

"Arches were erected representing the different industries of the place, viz.: The canoe arch, erected at the corner of King and Queen Streets, was built with canoes and evergreens, brilliantly illuminated with Chinese lanterns on top of which was a tent and camper preparing the supper. Deer heads and paddles also helped to make the arch look unique. The flour barrel arch, erected on Queen Street at the intersection of Burnham Street, representing the milling industry, was composed of barrels and bags of flour which at night was illuminated with Chinese lanterns. The lumbermen's arch at the Town Hall was very nicely got up with lumber, lath and shingles, surmounted with evergreens, flags, saws, etc. The citizens' arch at the Post Office was a very artistic evergreen arch gaily decorated with flags, Chinese lanterns, etc., which when lit up presented a very pleasing appearance.

"Between the arches and banner was strung across the street with the motto:

'Lakefield Welcomes Our Governor-General.'

"The Town Hall was nicely decorated with autumn leaves, choice plants and bunting. On the wall, the motto, 'Canada Our Home,' was very prettily arranged in autumn leaves.

"The supper room was at the rear of the fire hall, curtained off and gaily decorated with pictures, bunting and flowers. The table presented a very inviting appearance, reflecting credit on the young ladies who had the matter in hand.

The Arrival.

"About 7.30 in the evening the 'Esturion' arrived at the wharf, having on board His Excellency the Governor-General, Lady Stanley, Lieut. Hon. Edward Stanley, A.D.C., Lady Alice Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. W. Boyd, Bobcaygeon; Mr. Barron, M.P., and wife; Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins, Mrs. Judge Dean, Lindsay; J. M. Riddel, general superintendent G.T.R.; R. C. Strickland, J. E. Belcher, R. B. Rogers, P. W. Strickland and D Strickland.

"Three rousing cheers were given for His Excellency, the band played God Save the King, after which Reeve Casement stepped on board and read the following address:

"To His Excellency the Right Honorable Baron Stanley of Preston, G.C.B., Governor-General of Canada:

"May it please Your Excellency:

"We, the Reeve and Councillors of the village of Lakefield on behalf of ourselves and its inhabitants, give to Your Excellency and Lady Stanley and suite a most sincere and hearty welcome. We are delighted that you have reached us by the waters of the Otonabee, and we fondly hope that your trip from Lindsay through the beautiful scenery of Stoney, Clear and other lakes, all tributary to this river, has been to you a most interesting and pleasant one.

"Although we are unable to entertain you as we would desire, we gladly invite you to drive about our village and to look at its several industries and then partake of the humble repast our ladies have provided for you.

"W. H. Casement, Reeve; Alex. Bell, Clerk. Lakefield, September 25, 1890.

Governor-General's Reply.

"The Governor-General replied as follows:

"Mr. Reeve, Ladies and Gentlemen,—I thank you for your kind and loyal address. I assure you it is a source of sincere pleasure for me to visit this municipality and meet with that same loyal reception that I have received elsewhere during the last ten days, and especially has it been a pleasure for me to see one of those waterways which will, I hope, in the near future be conveying the commerce of your country towards the sea. I hope it may be so. But this is a matter which rests, not with me, but with the executive government. I have seen enough today to show me what great importance they possess, what advantages are to be derived from them, and what use has been made of them. One has only to think of what the place was forty or fifty years ago, when Mr. Strickland's father came here, to realize what energy and enterprise can do. I will have to put off to a future opportunity the drive you so kindly invited me to take through your streets. I would like to have seen the country, and truly hope the opportunity may again come to me. I will take care that the Queen knows that here as elsewhere, her representative has been received with every mark of loyalty, and I am sure she will feel that gratitude towards you for which I am now the unworthy mouthpiece. I thank you again for your loyal welcome.

"The party was then driven to the Town Hall, passing through the different arches on their way, headed by the Lakefield Fire Brigade Band.

At The Town Hall.

"On their arrival at the Town Hall, Mrs. C. P. Traill was introduced to His Excellency and Lady Stanley, and presented them with a copy of her work, 'Study of Plant Life.' This lady is the celebrated author of whom the Governor-General in his reply to the address from the County of Peterborough, referred in most eulogistic terms as an authoress as well-known in the old world as the new.

"The following young ladies who had prepared the tea for His Excellency and Lady Stanley were next introduced: Miss Attwood, Miss Barlee, Miss M. Sherin, Miss B. Graham, Miss M. Nelson, Miss C. Strickland, Miss K. Traill, Miss Julia Strickland, Miss Bloomfield, Miss Crickmore, Miss C. McEwen, Mrs. Sheldrake.

"C. J. Bloomfield, C. Attwood, Rev. V. McEwen, J. F. Strickland, F. R. S. Barlee, R. Graham, Rev. F. Johnston and J. B. Hilliard were also presented

"At the Town Hall Warden Casement presented the address on behalf of the county."

The address said in part:

"They (the Municipal Corporation of the County of Peterborough on behalf of the citizens of the county) have noted with great pleasure the interest you have manifested in the growth, prosperity and material development of the resources of this country, and in connection therewith they are sure that the magnificent possibilities of the great stretch of waters (forming part of the Trent Valley Canal) through a portion of which you have passed today, cannot have escaped your notice, and feeling this they have the more confidence in drawing Your Excellency's attention to the immense importance the completion of the Trent Valley Canal is to this district and to the more northern districts whose development depends to such a very large extent upon the utilization of this great waterway and which will afford the shortest route by which the products of the far west can be brought to the sea-board. They trust that Your Excellency's first visit to this vicinity may prove a precedent which will give them the hope of a similar honor on a future occasion, and form a pleasant reminiscence of your Vice-Regency.

"W. H. Casement, Warden County of Peterborough; Edg. Pearse, Clerk County of Peterborough. Peterborough, 25th Sept., 1890."

"His Excellency in reply said (in part):

"I thank you sincerely for your kind and hospitable welcome, and I only wish that circumstances had permitted my arriving in time to allow me to see more of your thriving village. . . In the arches which you have been good enough to erect, I see evidences of three of the staple industries that are helping to build up trade. I look forward to the day when lumber and flour may flow down from a greater area through this line and form part of that great traffic which must ever tend from the new to the old world:..It is a source of pride and satisfaction to be introduced to a lady whose name is known in the old world as well as in the new, and who herself is able to testify that in the lifetime of one generation these results have been achieved. When I speak of Mrs. Traill you will understand that honor is due such a name...I have left a pleasant task for my successors, for each one of them you may be good enough to invite to follow the charming ride I have taken will in his turn be able to congratulate you on your increasing prosperity and wish you as I do most heartily, health, success and prosperity in the future.

"Here a little daughter of Mr. R. C. Strickland presented Lady Stanley with a handsome floral basket.

"After the address the Vice-Regal party went down stairs and were entertained to luncheon, after which they were driven to the train and embarked on their private car, 'Victoria,' en route for Quebec via Port Hope.

"Notes."

"At the request of the Governor-General, the children of the public schools were granted a holiday today in commemoration of His Excellency's visit to Lakefield.

"Lady Stanley made a request for a photograph of the canoe arch which will most likely be provided in a few days."

The Chronicle's report of the event concluded.

Although the coming visit of the Governor-General will be considerably shorter than this previous Vice-Regal visit, it is expected that the citizens of Lakefield will welcome Lord Tweedsmuir with the same loyalty and enthusiasm as did those citizens of forty-eight years ago.

His Excellency will arrive by car about 11.45 a.m., it is expected, and will be afforded a civic welcome by the Reeve and Council in the park adjoining the Memorial Hall.

WILLIAM H. RICHARDS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, May 30.—After a brief illness William Henry Richards passed away at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Leland Bryant of Wooler, Ont.

The late Mr. Richards, who was in his 87th year, was born in the township of Murray, near the village of Wooler, and had resided in that locality all his life. He was well known and was held in high esteem by all persons in the community. In religion, he was a faithful member of the United Church.

On December 24 last, Mr. Richards and his wife celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage, and at that time received congratulations and good wishes from a host of friends. Less than a month after the anniversary, January 17, Mrs. Richards passed away and Mr. Richards hod naw followed her after a lapse of only a few months.

Surviving to mourn his loss are three daughters, Mrs. L. C. McCall, Mrs. Roy Putman and Mrs. Leland Bryant, all of Wooler.

The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Bryant to the United Church at Wooler, where an impressive service was conducted by the pastor, the Rev. A. Poulter.

Interment was made in Stockdale Cemetery. The bearers were all grandsons.

The late Mr. Richards was a member of the Masonic Order and the last rites of the Order were conducted at the graveside by members of the craft.

Amateur Contest Program Pleases Omemee Audience

OMEMEE, May 30.—The amateur contest held in Coronation Hall, Omemee on Tuesday was one of the outstanding events of the day's celebration. With Karl Collins acting as master of ceremonies, a very successful program was run off.

Jean Millar of Lakefield was the first performer and showed much talent with a recitation, followed by a song and then a very skilful tap dance number. Donald Griffin and Kenneth Thurston next favored the audience with a song, "Behind the Parlor Door", accompanied on their guitars. These boys were from Omemee. Constance McGahey, a five-year-old miss of Omemee won much applause with her tap dancing. She was accompanied at the piano by Miss F. MacPherson. Vera Leach, age 11 years was next and sang in a delightful fashion. She came from Peterborough.

Merle Endicott and Harold MacTavish of Omemee, with violin and guitar, went back a few years in their musical number and gave an old-time dance which was well applauded. Jim Cross, a 12-year-old boy from Peterborough had an excellent tenor voice and was well-received by the audience.

In the senior events, a quartette consisting of J. MacTavish, J. Laidley, A. Stewart and R. Stewart of Omemee sang "Sweet Kentucky Babe", and were well applauded. Bert Calvert and Vic Sloan of Reaboro with accordion and violin received a big hand from the crowd on rendering an old time number. Another quartet, consisting of the Weir Brothers of Omemee was very good. Bill Weir as spokesman introduced his brothers Arthur, Burt, and Russell, who each responded to his name. Their number was "Don't Count Your Chickens Before They Are Hatched."

Vivian Carter of Peterborough, won applause with her song "In the Garden of Tomorrow". Joe Primeau, also of Peterborough, showed great promise as a coming baritone. Mrs. T. Davies of Peterborough sang a very beautiful number.

The prizes were awarded to Constance McGahey in the children's class, to Jean Millar in the Junior class, and to Weir Brothers in the senior class.

The brilliantly lighted rink quickly drew the attention of the crowd and before many minutes had elapsed over nine hundred people had entered its doors. The interior was appropriately decorated with flags and gay colored lights. The attraction here was the newly-built dance platform of well polished hard wood situated about the middle of the rink. At one end of the platform were games of bingo and also a wheel of fortune. At the other end were refreshment booths of soft drinks and hot dogs and coffee. Music was provided by Jack Marshall and his orchestra from Peterborough and alternate round and square numbers were played. For those who did not wish to dance there were benches along the sides on which to sit and rest and enjoy the music. The strains of "The National Anthem", brought a very eventful day to a successful close.

BONARLAW

Dr. and Mrs. A. Lorne Wellman of Waterloo and Dr. Iona Wellman of St. Joseph's Hospital, Toronto, spent the holiday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wellman, Harold.

Bill Burkitt of Sudbury is spending this week with his parents here.

Alva Heath of Langstaff visited his former home here over the week-end.

Too Much Wealth Jails Beggar

Walkerton, May 30.

A TRANSIENT who has been collecting money from Walkerton citizens on representations that he was deaf and dumb, and owned only ten cents and some shoelaces, today changed his sleeping quarters. Last night he slept, uninvited, in an I.O.D.E. room. Tonight he will be the unwilling guest of Chief John Ferguson. The Chief found he had $68 in bills and several dollars in silver, hidden in his clothing.

Township Board To Be Discussed

An important meeting of trustees and ratepayers of Otonabee will be held at Keene this (Monday) evening to consider the matter of forming larger units of school administration.

If the township council is so advised by the ratepayers they may pass a by-law not later than July 1st, 1938, which will provide for the election of a school board of five members next January 2nd, to manage the schools that desire to unite in one area. For each school in the area as provided by the by-law an additional school grant of $100 per school will be paid by the Department of Education in August, 1939.

Should all of the 14 schools within Otonabee unite, it would mean $1,400 more in grants in 1939.

FIGURES IN A BOOK?

What gives rise to a loan?

★ ★

"Credit can only be issued against real assets . . . The amount of credit must always be limited to the amount of free money . . ."

That was written by one of the greatest of Socialists—by the late Viscount Snowden of Ickornshaw, Philip Snowden, in 1935 — little more than two years ago.

Few stood so long or so resolutely in the forefront of public controversy, or aroused such fierce opposition by vigour of opinion or severity of tongue — and none passed to his rest having earned greater public respect than Viscount Snowden.

His career was a triumph of sturdy British character. He took an unpopular course during the Great War, but later became one of his country's great figures, standing firmly for his convictions and for soundness in the financial structure of Great Britain.

His words quoted above apply to Canadian banking today with all the force with which he applied them that day to banking in England. The Canadian banking system is a British system, adjusted from time to time to fit the needs of a developing nation in the changing scene of this new world.

Credit can only be issued against actual assets. That is as true today as ever. You cannot create credit by writing figures in a book. You cannot make loans regardless of deposits, collateral or repayment, then write the loans up with a fountain pen as figures in a book labelled "Deposits" and lend them over and over.

If you could, then bankers in any country would need no more than a fountain pen to prevent bank failures.

During the last ten fiscal years Canada's chartered banks have paid more than $397,000,000 in interest on deposits. If they could create deposits by the magic process of writing figures in a book, they could have saved that $397,000,000!

And if banks could lend ten times the amount of their deposits, collecting interest each time, bank profits would become a national scandal, dividends would be paid in astronomical figures, people would be selling all they had to buy bank shares, and there would be a land office rush on at Ottawa for bank charters.

But what are the facts?

Bank profits last year averaged less than half of one per cent. on total assets — a lower margin than that on which any other class of business, corporate or individual, can succeed.

Dividends are less than 4½ per cent. on shareholders' investment; nobody is scrambling to sell all he owns to invest in bank shares, and there is no land office rush at Ottawa for bank charters — though no application has been refused in the last fifteen years.

Banks perform no miracles.

They keep cash reserves more than sufficient to meet the average daily withdrawals. They keep much more in forms readily convertible into cash, should any emergency ever arise.

By reason of their substantial liquid assets Canada's chartered banks have money awaiting demand — just awaiting safe loaning opportunity.

Banks cannot lend money unless people want to borrow it. They have no monopoly of the business of extending credit, for the cash reserves of many other corporations find a useful earning outlet in the same way.

Some loans directly give rise to deposits; but have you ever considered what it is that gives rise to a loan? A man's realizable assets accumulated from his own work, plus his own character, ability and willingness to repay.

All deposits are not the direct result of loans. People do not borrow money and pay interest on it to leave it on deposit at a lower rate or no rate at all.

They borrow money for use. They draw it out promptly and use it in the expectation of making a profit over and above the bank charges.

Let us remind you that deposits of any kind are always payable to the depositor, or to his order, in cash.

ELECTRICS BLANK C.C.F. 2-0 IN FIRST SOCCER LEAGUE TUSSLE

Goalies Play Clever Game To Hold Nets

Parry and McMaster Are Two Marksmen In Electrics' Win

The break of the opening league game in the soccer league fell in favor of the Canadian General, on Saturday afternoon, when J. Parry, opened the scoring against an invincible defense set by the C.C.F., just eight minutes before the final whistle, by the score of two to zero. Both goalies were outstanding.

Chamberlain Brilliant.

Two spectacular saves by C.C.F. goalie, Chamberlain, in the early stages, proved the stumbling block to the C.G.E. forward's success. With Walter Dinesen and Gus McDonald intercepting many dangerous rushes, they kept playing the ball that carried the play inside the shooting zone to test Bolton time and again. Jobe repeatedly broke away down the wing to send timely centres into goal, where Bolton was compelled to save his charge. Lawrence, at centre-half, replied with shots into goal. Dyer picked up one of his efforts to break through the full backs but his parting shot went wide. The same performance was enacted, at the other end, as Keith dribbled his way towards goal thereby permitting his pivot man to have a close-in shot. Within the next minute, Goodhue carried the ball down into the corner to send an oblique shot in below the bar. For the next 10 minutes, the Politicians dominated the situation with Bolton, C.G.E. custodian, frustrating the efforts of Thorn and Dyer as they tried to pick the corner of the uprights. Play ran from end to end at a rapid pace with the goalkeepers responding with brilliant saves. Half time—No scoring.

C.G.E. Scores Twice.

On resuming, the Politicians rearranged team failed to be as aggressive as in the previous half through the slight injury to Dinesen who occupied the right wing. Smart combination by Keith and Burgess caused the opposing full backs a lot of anxiety but Chamberlain again came to the rescue with brilliant exhibition of goalkeeping for C.C.F. in fact, he about beat his old team-mates himself. Neither team conceded anything during the next 20 minutes, although the Politicians did everything but score on several occasions through their players getting into bunches that left McKenzie and Murduff in an unbeatable mood. They were well backed up by the superb clearances in goal by their custodian. C.G.E. came back to reply with an aggressive tack that finally resulted in C.G.E. opening the scoring. Mitchell robbed the inside-left of C.C.F. of the ball and transferred the ball to the foot of McMaster who made the opening for the outside left who rattled home a rising shot that landed in the back of the net. Four minutes later, the Electrics centre-man connected with a pass from the foot of Keith on the wing.

The losers replied with a steady offensive to force the winners on the defensive during the last minutes but were rewarded with three unsuccessful flag-kicks. Canadian General 2, C.C.F. 0. Goal scorers—Parry and McMaster.

C.C.F.—J. Chamberlain, goal; G. McDonald and W. Dinesen, full backs; W. Beggs, F. Lawrence and F. Mayette, halves; E. Jobe, R. Smelt, P. Thorn, F. Dyer and J. Mayette, forwards.

Canadian General — J. Bolton, goal; J. McKenzie and Stan Murduff, full backs; H. Stewart, J. Mitchell and T. McPhate, halves; H. Keith, A. Burgess, B. McMaster, W. Harris and J. Goodhue, forwards. Sub—J. Parry.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

Those of our bowlers who took part in our loca ltwilight tournaments last year will be glad to know that the committee is again going to stage a number of such events this year, only they will all be played on Wednesday evenings instead of Monday evenings, and the reasons for the change are these: We will have more time on Wednesday, on account of the haf holidays, and then it will not interrupte the schedule nights. The first one will be held on Wednesday evening, June 1st, starting sharp at 6.30 p.m. Three ten-end games to be played, 50c per player fee, and the first 32 pairs that have their entrance fee paid and are on the greens will be accepted. Please don't ask the committee to play any favorites on this rule—it won't be allowed. We nearly forgot to say it will be men's doubles.

This year, as last year, a skip is requested to line up with a lead and a vice with a second. We hope the boys will help the committee by adhering to these suggestions.

The other evening we overheard one bowler say to another: "And which one of the four groups is your rink in this year?" And he smartly replied, "The intelligent one." So friend bowlers you'll have to do your own figuring on that one.

THERE will be 14 pugilists doing a swing number tonight in the amateur mitt show at the George St. lacrosse arena, and a couple of rasslers piffawming, too. Now it stands to reason that all 14 fighters can t win and, in fact, that some of the pugs will have their panties parked in the rosin before the finish. Barring draws, there should be but seven victors and a corresponding number of losers. With four of the leather-ladlers from Toronto and the rest local ring products, the desired inter-city rivalry is apparent, if there isn't a big crowd of fans and their femmes on hand this eve for the show, and if they don't see plenty of exciting mitt action—then we'll eat our pink-striped shirt! And goodness knows we can't afford to.

HERE'S THE LINEUP of this good Riverview A.C. fight card, which starts at 8.30 tonight: Nick Orlando, 135, vs. Young Jackie of Toronto; Dutch McIlmoyle, 165, in the semi-final against Larry Hinds of Toronto; Joe (Sonny) Hobbins, 147, vs. Jack Volpie of Toronto; Bill Joiner, 132, vs. Walter Hicks of Toronto. These aforementioned ones are five-rounders. Roy Prince, 140, meets Hal Jones; and Mal Packenham, 135, tackles Bert Prince in three-rounders. Curtain-raisers are Buddy Redmond, 80, and Joe Berardi. Wrestlers are Red Garner, 145, and Bert Crothall, 150, both of Toronto. See you at the ringside, if it doesn't come up a cloudburst.

COBOURG opened the Junior Lakeshore Baseball League schedule at home Saturday with a 2-1 nod over Herb Ralph's local lads—we'll call 'em the Young Petes for the present. Cobourg squeezed around a run in the first and one more in the second, whilst the visitors notched one in the first. After that, 'twas a dandy battle between two smart squads. Todd and Bateman both twirled swelegant baseball and had good backing for so early in the season. Haig Kelly led with three hits and Gee Clark got two. Bateman got two of the four hits Todd allowed. This will be a fine young four-team circuit with every club strong. Cobourg comes here this Wednesday eve to tackle the Young Petes again in Riverside at 5.45, and it'll be worth seeing. Clark will do the homesters' hurling.

TALK ABOUT a heavers' duel, that must have been a honey in Oshawa on Sat'day. Kingston Ponies pulled a surprise when they shoved a U.S. southpaw named Ed Poller in to pitch. He did that in most effective fashion. Held the 1937 champs, a bunch of hard hitters, to 2 scratch singles while fanning 10 of 'em! And Jake Biddle of Oshawa gave but six hits whilst whiffing 11 Ponies. The latter bunched three blows in the sixth to score the lone marker, Bob Elliott—playing manager who filled in as catcher—batting in the run. Only one miscue on each side and a sweet struggle for a big crowd of fans to see on opening day. The second C.O.B.L. low-score shutout in a row this season. The Mayor pitched the first ball with Jas. Highfield of General Motors at bat and Max Swanston, loop prexy, catching. Quite a gang of local fans saw the classic.

NOT A GREAT DEAL to do in the way of moralizing—that should be obvious. Simply means that the Petes will have to bolster for all they're worth and hustle every minute in practice and games. They're in a mighty tough league this year. Wait'll the Ponies add Paczkowski and an American catcher to their already strong lineup and that team will be tougher to take than a kick in the ribs. While the GM-men give no indication of softening up much this summer. The Petes look promising but they will have to fight to make a playoff berth. Probably Gunner Whitehill and Yammy Jamieson will face each other in the tussle on Wednesday in Kingston.

LOTS OF LACROSSE NEWS busting in our pans all at once. The Petes have obtained the Inglewood-Caledon Combines for an exhibition tilt here this Friday — it being almost the same squad that ousted the locals in playdowns last year and then won the Ontario title. Frank Randle is calling practices for Tuesday at eight p.m., and Thursday e'en at six. Rowan Chute wants practices of the midgets Wednesday at six p.m. and Saturday morn at 9.30 o'clock. There will be a meeting of executive and players after the workouts tomorrow p.m. to instruct delegates to the Toronto meeting Thursday regarding group plans. Pete King has been named by the O.L.A. as convenor of Group 1. Yeah, the O.L.A. has drawn up a tentative pair of groups with an interlocking schedule suggestion. For intermediate teams.

* * * * * * *

IN GROUP 1 would be Peterborough, Brampton, Brooklin, Toronto East York, and Long Branch. In Group 2, Mount Hamilton, Orangeville, Owen Sound, Woodbridge and Inglewood-Caledon. The idea would be maybe to have a double schedule within the groups and a single schedule as an interlocking idea. Thus having four teams coming here twice during the schedule and four others showing up once each. Or maybe have the groups stay apart till the rather complicated playoff system is reached. Nothing at all definite yet but all will be settled in Toronto on Thursday. Looks like we'll have plenty of smart lacrosse squads to see in action here this summer. You betcha.

ALEX GIBB of the Star tells of an incident Saturday at the wedding of Dot Prior—noted swimmer who has performed in Peterborough a couple of times—to Dr. Wilf Shute. Seems there was a messenger boy at the wedding. She writes: "The messenger boy had a job to do, for some person in Pittsburg. He had to throw rice over the party 'and let us know the expense.' The order came by telegraph and it's the first time in the history of the C.N.T. that such a strange request has been received. So, with face washed and uniform pressed, a telegraph messenger tossed rice galore at the happy couple. For some friends in Pittsburg." Hm, quite an idea—and we wonder if a messenger boy would, upon request, conk a certain Montreal newspaper gee over the head with a brick, if we requested it.

Junior Petes Take First Win In Minor Race

The Young Petes opened their 1938 Junior Lakeshore Baseball League schedule Saturday with a 2-1 defeat at the hands of the Cobourgites on the lakeshore diamond before a good crowd of fans. Return contest will be played in Peterborough this Wednesday evening at 5.45 in Riverside Park between the same teams. Bowmanville and Oshawa round out this circuit.

It was a pitchers' battle between Todd and Bateman with the latter allowing more hits but having more strikeouts Todd twirled fine ball for Herb Ralph's gang to let Cobourg down with four hits and a few walks as he breezed the third strike by a bunch. Bateman allowed seven hits but bore down hard in the pinches to hold his opponents in check. The locals had three miscues to two for the winners.

Peterborough scored a run in the first inning but Cobourg came back to equalize it in their half. And the homesters added another in the second, a scratch single figuring in it. One of their runs was earned. From then on it was a nifty duel with both sides threatening but unable to cross the platter again. Some fine ball was dished up by the young players. Kelly got three hits and Clark two for the Young Petes, Girard and Todd having one apiece. Bateman led the winners with two of their four hits. Score by innings:

Young Petes .. 100 000 000	1	7	3
Cobourg 110 000 00x	2	4	2

Batteries — Todd and Girard; Bateman and Blastorah.

Ace Pugs Here For Ring Show

Some of the finest amateur fighters in Ontario will be seen in action tonight when the Riverview Athletic Club stages its mitt show at 8.30 in the George St. lacrosse arena. Four smart Toronto pugilists will be matched against local talent, and Nick Orlando (now of Peterborough) is an ace ex-Montreal lightweight. He and Young Jackie, colored Torontonian, meet in the five-round main bout and it promises to be a whiz. Two very clever boxers to top the card. The semi-final between Dutch McIlmoyle, 165, and Larry Hinds of Toronto, is likely to be the most exciting scrap of them all. These men are husky, hard-hitting crowd-pleasers who swing from the floor.

Two prelims also see Toronto star ringmen in against fine local fighters. Joe Hobbins, 147, meets Jack Volpie of Toronto; and Bill Joiner, scaling 132, tackles Walter Hicks of Toronto. The visitors may get a few surprises in these lively bouts. Roy Prince and Hal Jones should dish up a dandy all-local welter melee; and Mal Packenham, 135, mixes with Bert Prince in another promising number. Buddy Redmond and Joe Berardi, 80, lift the curtain. Two Toronto middles, Red Garner and Bert Crothall, have a wrestling bout. It will be 30 minutes or one fall, and both are said to be real crowd- pleasers. It is a nifty card and deserves a big crowd of fans.

Hutton Hits Out For Yorkshire

Sir Abe Bailey and Lord Astor Vie for Victory in the Derby

EPSOM, England, May 30 (C.P.). —Sentiment is playing a big part in the search for a colt to beat Pasch, the 2-to-1 favorite in Wednesday's 159th running of the Derby.

There is old Sir Abe Bailey, picturesque figure of the South African gold rush, who a few weeks ago had his second leg amputated because of a blood clot, but got up from his sick bed to travel 6,000 miles from the Cape to see Golden Sovereign "win my first Derby."

Sir Abe also has Caerloptic in the race, but Golden Sovereign is considered the best bet. He has not only one of last season's best two-year-olds, but a couple of weeks ago won the Newmarket Stakes, an important Derby trial.

Some Favor Astor.

Then a lot of racegoers are always willing to wager a few shillings on Viscount Astor's entries. For years Lord Astor has been kicking at the Derby door, but his colts could never do better than second. This year he has Pound Foolish, who impressed by the reserve power he displayed in the final drive of the Two Thousand Guineas, won by Pasch.

He is by Blandord, the sire of four Derby winners, and has been trained by Joseph Lawson, who stands second to none as a conditioner of thoroughbreds. Lord Astor also has Cave Man, winner of the Chester Vase.

The Aga Khan as usual has a couple of well-fancied candidates. The Indian Prince already has won the blue riband of the flat three times. This year he has Mirza II., by the 1930 winner Blenheim, who showed real dash over the last furlong of the Guineas to finish third after having been badly hampered early in the running. The Aga Khan also has Tahir, a colt by Tetratema, but that lineage often means lack of stamina.

Sir Humphrey de Trafford's Portmarnock is reported from Newmarket to be in fine fettle after being under a cloud for several days due to a shin injury.

Whitakers Lose To Trinity 11

On Saturday at the Oval, Whitakers met a strong Trinity College School second eleven, strengthened by their sports master, D. Meston, and J. Peacock, one of the school's first eleven players. Thanks mainly to Meston, who scored 45 and Cook five wickets for 15, they won the match by 52 runs. A. Hamilton 16, J. Wild 15 and B. Roberts 10, did best for the locals.

Port Hope Club Avenges Defeat On Cricket Pitch

The Peterborough Cricket Club travelled to Port Hope on Saturday to play Trinity College School First Eleven. KINGSTON PONIES OPEN SEASON WITH 1-0 WIN OVER OSHAWA

'Imported' Southpaw Shines In Tight Pitching Battle

Poller Hurls 2-Hit Ball And Fans 10 In C.O.B.L. Debut

OSHAWA, May 30. — Kingston Ponies, perennial rivals of the GM-Men in recent years, spoiled Oshawa's C.O.B.L. opening Saturday when they tagged a 1-0 defeat on the loop champions in a splendid pitchers' battle between Jake Biddle and Ed. Poller, rival southpaw hurlers.

Complete with everything that makes up good entertainment for those baseball fans who like a tight duel between two capable throwers the game was productive of better baseball and less errors than might have been expected in an opener. There were opening ceremonies of course.

Biddle retired the Ponies in order in the first four frames without a hit. In the fifth, Vinny McQuade doubled and McIntyre followed with a scratch single. With two on and none out, the Oshawa ace really turned on the heat and retired the next three via the strike-out method. That proved "the last straw" for Biddle, for in the next inning, Webber's scratchy single to the side of the pitcher's box was followed by a single by Hanford when Hurst and McGarry couldn't decide which should make the catch and stood around while the ball dropped between. Big Bob Elliott, playing manager of the Ponies, won the game for his team with a screaming single into left field, which scored Webber easily. That was the only run of the game, as Biddle tightened up to get out of the hole nicely and then kept out of further trouble.

Fine Flinging.

In all, Biddle had the edge on Kingston's U.S. import, except in the matter of hits allowed. Biddle fanned eleven against ten strikeouts for Poller, while Biddle walked only two and Poller issued a half-dozen passes.

In the first inning, Oshawa loaded the bases after two were out, but Wallace fanned to end the frame. After that Poller, with the help of his mates, retired Oshawa in one-two-three order for the next five frames.

In the 7th Rowden walked and after two were out advanced to third on successive wild pitches with Dalton also drawing a walk. Bennett grounded to the infield to end that inning. In the eighth, with Biddle starting out with a walk, Poller forced the next three batters all to ground to him, Foley, Hurst and Jubenville all grounding to the box, Poller making a smart play to block Jubenville's particular hard drive.

In the 9th, Pinch-hitter Matthews walked but Miller, in the same role, popped out to the catcher.

Bunched Three.

Of their six hits, Kingston bunched three of them in succession for the only tally of the game which tells all about the hits. Oshawa only got two hits, both of them being partially blocked by the infielders, but not in time to make plays. McQuade made a sensational catch of McGarry's long drive to rob him of a home run with Rowden on base in the 7th. This was the only ball Oshawa hit to the outfield all afternoon as Poller handcuffed them all the way.

While their imports all showed up well, Les Boneham, former Oshawa boy, starred for his team as he made his senior baseball debut in his old home town.

Reds' Slugging Outfielder Slides Home Safely

Unfortunately for the Brooklyn Dodgers they were unable to stop Ival Goodman of the Reds in mid-air as the camera did, and he was safe at home in this National League game won by Cincinnati, 6-4. While Goodman was sailing through the air Ernie Koy was throwing the ball from the outfield to burly Babe Phelps, Dodger catcher, all set to receive it. Ival is one of the big reasons for the fine play of Bill McKetchnie's Reds. He is leading the senior circuit in home run production, always a handy asset.

Bob Seed Leads Bears to Double Win Over Orioles

TORONTO, May 30.—(CP).—Bob Seeds, one of the few veterans New York Yankees' "farm" operatives have mixed in with the young players at Newark in order to give instruction as well as support in trying moments, apparently is out to develop another "murderers' row" for the Bears' major league parent.

Bob is a steady, unassuming player most of the time, just the buy the kids can turn to when they get jittery. But once in a while he steps out and breaks down all the fences in sight as if to say "now that's the way to do it."

A couple of weeks ago at Buffalo he smashed seven homers in two games to make baseball history. Then he subsided into comparative inactivity until yesterday when he led the Bears to a double victory over the Orioles 13-8 and 8-2.

Gets Three Homers.

Seeds clouted two homers in the opening game, driving in four runs to lend some excellent support to Pitcher Atley Donald, who was a trifle shaky. In the afterpiece Seeds smashed another four bagger, his 16th of the season, with two aboard.

Seeds finally regained for the league-leading Bears the limelight they had lost temporarily to the lowly Syracuse Chiefs.

After winning seven out of eight games in eight days and climbing out of ast place, the Chiefs were checked by the Jersey City Giants in an 11-inning battle under the lights last night 7-4.

The result scrambled the standing considerably as Toronto Maple Leafs won a double-header from Montreal Royals 7-4 and 2-0, and Buffalo, in second place, trimmed Rochester's third-place outfit 5-0, behind the two-hit flinging of old Bill Arris. The Leafs took a clear hold on fifth place.

Jersey City jumped back to sixth, a half game ahead of Syracuse, and Montreal dropped to last, one percentage point behind the Chiefs.

33 Racing Cars Enter Classic

SPEEDWAY, Indianapolis, May 30 (A.P.). — High deacons of speed go on another perilous 500-mile whirl for $100,000 to-day.

With motors roaring defiantly, 33 racing cars, fastest ever built, were lined up three abreast 11 rows deep for the start of the famous race over the 2½-mile brick course of the Indianapolis motor speedway.

Abomb bursting high in the air was awaited as the starting signal at 12 noon (EDT) (11 EST).

The drivers, attired from head to foot in white-hooded overalls, were anxious to step on the gas. They ride alone this year with no mechanic beside them.

Foremost are the three cars, costing $50,000, entered by Joel Thorne of Tucson, Ariz. They include his record-breaking six-cylinder supercharged mount in which Ronnie Householder, Los Angeles, set a new world's record average of 125.796 miles an hour for the 25-mile qualifying test. Jimmy Snyder, former Chicago Milkman, will drive his twin, while Thorne will pilot a four-cylinder job.

Ferrell Hurls His 7th Win For Senators

NEW YORK, May 30.—(CP). — You can look for trouble around Cleveland Indians' wigwam almost any day now.

The Tribe has benefitted by good luck as well as good baseball in its march to the top of the American League standings. Barring a couple of headaches when rollicking Rollie Hemsley strayed off the reservation, Manager Oscar Vitt has escaped the injuries and other difficulties that have beset his rivals. But now it looks as if the hard luck that has been making the rounds finally has reached Cleveland's doorstep.

Hemsley suffered a broken finger on his right hand as he took the first pitch of yesterday's game at St. Louis and will be out of action 10 days or more. Bob Feller, to whom Rollie has been a great help this season, has been troubled by a strained back for over a week. And the question seems to be "who or what next?"

Need Strong Battery.

The schedules shows one "next" to be a two-weeks tour of the east, where the next three teams in the standing are lurking, after to-day's holiday double-header against Chicago's hard-luck champs, the White Sox. A healthy Feller-Hemsley battery would come in handy on that jaunt.

To make it a little tougher, the Indians lost yesterday's game to the Browns and Buck Newsom, 8-6. They preserved their 2½ game lead only because Boston Red Sox took a 5-3 setback from Washington's fast-climbing Senators. Newsom, though in difficulties in the third, gave up only eight hits and whiffed seven while the cellar dwellers hammered four Cleveland fingers. Homers by Jeff Heath, of Fort William, Ont., and Earl Averill, brought in three Indian tallies.

Washington, ringing up its 16th victory in 21 home games, moved into third place as Wes Ferrell pitched expertly to gain his seventh victory of the year. The Senators moved a half game ahead of New York Yankees, who dropped a slugfest 11-9 to Philadelphia Athletics. The A's put toegther rallies of six runs in the third and four in the seventh to overcome the steady Yank slugging.

Shades Tigers 2-1.

The fourth game saw Boots Poffenberger, hurling four-hit ball, shade Monty Stratton in a mound duel to give Detroit its third straight over Chicago, 2-1.

In the National League things were calmer as New York Giants, matching streaks with Chicago Cubs in their two-club race, pushed their lead up to 3½ games.

Scoring four times off Bucky Walters in the first, the Giants barely lasted to beat out the Phillies 7-6, and gain their fifth straight triumph. An eight inning homer by substitute Mickey Haslin was the winning run. The Cubs lost 2-1 to Pittsburgh Pirates as Arky Vaughan's homer and double accounted for both Buccaneer tallies in an elbowing argument between Red Lucas and Larry French.

Dodgers Gain 1-0 Win.

Fred Fitzsimmons outpitched Lou Fette to give Brooklyn a 12-inning 1-0 triumph over Boston Bees, who lost their first extra-inning game on their home grounds this season. Fitz gave up only three hits before he went out for a pinch hitter in the 12th. Another fine flinging job enabled St. Louis Cardinals to whip Cincinnati 3-0 as Bob Weiland gave up only two blows and didn't let a runner reach second.

Cleveland Makes "Cage" History

EDMONTON, May 30 (CP). — Cleveland Fisher Foods, a team that even Percy Page didn't think had a chance, today held a victory over Edmonton Grads—the 16th defeat in Grads' 24-year-old history.

Cleveland, challengers for the Underwood Women's International Basketball Trophy which Grads have held since it was put up for competition in 1934, defeated Page's "wonder team" 44-36 here Saturday night and brought to an end one of Grads' winning streaks. Grads' last beating came a year ago when they dropped the third game of another best-of-five Underwood Trophy series to Tulsa Stenos.

The rough contest saw 28 personal fouls called and four players banished for incurring four fouls each.

Campbell Defends Hepburn's Regime On Hydro Policy

LINDSAY, May 30.—Colin Campbell, Provincial Minister of Public Works, was the guest speaker at the banquet of the Twentieth Century Club of North Mariposa held at Woodville Thursday night. In his address he defended the record of the Hepburn Government during the two sessions and since the last election. He defended the government on its Hydro policy, especially in its ratification of new contracts. The former contracts entered into with respect to Quebec power, and which had been repudiated, would, he declared, have broken Hydro and would have been a death blow to public ownership. The speaker brought a special message to the youth of the district and urged them to ever strive upwards in making Ontario "a heaven on earth" in which to live.

J. J McLaughlin, president of the Liberal-Progressive Association of the riding, as well as of Central Ontario, also delivered an address in which he paid a tribute to William Newman, ex-M.L.A., whose defeat in the last election was a distinct loss to the riding. He charged L. M. Frost, M.L.A., of Victoria-Haliburton, with inconsistency in connection with statements made at the recent meeting of the Liberal-Conserative Asscoiation of the riding.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Newman were presented with a beautiful reading lamp as a token of the high regard in which they are held in the community.

Corp. T. J. Woods, R.C.M.P., who has been on the hunt for moonshine industries in this district, rounded up a still on Thursday afternoon in Carden Township. He visited the home of Cecil Holder and found Holder and a man named Thompson in the house with a still. Two gallons of what the authorities claim is illicit liquor and four gallons of mash were seized together with the still. The accused were remanded today by Magistrate Langley of Peterborough.

Two residents of Cambray, named Douglas, who battled three police officers a few days ago, appeared before Magistrate Langley Friday. One was charged with theft and with resisting arrest and the other with obstructing the officers while in discharge of their duty. They were granted a remand until Wednesday next.

When Magistrate Langley opened the session of the police court Friday morning he found fifteen cases on the docket and a crowded court room. Four Scriver brothers and another man named Smith were charged in connection with the recent fight at Corson's Siding. The brothers pleaded guilty and were fined. Their fines totalled $37.50. The sixth man, who acted more as a peacemaker, was given six months suspended sentence.

The Department of Game and Fisheries has deposited 90,000 maskinonge fry in Balsam Lake and 300,000 fry in Pigeon Lake.

WAKE UP LIKE A CAVE MAN

Feel Full of Life—No More Tired, Dull, Heavy Mornings

Keep your liver healthy and you'll feel great every morning. When you wake up feeling "rotten" your liver is out of order. Your liver clears the blood of poisons, separates the nourishing part of your food from the waste. Supplies energy to muscles, tissues and glands—gives out bile, the body's laxative, helps stomach, kidneys and intestines to work properly. A mere bowel movement isn't enough. "Fruit-a-tives" made from fruits and herbs, will strengthen and build up your liver like nothing else will. You'll be amazed how well you are every morning. Try Fruit-a-tives. All druggists.

FRUIT-A-TIVES LIVER TABLETS

RHEUMATIC PAIN AGES YOU

Many a man has been the picture of health until Rheumatic trouble attacked him!

A pitiful sight to see him looking years older than he really is. But in most cases this is unnecessary. What causes Rheumatic twinges? Damp, Cold? No. The weather only aggravates what is already there. The cause of Rheumatic ailments, Neuritis, Lumbago, Sciatica, is often Uric Acid in your system. Uric Acid forms crystals—hard, sharp, very painful. Uric Acid is caused by congested waste matter that poisons your body. And within that poisoned body is a sluggish liver.

Now Fynnon Salt helps stimulate the liver. The combination of Sodium, Potassium and the elements of Lithium in Fynnon Salt works through your system to clear out poisons and help dissolve Uric Acid crystals. With the cause of the trouble removed you are soon fit again. Large bottle of Fynnon Salt, 75c at all druggists'

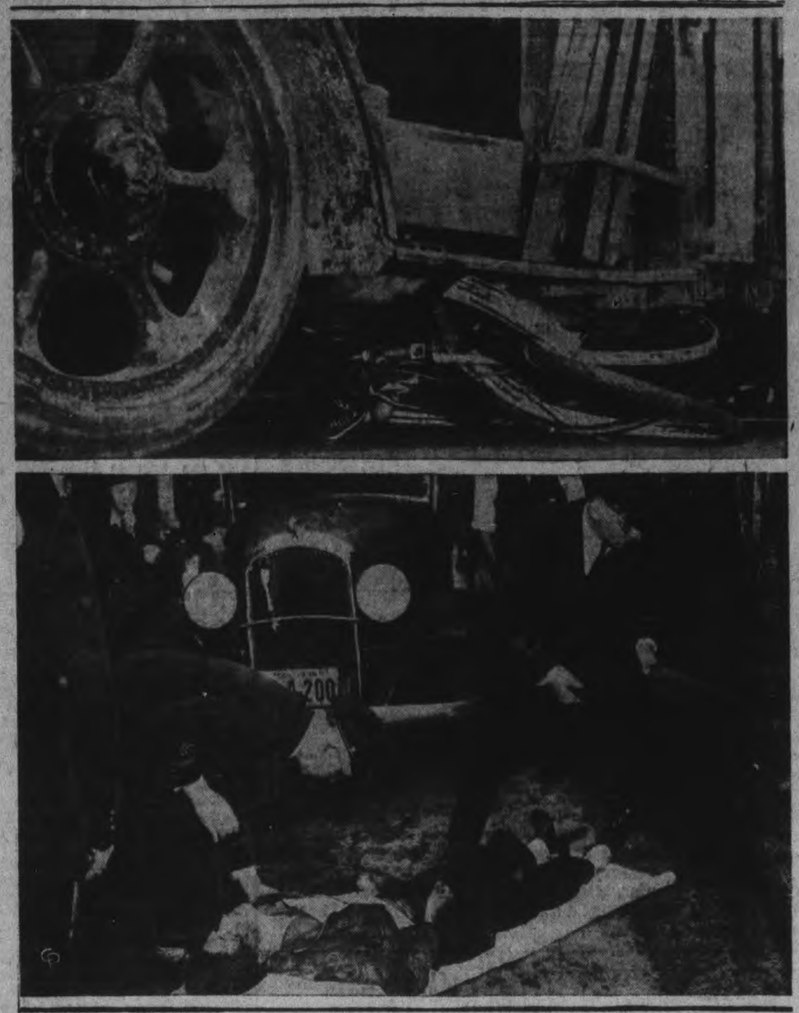
Modern Traffic Full of Hazards For Cyclists



These pictures serve as a grim warning to all cyclists of the dangers of present day traffic conditions. Arthur Shepard, 17, of Los Angeles, lost his life when his bicycle was crushed under the wheels of a huge dray truck, TOP. The traffic signal changed just as Arthur reached the corner on his bicycle, but Arthur, close behind two automobiles, didn't see it. The truck reached the intersection just as he got there and youth and bicycle were crushed beneath the heavy wheels. Horrified spectators quickly extricated the dying boy, BOTTOM, and he was rushed to the emergency hospital, where he died a few minutes later on the operating table. The driver of the truck was exonerated by witnesses.

MORE ABOUT—

Millar Stork

Step by step, Mrs. Kenny and Mrs. Clarke fought the court's ruling. Appeals to courts higher than the Supreme Court of Ontario were pending. But reports were rife Saturday, only a few hours before the four winners were handed their cheques, that their claims had been settled.

Mrs. Kenny said last night she knew nothing of the final settlement. "I haven't seen my lawyer for two weeks," she said. "I don't know anything. Maybe I'll know something tomorrow." No statement came from Mrs. Clarke or from her counsel, C. R. McKeown, concerning disposition of her demand for a share in the derby money.

It has been said the will was written as a joke at a party and never was meant to stand and that Millar died suddenly a few days later. Millar was known as a practical joker. In a footnote to his will, he said: "This will is necessarily uncommon and capricious because I have no dear relatives . . . and what I do leave is proof of my folly in gathering and retaining more than I required in my lifetime."

Ontario Backs Down.

This statement led the Ontario Government in 1932 to introduce a Bill of Escheatment in the Ontario Legislature, "on th grounds of public policy." The Bill was withdrawn after second reading and the will withstood several attacks in the courts by Millar's relatives.

Millar had other jokers in his will. He bequeathed one share of stock in the Kenilworth Jockey Club to every ordained minister in Windsor, Walkerville and Sandwick (now incorporated into the City of Windsor) except, he specified, "one Spracklin, who shot an hotelkeeper." To every Protestant minister in Toronto he bequeathed one share of a brewery.

Millar died unexpectedly in his downtown office on Sunday, October 31, 1926. The stork derby field was "off." Blasts of criticism from church leaders and public figures intensified interest in the bizarre "race." Premier Hepburn of Ontario once termed it a "racket" that was a "disgusting, revolting exhibition."

When the field came "under the wire" on October 31, 1936, many claimants clamored for a share in the pot of gold. But only 19 "strong contenders" were invited to prove their claims at hearings before Mr. Justice Middleton. The field narrowed down to six, then Mrs. Kenny and Mrs. Clarke were eliminated.

Mad At No One.

Stormy petrel of the race, Mrs. Kenny was strangely calm when the last adverse court decision was handed down on January 19. "I'm not mad at anyone," she said then. "My lawyer will take an appeal to a higher court." Only four weeks previously she had been ejected from Mr. Justice Middleton's court shouting: "To hell with the Judge. To hell with all of them."

Mrs. Kenny had planned to build a mausoleum with prize money to honor the memory of Millar. On Mother's Day early in May she opened a "museum" of wood replicas and drawings of churches, Millar's home and prominent personages in her little home. On the door is a sign: "Museum-Pavilion. Admission 25 cents; Children Five Cent."

None of the winners previously was well-to-do. The Nagles have been on relief for several years. Arthur Timleck, employed by Toronto Parks Department, operates an automobile and keeps a maid in his house. The Smiths and the MacLeans once said they would have "managed" without the stork derby winnings.

MORE ABOUT—

Two Escape

he found his entrance to the cab barred by flames on one side, and got in amid the road of the fire driving it one hundred and fifty feet up the street leaving a trail of flaming gasoline behind him as gasoline still spouted fro mthe service hose at the back. Leaving the truck in a comparatively safe place he got out to find the whole of the back part a mass of flames which spilled down over the tires and in a few moments had burned holes in the asphalt pavement. So intense was the heat that before it could be extinguished the metal had already begun to melt on the decorative filling caps on top. His speedy action was all that saved a row of tanks operated by an adjoining service station.

River of Flaming Gas.

The force of the explosion broke all of the windows in the front of the garage and the gutters at the edge of the street were a river of flaming gasoline as women ran screaming with pulsing terror from the street underneath which were no less than seven storage tanks housing another 300 gallons of gasoline which everyone expected would explode causing death to many and destroying buildings for blocks. Flames shot all over the front of the building and for a few minutes threatened to destroy it and the neighboring service station owned by C. E. Turner where one single and two double pumps with an additional 50 gallons of gas above the ground might at any moment add to the raging fire.

It was Garnet Cassan, one of the two proprietors of the garage who put in the call to the fire department. He was in a pit at the back of the garage working on a car at the time and as the explosion occurred showering the front of the building with flaming gasoline which cut off the front exit he reached for an extension phone and put in the call while Archer was still out in front grabbed a hose pipe and began spraying the building with water. The car, which was fortunately the only one left after a busy Saturday evening, was shoved out the back door next to the river.

As the flames raced along the gutter in front of the pumps operated by Turner he immediately dumped a pail of water into them in an effort to drive them back down the street away from his pumps and avoid a further explosion. He then turned on his service hose at the front of the service station and played it into the flames as the fire department arrived. The fact that both of the buildings were faced with tin is probably all that saved them from being much more seriously damaged.

Several cars parked on the opposite side of the street vanished as if by a miracle as their owners speedily removed them from the danger zone. One small child who sat alone in a car waiting for his parents to return and start homeward stood in the back seat with huge tears rolling down his cheeks as he asked some men to move his daddy's car so it wouldn't be burnt. There were plenty of people around for by this time the street which had momentarily cleared as people tried to get away was again filling up with crowds of curious and people who wanted to help. The car with the small boy was practically carried back up the street by a body of willing men."

$1500 Damage

Damage to the garage alone will run into several hundred dollars plus the cost of the two electric and one hand operated pumps which were completely destroyed. An estimate placed the total damage at $1500.00. So hot was the fire which lasted little more than twenty minutes that the overhead cables of the Bell Telephone Company were melted and the service in the whole district was disrupted, until the following afternoon.

Archbishop Owen Pays Visits To St. Luke's Church

The presence of Most Reverend Derwyn Owen, Archbishop of Toronto, at St. Luke's Anglican Church at the Sunday morning service, was especially gratifying, because it was not an occasion on which he was to perform any official episcopal act. So declared the rector, Rev. G. J. Bousfield, in extending a welcome to the distinguished Primate, who preached the sermon.

The service was marked by two other outstanding features. It saw the first appearance of Rev. Mr. Bousfield, who has been ill, in his church in many weeks. And it saw the first appearance in a Peterborough pulpit of Rev. Douglas Paterson, son of the Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson of All Saints' Church. Rev. Mr. Paterson, who recently graduated from Trinity College, took the main part of the service and conducted the prayers.

"No people can tell why they are what they are, unless they know what they have been," said Archbishop Owen in the course of his sermon. He explained that the preachings of the great in the church's history cannot be fully understood unless one is informed about the times in which those preachers lived.

He recalled the life of John Wesley and recounted episodes from it, portraying a vivid picture of the man and the things he stood for. Wesley's preaching has affected the Church of England more than that of any other man since, because it was in that church that his movement first began, he said. "Wesley's message is essentially the message of our church. It is the message of hope and faith," he declared.

He told of the general outlook of society in that period two hundred years ago in England, a time of great expansion and outward prosperity. Drunkenness was more common than ever before or since; Englishmen were more cruel; there were 253 capital crimes on the statutes. "Charles Wesley once preached to 52 prisoners who were under sentence of death, one of them a boy of ten years," he said. It was the most immoral age in British history, he said.

"It was against that background that there blazed a mighty torch, the light of which has touched many of our lives," he stated. He recounted how Wesley, a rebel at heart from the conditions around him, had suddenly found his mission.

which Peter's body had been wrapped. Federal agents set about trying to trace it—where it was bought, by whom, and when.

The boy disappeared last February 24, on his way home from school, and the dread, familiar kidnap checking routine started.

The first ransom note—which, like all others, appeared to have been written on a cheap toy typewriter—demanded $60,000, and Levine, a lawyer of no great wealth, set about to try to raise the money.

Note Asks Dad To Pay All.

On February 28, the father received a note, scrawled in a schoolboyish hand, on a scrap of newspaper, signed "Peter, and begging "Dad" to pay what had been asked.

Four days later, while the Levines waited in their two-storey stucco home with blinds drawn and intermittently appealing to the police and public to keep "hands off," Levine disclosed that "$30,000, demanded in another ransom communication, was ready.

Ten days went by with no significant development and on March 14 the Federal Bureau of Investigation openly entered the case by dispatching circulars all over the United States.

By March 19, the first of several persons accused of extortion — by attempting to "chisel in" on the tragedy—had been arrested. Intermediaries moved in and out of the case, vainly trying to help the distraught parents.

On April 20, Levine had become so certain that his son was dead that he offered a new reward—$25,000 for the boy's recovery but, more significantly, $5,000 for information disclosing his body.

giving Henlein a powerful advantage in his claims to represent the 3,500,000 Sudeten German minority for which he demands sweeping privileges of self government.

Nevertheless, German Socialists and Comunists were portesting in advancing against any compromise that might be reached without consulting them.

More Peace Talks.

Premier Milan Hodza will conduct the peace negotiations, which probably will continue throughout the week, with Sudeten German party leaders.

Henlein paid a preliminary visit to Hodza a week ago, but further talks were postponed because of Henlein's absence from Praha on what was described as private business.

The basic difficulty to compromise, in the eyes of neutral observers here, is how to work out a plan whereby a whole section of the population, which is Nazi German, can be granted the concessions of self-government by a state which is struggling to defend its independence against Germany.

Some optimism was apparent, however, because the Sudeten Germans and Premier Hodza were willing at least to talk things over.

The elections yesterday were quiet, with only one serious clash, at Eibenberg in the border near Germany. A Henlein follower and three Socialists were hurt, and police arrested 75 rioters.

Piano Wizard To Play in City

At the Collegiate Audftorium on Tuesday evening, June 7th, the Nicholls Hospital Alumnae Association is sponsoring an entertainment with the outstanding artists, "Billie" Eckstein, internationally known pianist, and Miss Muriel Duncan, monologist, stars of stage and radio.

The remarkable versatility and characteristics of the Eckstein piano technique is seldom heard. For 20 years he was the main attraction at the Strand theatre in Montreal and was one of the first radio stars to make Victor recordings.

Mr. Eckstein, a Canadian, made his first public appearance when he was three years of age. He took the McGill Scholarship at the age of 12, had his name in lights throughout Canada, United States and Europe, headlining in vaudeville, and starring with such well known artists as Eva Tanguay, Elsie Janis, Walter Kelly and Beatrice Little.

Miss Muriel Duncan, generally known as "The Canadian Ruth Draper" has achieved notable success by her original and gifted performances of a wide range of characterizations, has exceptional dramatic ability and the faculty of making her characters spring into life.

Fall Results In Death

BEAMSVILLE.—Mrs. James Crown, 73, of Clinton township, suffered injuries in a fall at the home of Mrs. William Ritenberg here yesterday and died a few hours later. Mrs. Crown slipped and fell down the steps, striking her head on the hard ground. She is survived by three sons and three daughters.

Converted $140,000 In Trust Funds

TORONTO.—Pleading guilty to conversion of trust funds from various estates, amounting to approximately $140,000, Norman L. Martin, liquidator, was today remanded for sentence until Wednesday by Judge James Parkers in county criminal court.

Two Boys From Peterboro' Meet By Chance in Heart of London

Two recent associates on the staff of the Examiner met in London recently when the paths of Harold Robson and Don Kennedy converged in the heart of the big city. Mr. Robson refers to the incident in the following story to the editor:

"London, May 18.—It happened today. A most happy chance meeting, which truth to tell, made me 'homesick' for Canada and for Peterborough—best little city in the whole Dominion.

"I was hurrying towards The Temple underground station—near the scene of yesterday's shocking tragedy—to get the 'tube' for Baker Street, when I got the biggest thrill I've had while in London.

"In this city of teeming millions where I've been going about my daily work as photographer for a Fleet Street press agency, I was greeted by someone who knew me.

"It was the first time in many days I'd met anyone I knew, and what is more he was from Peterborough. None other than Don Kennedy, son of A. R. Kennedy, my former chief, known to readers of The Examiner as 'A.R.K.,' managing editor.

"I met Don, or should I say he met me, at the junction of Fleet Street and the Strand—at Temple Bar, outside the law courts.

"After some cordial handshaking we repaired to a nearby cafe and chatted of mutual friends in faraway Peterborough. Recently arrived on a cattle boat, having docked at Cardiff at the end of April, Don looked fit as a fiddle, and was off to storm the heights down 'the street of ink.' We exchanged addresses before we parted, and planned to get together again in the near future. He is staying at Hatfield in Hertfordshire, while I am lodging within easy walking distance of 'the street' on which I am at present earning my bread and butter.

"A week or two ago I had the delightful pleasure of meeting Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Fowler and their daughter Genevieve, all of Peterborough. But it was not a chance meeting such as the surprise I had today. I learned from the visitors' book at Canada House that Mr. and Mrs. Fowler and daughter were registered at The Strand Palace Hotel, and made it a point of looking them up. They gave me a real Peterborough welcome. I got all their latest news, and through them regretted to learn of the death of R. R. Hall, K.C., a director of the old Examiner Company.

"The Fowlers came over on the 'Ile de France,' and are planning to return to Peterborough via New York on the 'Queen Mary' some time in June. While Mr. Fowler is presumably on a business trip, the family are having a most enjoyable time judging by their accounts. After a trip north to Newcastle-on-Tyne, where the head office of Mr. Fowler's firm is located, they are proceeding on into Scotland, and after a peep at the Empire Exhibition at Bellahouston Park, are intending to journey to Southampton — port of embarkation — down the west coast of England and Wales.

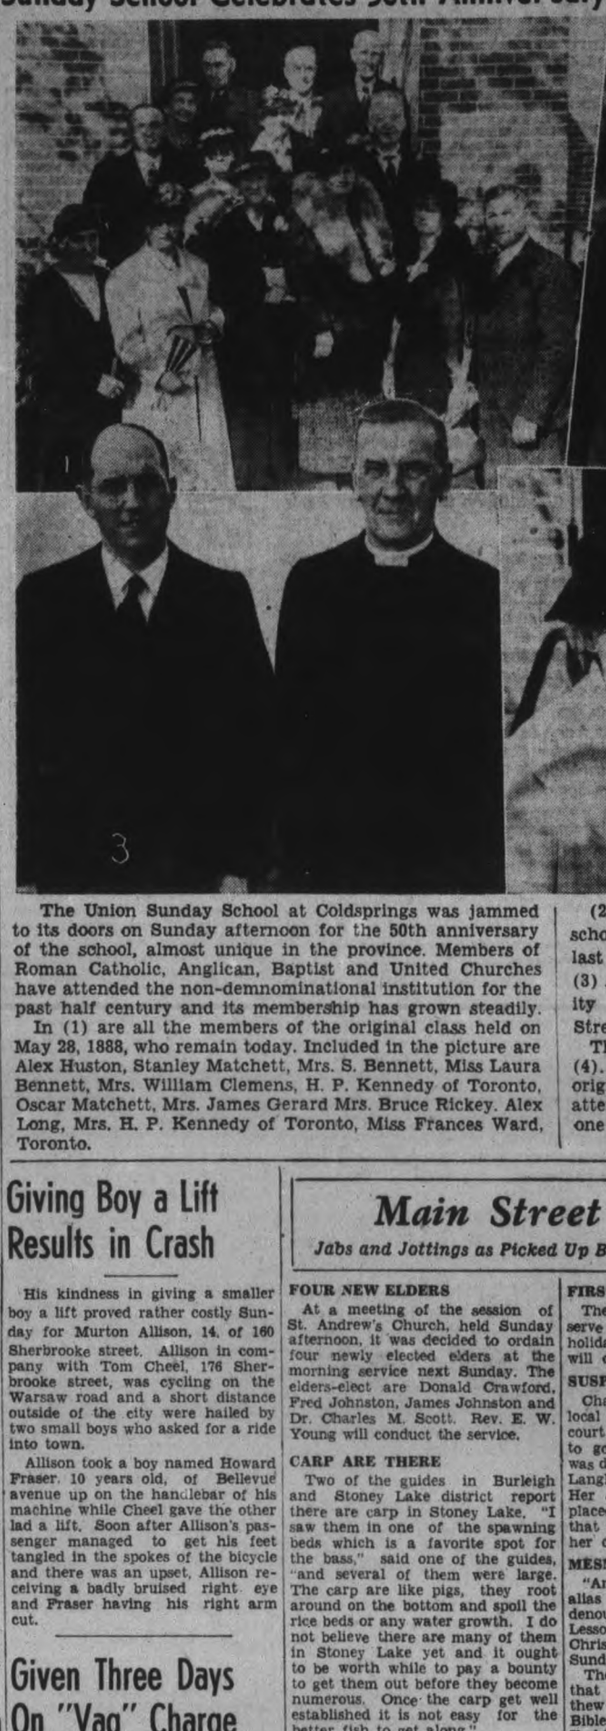
"'You'll be back in Canada,' Mr. Fowler suggested as we chatted at The Strand Palace. 'Yes,' I agreed, 'I'll be back.'

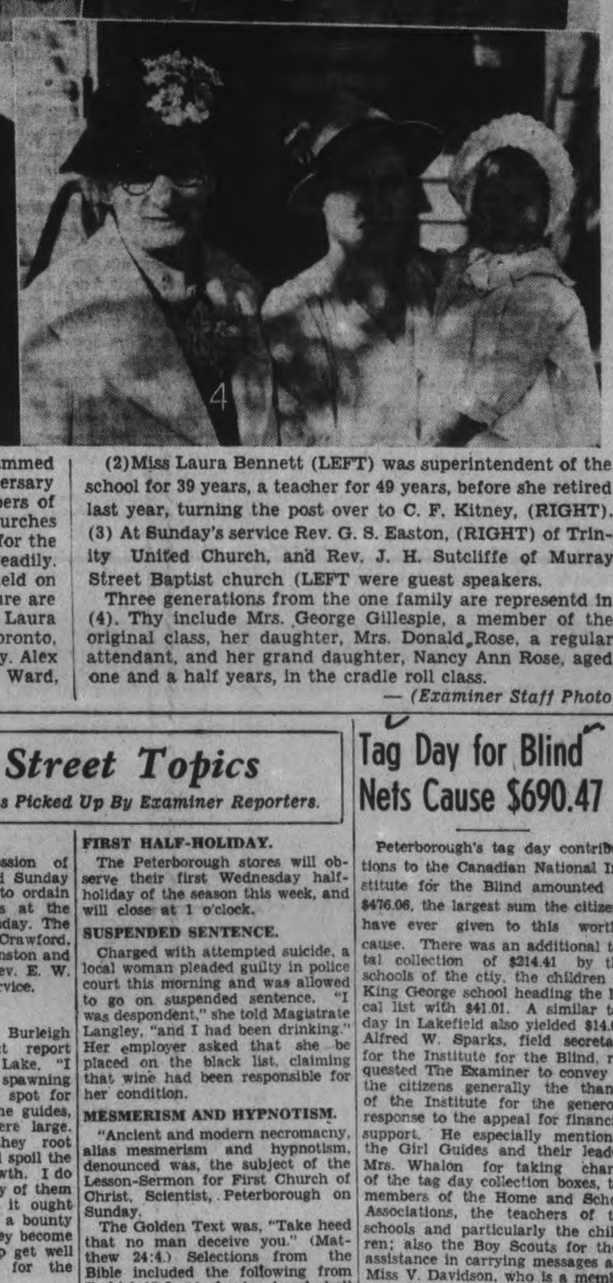
"I voiced the same intention when I spoke with Don today, and I hope it will be in the not too distant future.

"Eleven years in Canada — eight of which were spent in Peterborough—have made me come to regard the Dominion as home.

"While in this my native land I am a stranger among strangers."

Sunday School Celebrates 50th Anniversary





The Union Sunday School at Coldsprings was jammed to its doors on Sunday afternoon for the 50th anniversary of the school, almost unique in the province. Members of Roman Catholic, Anglican, Baptist and United Churches have attended the non-demnominational institution for the past half century and its membership has grown steadily.

In (1) are all the members of the original class held on May 28, 1888, who remain today. Included in the picture are Alex Huston, Stanley Matchett, Mrs. S. Bennett, Miss Laura Bennett, Mrs. William Clemens, H. P. Kennedy of Toronto, Oscar Matchett, Mrs. James Gerard Mrs. Bruce Rickey. Alex Long, Mrs. H. P. Kennedy of Toronto, Miss Frances Ward, Toronto.

(2)Miss Laura Bennett (LEFT) was superintendent of the school for 39 years, a teacher for 49 years, before she retired last year, turning the post over to C. F. Kitney, (RIGHT). (3) At Sunday's service Rev. G. S. Easton, (RIGHT) of Trinity United Church, and Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist church (LEFT were guest speakers.

Three generations from the one family are representd in (4). Thy include Mrs. George Gillespie, a member of the original class, her daughter, Mrs. Donald Rose, a regular attendant, and her grand daughter, Nancy Ann Rose, aged one and a half years, in the cradle roll class.

Failing To Pay Parking Fee Results In Charge

A CHARGE under the market bylaw in which John Young is accused of refusing to pay a 10 cent fee for parking an automobile on the market square on Saturday morning, during marketing hours, was enlarged until next Monday by Magistrate Langley, K.C., this morning.

"I would like an oportunity to read over the bylaw," said the Magistrate when the case was called.

Mr. Young said that he would like the matter settled as soon as possible.

"This is not simply a matter of 10 cents," returned Magistrate Langley. "It is a matter of law and it involves a good many things of importance, including the rights of the city and the rights of the market clerk.

City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, K.C. was present to prosecute the charge.

34 Candidates Are Confirmed At St. John's

In the presence of a congregation that filled all parts of the historic old church, Right Reverend Bishop Beverley, D.D. suffragan bishop of the diocese of Toronto administered the impressive rites of confirmation to a class of thirty-five candidates, twenty-four girls and eleven boys in St. John's church on Sunday morning.

Eleven members of an adult class were confirmed at a service at 3 o'clock.

At the morning service the candidates were presented by Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson, rector of St. John's and Rev. R. T. F. Brain assisted in the service.

After the laying on of hands, Bishop Beverley addressed the candidates, pointing out to them they had now taken on for themselves the responsibilities that had been assumed in their behalf by their godmothers and godfathers at their baptism, the obligations of repentence, faith and obedience.

"This is a very solemn and significant moment in your lives" he declared as he asked them to remember three words found in the second verse of the 12th chapter of Hebrews "Looking unto Jesus". In the life of Christ, they would find the ideals that were essential to guide them.

Strive For Purity

In the first place he urged them to strive to be like Christ in His purity. Purity of the heart, he said, was the secret of great success, and of physical and intellectual strength. "There is no temptation today as subtle as the temptation of impurity" said Bishop Beverley. "It is to be seen on every side of us, in books, in pictures, in the conversation that is heard. Its tainting influence is everywhere". Seek to be pure in word, thought and deed".

Secondly, he exhorted his hearers to strive after the humility of Jesus who had desired to be remembered above all things for his meekness. "A teachable spirit" said the Bishop is the secret of progress. People who think they know everything have stopped growing".

Next he urged the candidates to remember the courage of Jesus as so frequently exemplified in his life. If there was on thing he coveted for them it was the possession of moral courage.

The utter unselfishness of Jesus wsa drawn to attention and Bishop Beverley stressed the fact that the cross was not something belonging to 2000 years ago but something in the lives of every person living today if they were Christians, and it meant not only pain and suffering but special service. "The trouble with the world today, in its unsettled and disturbed condition" said the speaker "is that people have not learned the lesson of the cross".

Finding Companionship

Finally Bishop Beverley said that in looking unto Jesus, it was possible to find companionship and he urged that it be sought in daily prayer, daily reading of the word of God and regular attendance in His church.

At the conclusion of the service the little chapel of the Upper Room was dedicated by Bishop Beverley "to the glory of God and the memory of John Cheyne Davidson". A few members of the congregation assembled in the tiny chapel for the brief but impressive ceremony.

Students Attend Funeral Service Of Miss E. Murphy

Hundreds of school children filed into St. John's Anglican Church this morning (Monday) to pay last respects to one of their most beloved teachers, Miss Edith Murphy, head of the English department in the academic division at the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School, who died on Friday.

The entire teaching staff of the school was present, together with the three upper forms of students and two commercial classes. Pallbearers were fellow teachers of Miss Murphy and included the school's principal, Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, L. J. Pettit, A. Shearer, F. E. Johnston, R. G. Cornell, and A. S. Zavitz.

The appearance of so many pupils at the service was an indication of the high esteem in which Miss Murphy was held, said Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson, who conducted the service. It was a high tribute to the teacher, one that she would have liked, he said. He praised her qualities as a teacher and as a citizen. Only a few weeks ago she had said she would be back at her work in September, he recounted. "And so she will be, though not exactly in the way she meant," he said.

Interment will be made at Packenham Cemetery.

Silver Ash Tray To Be Presented Lord Tweedsmuir

As a souvenir of his visit to Peterborough on Tuesday, Canada's Governor-General, Lord Tweedsmuir, will be presented with a beautiful silver ash tray surmounted with a miniature canoe, a gift from the city through its municipal representatives, Mayor Hamilton and the members of the council. The tray will be displayed this evening in the window of Schneider's jewellery store. It is inscribed with Peterborough's coat of arms and is significant of one of the city's oldest industries associated with the name of Peterborough in many parts of the world.

Mayor Hamilton requested the Examiner today to emphasize the fact that no personal invitations have been sent out to citizens for the official reception to His Excellency in Confederation Square Tuesday afternoon at 3.15 o'clock. The public is generally invited, and His Worship expressed the hope that the people of Peterborough would assemble in large numbers to greet the Governor-General on his official visit.

Two Cars Collide

Lillian Forsythe, 97 Crescent Street, sustained a cut on her face below her right eye and two automobiles were badly damaged when cars driven by Carl Stevenson of Norwood and Harold Forsythe, 97 Crescent Street, collided at the intersection of Aylmer and Romaine Streets early this morning.

In the crash the machine driven by Forsythe turned over on its side but Miss Forsythe was the only one of the three occupants to be hurt.

Stevenson had a passenger with him but both men escaped uninjured.

16-Year-Old Girl Is Given Ten Days

Pleading guilty to vagrancy, a sixteen-year-old girl was sentenced by Magistrate Langley, K.C., this morning to ten days in jail.

The girl was out on suspended sentence on a similar charge, and one of the conditions was that she should remain in at nights. The court was informed that she had not been doing so, and the mother stated that the girl had been keeping late hours.

She was arrested Saturday night and caused some excitement by making a bolt out of the police station.

Magistrate Langley said that he thought a jail sentence was necessary to show the girl that she could be dealt with by the authorities.

Giving Boy a Lift Results in Crash

His kindness in giving a smaller boy a lift proved rather costly Sunday for Murton Allison, 14, of 160 Sherbrooke street. Allison in company with Tom Cheel, 176 Sherbrooke street, was cycling on the Warsaw road and a short distance outside of the city were hailed by two small boys who asked for a ride into town.

Allison took a boy named Howard Fraser, 10 years old, of Bellevue avenue up on the handlebar of his machine while Cheel gave the other lad a lift. Soon after Allison's passenger managed to get his feet tangled in the spokes of the bicycle and there was an upset, Allison receiving a badly bruised right eye and Fraser having his right arm cut.

Given Three Days On "Vag" Charge

Changing his plea to guilty of vagrancy when he was brought down from the jail this morning Victor Whitley of Belleville was sentenced by Magistrate Langley, K.C., in police court to three days imprisonment.

Whitley was picked up early one morning last week and his account of his movements was not satisfactory to the police. When arraigned he pleaded not guilty to a charge of vagrancy and was remanded until Wednesday of this week.

Today he decided to change his plea and was sentenced to three days in jail.

There was a record of previous convictions against the boy and it was on that account that he had not been frank with the police it was stated.

Nice Catches Made Off Hastings Dam

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, May 30.—Eddie Myers and Werner Kelling of Buffalo, made on of the nicest catches of pickerel to date here this season. The fishermen arrived Saturday morning and by mid-afternoon they had caught fifteen pickerel, averaging from two to four pounds. They completed the day's catch that evening. All the fish were caught from the dam.

Later Saturday evening Freddie Carter, 297 Perth Ave., Toronto, landed the largest pickerel caught here this season. The fish tipped the scales at 6¼ lbs. The thirteen year old lad was using a red and white plug and hooked the "big one" on his second cast from the dam. Freddie and his parents are staying at Belmont Lake

FOUR NEW ELDERS

At a meeting of the session of St. Andrew's Church, held Sunday afternoon, it was decided to ordain four newly elected elders at the morning service next Sunday. The elders-elect are Donald Crawford, Fred Johnston, James Johnston and Dr. Charles M. Scott. Rev. E. W. Young will conduct the service.

CARP ARE THERE

Two of the guides in Burleigh and Stoney Lake district report there are carp in Stoney Lake. "I saw them in one of the spawning beds which is a favorite spot for the bass," said one of the guides, "and several of them were large. The carp are like pigs, they root around on the bottom and spoil the rice beds or any water growth. I do not believe there are many of them in Stoney Lake yet and it ought to be worth while to pay a bounty to get them out before they become numerous. Once the carp get well established it is not easy for the better fish to get along."

BROTHERHOOD MEETS

The Brotherhood of St. James' United Church held their last spring afternoon session yesterday. Next Sunday and for all of June, the members will meet at 9.45 a.m. The lesson was "Maintaining Personal Efficiency" and the speaker, Rev. F. W. Craik gripped the attention of his hearers as he portrayed Daniel, physically splendid, calmly defying the luscious allurements of the Oriental court by living simply, his mind and soul unswervingly on God, although his body was at the mercy of his captors every whim. No wonder world evangelism has swept along to the tune of "Dare to be a Daniel."

FIRST HALF-HOLIDAY.

The Peterborough stores will observe their first Wednesday half-holiday of the season this week, and will close at 1 o'clock.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE.

Charged with attempted suicide, a local woman pleaded guilty in police court this morning and was allowed to go on suspended sentence. "I was despondent," she told Magistrate Langley, "and I had been drinking." Her employer asked that she be placed on the black list, claiming that wine had been responsible for her condition.

MESMERISM AND HYPNOTISM.

"Ancient and modern necromacny, alias mesmerism and hypnotism, denounced was, the subject of the Lesson-Sermon for First Church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough on Sunday.

The Golden Text was, "Take heed that no man deceive you." (Matthew 24:4.) Selections from the Bible included the following from Ezekiel 13:9. "And mine hand shall be upon the prophets that see vanity, and that divine lies: they shall not be in the assembly of my people, neither shall they be written in the writing of the house of Israel, neither shall they enter into the land of Israel; and ye shall know that I am the Lord God." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, included the following from page 103, "As named in Christian Science, animal magnetism or hypnotism is the specific term for error, or mortal mind. It is the false belief that mind is in matter, and is both evil and good; that evil is as real as good and more powerful. This belief has not one quality of Truth."

Tag Day for Blind Nets Cause $690.47

Peterborough's tag day contributions to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind amounted to $476.06, the largest sum the citizens have ever given to this worthy cause. There was an additional total collection of $214.41 by the schools of the city, the children of King George school heading the local list with $41.01. A similar tag day in Lakefield also yielded $14.05. Alfred W. Sparks, field secretary for the Institute for the Blind, requested The Examiner to convey to the citizens generally the thanks of the Institute for the generous response to the appeal for financial support. He especially mentioned the Girl Guides and their leader, Mrs. Whalon for taking charge of the tag day collection boxes, the members of the Home and School Associations, the teachers of the schools and particularly the children; also the Boy Scouts for their assistance in carrying messages and Miss V. Davidson, who is a member of the Institute's board.

Peterborough's interest in the Canadian National Institute for the Blind as demonstrated on Saturday was most encouraging, Mr. Sparks said.

Three Boys Taken From Long Raft

Three boys on a makeshift raft drifting without paddles quite a distance off shore at Loon Lake Sunday received timely assistance from I. J. Lyons, fish and game inspector, who was on duty nearby.

"They weren't in immediate danger." Mr. Lyons said, "but if the wind had caught them there is no telling what might have happened. I believe the boys were from a Catholic college at Buffalo. They are camping at Loon Lake. I saw ten or twelve of them, and there may have been others on shore. These three lads seemed to have got off by themselves and made a rough raft of three logs. They had got out too far, just drifting, and as they had no paddles we thought it was time to help them back to their camp before something serious might happen."

Vacation Edition Is Highly Commended By Rotary President

WARM commendation of The Examiner's Mail-It-Away edition was voiced by President James Dutton at today's luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club. "It was a most creditable issue," said Mr. Dutton. "We are proud that one of our members was associated with it. I think we should extend our congratulations to Harold Garner and the members of The Examiner staff. The edition makes a very valuable contribution to the life of this community, especially in its relation to tourist traffic."

Clydesdale Men Plan Field Day

Fifty Clydesdale horses from the leading stud farms in Durham and Peterborough counties will be paraded at the Exhibition Park Wednesday afternoon as one of the events of the field day which is being held on June 1. Some of the most important centres to be represented will be Markham, Claremont and Brooklin, and Peterborough breeders will make up the rest of the show.

Two judging competitions are being held, one for juniors under 21 and the others for men over 21 years. Gold medals will be given to the winners. Professor M. H. Staples of the Ontario Agricultural College will give a talk on the Clyde breed and also discuss the fine points of judging, and Prof. R. A. McIntosh will talk on the disease of horses and their treatment. The program begins at one o'clock and farmers are promised an interesting afternoon.

CHAPTER 48

To Garry Page, the whole incident of his kidnapping seemed like something from a musical comedy, a few hours after it had happened. With an amused gaze he viewed his fellow reporters who were quizzing him for stories precisely as he had questioned hundreds of other people.

"Cut out the heroics," he laughed at them. "If I hadn't decided on that walking expedition, the police would have been along soon anyway."

"Yeah," someone agreed, "but they might not have found you and the kid. No foolin', boy, you to wear a Carnegie medal."

Natalie, not being able to see him, telephoned him at his office.

"I called to play a few notes in the band that's celebrating your safety," she said, and then, presently: "Garry, have you seen the paragraph that a paper or two carried today from London—all about the distressed condition of Wenda Ayer?"

Natalie's smooth brows had drawn together at sight of the few lines. She was sure that she had not misunderstood Garry's attitude when he had searched for Barbara's address. Yet the newspaper notice confused her. She had wished that she hadn't talked so much that night she had telephoned to London. Barbara, meantime, was hurrying home—

To Natalie's relief Garry began to laugh: "I saw it. A lot of grand emoting, Natalie! Golly, but I was a fool, wasn't I?" Then he sobered. "I learned a valuable lesson, a little too late."

Maybe not too late, Natalie was thinking but she did not put the comment into words. Instead, she said: "By the way, Barbara is docking day after tomorrow."

"Barbara? And Ray, too?"

"No, only Barbara. Their engagement—I told you about it, didn't I?—didn't take." As if she didn't know quite well that she had told him and that his eyes had been hurt for that fleeting instant before he adjusted his mask.

"That's too bad," Garry murmured courteously.

Natalie frowned impatiently. Didn't he care, or was he trying to conceal the fact that he did? Well, if he didn't want help, he could handle the matter himself, which was what he probably would do anyway. Since he persisted in being so aloofly proud, she had better hand him another clue.

"You had both sides of the ocean worried about you, Garry Page. Barbara even cabled to ask me what I knew. Come to dinner some night soon, Garry. I'll call you in a day or two."

Garry, at the other end of the line, barely refrained from doing a somersault in the city room. He might send Barbara a homecoming radiogram—no, better not do that. Maybe he was le tting his imagination loose without a leash and Barbara had got herself fairly well tired of him while he was being a dunce.

◆ ◆ ◆

On the ship that was coming swiftly and gaily over the ocean whose color had grown miraculously blue, and whose winds were gay and frolicking, Barbara was entering into the spirit of fun on board. She played shuffle board, threw quoits, danced in the lounge, drank cups and cups of tea. But none of the things that she did mattered. They were important only because they were part of the chain of events that was bringing her home.

On the morning when the Manhattan skyline loomed in the dim distance, like a parade of buildings in a phantom city, Barbara grew a little frightened. Never, until now, had she questioned the rightness of her homecoming. She had been so sure that Garry, too, wanted to pick up the threads and go on. Surely these six weeks of her absence had not changed his attitude. She could only hope!

Carefully she dressed in the new green suit, a yellow blouse that was a thin, shining gold, gloves and bag. She went on deck just before the boat passed the Statue of Liberty and turned up the North river to its dock.

As the boat swung up the wide river, where the tugs puffed cheerfully, the afternoon sunlight was throwing yellow streamers on the water. People began to crowd around the rails, the bands were playing merrily. The boat was almost in.

Natalie would come for her, she was certain, and Natalie would bring news of Garry. She might even bring Garry with her. At that thought her heart turned over with a thump and she could not get it righted. She wondered if she would have to go through customs before she could find Natalie. People were noth allowed on the pier as a boat came in, she reminded herself.

Ah, now the boat was turning to slip into its berth. She could distinguish figures. She opened her eyes wider, rubbed them, and opened them again. There, alone, stood a tall figure with bright hair, and the tall figure was waving a gray slouch hat. Garry!

He stood in the same position as the one in which she had left him. For a moment, the world was motionless, as though there had been no time since that hour the boat had pulled away.

Barbara began to wave her handkerchief and the spring breeze caught it and blew it across the deck and down the river. The boat was tying up. The gangplank was being lowered. Garry was waiting, waiting, waiting — she wondered how long it would be until she could get off. That she might be among the first she hurried to the lower deck, and on the stairs she met Garry.

There were people everywhere, and in the crush of pushing bodies no one noticed the tall young man and the girl whose eyes were green lanterns under the rusty hair.

Yet Barbara's first words were matter-of-fact and Garry's were equally commonplace. They had to be, to act as a barrier to their emotions at this moment of meeting.

"Garry, how did you get on the boat?"

"My press pass, darling. It's good work, reporting."

They were going up the stairs, around a corner, and suddenly Garry's eyes were searching Barbara's. He stopped, put his arms around her, and held her as though he had found something infinitely dear. Then his lips were on hers, tenderly, then passionately.

"Barbara, Barbara sweet—" he began.

A steward came by, and they had to step aside to let him pass. They laughed, and hand in hand went down the stairs that they had come up. There were people calling to them. There were the customs officers to pass. There was Natalie, waiting, just in case Garry had been detained. But before long Garry and Barbara were in a cab that was wending its way out of the traffic along the street of the piers.

"Where to?" the driver turned around to ask them.

Barbara gave Garry the name of an uptown hotel. He smiled and told the taxicab driver to drive around for a few minutes. To Barbara Garry said:

"Do you remember the first time I saw yoo?"

"Of course. You were in town for a wedding."

"And you told me you were tired of wedding marches, and banged down the window so you couldn't hear the music?"

For a moment the late afternoon sunlight was falling across the shabby desks and typewriters and floor in the dusty editorial room of the Martinsville Post, touching the rought, light hair of an amused young man and the rust colored curls of a girl with a tilted nose. Then it swung back to the city of tall white buildings through which the taxicab was going.

Garry's voice was low when he spoke again. "Barbara darling, if you still want to dispense with the music, why not go to the city hall now, then hunt for a minister?"

Faintly in the distance, growing sweeter and louder, Barbara heard the rythm of the wedding march that had been played in the small town church that day. The old road, the well-loved road that the cello and violins had trod, became a shining new highway. Whether musicians gathered to create the magic for many ears, or whether the melody was a refrain that only the heart knew, it did not matter.

"I love you, Barbara. Will you marry me now?" Garry was saying.

"I love you, too, Garry. Of course I will," she answered.

Practise at Home to Improve Your Dancing

He Won't Be Invited Again

Charlie's having a high time dancing. His whole heart—and lots of action—goes into pushing Letty along. But what torture for Letty!

Aside from the pain of trampled toes, she's embarrassed by her friends' amused glances. It's laughable the way Charlie's arm saws the air. How monotonous his walking steps are! If only he'd pause—for variety—with the swing step diagrammed here. It's simple. Step forward with right foot, swing forward with left—touching toe only to the floor—step back with left, swing back with right, toe only touching floor.

Clear diagrams, step-by-step lessons of a famous dance instructor would improve Charlie's dancing no end! You, too, can learn waltz, fox-trot, tango, rhumba from our helpful 32-page dance booklet. Master correct position, leading, following. Be in demand as a partner.

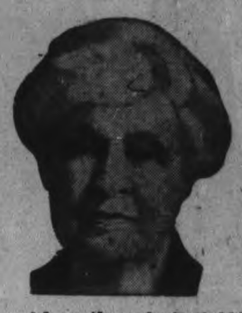
DOROTHY DIX

Here You Are, Ladies and Gentelmen; Maybe a Perusal and Some Self-Introspection Will Make You Over or Keep You From Being Guilty of These



THE ten greatest faults of husbands are: First. Being imperfectly monogamous. No matter how much the average man loves and admires his wife, nor how superior he considers her to all other women, he still has an eye out for a pretty girl. There is never a place between the cradle and the grave where a wife can sit down and take marriage easy and feel that she is absolutely safe.

Second. They slump. They get seedy. Somehow marriage generally seems to take the starch out of a man and make him feel that everything is over now and he doesn't have to bother about his personal appearance. He forgets that a wife is no more allured by a three day's stubble of beard on his face than he is by cold cream on hers.

Third. They resent having lost their personal liberty and blame it all on their wives. Every husband's favorite story is about how his wife enticed him into the matrimonial fold. No man ever married of his own volition.

Fourth. Most men begrudge the money it takes to support a family. In spite of all the harassed, bill-hounded men they knew, they cherished the illusion that their wives could run a house on air. Hence when this miracle fails to materialize and all their hard-earned money goes for groceries, rent, sterilized milk for the baby and having little Johnny's adenoids out, instead of for fishing trips and new sport cars, it turns them sour and grumpy.

Fifth. They deny their wives any financial independence. They make their wives come to them like beggars for every penny, and expect them to say "thank you" for the money they have earned ten times over by their work in the home.

Sixth. They think that a home is a place where a man can dump all the temper nerves and irritation that he dares not show the outside world, and be just as disagreeable as he pleases. Many a man who sets everybody else's dinner table in a roar with his wit never speaks at his own except to grumble over the food or correct the children. Many a man who is noted for his chivalry to other women doesn't treat his own wife with even ordinary politeness.

Seventh. They take their wives for granted. They never pay them a compliment, or show them any affection, or display any appreciation of all their wives do for them, or indicate in any manner that they regard their wives as anything but household conveniences.

Eighth. They do nothing to make their wives happy. They seem to think that just being married to them is all the amusement and diversion that any woman could crave.

Ninth. They are unmindful of all the little things on which women set so much store. Tenth. They make no effort to keep their wives in love with them. They think themselves so fascinating that their wives couldn't possibly lose their taste for them, no matter how they are treated.

The ten great faults of wives are: They are possessive. When they marry a man they think he belongs to them, body and soul, and has no right to any life or liberty of his own.

Second. They are jealous of every one whom he likes and everything he enjoys doing. A young wife's first act is to separate her husband from his family and friends and stop him from playing golf or tennis or going to his club.

Third. They nag. They can't say a thing once and let it go at that. Four. They are lazy. Keep dirty houses. And poison their families on bad food. Fifth. They are extravagant and wasteful. Sixth. They are high-tempered and shrewish. Seventh. They are dull and stupid and boring. Eighth. They go slouchy around the house. Ninth. They are more interested in clubs and society than they are in their homes. Tenth. They make no effort to entertain their husband's and make them happy and comfortable.

In spite of all of which marriage is still a good thing if you don't weaken. DOROTHY DIX.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

OH, IT was the happiest birthday party that Peg Cloverseed ever had! She and all the other Tom Thumb people (none of them were any bigger than a thumb, you see) danced round and round, outside their acorn houses. And Knarf and Hanid, the two shadow children with the turned-about names who had been invited to the birthday party, danced, too.

Finally Tom Thumb himself came up the two shadows and said: "And now you must come inside and see all the other presents that Peg Cloverseed has received for her birthday."

"Of course we'll go inside," Hanid said.

"Which one of the acorn houses do we have to go into?" Knarf asked.

"That one," said Tom, pointing to one of the smallest acorns of

"Come right in!" cried Peg.

all. "That's Peg's house. It isn't very big but it's very comfortable."

"Come right in!" cried Peg, holding open the door to her tiny house.

At once Peter Thistletop, another of the little people, exclaimed, "But Hanid and Knarf can't go inside Peg's house! They're much too big! They won't fit!"

Laugh to Knarf

"They'll stick their heads right through the roof and break it!" Alice Speck O'Dust said in alarm.

Then Knarf began to laugh. "Oh, we'll fit in all right. Just watch us."

With those words the shadow boy drew himself together before the astonished eyes of the little people until he became as tiny as they were. Then Hanid did the same, and she became small, too.

"And now let's go inside Peggy's house!" Knarf said.

With Knarf and Hanid so small, the acorn house appeared quite comfortable now, just as Tom Thumb had said.

The walls were round, just as the inside of an acorn should be. There was a table made of a mushroom, and chairs made of woven barley stalks, and curtains made of tiny red feathers from a robin, and a bed made of a butter cup bud just opening.

And there, heaped upon the mushroom table, were all the birthday presents! Knarf and Hanid ran up to them, for they all looked very curious.

Howard Schenken, one of the nation's leading players, pulled an unusual game out of this deal in the recent Vanderbilt cup tournament, in New York. He opened the bidding with one spade in the South. North bid two hearts, South three diamonds, North, instead of rebidding hearts, raised the diamonds to four and Mr. Schenken bid five diamonds.

Upon ruffing the third club round, Mr. Schenken needed the rest of the tricks. After the spade Q, the diamond K revealed his trump problem. So he laid down the spade A and K, West discarding a heart on the latter, then sent the heart Q through and led another spade. West again trashed a heart and dummy ruffed. The heart A furnished a discard of the last spade, and the heart J was ruffed by the diamond A. The diamond 10 was finessed and the Q made the final trick.

Of course West might have ruffed the spade K with his diamond 7, forcing the dummy to over-ruff with the 10, thus destroying the tenace over the J-9, but Mr. Schenken bargained on his not doing so and was right.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, May 31.

Judging by the ruling influence of the planets, this should be a day of opportunity, with a very expansive atmosphere permeating all transactions. It is a time for fulfilling cherished desires in a business, personal or social connection. All pertaining to finance, education, entertainment, friendship and youth should flourish. Major objectives should be pushed with confidence.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves facing a year of large plans and expansive ambitions. It is a good time to carry out ambitions in business as well as purely personal and social lines. Prestige, enjoyment and much happiness should crown noble efforts.

A child born on this day may be efficient and well equipped to reach the high goal of its ambitions through its productive and progressive efforts as well as its personal popularity and prestige. It should have a very fortunate and happy life.

Looking Back On This Date

By FRED WILLIAMS

One hundred years ago today (May 30, 1838,) official news reached Sir George Arthur, the lieutenant-governor of Upper Canada, of an outrage in the Thousand Islands. Bill Johnston, the renegade, who had declared war upon everything British, had seized and burned the crack steamer Sir Robert Peel, the pride of Lake Ontario!

He had chosen the date well, exactly five months after Andrew Drew had seized the "Patriot's" ship The Caroline and sent her flaming over Niagara Falls, and it was to avenge this that Johnston struck. Johnston and some 30 fellow desperadoes gathered at Abel's Island, just below Alexandria Bay, painted and dressed themselves like Indians, and at twilight pulled upstream in two long-boats to lie in wait for any steamer of British ownership that might appear. They were armed to the teeth with muskets, bayonets, swords, dirks and pistols.

At midnight the Sir Robert Peel, speediest and most luxurious steamer on inland waters—went by en route from Prescott to Toronto, heavily laden with passengers and carrying much government money. Quietly and unseen, the longboats fell in behind her, like wolves stalking their prey.

Captain Armstrong tied up at McDonald's wharf, a fueling place, on the south side of Well's Island, to take on cordwood. Johnston and his men landed at Ripley's wharf, some 20 rods below, and advanced through dark and tangled woods to attack the vessel from the land side. Fourteen of the pirates lost their way. Thirteen, led by Johnston, won through.

For a moment they hesitated; the odds against them were eight to one.

"Come on," said Johnston. "Thirteen is a lucky number. If we miss this chance we may never have another."

Thirteen terrifying demons rushed aboard, shouting "Remember the Caroline!" Ninety deck passengers were booted, cuffed and prodded down the gang-planks. Cabins were smashed open; their occupants, dressed and undressed, were dragged out and forced ashore. In fifteen minutes the vessel was cleared. Then her cables were cut.

It was Johnston's plan to mount her with cannon and use her to capture the British steamer Great Britain next day. But none of the pirates could operate her engines. She drifted helplessly with the current. An anchor was dropped, and she came to rest — over her own grave. Baffled in their hour of triumph, her captors plundered her, set her on fire, and pulled away; and the flames of her burning lighted up many miles of the great river.

The marooned passengers were rescued by a steamer from Kingston next day and taken to Toronto, where their story created tremendous excitement. It was an especially bad blow at British prestige for that very day Lord Durham had been sworn at Quebec, and thus the conciliator was told that his mission was to be no easy one.

Johnston and his pals escaped and for months held the St. Lawrence in terror. Eventually Johnston served a term for breach of neutrality, and thereafter lived a miserable life, drawn out until 1870 when he died at Clayton near Rochester, a wreck of his former self. But he still called himself "Sir William," having bestowed the title upon himself in caricature of the knighthood conferred upon Allan MacNab, who had planned the sinking of the Caroline in the Niagara and thus aided in the destruction of William Lyon Mackenzie's "Republic of Upper Canada."

Loose Dogs Forbidden Orillia Park Joys

Orillia, May 30.

ORILLIA'S beautiful Couchiching Beach Park has always been the run and haunt of the carefree and happy, of children and grown-ups, of the young and the aged, and of lovers. It has always been this way, for more than forty years now, and then, too, there have always been the dogs. The dogs? Oh, yes, always the dogs—man's closest friend.

But dogs, except those on the leash, are to be banned from the park, by the newly formed Orillia Parks Commission, and all for the sake of the flowers. "The dogs play havoc with the flowers," say the Commissioners, "and ruin the park gardens."

The Commissioners are having a number of signs painted, warning unleashed dogs from the park.

Bride Entertained

A bride of the month, Miss Eleanor Cochran, has been much entertained by her friends. A linen shower in her honor was held at the home of Mrs. Alex Robertson, Madoc, where she received many lovely gifts, and Mrs. T. Rupert was hostess at the Country Club luncheon in Belleville, where the bride-elect received a set of bathroom scales from the hostess and guests.

◇ ◇ ◇

Presented With Lovely Gifts

A delightful evening in honor of Mable Ferguson, whose marriage takes place next week, was held at the home of Mrs. Edgar Jones, 164 Prince street, with Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Jack Vowles as joint hostesses.

After a social hour of chatting, the bride-elect was presented with a prettily decorated box full of lovely gifts.

Lunch was served at a table done in pink and white, with tall pink candlesticks at each end, and centered by a handsome wedding cake.

◇ ◇ ◇

Interesting Trousseau Tea

An interesting tea, given by Mrs. A. S. Cochran of Madoc, in honor of her youngest daughter, Eleanor, was attended by about one hundred people.

At the door Miss Frances Blue directed the guests upstairs, where Mrs. Robt. C. Cummings displayed the trousseau and gifts, which were greatly admired, and included many articles of silver, china and linens.

Descending to the drawing room, the guests were welcomed by Mrs. Cochran, wearing a blue lace gown with matching jacket, and Eleanor Cochran, very dainty in pale blue chiffon and pink jacket, Mrs. H. Davis introduced the guests to the dining room, where Mrs. West poured tea, assisted by Mrs. Norman Whylock, Mrs. T. Rupert and Miss L. West. The rooms were tastefully decorated with spring flowers, and the table was centered with pink carnations and larkspur.

Eighty Red Roses Presented on Birthday

On the occasion of her 80th birthday anniversary on Sunday, Mrs. S. Stuart, 550 Gilmour street, was the recipient of numerous floral remembrances, gifts and birthday cards from a host of friends. One particularly beautiful tribute was a bouquet of eighty large red roses from Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers of Iron Mountain, Mich., Mrs. Chalmers being a daughter. During the day a number of friends called to pay their respects. Mrs. Stuart recently returned from spending the winter at St. Petersburg and Miami, Florida.

◇ ◇ ◇

Celebrate 40th Wedding Anniversary

The fortieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Jeffries, 597 Lock street, who were married in Kent, England, May 28, 1898, was celebrated by a dinner Saturday, May 28, for the immediate family and relatives.

Presented

Jean Batten, world-famous aviatrix, is shown as she left her London hotel for Buckingham Palace, where she was presented to their majesties during the annual court presentations.

A profusion of lovely flowers decorated the rooms, and the dinner table, centered by a basket of cut flowers, on either side tall candles in silver holders, carried out the color of the ruby, symbolic of forty years of wedded life. A three tiered wedding cake was on the buffet.

Following the dinner, a presentation was made to the bride and groom by their son, W. Jeffries, of a beautiful bridge set in ruby glass, which was a gift from the immediate family, and glass relish dishes in the same shade from the grandchildren. A beautiful basket of 40 ruby roses was presented to Mrs. Jeffries by her family, and a pipe and pounch to Mr. Jeffries; from the grandchildren a glass jar of tobacco.

During the evening many friends called to offer their congratulations, and were received by Mrs. Jeffries in a gown of black marquisette over printed crepe, and wearing a corsage of sweet peas. Mrs. W. Pinn, the only daughter, received with her in a long, black net gown, with corsage of carnations.

The dinner guests included the following: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Saunders (it is interesting to note that Mrs. Saunders was a bridesmaid at the wedding forty years ago), Mr. and Mrs. W. Jeffries, Mr. and Mrs. D. Hamilton, Eileen Jeffries, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Jeffries, Shirley and Joyce Jeffries, Mr. and Mrs. W. Pinn and son Vernon, Miss Dora and Thelma Thurston of Port Colborne, Mrs. George Pinn, Sr., and Rev. T. S. Gault.

Presentation Made Mrs. W. Creighton

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, May 30.—A presentation to Mrs. W. J. Creighton, who has for eight years been president of the W.A. was made on Thursday afternoon, May 26, at the closing meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of St. John the Baptist Church, Lakefield. Mrs. Creighton, who is the wife of Rev. Creighton, pastor of St. John's Church for many years past, is leaving Lakefield in July and will reside in Bradford.

Thirty members and friends of the Society were present at the meeting which was held in the parish hall. After the regular business was concluded the reports of the annual convention held in Toronto during Easter week were read. Miss Frances Dench, our local representative, read her report, giving many interesting personal observations. The secretary read a more detailed report from Miss Rose, our Toronto representative. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Connelly and Mrs. J. Earnshaw, assisted by Mrs. T. Junkin, Mrs. C. Stenner and Mrs. Armstrong. Then Miss Dench, as vice-president of the W.A., presented Mrs. Creighton with an overnight bag and handsome leather hand bag in recognition of her services as president of the branch for eight years and as a token for the love and loyalty of all the members. Mrs. Creighton expressed her surprise and pleasure but said she needed no remembrance at which everyone sang "For she's a jolly good fellow." Mrs. Creighton leaves a vacancy which will be hard to fill, and members of the W.A. trust that she will often visit them during the years to come.

Do This If You're NERVOUS

Don't take chances on harmful opiates and products which you know nothing about. Use common sense. Get more fresh air, more sleep and take a reliable, time-proven medicine like famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—made especially for women from wholesome herbs and roots—let it help Nature tone up your system and thus calm jangly nerves, lessen distress from female functional disorders and make life worth living.

For over 60 years one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Pinkham's Compound—let it help YOU.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

(WORRY)

"For your work's sake, for your friend's sake, for your health's sake STOP WORRYING."—V. A.

Dear Friends:

Sounds easy, doesn't it, to say don't worry? You know you have plenty of acuse to worry. What are you going to do if you cannot pay your bills, how are you going to LIVE if you do not get the work to earn the money necessary to pay your way? Don't worry? Huh, how are you going to do anything else, the way things are going?

Well, there is no phase of worrying that I don't know intimately in all its aspects. I have sat up with it, lain down with it, it has been my companion many times in my life, so I know it well.

And I also know it for what it is worth. It is the most cowardly thing in life, takes al lthe heart out of you, stops you from doing things, keeps fun and enjoyment away from you, makes you grouchy and irritable, slows down your digestion, and is a general pest all round.

Take it out and look at the cringing thing. What caues it to be born, what keeps it alive? FEAR, nothing else but FEAR. You fear the loss of your job, or that the one who earns will lose their job. You fear the consequent stoppage of certain things to which you have become accustomed, of having to do without something you want or need.

Yet, it s surprising how little you can live on when you have to. I know, for I have had it both ways. Some people say you miss a thing worse of you have once had it, but you can miss it just as much, never having had it.

One thing about once having it, you have enjoyed it (if you are wise,) and what you have once enjoyed, no one can take from you. If you never have had it, you feel defrauded and cheated, so I think it is better to have had it and lose it, than never to have it at all. Like love, for instance.

But, back to your worries once more. In all my life, as I told you a bit of good. Of course, there is two before, I never knew worry to do me kinds of worry. Didn't you know that? There is the good kind and the bad kind.

The bad kind, which is general with so many of us, gets you down, doesn't let you see a bright ray ahead of you, clouds your vision so that you cannot see straight, and depresses you to the point of despair.

The good kind looks at the trouble from all angles, decides to make the best of it, keeps looking for a loophole so that one can get rid of this trouble, keeps you on your toes so that you are determined not to be beaten, and generally brings you out to better things.

Of course, it is up to you to decide which one kind you let move in with you. One good way to get rid of the bad worry is to tell it sternly and firmly, that—nothing lasts. You can take these two words and make a tragedy of them, or you can worry them like a banner to help you through life.

I have found them of greater benefit to me. Nothing lasts, so this must only last for a little while. Another sentence I have found of great help is, "if one door closes, another door will open", but if you have let the bad worry get you, you may not be able to see the other door open when it does.

I used to cross my bridges before I came to them. What folly that is, for you not only suffer going through trouble, but you run to meet it, thereby suffering twice. So, as Harriet Martineau tell u: "You better live your bet, and act your bet, and think your bet today; For today in the sure preparation for tomorrow and all the other tomorrows that follow". Stop worrying.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

ENGAGEMENTS

The engagement is announced of Genevieve Florence, daughter of Charles Gilbert and the late Mrs. Gilbert of Fradette Avenue, to Walter John, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mahoney of Patterson street. The marriage to take place the latter part of June.

The engagement is announced of Mabel, only daughter of Mrs. Mary Copson and the late Mr. Harry Copson, to Earl Frederick Nicholls, eldest son of Mr. Wesley Nicholls and the late Mrs. Nicholls of Bridgenorth. The marriage to take place in June.

The engagement is announced of Mary Anne, younger daughter of Mr. Charles Johnston, Perry street, and the late Mrs. Johnston, to John Charles, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cairns, Prince street. The wedding to take place June 23.

DIED

FLETCHER, W. H. — On Monday morning, May 30, 1938, at Christie Street Hospital, Toronto, after a lingering illness, W. H. Fletcher of Keene, beloved husband of Lottie Wedlock, and one daughter, Maureen Fletcher. Funeral on Wednesday, June 1, from Keene United Church, at 2.30 p.m., Rev. Mr. Kennedy of Madoc officiating. Interment at Keene Cemetery.

THOMPSON, Mrs. Elizabeth.—In Detroit, Mich., on Saturday, May 28, 1938, Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson, aged 74 years. The funeral will take place on Wednesday, June 1, at 2 o'clock from the home of her brother, Harvey Pearson, 238 Dublin street, to Lakefield Cemetery. Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe will officiate.

IN MEMORIAM

MONCRIEF.—In loving memory of Mrs. Walter Moncrief, who passed away five years ago.

What would we give her hand to clasp,
Her patient face to see;
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be;
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife
And clasp each other's hand once more
In Heaven, that happy life.
—Remembered by her Husband and Family.

KELLY.—In loving memory of a dear father, John Kelly, who died May 30, 1936.

What is a home without a father,
What are all the joys we meet
When his loving smile no longer
Greets the coming of our feet.
You were true and very patient
Through the years you struggled on,
And those dear hands now are resting
Made a home that now is gone.
—Sadly missed by Wife and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doris wish to thank the attending doctors, sisters and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital, clergy, relatives, and friends for their kindness and sympathy during the illness and bereavement of their daughter, Barbara.

Girl Is Drowned In Small Pond Near Marmora

Margaret Kirby, 24-year-old Peterborough girl, was drowned in a pond two miles east of Marmora on the north side of Number 7 highway on Saturday afternoon.

Miss Kirby had been a Bell Telephone operator in this city for the past year, lived with her brother and two sisters at the Nova Scotia apartments on George street. She had been in ill health and had been on sick leave from work for about a week. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kirby.

With a sister, she had been a guest of her uncle, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. O'Connor of Marmora for about a week. The C. N. R. track passes the O'Connor residence about 700 yards north of the pond. With her sister, Agnes, and two cousins, the deceased had planned Saturday to walk down to the pond as had been their daily routine for the past week.

As the other girls were busy with household duties, the deceased strolled ahead. After some minutes had passed neighboring children went to the pond to bathe, noticed her form lying face downwards at the edge of the water, against the bank, and in only about two and a half feet of water. The alarm was quickly spread but all efforts to revive her failed. Dr. H. Crawford and Constable P. Gray of Marmora were on the scene promptly, but were unable to revive her. Dr. S. S. Eagleson of Madoc, county coroner, said an inquest would not be necessary.

The circumstances pointed to the fact that the girl had either been subject to a fainting spell or had suffered a heart attack. The body was later removed to the residence of her aunt and uncle. The funeral will be held from that residence on Tuesday morning.

Visitors Pay Fines At Campbellford

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 30.—Six breaches of the traffic act were dealt with in police court Friday by Magistrate E. A. Gee of Lindsay who presided in the absence of O. A. Langley. Pleading guilty to driving without a license cost one local resident $2.00 and costs and driving with defective brakes brought another a levy of $7.25. A Hastings resident was summoned before the Magistrate for failing to stop at a through street and paid $2.0 0and costs and a charge of speeding in the township was settled for $5.00 and costs. The heaviest fines went to two drivers from out of town, one had defective brakes and the other failed to return to the scene of an accident. Both paid $10.00 and costs.

Heavyweight Wrestler Is Given Month In Jail On Assault Count

James Kayore, 21, heavyweight wrestler with the athletic show of Wallace Brothers' carnival which played here last week, was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court Saturday morning to one month in jail, after he had been convicted of assaulting Pat Calladine, local hockey and ball player, occasioning grievous bodily harm.

The evidence of the crown witnesses, which Magistrate Langley said he accepted in its entirety, was that Kayore, whose home is in Brantford, had deliberately kicked Calladine, a spectator at the athletic show, in the face, after some "razzing" by the local man and that as a result of the assault Calladine lost two teeth, others will have to be extracted to put in a bridge and his lip was cut so badly that two stitches were necessary.

Kayore was defended by W. F. Huycke, K.C., while Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

Four crown witnesses, including Calladine, were called. The complainant tod of being in the athletic show on Thursday night last while Kayore was wrestling with another man. When the end of the ten-minute bout was nearly reached and there had been no fall, some of the spectators started to call for more action.

"I said to him, "Come on big boy, time is nearly up—show us some action," said Calladine, "and he said "Come on up here and I'll show you some action." I said 'No, I'm not going up there' and then he walked over to the ropes and kicked me right in the mouth."

"Kick Was Deliberate."

Complainant said he was standing several feet back from the ring and that the kick was deliberate.

He told the court that one tooth had been knocked out at the time and another so loosened that the doctor pulled it out with his fingers.

Mr. Huycke questioned the witness as to possible injury to his teeth in his hockey and baseball experience, but Calladine declared that he had not been injured in that way before.

Three other witnesses, C. Downer, Robert English and Staff. Sullivan, who were paid spectators of the bout, corroborated Calladine's evidence in practically every particular and all three said that the kick delivered by Kayore was diliberate and not an accident.

Charles Harris of Peterborough, who described himself as a wrestler, and who said he had acted as referee during the carnival wrestling bout on Thursday night, was the first witness called for the defence. His theory of what had happened was that Kayore was wrestling with another man, identified by Harris, as a man sitting among the spectators in the court room and that the latter had clapped a painful toehold on Kayore. When the hold was broken, Kayore went to the side of the ring and began kicking his leg back and forth to restore circulation after the toehold and in so doing he kicked Calladine in the face.

Referee Not Paid.

Cross-examined by Mr. McElderry, Harris said that he had been engaged as referee by the manager of the show but that he had received no money for his work. He admitted telling Calladine after the latter had been hurt that he should get something from the show for what had happened.

Arthur Montour, manager of the atheltic show, told of the general warning given spectators entering the show that they did so at their own risk and that they should stand back from the ropes.

James Lickers, who was Kayore's opponent during the bout in which the trouble occurred, could not remember much about the toehold Harris had described when he was called upon to testify for the defence. He told Mr. Huycke that he did not see Calladine get kicked.

"Isn't it a fact," asked Mr. McElderry in cross-examination, "that Kayore has about the biggest feet you have ever seen?"

"They are pretty big all right," said Lickers with a smile. However he added that he thought the other wrestler wore a 10 or 11 shoe.

"I put it to you," said hte Crown Attorney, "that his size is more likely 11 or 13."

Lickers admitted that he had come to Peterborough with the carnival and was travelling with it.

Kayore's Version.

Kayore, going into the box on his own behalf, told his counsel that he wore a size 12 shoe. Giving his version of what had happened, Kayore said that during the bout Lickers had kicked him a couple of times when the two were lying on the mat and when they got up he kicked at Lickers who sidestepped and the kick missed him and struck Calladine.

Magistrate Langley said he was satisfied that Calladine had not been injured by inadvertence but that there had been a deliberate intended assault made by the accused.

"The evidence of the crown witnesses was straightforward and I accept it almost in its entirety," said the magistrate, who added that he was far from satisfied with some of the evidence given by defence witnesses.

"It has been pleaded," he said, "that at these events there is usually roughness and horesplay, but I know of no law that justifies a contestant in the ring assaulting a spectator."

Magistrate Langley, reminding Kayore that there was nothing very elevating in a big fellow assaulting a smaller man, sentenced the accused to a month's imprisonment.

"Could it be arranged for this man to return here in October after the show season is over and serve his time then?" asked Mr. Huycke.

"That would be impossible," the Magistrate declared.

Two Youths Kidnap Blind Boy

DETROIT, May 30—(CP)—Police today sought two youths for the most heartless crime of the year—they kidnapped a blind boy and left him stranded 18 miles from home.

The victim, Richard Kotapski, Detroit, said:

"I went to take my pet dog for a walk last night. Two men drove up in an auto, forced me to get in, and drove away. They did not try to rob me but just hauled me away and forced me out of the car."

Sheriff's deputies found Kotapski and his dog walking along the road They took him to the county jail, where he was made comfortable pending the arrival of relatives who took him home.

Music in Factory Aids Production Reduces Fatigue

LONDON, May 30 — (CP). — Experimental use of music in British factories as an antidote to fatigue and boredom of industrial labor indicates production may be increased 10 per cent but thatthe treatment is deleterious to office efficiency.

A Wembley firm which broadcast radio music in its plant noticed an increase of 10 per cent in production by women workers, but found its office staff considered the music a nuisance.

An investigator for the National Institute of Industrial Psychology found women laundering shirts and collars in Scotland to the strains of martial music. He described their output as "astonishing, even alarming."

Scottish workers refuse to listen to jazz, but many women employees in English plants prefer it and place marches second on their list of choices.

Industrial psychologists say it is dangerous to generalize on the question of music and work. They favor introduction of musc but suggest each case should be considered on its separate merits.

Among opinions of women workers were these: "Music makes you work better because you talk less," and "if on a bad job music helps you forget and it stops you grumbling."

Dr. C. S. Myers, principal of the National Institute of Industrial Psychology, agreed the effect of music on office staffs was likely to be more of a nuisance than a blessing. In industry, he suggested also, it should be administered in intermittent doses rather than continuously.

Ireland has a movement for the establishment of a Council of Education.

Blow To Cotton

U.S. reports state the significance of an alleged secret deal between Premier Mussolini and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain is to be a blow at the United States cotton belt. Details are reported to be an arrangement by whch Great Britain has arranged for a more even flow of waters for irrigation from Lake Tana, at the headwaters of the Blue Nile, for Egyptian cotton fields, making British textile mills independent of U.S. cotton.

Golden Jubilee Is Marked By Sunday School

The little Union Sunday School at Coldsprings was jammed to capacity on Sunday afternoon for the golden anniversary of one of the strangest organizations in this province.

It was just 50 years ago that two young women decided that the community needed a Sunday School and canvassed every house in the community. As a result there sprang up a Sunday School which has been attended ever since by Roman Catholics, Baptists, Anglicans, and United Church adherents. A strictly non-denominational Sunday School, it has grown and prospered ever since.

At Sunday's meeting were present twelve of the original class. They were Alexander Huston, Stanley Matchett, Mrs. S. Bennett, Miss Laura Bennett, Mrs. William Clemens, H. P. Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy of Toronto, Oscar Matchett, Mrs. James Gerard, Mrs. Bruce Rickey, Alexander Long, and Miss Frances Ward of Toronto.

The meeting was presided over by Superintendent C. F. Kitney, while Miss Laura Bennett, who retired last year after being superintendent for 39 years and a teacher for 49 years, was in the room. Rev. G. S. Easton of Trinity United Church and Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church were special speakers.

"To use Old Testament language, I say that fifty years ago, in this neighborhood, the younger and older folks made a covenant together," related Superintendent Kitney. "The younger promised to organize and conduct a Union Sunday School if the older folk would support it. That covenant has been kept by both and to-day we have assumed the promise our fathers made."

He recalled the efforts of Miss L. Kennedy of the then Charlotte Street Methodist Church, now Trinity United, and Miss L. Welch of St. John's Anglican Church, founders of the organization. "Mr. R. A. Ward was our first superintendent, Mr. H. D. Kennedy was our first secretary-treasurer. They, with Miss Kennedy and Miss Welch, laid the foundation of our school, upon which we have been building ever since. Mr. M. W. Matchett was our second superintendent. He was followed by Mr. H. P. Kennedy, and after him his father, Mr. Dawson Kennedy, carried on the work. Miss Laura Bennett, our Honorary Superintendent, was appointed in 1899, and led the school until 1937.

"For 50 years the school has been the social centre of the neighborhood, and it is full of good and happy memories. We own our building and equipment. Some of us have had the honor of putting our names to two or three notes, but they are now paid. We have no intention of leaving our children a mortgage for an inheritance. We have helped in relief work at home, in the West, and abroad.

"The school and Young People's Association together, through the Upper Canada Bible Society, support a colporteur in India. He is a member of the Anglican Communion.

"If the founders of this cause could come to our school on an ordinary Sunday, they would find workers much like they were fifty years ago. Then the roll was 43. To-day it is 127, including the Cradle Roll and Home Department. We have 8 officers and 10 teachers. Our average attendance is 74.

"As our first school had faith in God and the young, so have we. In our Young People's Association, under their president, Miss Wilson and her officers, they are training themselves to take our place. A few years ago they realized that things wear out, and buildings get out of repair. They started to raise a fund and have bought new chairs, the piano, paid for a new floor, repaired the brick work outside, decorated the interior, and presented the school with a lantern. They are always willing to take part in a service on Sunday when asked. With this type of loyalty our future is safe.

"Was the effort and sacrifice of the founders 50 years ago worth while? We leave it to you to decide."

Coat of Arms

VANCOUVER, May 30 — (CP). — Vancouver's coat of arms is "all haywire." But it won't be changed. Mayor George C. Miller told city council the College of Heralds in London refused to register the design without correcting the figures "But it is a darn fine coat of arms anyway," the mayor said. It is a shield supported by a lumberman and a fisherman and surmounted by a casque.

Present Beauharnois Deal Made Behind His Back Lyon Charges At Inquiry

Got First Hint Few Weeks Before Election In Remark By McQuesten; Fired By Hepburn, Refused Interview

TORONTO, May 31 (CP).—Negotiations between the Ontario government and the Beauharnois, Light, Heat and Power Company for a power contract replacing one cancelled by the government were going on without his knowledge last summer, T. Stewart Lyon, former chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, told a special Legislative committee today.

"These things were all done behind my back," he asserted. "They were never referred to me."

The committee under Attorney-General Gordon Conant was appointed at the last session of the Legislature after Leopold Macaulay Conservative leader, charged Premier Hepburn had misled electors during the late 1937 general election by proclaiming a "back-to-Niagara" policy.

Mr. Lyon, who resigned following the election, told the committee today he was in effect "dismissed" by the Premier. He had opposed renewing a contract with Beauharnois, holding that the Hydro Commission should develop its own power in the Niagara system rather than buy from Quebec companies.

Tip By McQuesten.

The first suggestion he had heard of a new Beauharnois contract was two or three weeks before the election.

Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, and at that time a member of the Hydro Commission, had made "an offhand statement that he believed they were going to come to term with Beauharnois."

Also before the election, the former chairman said there had been negotiations as to the possible purchase of 40,000 horse power from the Maclaren-Quebec company as a reserve supply. Bethune Smith, representing the company, had suggested negotiations be not completed until after the election.

Welcomed To City

Peterborough citizens gave a rousing welcome to Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, on his arrival for a three-day tour of inspection of this district. At TOP LEFT His Excellency is seen leaving the station with Mayor James Hamilton in the official car. Previous to leaving the station, the Governor-General met civic and military dignitaries. At TOP RIGHT he is shown inspecting the guard of honor of the Prince of Wales Rangers. LOWER LEFT shows him meeting Lt.-Col. J. A. Dewart, commanding officer of the Prince of Wales Rangers, while Major R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne stands beside him ready to be introduced. Canada's Governor General Lord Tweedsmuir Visits Peterborough and Lakefield

Places Wreath On The War Memorial Then Journeys To Lakefield Where He Visits The Grove School

Spring in the last day of its declension unfolded a rich tapestry of flowers, lush green fields and woods as a background of natural beauty for the official visit of Canada's Governor-General, Lord Tweedsmuir, to Peterborough and Lakefield this morning.

Swiftly but decorously smooth flowing incidents filled every moment of His Excellency's reception by the civic officials of the city and the neighboring village of Lakefield, ending on the delightfully informal not of the Governor General's sparkling welcome to the Grove School on the shore of Lake Katchawanooka.

Promptly at 11 o'clock His Excellency, preceded by his secretary and Aide de Camp, stepped from his private coach, one of three at the C.P.R. station, to be greeted by Mayor James Hamilton, members of the City Council, Warden E. N. McDonald and members of the county council, J. J. Duffus, M.P., Alex Elliott, M.L.A., Colonel John A. Dewart and Major R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne of the Prince of Wales Rangers. Little more than an hour and a half later the morning features of the program of Lord Tweedsmuir's three days' visit and vacation in the Kawartha Lakes District was ended, an exceedingly pleasant series of events served to introduce His Excellency to the city and county of Peterborough under the happiest of circumstances.

All the anticipations of the deeply human side of Lord Tweedsmuir's personality as reflected in his distinguished authorship as John Buchan, historian and man of letters, were fully realized in his public utterances and interests indicated during the episodes of the first morning of his long-planned tour of this district.

Impressed With Memorial.

George Street was well lined with people all the way from the station to Confederation Square where His Excellency remained for a short time to place a wreath on Peterborough's war memorial. Incidentally he told Mayor Hamilton that this city's memorial was one of the Firm Policy Is Canada's Need Tories Are Told

What this country needs is a firm, constructive policy under a courageous leader, both Hon. Earl Lawson and Denton Massey agreed, when they spoke at the evening session of the Peterborough Conservative Association's mass meeting on Monday.

Both men have been suggested as possible candidates for leadership in the Conservative party when the annual meeting is held in Ottawa early in July. Keynote of both their speeches was a criticism of what they termed the absolute inactivity of the Liberal government since 1935.

"These are great days for Canada when government by commission is used as a substitute for government by elected representatives of the people," said Mr. Lawson.

"If there were a conscientious Liberal in this house tonight and he were asked to say one thing that the King government had done for the farmer, I would like to hear him say it," said Mr. Massey. "We are drifting."

Hon. Earl Lawson, who spoke first, praised the leadership of Hon. R. B. Bennett, whom he called the "greatest statesman Canada has had in the 20th century, and one of the most illustrious leaders in the history of the Conservative party."

"I doubt that any man was so much criticized, and so unjustly criticized as our revered leader. A wealthy man, he was called the friend of the big manufacturer, yet he introduced the most ambitious program of social legislation that has ever been entered into Canadian statutes," he said.

He lauded Bennett's steadfastness in preaching the same policy for all Canada, scored what he claimed was the policy of Mackenzie King, of "preaching a different policy for each part of the country." The Liberal regime has been one of masterly inactivity since 1935, he said.

Depression Ousted Bennett.

Because Canada had been through five years of serious economic depression preceding the election of 1935, the speaker found it not to be wondered at that the Conservative party was defeated at the polls. "The average man said when he went to the polls that things couldn't be much worse and so 'I'll give the other fellow a chance'," he claimed.

The Prime Minister had said before his election that because there were eight Liberal provincial governments, there would be harmony between the provinces and Ottawa and that those governments would sit with him around the same table, with a common purpose, and co-operation would follow easily.

"They did sit around the same table, and they did agree—to refer all Mr. Bennett's social laws to the courts as theoretical questions. And

Fine Increased For Leaving Accident Scene

OTTAWA, May 31.—(CP)— New crimes, more severe penalties for some present ones and the lessening of maximum penalties for others are foreshadowed in an omnibus bill for amendments to the criminal code presented to the House of Commons by Justice Minister Lapointe.

The bill ranges over a wide range of subjects including coin defacement, publication of reports of divorce actions, salting of mines, penalties for reckless driving and new offenses in connection with gaming houses.

Some things that will become crimes if parliament passes the bill presented yesterday:

Deliberate defacing of coins by stamping on them names or words. (It is now an offense only if the coin is tendered.)

Publication in relation to any judicial proceeding of indecent matter, or indecent medical, surgical or physiological details calculated to injure public morals.

Publication of anything in relation to divorce cases, and other marital cases, except names of those concerned, a concise statement of the charges, defences and counter-charges in support of which evidence has been given, submissions on points of law, statements of the court, and the finding of the jury.

Salting of a mine, or a sample from one, with the fraudulent intent to affect an assay. (This is now covered only by the general fraud provisions.)

The parting with a naturalization certificate when the holders knows it is to be used for a fraudulent purpose. (It is stated in the explanatory note that such certificates have been used to allow aliens to enter illegally or to obtain British passports).

Starving Kiddies Worries London

LONDON, Ont., May 31 (C.P.).—Faced with the "undeniable fact" that within the next month some children from families on relief will have reached an aggravated stage of under-nourishment, officials of the Board of Education are seeking the ruling of the Department of Education regarding the stand to be taken when the youngsters can no longer attended classes.

Evidence submitted to a trustee of the Board showing that in one instance children will receive 8½ cents a day for food brought the matter to the attention of education authorities.

Education authorities said they had been informed there was a possibility that some children would be taken out of school. It is this phase of the matter in which they are particularly interested unable by regulation to set aside money in the estimates for any kind of welfare work the Board has in the past made contributions and sponsored entertainments for the collection of money for children who are undernourished.

However, the consensus is that the matter has become one for the consideration of the Provincial Department of Education which rules that children must attend school.

2 Are Killed, 2 Hurt As Trucks Collide

PEACE RIVER, Alta., May 31 (C.P.).—Two men were killed and two others suffered from injuries when two trucks collided yesterday on the Grimshaw-Battle River Highway.

Wendline Weld, 28, Brownvale, and John Fischer, 25, Whitelaw, were killed. Constantine Frey, 18, Brownvale, was injured and Gottlieb Frey, Brownvale, father of Constantine, and father-in-law of Weld, suffered severe shock.

The crash happened in a dense swirl of dust on the much-travelled highway 250 miles north-west of Edmonton. The light truck in which the four were riding collided with a heavier truck driven by Everett Kidder of Notikewin.

Tenement Fire Costs Lives Of 3 Jap Boys

VANCOUVER, May 31.—(CP)—Three children were burned to death when fire of unknown origin swept through an East End tenement building housing seven Japanese families early today.

The dead were George Taniguchi, 12, Taizo Isotani, 15, Yoshi-Kazo Ono, nine. Firemen were uncertain whether others had been trapped and perished in the two storey frame structure.

Majority of the tenants were asleep when the fire broke out and the flames swept the building so rapidly they had time only to leap from windows in night attire.

In hospital was Mrs. K. Namba, believed to have suffered a broken back when she jumped from a second storey window and struck a fence.

Twenty-seven Japanese, 17 of them children, were in the building when the fire broke out in the basement. All but four escaped uninjured. Many of those trapped on the top floor suffered only minor bruises when they jumped to safety.

Hachiro Isotani, 17, in charge of the tenement while his father was absent at the Skeena River fishing grounds in Northern British Columbia, was on the second floor. He rushed into the wall of flame to find escape by the stairway cut off, shouted a warning, then jumped from a nearby window.

Save Wife, Daughter

Namba, in an adjoining room, grabbed his three-year-old daughter and with his wife climbed through a window. A ledge gave way and hurled them to the ground where the woman struck the fence. Father and daughter were uninjured.

Taizo Isotani, sleeping with his brother Hachiro, attempted to climb through their bedroom window. Apparently overcome by smoke, he collapsed and fell back into the room where his body was found.

Y. Ono, father of the youngest victim, was in a nearby confectionery store when he heard the fire engines pass. He followed them to learn his son had been trapped and died in their basement bedroom.

Young Taniguchi died in another top floor room, near that where the body of Isotani was found.

40 of Aberhart's Candidates Out in Saskatchewan

Social Crediters Represent Wide Field, Farmers Leading With Group Of 7

EDMONTON, May 31 (CP).—Forty Social Credit candidates for the Saskatchewan general elections June 8 were announced here today by provincial secretary E. C. Manning, chief organizer of the Western Canada Social Credit Association.

Candidates will be selected for eight power constituencies and in four ridings there will be no nominees, Mr. Manning said.

Two candidates were named for each of the two-member city ridings —Regina, Saskatoon and Moose Jaw. The 45 constituencies will elect 52 persons to the provincial Legislature.

Selection of the candidates was made at meetings of the Western Association executive which remained in conference long after midnight last night.

Executive members present included Premier Aberhart, leader of the association; Mr. Manning; provincial treasurer Solon Low; and Hon. Lucien Maynard, Alberta minister of municipal affairs.

Social Credit will not run candidates in Cannington, Canora, Kelvington and Pelly ridings. Constituencies where standard bearers will be named later are: Athabaska, Bengough, Biggar, Melville, Morse and Weyburn.

The 40 candidates covered a wide field of professions and occupations. Farmers composed the strongest group with seven. There are five merchants, four teachers and three railwaymen. Included among the others were two medical doctors, a chiropractor, two lawyers, a bond broker and a mine owner.

Blast Kills Trio Caught In Quebec Mine

VAL D'OR, Que., May 31 (C.P.).—Three men were killed and one injured late yesterday when an explosion ripped through the main shaft of the Sladen Malartic Gold Mine, 10 miles west of here. The dead are Peter Prokop 33, Casey Topel 32, and George Mackay 28.

Wilfrid Lecoy, 27, was slightly injured. Two other workmen in the shaft one level above escaped injury. They were Ernst Lecoy, 25, brother of Wilfrid, and Alex Bernier, 30.

Of the victims, all residents of the newly-settled village of Malartic which sprawls around the mine, only one, Peter Prokop, was married. His widow survives.

The explosion occurred at the height of an electrical storm, but it was not established whether a bolt of lightning that struck the shaft-head exploded a charge of dynamite.

Mine Manager D. Aagar refused to make public details of the disaster, explaining that Roger Taschereau, provincial mining inspector, was to open an investigation later to-day. Taschereau came here from Quebec.

Agar said the blast did little damage to the mine shaft, and that a rescue crew was able to descend without difficulty and bring the bodies to the surface.

$10,000 Ransom Paid Kidnappers

PRINCETON, Fla., May 31 (A.P.).—W. P. Cash said to-day the $10,000 ransom demanded by the kidnappers of his five-year-old nephew, James Bailey Cash, Jr., had been paid.

The money was thrown from an automobile, he added, by the lad's father, who made two trips over routes outlined in a map provided by the kidnappers.

Returning from the second drive, the father, wealthy merchant, reported the contact and said he expected to be notified momentarily of the release of his son, taken from his bed on Saturday night.

W. P. Cash said his brother tossed out the bundle of currency, in $5 and $10 denominations, after blinking the lights of his automobile in accordance with instructions contained in notes from the kidnappers.

The father appeared jubilant and confident young Cash's release was imminent.

Deported Youth Dies Trying To Reach Sweetheart

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP).—This is the story Albert Heinz said his sweetheart would see in the newspapers—if he died.

The body of Heinz, a young seaman who had been brought from Miami, Fla., for deportation to Germany, was found floating in the Hudson River off Hoboken, N.J.

In his pocket was a letter addressed to Lou Annice Summers of Miami.

"Dear honey," it began. "They are taking me away from you, from America and from all the happiness which you have given me.

"They will send me back to Germany, but I never will get there... I love you like I never did before. I have cried so that I have no more tears left.

"Whatever happens from now on may cost me my life, but I will not let anyone take me away from you alive. If I die you will read it in the newspapers. If I am alive you will hear from me."

Then, in a postscript, he wrote:

"I gave up my country, Germany, for America and its honorable flag, for its freedom and history, and for my girl from Mississippi.

"They didn't believe what I said. They send me back to Hitler. But I will prove, alive or dead, my honesty and the mistake they make. Yours forever, Albert."

Enclosed with the letter, dated April 6, was a warrant for his arrest on a charge of assault, issued in Miami on Christmas Day, 1937, on the complaint of Louis J. Summers.

There was no indication of the relationship between Lou Annice Summers and the man who signed the assault complaint.

Dutch Want Killer Offer Reward For Red Agent

The Hague, May 31 (CP-Havas)

The Netherlands Government announced last night it would pay a large reward for the arrest of a Soviet agent named Walluck, accused of the assassination at Rotterdam of M. Krasilanaya, Ukrainian nationalist leader.

Krasilanaya, at first unidentified, was blown to bits last Monday by a bomb placed in his valise.

Ban Chorley Park For Hospital Use

TORONTO, May 31 (CP)—Toronto Board of Control decided to-day it would oppose the converting of government house into a hospital.

The $1,000,000 former home of the province's lieutenant - governors, closed late last year, was offered by Premier Hepburn Saturday as a gift to the Toronto Hospital For Sick Children.

"The hospital might accept the gift and sell the property as building lots, but we can't allow a hospital there," said Controller Fred Hamilton.

Situated in the exclusive Rosedale residential district, government house stands in spacious Chorley Park. The hospital may "do anything they like with it," according to Premier Hepburn. Hospital authorities have not yet decided whether to accept the gift.

Merchants Demand New Tax On Mail Order Houses

OTTAWA, May 31 (C.P.).— The "glaring inequity" of mail order houses escaping almost entirely from community tax obligations was vigorously protested to the Rowell Commission to-day by the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada.

"The spectacular volume of business done through the mail order house and its subsidiaries is a contributory cause to some of the financial difficulties in which many Canadian municipalities find themselves," said George S. Hougham, Dominion secretary of the association.

Mail order merchandising constituted a tremendous drain on the local resources of the communities from which the bulk of mail order business came, with no corresponding contribution to the revenues of those communities, he said.

As a remedy, the association proposed a Dominion tax on the volume of mail order business, which tax would be turned over to the Provinces for municipal purposes.

Protest was also levelled against the practice of permitting chain stores to "wash out" the profit of prosperous branches by offsetting the losses of their more unsuccessful units, the state being the loser in both income and sales tax departments, according to the association.

In recent months in Southern Ontario, several chain stores had again adopted the "loss leader" policy referred to frequently before the price spreads commission, selling nationally-advertised brands at a fraction above or even below minimum wholesale carload cost, Mr. Hougham said.

Release Near For Abducted Florida Boy 5

Rich Grocer Makes Contact With Florida Gang

PRINCETON, Fla., May 31—(AP)—James Bailey Cash, wealthy merchant, made contact today with kidnappers who stole his young son Saturday and demanded $10,000 ransom.

Returning from an early morning drive which he carried out in accordance with the directions of a note, Cash jubilantly reported the contact and said he expected to be notified momentarily where to find the boy. He declined to say whether he paid the ransom.

"Everything is favorable," Cash said. "I expect to have the boy back by 12 o'clock. I wouldn't be surprised if he had been let out somewhere already. It's just a matter of waiting."

It was learned a map provided by the kidnappers showed two routes. Cash made a circuit of one route—the northern one, he said — and returned home within 10 minutes. Then he drove away again and upon return said the contact had been made.

All Money Marked.

The money he presumably paid over was obtained from a Miami bank Sunday. Federal agents arranged for the withdrawal and recorded the serial numbers of the bills.

Blond, blue-eyed, James Bailey Cash, Jr., five years old, was stolen from his bed while his mother went next door to help her husband close his grocery for the night. The kidnapper slit a screen, unlatched a door and took the pajama-clad boy away.

A note, one of three in the case, threatened death to the lad, known in the neighborhood as "Skeegie" if the father called authorities. Cash notified Federal Bureau of Investigation at Miami, 25 miles north of here, and J. Edgar Hoover at Washington assigned a squad of inspectors who flew here Sunday.

Another Note Arrives

Then early to-day, while G-men worked on the case and throngs of curious milled about this crossroads village of 60, a man presumed to be the abductor, slipped the third note under the door of the Cash apartment, tossed a rock at a window to attract attention, and fled into the underbrush.

The message, printed in a triangular piece of brown wrapping paper, ordered Cash to repeat manoeuvres prescribed in an earlier note —to drive over a route specified on a map, blinking the headlights of his car at certain spots as a signal. Cash had done this in vain last night, but the new note was understood to have complained of too many persons about.

With him Cash took the $10,000 in bank notes of $5, $10, $20 and $50 denominations.

Plunges to Death Off Roller Coaster

CRYSTAL BEACH, Ont., May 31—(CP)—Amos T. Wiedrick of Buffalo, N.Y., was killed here last night when he fell or jumped from the front seat of a car on an amusement park roller coaster. Another car passed over Wiedrick's body, mangling it, without derailment.

Wiedrick, 23, made three trips over the coaster with a male companion. Police said that on the third trip when the car reached the top of the highest drop, Wiedrick was seen to stand up and raise his arms over his head before tumbling from the car. He fell on tracks on a lower level. The safety bar in the car was locked when it returned to the starting point. Coroner Dr. W. R. Cackhouse is conducting an investigation.

Crystal Beach is about ten miles west of Fort Erie.

Chief of Police Frank G. Reaveley of Crystal Beach, was able to find only two witnesses of the fatality. Robert J. Pelley of Buffalo and William Wardot of Kenmore, N.Y. Pelley was 1-5 feet away when Wiedrich hurtled down from the car and said he thought at first it was an overcoat.

finest and most symbolic he had ever seen. Here and there along the route applause broke out spontaneously as expressions of welcome from the citizens. Heading the procession were the band and a detachment of two companies of the Prince of Wales Rangers, under the command of Major G. R. Melton, with Lieutenant A. Hamilton and Lieutenant R. Davidson in charge of the companies. The representatives of the regiment made a splendid impression in the smartness of their appearance and fine military bearing. The band was at full strength and wore for the first time their new uniforms of scarlet tunics and blue trousers. They were led by Lieutenant W. H. Peryer in his new uniform as director of music.

The militia's greeting to the Governor-General was the royal salute while the band played God Save the King. His Excellency inspected the guard of honor, complimented Major Melton and later Colonel Dewart on the smart appearance of the guard, and immediately afterward the parade up town was begun.

Lakefield's Welcome

The little park beside the Lakefield municipal building was crowded with people of the village including the public school children, men of the Canadian Legion, Reeve C. S. Tanner and members of the council and school board, all the village clergy, and the local patrol of Boy Scouts. After His Excellency was introduced to Reeve Tanner and the other representative citizens, the public school children sang "Dear Canada O Land of Mine," directed by Charles Renaud. Lord Tweedsmuir placed a wreath on the Lakefield war memorial, and was introduced to the detachment of the Canadian Legion by their president Thomas Simpson.

Your Excellency The Right Hon., The Lord Tweedsmuir of Elsfield, Governor General of Canada.

As Reeve of Lakefield and on behalf of the council and citizens of this village and vicinity I extend to Your Excellency as representative of His Most Gracious Majesty King George The Sixth, a very hearty welcome.

At this time when the very air is full of turmoil and strife in other countries, we thought it fitting to express anew our loyalty and devotion to the British Crown.

We especially appreciate your visit because you come to us not as a stranger but feel acquainted through your contribution to literature, as many of our citizens have read and enjoyed your books and we thought it well that you would take "Thirty-Nine Steps" within our municipality.

Again we welcome you and trust that you may enjoy your trip through our beautiful Kawartha Lakes.

Charles S. Tanner,
Reeve.
Harry T. Hill.
Clerk.

In reply His Excellency thanked the people of Lakefield for their warm welcome. "I especially like to be welcomed by the children and the returned men whom I see here to-day. I have enjoyed my visit very much. You have a lovely country, and it reminds me rather indecently of England."

With the prerogative of poetic license, presumably His Excellency, meant by his adverb that the gateway to the Wawartha was taking an unfair advantage of him in its occasional reflection of accustomed scenery in the Old Land.

Scout Master J. W. McKercher was introduced next, the band played and the children sang God Save the King, and His Excellency proceeded on to The Grove School, accompanied by Mayor Hamilton and J. J. Duffus.

A Robust Welcome

The setting of His Excellency's reception at The Grove was strikingly beautiful in its scenic detail and charming simplicity. The eighty boys were drawn up in the form of a great "U" on the broad, close clipped lawn with its screening fringe of tall trees and its vista of the blue water of Katchawanooka. They were dressed in dark green blazers and white trousers, and presented a manly, upstanding company of Canadian youth.

The headmaster, Kenneth A. McKenzie, received Lord Tweedsmuir within the main entrance and accompanied him directly to the lawn. At one side stood the members of the staff, their wives and a few other friends of the school. Addressing the Governor-General, Mr. McKenzie said the School was greatly honored by his visit, and proud to welcome Lord Tweedsmuir as a distinguished novelist and historian.

"I am very glad of this chance to visit you," His Excellency replied, standing within the open side of the square and facing the boys.

Heard Much Of School

"I have heard a great deal about this school from men who have either attended it in their youth or whose sons are here. And I may tell you that I am not disappointed. You are awfully lucky boys to be brought up in Canada, much more so than our fellows at home. I have been far into your northland, and have seen nearly all of Canada and I have been amazed at the possibilities this country present for active and energetic people. That means it is great responsibility, because Canada is yet only in the making, and I believe it is going to be a great nation. So it is up to you fellows, and so many others like you, to make Canada the great nation it is destined to be."

His Excellency spoke briefly of the beauty of the Spring morning, and humorously remarked that apparently nature had done a little better than usual in the richness of the coloring of the fields and woods. The glimpses of the Otonabee River on his drive to Lakefield had pleasantly reminded him of similar views in the Old Country, even of the Thames, and he expressed the conviction that everybody in this district no doubt appreciated the variety of beauty which nature provided for them. Referring to activity of the boys on the playing fields around the school he said he supposed they played the Canadian game of rugby football.

"I admire your game very much," His Excellency said but I am not quite up to it yet. It is a little too difficult for me I am afraid, but I know the old game I used to play at home."

Concluding his address to the boys, His Excellency as at Lakefield, declared an afternoon holiday from School; and at his concluding period the boys led by one of the seniors, gave three robust cheers for the Governor General, the only cheering of the morning in a district whose self-consciousness restricts their emotion to applause.

The stay at the School included a walk down to the lake where the boys had got their fleet of dinghies and a dory under sail. Many of them were in swimming, altogether a very natural and appealing incident. Lord Tweedsmuir walked a narrow plank from one dock to another and stood chatting for a while with Mr. McKenzie on the outer wharf, watching the boys and looking over the expanse of choppy water.

Brief tea with the ladies on the verandah of the head master's residence concluded the delightfully informal trip to The Grove. Mayor Hamilton returned to Peterborough with His Excellency, and Mr. Duffus with his secretary, A. S. Redfern. The Aide de Camp was Lieut. R. Scott, R.N., who found a natural companion in Hubert Eisdell of the Grove teaching staff.

Among those introduced to His Excellency at the station were: Mayor Hamilton, Aldermen Stocker, Cotton, Juby, Glover, Dutton, Bradburn, McCannan, Wilson, City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, K.C.; Warden E. N. McDonald, Reeves Roy Brown, W. A. Anderson, E. Seeney of Havelock, Allan B. Mann of Smith, James Milby of North Monaghan, Wallace Shearer of Harvey, Deputy-Reeves M. H. Johnston of North Monaghan, Harry Reid of Otonabee and Harry Fowler of Smith.

Third British Ship Is Sunk Off Valencia

Rebels Intensify Efforts To Block Supplies

MADRID, May 31.—(AP)—The British freighter Penthames was bombed and sunk in an air raid on Valencia Harbor today. No lives were lost.

A Spanish vessel also was sunk. Air raid alarms kept the harbor district in a state of tension from 11 p.m., last night until after daybreak.

The Penthames was the third British ship sunk recently at Valencia, Spanish government port on the Mediterranean. Others were the Thorpe-Hall May 24 and the Greatend May 28.

A French sailor was killed yesterday and several British seamen wounded in Valencia harbor raids in which the French steamship Djem was set afire.

The Penthames had previously been bombed at Valencia May 22 during an insurgent air raid. Three sailors were wounded then and she was set afire, but the flames were quenched in an hour. The Penthames at that time was unloading a cargo of wheat. She is a 3,995-ton vessel.

(Barcelona dispatches reported 100 persons killed or wounded today in an insurgent air raid on Granollers, 16 miles north of Barcelona. Bombs fell in the market square of the town at a time it was crowded).

The Penthames was hit by three bombs and settled to the bottom at Caballeros dock, with her masts and funnel still showing.

The Djem, after burning all night, lay on the beach a complete loss.

The Penthames was the fifth ship destroyed at Valencia in six days as the insurgents intensified their efforts to halt all shipping to Spanish government ports.

Pays For 32 Years

CHARLOTTETOWN, May 31.—(CP).—It took 32 years to come, but when it did . . .

At a meeting of the Alumni Association of St. Dunstan's University here last night, the secretary read a letter from a graduate of the class of 1906.

The writer called himself a black sheep, and to prove it, said he had not paid any dues for 32 years. He fixed it up, though. He enclosed a cheque for the full amount due the society.

Season's Last Levee

LONDON, May 31 (CP-Havas).—Wearing the uniform of a Field Marshal, the King today went from Buckingham Palace to St. James' Palace for the last levee of the season. Members of the diplomatic corps and other prominent personalities attended.

British Machinery Is Ready For Conscription In War

LONDON, May 31 (CP-Havas).—The government will be asked tomorrow to devote a day's debate in the House of Commons to plans for conscription in case of war alluded to last night by Sir Thomas Inskip, defence coordination minister.

The request will be made by Sydney Markham, Labor. At the same time T. M. Sexton, Labor, will ask whether the government plans to mobilize other resources of the country as well as its manpower.

Legislation Ready

James Ede, Labor, said last night that from Sir Thomas' statement it was clear the government had "legislation machinery" for conscription ready to be used as soon as war should break out.

"I have said so as plainly as I could," the minister replied.

He had said earlier, that "with the experiences of 1914 in mind, the government departments concerned have given a great deal of consideration over a number of years to the best use of manpower in an emergency."

"There is certain to be, in the event of war, a competent authority who will allocate, according to the age and capacity of each individual person, a suitable position for that person to occupy," Sir Thomas told the House.

"That suggests that Mr. Bethune Smith knew he would get better terms after the election?" inquired Mr. Macaulay.

"Yes."

Mr. Lyon said he undersood the Beauharnois negotiations were carried on by R. A. C. Henry, representing the company, and a member of the government whose name he did not know. He had known nothing about them.

Call for Resignation.

Mr. Macaulay read a letter from Premier Hepburn to Mr. Lyon dated October 21, 1937, stating the Government's intention to reorganize the Commission immediately in order that a course for the future might be mapped. "I must regretfully ask for your resignation and I think it should emanate from yourself," the letter said.

"That is a premptory request," suggested Mr. Macaulay. Mr. Lyon agreed and said it was "heartless." He had sought an interview with the Premier, but was not successful.

"The exigencies of politics demanded that I be forced to get out of the way before a new Beauharnois contract was signed," Mr. Lyon added.

The former chairman asserted he had not quarrelled with Mr. Hepburn over the issue of three-way Hydro bonds, though he understood Chester Walters, Comptroller of Finance for Ontario, "did not like it."

"They Fired McCrimmon."

Mr. Lyon referred to a letter he had written the Premier with regard to Hydro financing. He had suggested Murray McCrimmon, Commission secretary and controller, should deal with Mr. Walters on financial matters.

"Instead of taking up these important matters they dismissed him," declared Mr. Lyon. "I say it was a shocking thing. Mr. McCrimmon was an efficient public servant."

The former chairman explained the government kept in close touch with setting of salaries of Hydro Commission officials.

Mr. McCrimmon had entered the Commission service as an assistant secretary at $4,000 a year. In less than 2½ years he was promoted secretary and controller at $11,000.

Mr. Lyon said Premier Hepburn had objected to the $11,000 salary but had finally agreed.

It was necessary to discuss salaries with the government, he said. "On one occasion Mr. Hepburn sent word through Mr. Roebuck and Mr. McQuesten that no engineer was worth more than the Prime Minister of Ontario and that $10,000 ought to be the highest salary paid an engineer."

Saved Hogg a Cut.

Mr. Lyon said he "staved off" the reduction in salary that would have been necessary in the case of Dr. T. H. Hogg, then chief engineer and now Commission chairman.

"Dr. Hogg at that time was getting $13,000," he said. "I don't know what he gets now."

Mr. Macaulay read a newspaper article signed by Mr. Lyon in which he denied knowledge of any negotiations for power with Quebec companies. Mr. Lyon said he accepted full responsibility for the article.

"If negotiations were going on they would be by employees of the Commission?" asked Mr. Macaulay.

"Yes, and behind my back," was the reply.

Fliers Sleep Longer As Citizens Kick On Dawn Patrols

Winnipeg, May 31 (CP) TRANS-CANADA Airline pilots will no longer go to work with the milkman. D. B. Colyer, chief technical adviser to T.C.A., ruled yesterday in revising daylight hours in which pilots will train.

During the week-end Mr. Colyer seized upon the fact the sun now rises at 4:27 a.m., C.S.T., and he called out a dawn patrol of pilots for 5 o'clock flights.

But Winnipeggers later told him they had ideas about sleeping after 5 o'clock. Residents phoned, wrote or called to register complaints at the Federal Department of Civil Aviation branch here. The complaints on early flying alleged the airplanes flew low and made more than usual noise.

The new orders state that flying will start at 7 o'clock instead of 5.

Tammany Head Arrested

One of Tammany Hall's most powerful leaders, James J. Hines is shown in the ABOVE police photograph following his arrest on charges of being one of the heads in the $100,000,000-a-year policy racket that cost gangster Dutch Schultz his life. District-Attorney Thomas Dewey declared he would prove Hines received $500 to $1,000 a week to induce or coerce judges and other public officials to see that they did not perform their duties."

C.C.F. Barrage Hammers At Padlock Law

OTTAWA, May 31—(CP).—House of Commons members started the week at a pace that quickly cleared the Order Paper of much long-standing business, but came to an abrupt halt last evening when C.C.F. members set down a barrage against the so-called Quebec Padlock Law.

A demand this legislation be summitted to the Supreme Court and its operations halted was made by J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, after he had been told definitely by Justice Minister Lapointe, the Government would take its own counsel and that he would not discuss merits of the legislation in the House before that action was taken.

Mr. Lapointe was equally definite in contesting the statement of Opposition Leader Bennett, that the House of Commons had the right and power to instruct the Government to the action it should take.

The Government would act on its own responsibility and in accordance wih the constitution. It was the privilege of the House of Commons, by majority vote, to approve or disapprove of that action, but not to say beforehand what action should be taken with respect to disallowance or disposition of provincial legislation.

Mr. Woodsworth and C. Grant MacNeil (C.C.F., Vancouver North) condemned the Quebec law against Communist activity as one that negatived important civil rights enjoyed by all Canadians residing outside that province.

Four Bills Pass

Before the House ran into the public discussion it had disposed of much of the government legislation on the order paper. Four bills were passed through final stages and sent to the senate, two passed through second reading and committee stage, and two were given first reading.

Of those measures sent to the senate two were designed to facilitate legal action against the government. One amended the national harbors board act to permit it to be used in the courts as in the case of an individual or corporation, and the other amended the exchequer court act to broaden the scope of actions against the crown for damages for injuries arising through negligence of public officers.

The measure providing machin-

Scare In California

LOS ANGELES, May 31 (AP)—A giant earth slippage jarred a million southern California homes early today but spared the area of damage.

The quake, one of the most severe since the disastrous one in 1933, was felt for 200 miles along the Pacific coast from Santa Barbara to San Diego and inland 150 miles to the Mojave Desert and the Coachella Valley.

Alarmed families were frightened out of sleep by the rippling, sidewise motion of the earth. Dishes rattled in cupboards. Lights swayed. Houses creaked.

CAMPBELLFORD

Schools To Get Larger Grants For Attendance

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 31.—Addressing the School Board at their meeting held on Monday A. H. Martin who has been visiting the Public Schools during the past few days offered several suggestions for the improvement of conditions at the school to the Board members. He pointed out that grants payable for 1938 based on attendance would be increased from $1.00 to $2.25 per pupil which would give the local Board an additional $450. With regard to the matter of teachers' salaries he claimed he was looking forward to the day when teachers would be scarce and this was one reason why the Board should do everything possible to maintain the level of salaries at the present time.

Of the new course of study adopted in Sept. 1937 it was explained that this had already entailed an additional expenditure of $200 and with prospectus for next term being published next week he urged that early consideration to the purchase of the new books for supplementary reading be given.

The desks at present in use in class rooms are obsolete and should be replaced, as they wear out, by the new combination chair desk which can be moved around allowing better opportunity for many types of project work in the class room.

Should Clean Buildings

Again this year he reminded the Board that something should be done to level up the play grounds at the rear of the school and also to the fact that something should be done in the direction of cleaning and re-decorating the walls and ceilings. This said the inspector was more important than anything else. To emphasize the need for action in the matter he stated that "you can write your name on the walls in any of the rooms—in fact if I were to do my duty I would not recommend that the grants be paid until the rooms were cleaned up."

Urging the introduction of manual training and domestic science in the school he suggested that it might be possible for an arrangement to be made whereby a student could use the facilities provided by the high school and thus eliminate the costly duplication of equipment. This matter was left by the board for consideration at a special meeting.

R. Young addressed the board offering to supply kindling wood for the school at the same price as last year and on motion of A. G. Thompson and George Free the board decided to purchase 8 cords of wood at $5.00 per cord to be delivered as required.

Pope Pius 81 Today

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, May 31 (AP). — Letters, telegrams, and flowers poured into Pope Pius' summer villa today, congratulating him upon his 81st birthday. Inhabitants of the town attended low mass said by the parish priest for the Pontiff. The holy father said his own low mass in his private chapel.

Airline Officials Attend Funeral of Pilot

Ace pilots and executives of United Airlines flew from Cleveland to Toronto in a giant 21-passenger airliner, BOTTOM, to pay their last respects to "Monty" Brandon, crack flier for the United Airlines, who met death when his transport airplane caught fire and crashed near Cleveland. Nine others besides Pilot Brandon met death in the crash. A member of the Royal Canadian Airforce during the war, Brandon had been flying since he was 17 without a serious accident—until his last one. Fellow employees of the airline are pictured TOP as they arrived in Toronto to attend his funeral.

Social Crediters Swing Into Quebec

ST. HYACINTHE, Que., May 31—(CP)—Social Credit leaders today termed their first congress in Quebec a success. More than 400 delegates from Social Credit study groups throughout the province came here over the week-end for the first annual congress of the Social Credit League of the province of Quebec.

John H. Blackmore, member of the House of Commons for Lethbridge and House leader of his party, addressed an open air gathering here last night. St. Hyacinthe is 46 miles east of Montreal.

He explained the broad principles of Social Credit. Rene A. Pelletier, Social Credit member for Peace River, declared French-Canadians in the West were deserting the old party flags to embrace Social Credit.

J. Ernest Gregoire, former mayor of Quebec and Nationalist member of the provincial legislature for Montmagny, said: "I can say without hesitation that I am a Social Creditist." The man who broke away from Quebec's Union Nationale government because he claimed it would not fulfill promises to combat the big trusts, said he had not made an exhaustive study of Social Credit.

"I think credit should be more social," he said, adding credit should be for the benefit of the people rather than "the trusts."

Jamaica Scene of Fighting

A general strike which tied up the city of Kingston, Jamaica, reached a climax when hoodlums took advantage of the tense situation and attempted to take control of the business section. Police and military authorities restored order only after much bitter fighting. A dock laborer, suspected of strike-breaking, is shown here as a group of strikers assaulted him. He was badly beaten before police were able to rescue him.

Omemee Woman Injured in Smash

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, May 31.—An automobile accident occurred on No. 7 Highway, near Omemee, on Saturday night, resulting in serious injuries to Mrs. P. Mitchell, a resident of the village. She was in a car driven by her son, Harold, who was proceeding towards the village from the east, and when he attempted to pass another car it is alleged he was crowded from the road into the left hand ditch. The car overturned and Mrs. Mitchell was thrown heavily against top on her head. She suffered head injuries, and is said to be in a rather serious condition. Provincial Traffic Officer Kennedy investigated the accident.

His Excellency Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, will not honor Lindsay with a visit on his tour of the Trent Valley Canal. However, the citizens of the town have been asked by Reeve Tiers, of Fenelon Falls, to unite with the villagers in giving the vice-regal party a reception when he visits that point on Thursday. The Rotary Club will attend the reception while the Canadian Legion will welcome the Governor-General at Kirkfield.

Miss Gladys Nicholson, George street, town, was the holder of a lucky consolation ticket in the Irish Sweepstakes. She won $500.00.

The death took place on Sunday morning of Alex St. Thomas, father of John St. Thomas, of Peterborough. He was formerly in the employ of the C.N.R. and is survived by his wife, two sons and two daughters.

Driver Is Jailed Following Crash

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, May 31. — Arrested on charges of drunken driving and also of reckless driving, W. J. Gauthier, Gananoque, was lodged in the Lennox County Jail by Motorcycle Patrolman J. H. Hatch, Marmora, late Saturday night, following an accident on Highway No. 7, two miles west of the village of Kaladar, which resulted in Gauthier's car and a second vehicle being badly damaged.

According to Constable Hatch, Gauthier was proceeding east and failed to negotiate a sharp turn in the highway, resulting in his motor car allegedly sideswiping another automobile driven by Claude Parks of Arden. Both vehicles careened into the ditch, the Parks car being totally wrecked. Fortunately no persons sustained major injuries.

"THROW DOWN A CHALLENGE"

SAYS DALE CARNEGIE

Author of the famous book:
"HOW TO WIN FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

● "What do you suppose it is that stimulates men to great efforts—and great accomplishments? Money? Seldom. The desire for fame? Sometimes—but more frequently it is neither of these things.

"It is something simpler, something elemental in human nature. It is the love of contest—the thrill of victory."

● "Every person of spirit wants a chance to prove their worth, to excel, to win. That is what makes foot races, sand-lot ball games and pie eating contests. Yes—and it also makes Olympic games, Marathon swims and stratosphere flights.

"A world-famous industrialist once said: "I have never found that pay, and pay alone, would either bring together or hold good men . . . it is the game itself."

● "That's it. The game itself. The way to get things done is to stimulate competition—not in any sordid, money-getting sense, but in the desire to excel, to do better than the other fellow.

"So, if you want to influence people — spirited people — remember, a good rule is: Throw down a challenge."

He Started For Home

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Levine of New Rochelle know now what happened to their 12-year-old son Peter who was kidnapped on the 24th of February. Stating the case as kindly as can be done they know their boy was murdered and mutilated and tossed into the water. When the case was first reported the Examiner expressed doubt that he would be returned safely to his parents. There have been so many of these cases, and the results are all tabulated so that it is possible for detectives and criminologists to work almost on the law of averages. The chances of this lad being returned were at the outset 60 to 40 against success.

There are two agencies working in such a case and they are at cross purposes. The parents desire above all else to have their loved one returned; they will pay ransom money and ask no questions. The police in turn have as their objective the running down of the criminals and the return of the kidnapped person. History shows that the presence of the police in the case makes it difficult for those demanding a ransom to go and secure it. They fear they will be intercepted.

In nearly every case where the kidnapped individual has not been returned quickly the history has been much the same. The kidnappers seldom show much cunning. Each day they keep their prisoner they know the police may be drawing closer. Finally they decide that flight is their one way out and they wish to destroy evidence. The evidence to be destroyed is their victim.

That is what happened to Peter Levine, the boy of 12 who was kidnapped while on the way home from school at New Rochelle, N.Y. His father announced by every means at his disposal that he was ready to pay the $60,000 ransom demanded. From February 24 until May 14 officers of the Federal government stayed out of the case, giving the father every opportunity to make his contact with the kidnappers and secure his son's release. He failed and the police have so far done the same thing. Peter, the lad of 12, started home from school but he never arrived. Probably the mother and father have feared the worst, but now they know it has happened.

There Are Few Fixed Values

"If we could have some stability in prices and money values then we would know where we are at. The constant change makes it impossible for one to look ahead and plan the year's work. It is just a case of doing the work and then getting what some other offers as a selling price."

We took that paragraph from the report of a debate in an Ontario village, where the subject was "Resolved that stabilized prices would aid agriculture."

No doubt it is helpful to debate such matters; it at least shows a tendency to study the situation. But our belief is that there can be no fixed prices nor can there be what is called stability of currency. Looking in the advertising columns of the paper we find a simple enough example. A merchant finds he has five suits of clothes of larger-than-average size, and in order to get them out of the way he is offering them at $16 per suit, although they were marked in the first place at $30. The man who walks in there today and hands over $16 finds that amount of money performing exactly the same service as $30 would have done a few days before.

There was a mechanic in this office a few days ago and he was working four days a week instead of a full week. His earning power is not a fixed quantity and right now it is just about two-thirds as great as it was a few months ago.

If one looks for more evidence of instability it can be found in reports of the mining market. We include in this list only mines which are in the producing class and in order to reach that stage they have gone far enough to be well removed from any wild-cat scheme. So far in 1938 they have shown the following range between the high price and the low:

Mine	High	Low
Aldermac	70	40
A. P Consolidates	36	19
Big Missouri	58	20
Chromium	72	43
Eldorado	3.25	1.97
Falconbridge	6.90	4.70
God's Lake	68	31
Gunnar Gold	1.09	61

If one goes through the entire list it is possible to find similar fluctuations. Even the larger mines show the same thing. Dome has had a high mark of $60 in 1938 and a low value of $47.25, and McIntyre has had a trading range of from $45 to $35.50, while Noranda has been as low as $48 and as high as $63.12.

Not long ago the Housewives' League in Toronto was picketing stores because butter was being sold there at 40 cents per pound. We noticed where it was advertised in local stores at the week-end at two pounds for 57 cents. In any community it will be found when there is a shortage of houses rents will increase, and when there is vacant property on the market the tendency is for rentals to decrease.

As far as we can make it out there is no fixed value in anything which is bought and sold and the same rule applies to earnings and expenditure in general. Governments can and do pass minimum wage laws, but governments cannot promise there will be employment at those wages. We have not yet been able to surmount that old law of supply and demand, and it will probably remain and function long after this generation has departed.

We Are Progressing

The car markers for the year 1938 in Ontario were made with orange lettering on a background of baby blue. At least that is the official description—or admission.

People do not seem to think much of them with the exception of those who have occasion to desire rapid departure without observation.

But for 1939 this province is going in for something better—white lettering on a black background, and the white letters will be treated to a glass spray process which will make for greater visibility after dark.

Thus the law of improvement operates. This year it is hard enough to read the numbers in broad daylight, but next year they plan to have it so fixed we can read them by day or night!

Must Be a Smart Man

There are men who work at trades and businesses which one can be readily understood. When you see a man in a blacksmith shop putting a shoe on a horse's foot you know exactly what is being done. When you notice a man with a ladder and a pot of paint working on a house you do not need to look in the dictionary to find he is painting the house.

But there are others whose labors are more obscure, and on top of that list we place the chap who sets each day the exact value of a Canadian dollar in New York. And it must be a graduate of the same school who says what a United dollar is worth in Canada. At the end of the week we learn the U.S. dollar started the day in Toronto at a premium of 1 3-16 per cent; then shortly after that it rose to 1 7-32 per cent., after which it receded to 1 3-16 per cent., which we are informed was a loss of 1-6 of 1 per cent. from the previous close.

On the same day we learn the Canadian dollar was worth 99.81¼ cents in New York, and that figure represented a gain of 1-16 of one per cent. We dare say the man who attends to that sort of business is tired by the time the day draws to a close, and there might be the danger of him seeing nothing but fractions popping out in front of his weary eyes when he sought repose. Where he got his training we do not know but no doubt he must have shown aptitude for working out figures and problems when he was a little fellow just starting to school.

How he can tell the exact time of day when an American dollar in Canada has increased from 6-32 of one per cent. to 7-32 of a similar one per cent. leaves us gasping and reaching for the back of a chair for support. We can recall days in British Columbia when there were no one-cent pieces in the land. Folk scoffed at them, but this gentleman who sets the rate of exchange takes a dollar and divides it into 3,200 parts, pieces or sections and with a mathematical exactitude which must numb those of lesser attainment he proceeds with the day's work. Where he works we do not know; what sort of tools he uses is something on which we have no information. He could not possibly be interrupted during his day's work for when a man has a dollar split into 3,200 parts he must be careful lest he shove one of them this way instead of that way.

What Is an Accident?

Something unusual was brought to the attention of the Supreme Court of Alberta. It came about this way: V. Halisky had died as the result of blood poisoning, and a judge had awarded payment of $1000 to his estate under terms of an accident insurance policy.

The insurance company took the case to Supreme Court and there it was argued that the blister on the foot from which the poison came resulted from wearing new shoes which were not properly fitted. The insurance company refused to agree that there was any accident about such a condition, contending it was the result of the policy holder having done something which he ought not to have done.

The decision of the Supreme Court was in favor of the contention of the insurance company and the order calling for the payment of $1,000 to the estate was reversed. And right there it looks as though there was room for argument regarding what an accident actually is. It is a point which has more than once made its way into court. The dictionary gives it this way:

Accident: An event that takes place without one's foresight or expectation; an event which proceeds from an unknown cause, or is an unusual effect of a known cause, and therefore not expected; chance; casualty; contingency.

That which takes place or begins to exist without an efficient intelligent cause and without design.

Syn.—Causalty, contingency, misadventure, mischance, misfortune, mishap, disaster.

Within all those words there is plenty of room in which to wander before deciding what an accident actually is. In Edmonton the finding of the Supreme Court appeared to rest on the claim of the insurance company that the formation of a blister gave the warning of approaching injury, and therefore it would be known that injury would increase if the shoes were continued to be worn. When an individual has been warned in this way of an event that is likely to happen then it is not an accident when it does happen. Nice bit of argument in there and it was sufficient to win the case for the insurance company.

Are Our Men Slipping?

It looks at times as though the men of our country are weakening. Reeve C. W. McRoberts of Biddulph township has in his possession a letter from a farmer who wants the reeve to assist in finding him a wife. Biddulph is a goodly township in the north-east corner of Middlesex, just where that county runs into the boundary of Perth. This farmer is 37 years of age, and he does not smoke neither does he drink. He seeks a farmer's daughter or a trained nurse and stipulates that in length of years she should be somewhere between 30 and 40.

But why should this farmer have such faith in a reeve? A reeve may get to know a good many things about roads and bridges, the operation of the Ditches and Watercourses Act, the assessing of farms and the paying of taxes in early December. But there's not a thing in all his official duties which would suggest that he would be the man to whom to turn when a man of 37 seeks to terminate his days of error and enter the fold of happily married men.

Simply saying he wants a farmer's daughter or a trained nurse indicates he is rather too practical. He figures the farmer's daughter would be competent on his premises or the trained nurse could look after him if he were to suffer a spell of sickness.

Years ago they attended to things differently out in the townships. When the farmer's son or the hired man took the driver and the rubber-geared buggy out on Saturday or Sunday night it was known for sure it was for the purpose of visitation. The young men never thought of asking the reeve or the deputy-reeve or any of the councillors for advice, assistance or guidance. They laid their own plan of campaign. If words failed them they found assistance in the kindly phrases printed on lozenges. Instead of bothering the reeve about it they just went out and courted. So when we read of a fullgrown man of 37 in Biddulph township who writes his story to the reeve we fear something has slipped and men are not what they used to be.

NOTE AND COMMENT

There is not so much fun in being a quint. Imagine not having any candy even on your fourth birthday.

WEE ANGUS

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Wee Angus works now quite a lot, to learn his music like he ought, each day an hour or two; I know although he gets on fine, there must be things most all the time, that he would rather do.

¶ And now he's learned to play a tune, I hear it every day at noon, I can't recall the name; but Angus gets more speed each day, yet every time he goes to play, the music is the same.

¶ He hits the notes down pretty hard, and gets a stroke of nigh a yard, his touch is not so good; the teacher says he pounds too much, the instrument may need a crutch, hits harder than he should.

¶ And Angus sits when folk come in, expecting if they'll say to him, if he will play a tune; he is obliging sure enough, and once again I hear the stuff, he plays each day at noon.

¶ I think that I can hum the thing, or play it on a fiddle string, I ought to know its lines; it has a noble marching air, it's quite a showing-off affair, I've heard it fifty times.

¶ When folk come in and Angus plays, I think he uses concert ways, for he seems rather keen; he hits the black keys that I know, he lands on white ones in a row—and sometimes in between.

Keeping An Eye On Immigrants

(From Parliamentary Reports)

Mr. STIRLING: Are Japanese immigrants examined before they leave Japan?

Mr. POWER: I do not know of any case where we have had anything to do with the examination. I do not think they have ever asked us to do it.

Mr. STIRLING: Well, upon arrival at Vancouver or Victoria?

Mr. POWER: We have no medical man in Japan. I supose the immigrants are examined, as anybody else is, upon arrival.

Mr. HEAPS: Do they get the same examination as people who come here from the continent of Europe?

Mr. POWER: The Japanese?

Mr. HEAPS: Yes.

Mr. POWER: I assume so. They do not get it before sailing. We have no medical examiner in Japan.

Mr. HEAPS: I know something of the strictness of the examinations which sometimes take place both on the continent of Europe and in London. I have known people who were rejected and who subsequently came here and were pronounced physically sound in every respect. Of course I understand that mistakes can happen. But I want to know if the same thing happens on the Pacific coast as on the Atlantic.

Mr. POWER: I am informed that the examination is the same. I do not know how such an incident as that mentioned by the hon. member could happen.

Mr. STIRLING: Would the minister consider the advisability of having a Canadian doctor to conduct examinations in Japan, or of employing a Canadian doctor who may be resident there?

Mr. POWER: I am sorry, but I did not follow the debates on Japanese immigration closely enough to know just how many came in from Japan. I do not think there were more than seventy-five, were there?

Mr. REID: One hundred and fifty-five.

Mr. POWER: I do not know that we should keep a doctor in that country to examine so small a number. The original idea of placing our medical men in Europe was to facilitate immigration—not that I think they are doing so at the present time. But the purpose was to make it easier for people to be medically examined upon arrival in Canada.

Mr. DUNNING: And because of the hardship involved in their being sent back.

Mr. POWER: I think it was largely due to the representations of the shipping people At one time the immigration authorities made the steamship company pay a heavy fine when they brought anyone to Canada who was rejected.

Mr. STIRLING: They had to take them back for nothing.

Mr. POWER: I believe the churches and other bodies also made representations.
